Quincy Hosting Celtics Affiliated Basketball Camp Next Month

By TOM JOYCE

The Boston Celtics are giving local basketball players an opportunity to improve their game this summer.

Every summer, Celtics camps presented by New Balance hosts weekly camps where local and experienced basketball minds work with youth to help make them the best players possible. This year, they selected Quincy High School as one of the locations for their camps. The camp, which runs from June 25 to 29 (8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.), is open to both boys and girls who are in the 9-15 year old age range.

The camp is directed by Joe Amorosino, who has coached at the high school and college levels and also served as an NBA scout (for the Charlotte Hornets). The longtime basketball coach is a member of four different Halls of Fame including Sharon High and Plymouth State University as a player as well as Quincy High and and the Massachusetts High School Coaches Hall of Fame for his coaching duties.

As for the idea of bringing the Celtics basketball camp to Quincy High this year, Amorosino is thrilled.

"It's like a dream come true for me," he said. "This is my 51st consecutive summer running basketball camps. It's an absolute thrill to be associated with the Celtics. I've been following them since I was nine years old. As the years went on, I became a close friend of Red Auerbach and his message to his players was giving back to the community. They were fortunate to play professional basketball, so it's important to give back."

"It was Quincy where my notoriety as a basketball coach became known thanks to the work ethic and everything that embodied hustle, desire, and good defense," he added. "To come back and to be able to come on the floor to teach again in the city that gave me my opportunity, it's the biggest thrill I can imagine in my career. I'm going to have a staff that's been with me for many years – and we'll have some former players of mine from Quincy, local Hall of Famers without naming any names. They all played collegiate basketball and will have the positive messages for young kids. It means the world to me."

What Amorosino said stands out about his basketball camp compared to other camps is that everyone receives equal playing time and coaching. They do not discriminate based on skill level; instead, they are interested in helping every player reach their maximum potential. They put an emphasis on fundamentals and are not intensely focused on winning. He also noted they use a unique lecture style to keep the players more engaged which he described as "interactive programming" where the players are not just sitting around listening to the coaches.

"I can't say much about it because I don't want anyone stealing it," he joked. "But doing this so long, I'm kind of an innovator. The Celtics will be sending their legends – former players or staff – as a guest lecturer. I also have my own staff who gives lectures and I'm involved with the defensive lecture. We'll have an active role in the daily programming."

According to the camp's official website, Quincy High will be one of four locations to host a camp over the course of the summer. The Auerbach Center in Boston, Boston Sports Clubs in Waltham and Stoneham High School are the other three sites, but Quincy hosts the earliest camp of the summer.

For more information on the camp, including how to sign up, visit www.nba.com/celtics/camps/.

Wins Over Hanover, Duxbury Among NQ Boys Tennis Highlights

The North Quincy High School boys tennis team has compiled a 10-3 record and qualified for post-season play by defeating Pembroke 4-1 Monday.

The team is coached by Matthew Ramponi and assistant Daniel Wong. Captains are senior Daniel Chen, juniors Alex Atanassov and Adam Tlacoxolal-chua; and sophomore Shane Lerkvikarn.

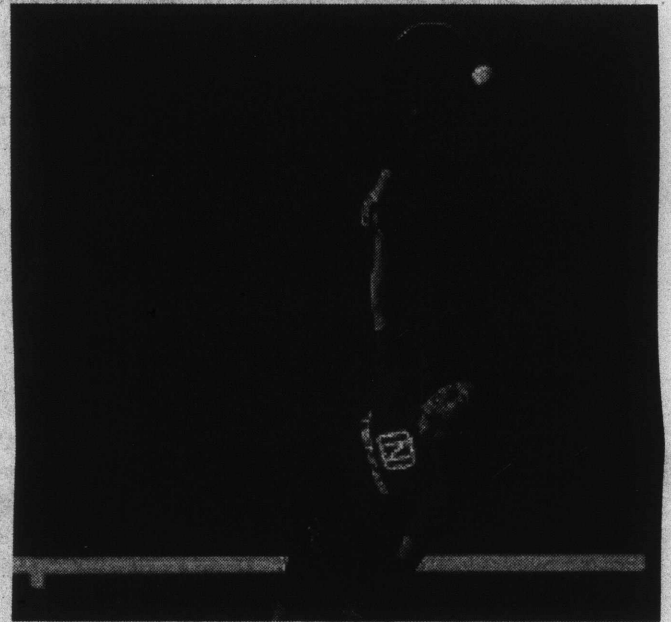

Ramponi said the team entered this spring season with high hopes after finishing last year with a 10-8 record.

"We returned everyone but one player. Our first match was against league rival Hanover, who has the two-time Patriot league MVP Nick Ginter as their junior captain. We played them for over three hours, in a very windy and cold environment; it came down to our sophomore phenom Shane Lerkvikarn (11-1 individual record) and Hanover's number one Nick Ginter."

"Nick Ginter was the only person last season to beat the then freshman Shane Lerkvikarn, twice," Ramponi said. "But this season, Shane beat him in three full sets, lasting over three hours. It was one of the most epic wins I have ever season a high school player achieve, in any sport."

"Shane put the team on his back, battled it out and got the win, resulting in a team win over Hanover. The win put us on a fast track to success. It gave the entire team confidence and self-belief in themselves and each other that they can and will accomplish something many didn't think could happen, winning the league and qualifying in back to back years for the state tournament."

Last week, the North

Quincy boys hosted Patriot League powerhouse Duxbury High School.

"A team that in most years would not even bring their top guys, due to the complete dominance of the league, they would beat us along with everyone else with their bench guys," Ramponi said. "They did it out of respect to the other teams, not to show anyone up, but this season was different."

"They brought their whole team, and we competed for another three hours, coming down to sophomore singles player Peyton McGaffigan and second doubles James Zheng and Adam Tlacoxolal-chua. They all won in three sets, lasting over another three grueling hours, but they did it."

"We have had so much success due to our outstanding leadership on the team and commitment to each other and the program," Ramponi said. "These kids are truly special. They have done this all on their own; they don't have individual coaches like most tennis kids do. They aren't a part of clubs or tennis gyms. They just all come to Bishop courts during the season and during the offseason and work together."

Ramponi said NQ's first doubles team of Alex Atanassov and Daniel Chen have been just as dominant as Shane Lerkvikarn, holding an outstanding record of 8-4 overall.

"In order for us to win the league outright we will need to avenge a tough loss to league powerhouse Scituate who bested us 2-3 last week in a very competitive match. But no matter how this season turns out, we will return everyone besides senior captain Daniel Chen; we have a lot of good to look forward to."

"My assistant coach is an extreme help in so many ways. Daniel Wong, who was a player for me when I first started this journey four years ago. We won four matches in our first two years, and now qualifying for the tournament with the opportunity to win the league for the first time in well over a decade," Ramponi added.

WORK AND SLEEP DIFFICULTIES

Sleep deprivation has become such a widespread problem that the CDC has declared it a public health epidemic. Not only is lack of sleep linked with chronic diseases and conditions such as diabetes, heart disease, obesity, and depression, but it is also associated with increased perception of pain. Up until relatively recently, the link was thought to be solely a one-way process, in which the experience of pain makes it difficult to sleep. However, many have now come to believe that the link between sleep loss and pain is more reciprocal, as sleep has been found to alter receptor function in the brain. With this in mind, getting more sleep may be part of a holistic effort to relieve pain.

While chiropractors aren't usually thought of as being experts on sleep issues, one-third of people who have a chiropractic adjustment report that they experience immediate sleep improvement. Chiropractic care helps alleviate discomfort and improve relaxation and blood flow. If lower back pain is what's causing you to toss and turn, then it may be worth a visit. To schedule an appointment, please call FAMILY PRACTICE OF CHIROPRACTIC at 617-472-4220. Our office is located at 112 McGrath Hwy., Quincy.

P.S. Sleep deprivation may be a particular problem for night-shift workers, who are likely to experience a conflict between their bodies' circadian rhythms and their work schedule that can undermine their health and safety.

Quincy-North Quincy spring track finished its dual meet season with a heartbreaking 70-65 loss to Plymouth South in the girls and despite seven firsts dropped a big decision in the boys (85-51).

One the girls side Liana Cunningham won the 100, Devin Hiltunen took the 400, Abby Murphy won the 800, Sarah Pillone won the long and triple jumps and took a third in hurdles, Olivia Palazzi took 2nd in 400 hurdles, Leanne Harris took 2nd in highjump, Sorch Quinn grabbed a surprise 2nd in javelin.

Alex Case took the 200 with a third in the long jump, Emma Nguyen won the shot and Rachel Smith and Nguyen went 1-2 in discus. The 4 x 400 relay won easily, the team comprised of Case, Cunningham, Murphy and Hiltunen. Other scorers were Maeve White 2nd in both mile and two mile.

On the boys side Bobby Donovan won the 400 hurdles, Shorn Hawthorne took the 100 and high jump, Nathan Sleiman and Mark McKenna went 1-2 in high hurdles. Sleiman won the triple jump as well with a second in long jump, Aidan O'Connell placed 2nd in the triple jump and Benson Nguyen grabbed a third in the shot.

The 4 x 100 relay of Jose Las, Brian Gutro, Laptiste and Hawthorne won. Ronan Kelly took 2nd in the mile, Jose Las took a third in 200, Nick Ouellette 3rd in two mile closed out the scoring.

At the MSTCA State Invitational several athletes picked up medals, while others turned in personal bests.

At the Boys meet held at BMC Durfee High School of Fall River, Nathan Sleiman won the triple jump in 43'11" and placed 5th in the hurdles with a 15.88.

Dominic Laptiste was 2nd in long jump. Brian Gutro was 10th in the freshman 100 meters.

At the girls meet held at Sharon High School, Alex Case made the finals and placed 6th in the 200 meters in 26.78. Devin Hiltunen was 8th over all in 26.91 just missing the cut for finals.

Abby Murphy ran her best in the 800 a 2:27.94 clocking. Olivia Palazzi made the hard standard for Division 1 states with a 1:10.27 in 400m hurdles, Maeve White was 8th in the freshman mile in a PR 5:35.84 while Lezly Acevedo ran 5:56.46 her first sub-6 performance in the same event. Sarah Pillone was 12th in 100m hurdles in 16.64 and was 11th in triple jump in 32'11".

The rain and wind made for less than excellent conditions for many of the athletes.

Q-NQ will again split the squads next weekend with some competing at the Last Chance Invitational held at Notre Dame Academy in Hingham while others will travel to Norwell for the South Shore Twilight Invitational.

The MIAA Championships for Division 1 will be held Sunday, May 27 at Andover High School.

NQHS Football Alumni Golf Tourney To Honor John Magnarelli

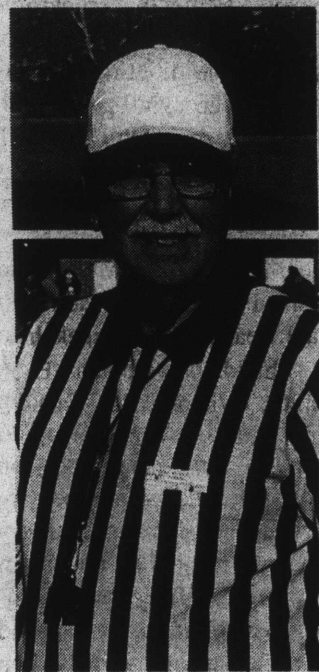

By JIM McCABE

His was a North Quincy childhood molded in the simplest of times - those days of sandlot sports orchestrated without a bombardment of parental control.

But so, too, did John Magnarelli grow in the gravest of times - drafted into the Army, he served in Vietnam in 1969.

From such contrasting experiences, Magnarelli formulated a vision of his life, one that would be built around good work and even better contributions to his community. It has been, by all accounts, a resounding success, though Magnarelli will hear that emphatically June 25 when he will be the special honoree at the 24th annual North Quincy High School Football Alumni Golf Tournament at Hyannis Golf Club.

"It's very special," said Magnarelli, who added with a laugh, "and quite a surprise, because golf is one of the few vices I don't have."

But, of course, golf is simply window dressing to the true meaning of this annual gathering - which is to raise scholarship funds for NQHS students by honoring those who contributed so much to the Red Raiders' great history. Magnarelli was one of the captains on the undefeated 1966 team that was consensus co-state champions with Arlington High School.

"So many phenomenal people have matriculated through North Quincy, it's an amazing fraternity," said Magnarelli, who grew up across the street from the former Massachusetts Fields School.

A member of the Class of '67, Magnarelli's visions of college football were rudely interrupted by the draft, but once his service was completed, he pursued educational opportunities at Quincy Junior College and Suffolk University. After receiving his MBA, Magnarelli embarked upon a 36-year career with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the last 25 as Regional Director of the school lunch program.

"It was a great job, a worthwhile job that did a lot of good," he said. "For some kids, it was the only good meal they ate all day."

Equally impressive was Magnarelli's commitment to high school football; his 46-year run as an official came to an end at the annual North Quincy - Quincy Thanksgiving Game last year. "I knew I had been there a long time when my friend's sons were playing," Magnarelli laughed. "But when their grandsons were playing I knew it was time."

He spoke not from the comfort of a chaise lounge or a sun deck - which retired life would afford him - but from the commute between cemeteries where he was replacing flags as part of his allegiance to his country and his military brothers.

Magnarelli's sense of appreciation for his country runs deep. His friends' appreciation for him will shine through June 25.

Bethany Congregational

Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Center will have a Worship Service 9:30 a.m. David Wang will conduct the service and preach the sermon entitled "A Fresh Spirit." Please bring a food donation to help the ISS Food Pantry. Fellowship with light refreshments will follow the worship service.

All are welcome to attend Bethany Church Worship Services and its numerous group activities, including an active Missions and Growth Committee doing various charity works.

The church office is open from 8:30 a.m. to noon-1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. Please visit us at our website: www.bethanyconchurch.org for updates and activities. Thanks to the Video Ministry, if you're unable to attend worship service on Sundays, the Bethany Church Service is broadcast on Quincy Access Television at 6 p.m. on Thursdays and 10:00 a.m. on Sundays on Channel 8.

The church is wheelchair accessible.

Jazz Ensemble May 20 At Bethany Church

In observance of Pentecost, Bethany Church will present songs of spirit and praise with a jazz ensemble at the Sunday service on May 20th at 9:30 a.m.

The public is welcome to join in the celebration, listen and sing hymns of praise. Music will be provided by church organist and Music Director Tom Boyer, the Bethany Church Choir, accompanied by: Ed Sorrentino, drums; John McCarthy, guitar; Dennis Cook, saxophone/flute; and Dave Gries, bass.

The Christian holiday of Pentecost is celebrated on the seventh Sunday after Easter. It commemorates the appearance of the Holy Spirit to the Apostles and other followers of Jesus Christ, after His ascension. The event is described in the Acts of the Apostles (Acts 2:1-31) and is also called Whitsunday in the British Isles.

Light refreshments to follow the service.

Bethany Church is located at 18 Spear St., corner of Coddington Street in Quincy Center.

The Pentecost Sunday service of worship at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave. starts at 10 a.m.

It is also Stewardship Sunday. Pastor Steve Vandergrift will lead the service, give the children's message and preach his sermon.

Steve Reed, minister of music, will direct the choir. Maureen Flores, liturgist will welcome and call to worship. Susan Stimpson and Joseph Flores will serve for the Diaconate.

A fellowship coffee hour follows the service hosted by Chris Jacobs.

Yoga meets tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. and a special Saturday class at 10 a.m. with Amy Ross. Bring water, a mat and $5.

Quincy Point Congregational

Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St., Quincy, will welcome candidate, Rev. Kimberly J. Murphy, to preach this Sunday, May 20th at 10 a.m. worship.

Following the service, all are welcome to coffee hour for light refreshments and conversation. The church is accessible to all with designated parking and an elevator via the building's Abbey Road entrance.

Saturday, May 19th there will be a Movie Night, featuring the film, "The Great est Showman." The show starts at 6:30 p.m. in the downstairs Social Hall. There will be free snacks, drinks and popcorn. Come join in the fun. Movie night is sponsored by the QPCC Youth group.

Save the Date: Sunday, June 3rd at 3 p.m. the South Shore Children's Chorus will have their Spring Concert in the Quincy Point Congregational Church Sanctuary. Purchase tickets online at www.southshorechildrenschorus.org

Tickets On Sale For Fr. Bill's Food Fest

General admission tickets are on sale for the 24th annual FoodFest, Father Bill's & MainSpring's (FBMS) signature fundraiser.

Tickets can be purchased by visiting 501auctions.com/foodfest or by calling 508-427-6448, x2238. FBMS is the leading provider of innovative and cost-effective services, including permanent, supportive housing, that aim to prevent and end homelessness in Southern Massachusetts.

FoodFest, featuring tastings from 40 of the South Shore's most popular restaurants and bakeries, will be held Tuesday, July 31 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at The Launch at Hingham Shipyard and Hingham Beer Works. Tickets are $150 apiece, with proceeds from the event helping FBMS close a funding gap at its emergency shelters for individuals and families who are experiencing homelessness.

FoodFest is supported by dozens of corporate sponsors including this year's presenting sponsors, Arbella Insurance Foundation, Bank of America, and United Way of Massachusetts Bay and Merrimack Valley. The event will also feature live music and auctions for one-of-a-kind items. For more information, visit helpfbms.org/foodfest. Corporate sponsorship opportunities, which include ticket packages and access to the 5 p.m. VIP party at FoodFest, are still available.

Last year, FoodFest raised more than $320,000, allowing FBMS to provide emergency overnight shelter to 2,713 people, including 430 children, last year.

"Thanks to FoodFest, we're able to ensure that no one has to sleep out on the street tonight," FBMS President and CEO John Yazwinski said.

OBITUARIES

Anne Cristiani, 58

A funeral Mass for Anne (Dever) Cristiani, 58, of Quincy was celebrated Monday in Sacred Heart Church, Quincy.

Mrs. Cristiani died May 7.

Beloved wife of Michael P. Cristiani of Quincy. Devoted parent of Andrea Cristiani and Maggie Cristiani both of Quincy. Daughter of Edward Dever of Quincy and the late Agnes Dever. Sister of Marie Dever of Boston, William Dever of Abington, Joe Dever and Edward Dever of Quincy. God Mother of Kristina Dever of Abington and Aunt of Colleen Dever of Abington. She is also survived by many other family members and close friends. Mrs. Cristiani's greatest love was her family and her beloved pets Princess and Rosie.

ANNE CRISTIANI

She was a devoted employee at The Common Market in Quincy for 30 years.

Funeral arrangements were made by Lydon Chapel for Funerals, 644 Hancock St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to Autism Speaks, 1060 State Rd., Second Floor, Princeton, NJ 08540.

Mary H. Ring, 91

A funeral Mass for Mary H. (Golden) Ring, age 91, of Quincy and Marshfield, was celebrated May 12 in St. Mary's Church, Quincy.

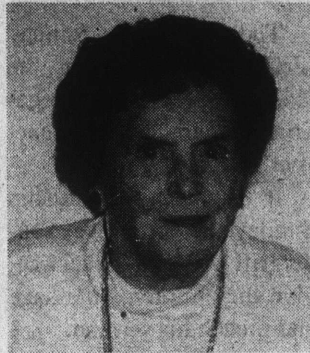

Mrs. Ring died peacefully May 8 at her Quincy home, surrounded by her loving family.

She was born in Quincy to the late John A. and Mary G. (Flaherty) Golden. She was raised in Quincy and was a graduate of the former St. Mary's Elementary School, Quincy High School, Class of 1944, and the Burdett School of Business. Mrs. Ring lived in Quincy for most of her life and summered in Green Harbor and later becoming a permanent resident of Marshfield, until recently moving back to Quincy.

She was employed by her family business, The Golden Print, as well as the MDC as a school crossing guard for twenty-five years, working intersections in Quincy at the former Willard School and St. Mary's School and later in Dorchester.

Mrs. Ring was active in senior affairs receiving her gerontology certificate at UMass Boston in 2002. She was on several boards serving elders, including St. Mary's Seniors in Quincy, Marshfield Elder Service, Marshfield Senior Center Building Committee, and the Triad Board, as well as Old Colony Planning.

She was well known for her knitting and crocheting skills. She donated items to various veterans' organizations and had won many "Ribbons" at the Marshfield

MARY H. RING

Fair for her exquisite work. Mrs. Ring loved to travel but playing her weekly card games as a member of "The Emerald Nuts" was her favorite.

Beloved wife for seventy years of David J. Ring. Devoted mother of David J. Ring, Jr. of Marshfield, Joseph P. Ring and his wife Karen of Marshfield, John M. Ring and his wife April of Hull and Port Charlotte, FL, Maura E. Ziegler and her husband Richard of Quincy, and the late Michael J. Ring. Loving grandmother of Meredith, David, Marisa, Kendra Ring, Patrick Ring, Christopher, Kerin and Shania Ziegler. Great grandmother of Sage. Dear sister of the late John A. "Jack" Golden and his wife Doris of Cohasset, and the late Barbara Golden. She is also survived by many nieces and nephews.

Interment at St. Mary's Cemetery, Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

A memorial service will also be held in Marshfield at a later date.

Memorial donations may be made to the Marshfield Council on Aging, 230 Webster St., Marshfield, MA 02050.

Mary E. Costa, 81

A funeral Mass for Mary E. (Ahern) Costa, age 81, was celebrated Tuesday in Sacred Heart Church, Weymouth.

Mrs. Costa died May 8 after an illness.

She was born in Brookline and attended St. Patrick's High School and then St. Elizabeth's Nursing School in Boston. She met her husband, Franklin, and they got married then settled in the Squantum area where they raised a family. Along with holding various nursing positions throughout her life, Mrs. Costa was also completely dedicated to her family in the knowledge that her hard work would help offer her children a better life. She was an avid reader but her most precious memories were just being with her family of whom she was so very proud.

She was predeceased by her beloved husband Franklin Costa. She is survived by her loving children Mary O'Donnell and her husband Robert of Braintree, Michael Costa and his wife Elaine Pascale of Mashpee,

MARY E. COSTA

In Loving Memory of SGT. DENIS P. CRONIN on his Birthday
May 5, 1928 - October 14, 2004

You can only have one father,
Patient, kind and true;
No other friend in all the world,
Will be the same to you.
When other friends forsake you,
To father you will return,
For all his loving kindness,
He asks nothing in return.
As we look upon his picture,
Sweet memories we recall
Of a face so full of sunshine,
And a smile for one and all.
Sweet Jesus take this message,
To our dear father up above;
Tell him how we miss him,
And give him all our love.

"Ar dheis De go raibh a nam"
May his soul be on God's right hand side.

Lovingly remembered and Sadly Missed by: Margaret, Jerry, Jack, Dan, Denise, Eileen, Peggy, Denis, Mike, his 17 grandchildren and many friends.

We little knew that day,
God was going to call your name.
In life we loved you dearly,
In death, we do the same.

It broke our hearts to lose you,
You did not go alone.
For part of us went with you,
The day God called you home.

You left us beautiful memories,
Your love is still our guide.
And although we cannot see you,
You are always at our side.

Artilio Ricciardi

A funeral Mass Artilio "Archie" Ricciardi of Quincy was celebrated May 11 in St. Mary's Church, Quincy.

Mr. Ricciardi died May 4 after a long struggle with cancer.

Born 1931 in Quincy, he was a graduate from Quincy High School. He was a Korean War veteran, where he served as an Army medic.

Mr. Ricciardi was a plasterer and mason, before acquiring Means Precast in 1972. He owned and operated Means Precast until 1998 when he turned the business over to his eldest and youngest son.

His true passion was horse racing. In 1986 he bought a 60-acre horse farm in Marshfield and formed Woodbine Stables where he obtained his trainers license. He went on to enter over 1,100 races at Suffolk Downs and Rockingham Park, compiling a record of 75 wins, 102 seconds, and 131 third place finishes.

Son of the late Costantino and Giovanna Ricciardi, he was the beloved husband of Julia (Capobianchi) Ricciardi of Quincy, married 61 years; devoted father of Mark Ricciardi and his wife Eleanor of Bridgewater, Tim Ricciardi and his wife Marsha of Plymouth, and Brian Ricciardi and his wife Theresa of Braintree.

He was the cherished Papa of Rob, Christina, Cameron, Nicholas, Isabella, Benjamin, Vincent, Thomas, Samantha, Elisabeth, and Nora; loving brother of Yolanda (Vi) Savasta of RI, Mary Sherman of Halifax, Victor Ricciardi of Halifax and the late Paul, Russell, Charles, Carmela, Joseph, Peter Ricciardi, and Natalie Warner.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Bolea-Buonfiglio Funeral Home, 116 Franklin St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to Saint Jude Children's Research Hospital, 262 Danny Thomas Place, Memphis, TN 38105.

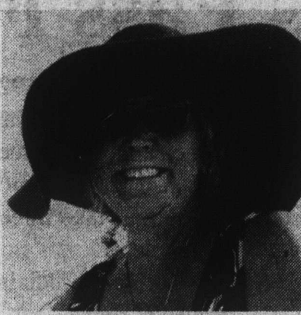

Tracey Bowe, 54

A funeral Mass for Tracey Bowe, 54, a lifelong resident of Quincy, was celebrated Tuesday in St. Ann's Church, Quincy.

Ms. Bowe died May 9.

Beloved daughter of Mildred (Boleza) of Quincy and the late Charles L. Bowe. Loving sister of Carolyn Runstetter and her husband Walter of Oklahoma City, and the late Charles "Rick" Bowe. Adoring aunt of David, Brian, Jessica, and Steven Bowe.

Ms. Bowe was a 1981 graduate of Notre Dame Academy, attended Bentley University, and went on to earn her Master's Degree from UMass Boston. She enjoyed boating and was a winner of the Figawi race several times.

Funeral arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the Quincy Animal Shelter, P.O. Box 690088, Quincy, MA 02269-0088.

Neil F. MacDonald, 84

A funeral for Neil F. MacDonald, 84, of Weymouth, a 40-year veteran of the Quincy Police Department, will be held at 10 a.m. Friday in Quincy Point Congregational Church.

Mr. MacDonald died May 12 following a short illness.

Born Aug. 27, 1933, he was one of nine children by his sainted mother, Katherine M. MacDonald, and his father, Neil.

He was the devoted husband of 37 happy years to his loving wife Mary C. (MacDonald) and had one daughter, Kerry Ann. Sadly, Mary predeceased Mr. MacDonald in 2007. Kerry and her husband Aaron Hemingway gave Mr. MacDonald three precious grandchildren, Dianna, Gabriel and Oliver, all of Weymouth.

Mr. MacDonald graduated from Quincy schools and received an Associate's degree from Northeastern University. He served his country with honor in the U.S. Air Force for four years during the Korean War. In 1958, following his military service, Mr. MacDonald joined the Quincy Police Department and received numerous awards and commendations during his forty years of service. He retired in 1988 with the rank of detective lieutenant. He was a member of the American Legion and Quincy Police Retirees Association.

He was predeceased by seven siblings: Kenneth, Donald, Florence, Jack, George, June and his younger brother, the late Sgt. Richard MacDonald, QPD. He is also survived by his dear brother, Rev. Myles MacDonald of Florida, and many extended family members and close friends.

Visiting hours are 5 to 8 p.m. Thursday at Hamel Funeral Care & Cremation Service of Massachusetts, 26 Adams St., Quincy.

Interment with police and military honors at Old North Cemetery, Weymouth.

Janet M. Hassler, 93

Funeral services for Janet M. Hassler, 93, of Quarryville Presbyterian Retirement Community, PA, and formerly of Quincy, will be held at 11 a.m. on May 22 in St. Paul's Church, Quarryville, PA.

Ms. Hassler died May 8.

Born in Lancaster County, she was the daughter of the late George W. and Elsie K. (Fritz) Hassler.

After graduating from high school, she went on to Boston University and received her degree in education in 1949. She taught 4th grade in the Quincy public school system until her retirement in 1990. She also taught 1 year in Germany, in the U.S. Army Air Corps and volunteered for the Women's Auxiliary at the former Quincy City Hospital.

Ms. Hassler was a 50-year member of Bethany Congregational Church in Quincy before moving to Lancaster County in 2010 and joining St. Paul's Church in Quarryville. She was a life member of Robert Fulton Eastern Star #446.

Ms. Hassler loved traveling, the arts, playing cards, and spending time with family and friends.

Surviving are several nieces and nephews, along with several grand and great-grand nieces and nephews. She was preceded in death by brothers, Hampton, Clifton, Leighton and Thurston along with sisters, Anna, Mary, and Ruth Irene.

There will be an opportunity for friends to visit with the family immediately following the service.

Interment will be private.

Funeral arrangements were made by Dewald Funeral & Cremation Services in Quarryville.

Memorial donations may be to St. Jude Children's Hospital, 262 Danny Thomas Pl., Memphis, TN 38105.

Peter N. Harrington

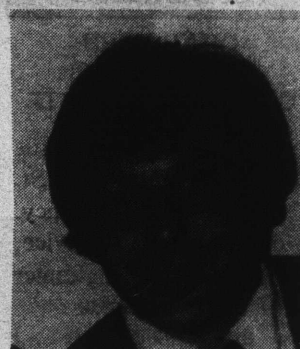

Visiting hours for Peter N. Harrington of Squantum and Fort Lauderdale, Fla., were held Wednesday from 5 to 8 p.m. in Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Mr. Harrington died peacefully May 9.

He was born in Lawrence to Jim and Ruth Harrington of Salisbury on Sept. 28, 1947. He attended Cohasset High School before transferring to Monson Academy from where he graduated in 1965. He attended the University of Miami and later graduated from Boston State with a BA in communications. Mr. Harrington furthered his education through New England Life where he earned the equivalency of a Masters Degree in communications and management. Peter worked as a reporter for the Old Boston Herald Traveler. He worked at the State House in the Office of Economic Affairs under Mike Dukakis. He spent many years as senior vice president of communications for MetLife from where he enjoyed an early retirement.

Mr. Harrington had a lifelong passion for boating, and in the summer could often be found playing on his boat at Marina Bay as he was a member of the Marina Bay Yacht Club. He was an avid sailor and took his family on countless sailing adventures. He enjoyed sailboat racing with his dear friend, John Berans.

PETER N. HARRINGTON

Together they won races starting in Provincetown finishing in Tenants Harbor, Maine. Mr. Harrington had no fear of bad weather and loved to push the envelope when gale force winds blew. He always said he had a storm jib, so he'd be fine! Mr. Harrington was known for his whip-smart intellect, dry wit, and his uncanny ability to fix anything with duct tape or WD40. He was very loved and he will be missed.

He is preceded in death by his parents, Jim and Ruth Harrington, and his son, James Harrington of Marshfield. He is survived by his wife, Phuong Keefe, his daughters, Emily Harrington and Diana Scolponeti of Marshfield, and his sister Terry Harrington of Salisbury.

This Star Won't Go Out To Hold Shine Under The Stars Gala June 3

This Star Won't Go Out will hold its Shine Under the Stars Gala Sunday, June 3rd from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at the Waterclub at Marina Bay, North Quincy.

Attire is cocktail/business formal.

TSWGO was started in honor of Esther Earl, a Quincy high school student whose battle with cancer inspired the best seller novel and blockbuster movie The Fault in Our Stars. Since 2011, TSWGO has given away nearly a half million dollars in support of childhood cancer, providing funds to help pay for travel, housing, and other cost of living expenses. TSWGO frees up families to focus on their child who is in treatment—and that's a gift beyond value.

This Star Won't Go Out's Shine Under the Stars Gala will be hosted by author and TV personality Sorboni Banerjee. The evening will include hors d'oeuvres and desserts, wine tastings, music, and a silent auction. You'll meet a Star Kid, be inspired by our Project LOVELY innovators, and congratulate the winners of a high school essay contest.

Space is limited, tickets are available now. Visit shinsegala2018.eventbrite.com.

not to keep it that way. The city of Boston neglected the bridge that they inherited and chose to tear it down and I think we should leave it that way," Smith said.

"It's an island. Let's leave it an island. They don't need access on our small roads in Quincy."

William Zamzow, an Edgewood Circle resident, spoke against the ordinance. He said Boston has a right to rebuild the bridge, like a homeowner replacing a home lost in a fire, and said Boston would prevail if Quincy tried to block the project.

"The bridge is all but assuredly grandfathered," Zamzow said. "You're going to lose in court, folks."

Boston Mayor Marty Walsh in January announced his plans to rebuild the Long Island Bridge - which connects Long Island to Moon Island - and open a recovery campus on Long Island. Moon Island is owned by Boston but within Quincy's city limits.

Walsh has proposed $92 million in funding for the new bridge, and his office has said construction could start in 2019 and take three years to complete.

Some Quincy officials and residents have cautioned the new bridge could allow development on Long Island.

Councillor Noel DiBona raised that concern during Monday's ordinance committee meeting.

"I believe that there is an end game and that might be in the ballpark of luxury condos, luxury apartments, more economic development and...a possible casino," he said.

Maureen Glynn, a Marina Drive resident and member of the Quincy Conservation Commission, voiced the same concern during the public hearing portion of the meeting.

"Long Island is three or four times the size," of Marina Bay, she said. "We're going to have 5,000 residents at Long Island."

Fall Election Could Feature One Local Race

By SCOTT JACKSON

All five members of the state Legislature who represent Quincy on Beacon Hill are up for re-election this year, but it's possible just one will face a challenger.

Party candidates seeking to run for county and district offices had until May 1 to submit nomination papers to local registrars of voters for certification, and must return them to the secretary of the commonwealth by May 29. Party candidates for federal and statewide officers had until May 8 to submit their papers to local registrars of voters, and have until June 5 to return them to the secretary of the commonwealth.

Non-party candidates for all offices have until July 31 to return nomination papers to local elected officials, and until Aug. 28 to turn those papers in to the secretary of the commonwealth.

So far, one challenger had emerged to square off against an incumbent representative in Quincy.

Voters in the Second Norfolk District will head to the polls Nov. 6 to cast ballots in the two-person race between incumbent Tackey Chan, a Democrat, and his Republican challenger, William Burke. Chan is seeking his fifth term in office.

The Second Norfolk District sits entirely within Quincy and includes all of Ward 1; Precincts 1 and 2 in Ward 3; Precincts 1 and 2 in Ward 4; and Precincts 1, 3, 4 and 5 of Ward 5.

The other four legislators who represent Quincy, all Democrats, are so far unopposed.

Rep. Bruce Ayers is seeking his eleventh term representing the First Norfolk District. The district includes all of Ward 6; Precincts 4 and 5 of Ward 3; Precincts 1 and 3 of Ward 4; Precinct 2 in Ward 5; and four precincts in Randolph.

Rep. Ron Mariano is seeking his fourteenth full term as the representative for the Third Norfolk District. Mariano was first elected in a 1991 special election. The district includes all of Ward 2 and Ward 4, Precinct 5 in Quincy, as well as several precincts in Holbrook and Weymouth.

Rep. Dan Hunt is seeking his third full term as the representative in the Thirteenth Suffolk District, which covers parts of Boston and Ward 3, Precinct 3 in Quincy. Hunt was first elected in a 2014 special election.

Sen. John Keenan is seeking his fifth term representing the Norfolk and Plymouth District, which includes all of Quincy, Holbrook, Abington and Rockland as well as several Braintree precincts.

Candidates running for state representative must collect 150 signatures from voters in their district, and candidates for state senator must collect 300 signatures. The signatures are then turned in to the registrars of voters in the communities in which those voters are registered for verification.

This fall's election features contested races for governor and U.S. Senate, among others. Gov. Charlie Baker, a Republican, and U.S. Senator Elizabeth Warren, a Democrat, are both seeking their second term in office.

The state's other constitutional officers - Secretary of the Commonwealth William Galvin, Attorney General Maura Healey, Treasurer Deborah Goldberg, and Auditor Suzanne Bump, all Democrats - are also up for re-election in the fall.

Several referendums could also appear on the ballot statewide, such as a proposal to increase minimum wage to $15 an hour and a proposal to cut the sales tax to 5 percent and establish a permanent sales-tax holiday.

Massachusetts' nine seats in the U.S. House of Representatives are likewise up for grabs this fall. Quincy is represented by Stephen Lynch, a South Boston Democrat who will be seeking his eighth full term on Capitol Hill; he was first elected in a 2001 special election.

Norfolk County District Attorney Michael Morrissey is running for a third four-year term this fall. There will also be a race for Norfolk County treasurer this year because former treasurer Joseph Connolly resigned from his seat in 2017 with three years left on his term.

The county commissioners appointed James Timilty to the treasurer's position the same day Connolly announced his resignation.

The statewide primary will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 4, this year - the day after Labor Day. The general election is on Tuesday, Nov. 6.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Lots of possibilities begin to open up by midweek. Some seem more appealing than others. But wait for more facts to emerge later on before you consider which to choose.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Bravo to the determined Bovine. While others might give up, you continue to search for answers. Expect your Taurean tenacity to begin paying off by week's end.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You might want to consider stepping back from the task at hand for a while. This could help you get a better perspective on what you've done and what still needs to be done.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Your keen Cancerian insight should help you determine whether a new offer is solid or just more fluff 'n' stuff. The clues are all there waiting for you to find them.
LEO (July 23 to August 22) Being ignored is difficult for any proud Leo or Leona. But pushing yourself back into the spotlight might be unwise. Instead, let things work themselves out at their own pace.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Trying to uncover a colleague's secret under the pretext of showing concern is ill-advised. Control your curiosity to avoid raising resentment in the workplace.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Expect to hear good news about a loved one. Also, be prepared for some changes in several family relationships that could develop from this lucky turn of events.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Some surprises are expected to accompany a number of changes that will continue through part of next week. At least one could involve a romantic situation.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You might be upset by some of your critics. But most of your associates continue to have faith in your ability to get the job done, and done well.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A workplace goal that suddenly seems out of reach is no problem for the sure-footed Goat, who moves steadily forward despite any obstacles placed in his or her way.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Uncertainty about who is right and who isn't might keep you from making a clear-cut decision. Wait until you know more about what you're being asked to decide.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Be careful to keep your emotions in check when dealing with a demanding personal situation. You need to set an example of strength for others to follow.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have an extraordinary ability to rally people to do their best. You would be a treasure as a teacher.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD -- Ryan Gosling has chosen his next film. While "La La Land" (2016) grossed $446 million, his follow-up films didn't do so well. "Song to Song" (2017), with Michael Fassbender, Natalie Portman and Rooney Mara, tanked; and "Blade Runner 2049" made only $260 million (on Harrison Ford's draw), barely covering expenses. Gosling next will play astronaut Neil Armstrong from 1961 to his 1969 mission to land on the moon. "First Man" co-stars Kyle Chandler and opens Oct. 12.

When "Murphy Brown" returns to CBS next season, it will reunite the cast for the first time. Candice Bergen (Murphy Brown), now 71, has made 13 films, including "Sex & the City" (2008), "The Women" (2008) and "Bride Wars" (2009), and co-starred in the ABC series "Boston Legal" (2005-2008). She started with Reese Witherspoon in "Home Again" (2017) and is top billed in "Book Club," with Oscar winners Jane Fonda, Diane Keaton and Mary Steenburgen, opening May 18. Faith Ford (Corky Sherwood), now 53, made six films, most notably "The Pacifier" (2005), with Vin Diesel and Lauren Graham; and the TV series "Hope & Faith" (2003-2006), with Kelly Ripa. Grant Shaud (Miles Silverberg), now 57, made six films, including "The Crow: Salvation" (2000), with Kristen Dunst and "Ugly Betty's" Eric Mabius. Joe Regalbuto (Frank Fontana), now 68, did a bunch of episodic TV, including five episodes of "Side Order of Life" (2007).

Charles Kimbrough (Jim Dial), now 81, also did a lot of episodic TV, plus "The Wedding Planner" (2001), with Jennifer Lopez and Matthew McConaughey. It'll be interesting to see how they explain the cast's advanced age and the missing Eldin Bernecky (Robert Pastorelli, who died of a morphine overdose in 2004) and bartender Phil (Pat Corley, who died in 2006 from heart failure). Hopefully, "Murphy Brown" isn't old news.

Because Debbie Reynolds' movie memorabilia auction was such a success (earning an estimated $20 million), Liza Minnelli is having an auction of more than 2,000 items associated with her and her mother, Judy Garland. Among her treasures are the Ruby Slippers she wore when she wed Jack Haley, Jr. (the son of Garland's "Tinman," Jack Haley), the costume she wore for "Mein Herr" in her Oscar-winning "Cabaret" role, love letters from her mother (including one with her lipstick-kiss print) and rare photos of her taken by superstar photographers Andy Warhol, Richard Avedon and Annie Leibovitz. Why sell her treasures? Part of the proceeds will help fund singer Michael Feinstein's Great American Songbook Foundation. The June auction, in Calabasas, California, will be handled by the same people who helped Debbie Reynolds' auction become a success. If there's one thing Liza knows, it's that "Money Makes the World Go 'Round."

KOVELS' Antiques & Collecting

By Terry and Kim Kovel

"Bed Post" Doll -- Dolls have been favored toys for centuries. Long before there were manufactured china, metal or plastic-headed dolls, there were wooden, rag and even dried-apple heads. And often, where there was no available doll material, folk-art dolls were made with leather and beads, silk stockings, felt, carved stone and fur, knit socks, clothes pins, wishbones, corn cobs, acorns and pinecones -- even old broomsticks. A 2016 doll auction sold a German carved wooden folk-art doll, made in about 1850 from a hollow wooden tube and other wood pieces, for $1,600. It is 20 inches tall and is decorated with a painted geometric design. There are no arms or legs, but the paint suggests a bunting blanket used on babies. The auction catalog called it the "bed post doll" because the head looked like the top of a bed post and was, perhaps, made from a recycled bedpost. The original painted finish, age, size and originality all added to the value.

Q: I'd like to know something about F. Winkles & Co. pottery. Is it old or valuable?

A: F. Winkle & Co. made earthenware at the Colonial Pottery in Stoke, Staffordshire, England, from 1890 to 1931. Ridgways took over F. Winkle & Co. in 1931. The Colonial Pottery became Whieldon Sanitary Potteries Ltd., later a subsidiary of Doulton Co. The factory was torn down in about 2000. Pottery by F. Winkle & Co. is selling for low prices. Dinner plates sell for $10-$25, bread and butter plates for $9, a fruit dish for $15. Serving dishes sell for higher prices.

Q: We have an old cast-iron stove that reads "Wooddale Belknap Hdw. & Mfg. Co. Louisville, KY" on the front. It belongs to my mom and we want to sell it, but we need to know an asking range.

A: Belknap Hardware & Manufacturing Co. was established in 1840 by William Burke Belknap. Belknap made stoves, hot plates, dutch ovens, skillets and waffle irons. The company name became Belknap, Inc., in 1968. It closed in 1985. Some stoves with the same mark as yours sell for $250-$300.

STRANDED BUT TRUE

* It was noted wit Ambrose Bierce who made the following sage observation: "All are lunatics, but he who can analyze his delusion is called a philosopher."

* You might be surprised to learn that in January 2004, the Food and Drug Administration approved the use of maggots as a medical device for cleaning wounds.

* Presidential security was not always as formidable as it is today. In 1913, former President Theodore Roosevelt was walking down a Milwaukee street, heading to a speech he was scheduled to give. A man named John Schrank pulled out a gun and shot toward Roosevelt, who staggered but did not fall. There was no blood evident, and Roosevelt, who was campaigning for a second term, insisted on delivering his speech. When he pulled from a coat pocket the 100 pages on which his speech was written, he saw a bullet hole through the sheets of paper. Still determined to carry on, he gave his speech before going to the hospital, where it was discovered that the bullet had penetrated four inches into his body. After the perpetrator was arrested, it became evident that Schrank was insane; he claimed that President William McKinley had revealed to him in a dream that Roosevelt was responsible for McKinley's assassination. Schrank spent the next 32 years in an insane asylum.

* If you see a group of flamingoes together in one place, it might be handy to know that the appropriate collective noun is a "flamboyance."

* The instruments used by professional flute players are usually made from precious metals -- either sterling silver, 14-carat gold or platinum.

Thought for the Day: "It is an ironic habit of human beings to run faster when we have lost our way." -- Rollo May

Now here's a tip!

by Jo Ann Derson

* "Here's an awesome way to clean silver. Take an aluminum foil pan -- the disposable kind -- and line it with a piece of aluminum foil; sprinkle in some salt -- I use sea salt, but any kind will do -- then add an equal amount of baking soda, and fill the container with boiling water. Put your silver, including jewelry, into the mix -- it cleans instantly! Of course, you'll have to turn the larger pieces, so be careful not to burn yourself." -- L.N. in B.C., Canada

* "With summer storms and hurricane season right around the corner, power outages are a very real possibility. Whenever I have any extra room in my freezer, I fill some containers with water and freeze them. If the power were to go out, it'll keep my frozen foods good longer, or become water to drink if needed. And it's no waste, since if I need the room, I can just take one out." -- W.J. in Texas

* Do you remember the last time you went on vacation and came home the night before returning to work or school, and the house was trashed and there was no food or anything? Do yourself a favor here: Clean house before you leave; schedule a grocery delivery of essentials for your return, if possible; and schedule a recovery day at home before returning to work.

* For furniture items that require their own small tool to tighten screws (think, IKEA furniture, etc.), this tip is genius: Tape the tool to the underside of the furniture, or in an inconspicuous place. It will be handy for quick tighten-ups and ready when you need to take it apart to move it.

Historic Quincy Homestead Open For Public Tours Sunday

The Quincy Homestead historic site, located at the corner of Hancock Street and Butler Road in Quincy Center, will be open Sunday, May 20.

The public is welcome to visit the site, enjoy the beautiful house with its historically unique architecture, walk in the gardens, and experience the tangible sense of history. The site will be open from 2 to 5 p.m.

The Quincy Homestead will also be open on the following Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.: June 2, June 16, July 7, July 21, Aug. 4, Aug. 18, Sept. 1, Sept. 15 and Sept. 29. Tours take about 45 minutes - the last tour begins at 2:30 pm.

There is no charge for admission charge or fee for the Tours, but as Quincy Homestead is a nonprofit 501(c)(3) organization, donations are gratefully received.

The Quincy Homestead is a beautiful yellow Georgian mansion that tells the story of Edmund Quincy I, II, III and IV. The tales of these families and those who followed in their line, are worthy of your time to explore.

In 1635, Edmund I was accorded a grant of several hundred acres on the south side of Furnace Brook and stretching through Mount Wollaston. The original house was taken down in 1893 to make way for the construction of Central Middle School; however, the nearby 1686 Homestead, built by Edmund Quincy II, expanded in 1706 by Edmund Quincy III and later by Edmund Quincy IV, still graces its original site. Although there were many strong men and women who lived within these walls, it was Edmund Quincy IV's daughter Dorothy, cousin of Abigail Adams, and later the wife of John Hancock, president of the First Continental Congress, and first governor of the Commonwealth, who stands as the Homestead's icon.

The Quincy Homestead was purchased in 1904 and historically restored by the

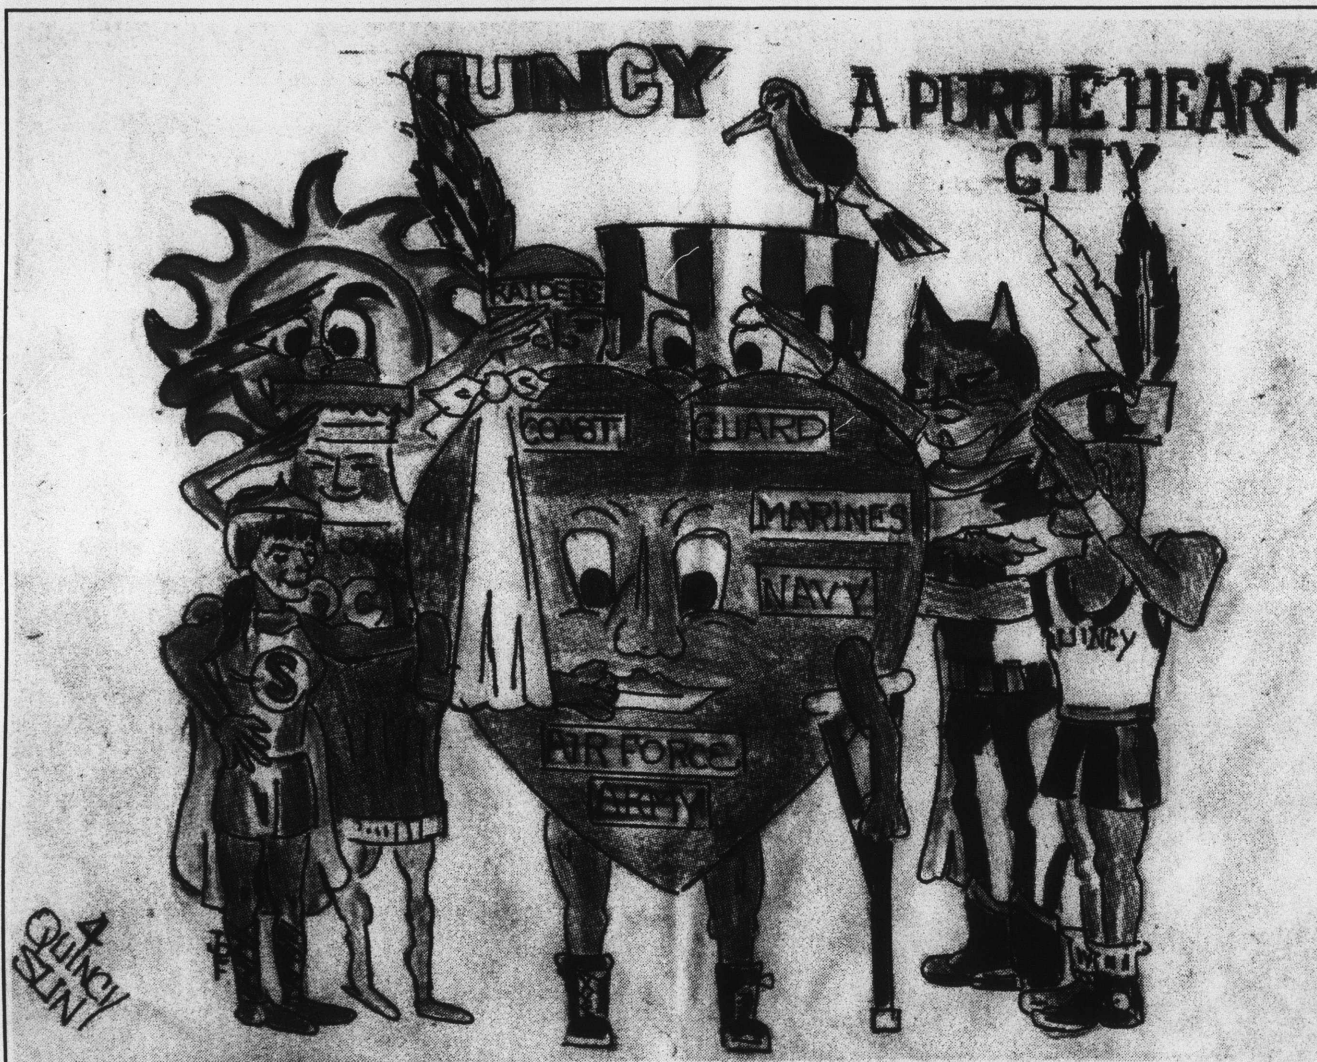

DOROTHY QUINCY

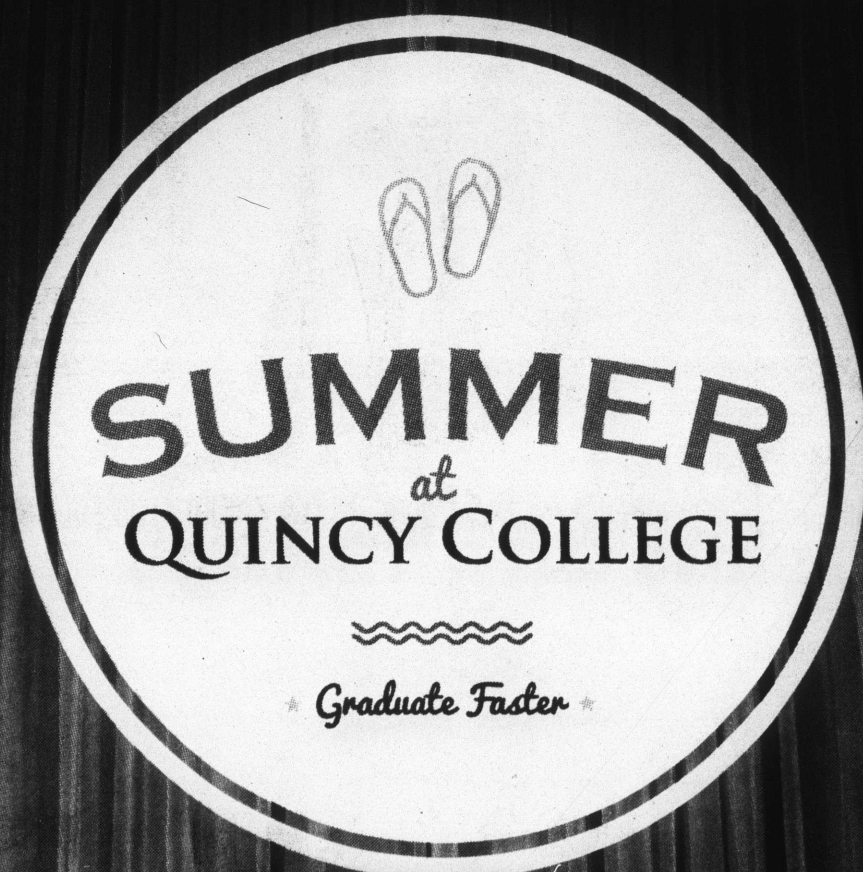

National Society of Colonial Dames in The Commonwealth of Massachusetts, which is celebrating its 125th anniversary this year. It is currently owned and operated in public/private partnership with the Massachusetts Department of Conservation and Recreation.

The Homestead is located at 34 Butler Rd. on the corner of Hancock Street - just south of Furnace Brook Parkway and the Armory.

Private tours may be requested by calling 617-742-3190 or emailing dames@nscdama.org. For more information visit www.nscdama.org and on Facebook under Quincy Homestead 1686.

Memorial Day Parade, Observance Monday

By SCOTT JACKSON

Francis McGinn, a brigadier general in the Massachusetts National Guard and a major in the Massachusetts State Police, will be the keynote speaker for Quincy's annual Memorial Day observance on Monday, May 28 at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

McGinn will deliver his remarks from the World War II memorial inside the cemetery overlooking Sea Street. The ceremony at Mount Wollaston will follow the city's Memorial Day parade, which steps off at 10:30 a.m. from Quincy Credit Union at 100 Quincy Ave. Assembly for the parade begins at 10 a.m. in the credit union's parking lot. The parade travels along Quincy Avenue and Hancock Street to Coddington Street to Sea Street to the cemetery. All units will remain in formation during the ceremonies. The parade will rest at Quincy Square and wreaths will be placed on the tombs of John and John Quincy Adams.

The parade marshal and honor guests will review the parade at Sea Street opposite the cemetery.

Daniel Tinney, the commander of the Quincy Veterans Council, is the parade marshal. George Bouchard of the city's Veterans Services Department will be parade chairman, with George Nicholson, the di-

Schools Seek $4.2M Budget Increase

By TOM GORMAN

School officials are seeking a $4.2 million increase for the 2018-19 budget that would fund several new support positions.

Quincy School Supt. Dr. Richard DeCristofaro and the school department's business director James

Mullaney outlined the $110.1 million fiscal 2019 spending plan during the May 16 school committee meeting. DeCristofaro said the proposal covers $2.2 million in contractual salary increases and provides the district with nearly $3 million in available funding to offer new programs and address class sizes and academic support.

"It provides growth and building (while) looking at consistency and staffing and support of current programs and establishing new initiatives," he said of the pro-

Squantum Roads Truck Ban Approved

By SCOTT JACKSON

The City Council on Monday night unanimously voted to ban non-passenger vehicles from two Squantum streets that provide access to the site of the Long Island Bridge.

Mayor Thomas Koch will sign the ordinance as soon as it arrives on his desk, his spokesman, Chris Walker, said following the council's vote; that process can take a couple days to complete.

"I would expect to see the signs up in the relatively near future," Walker said. "I don't want to put an exact date on it, but they will be up there as soon as humanly possible."

The ordinance allows only private passenger vehicles to travel along Dorchester Street between Shoreham Street and Moon Island Road, and along the publicly owned portion of McGinn is currently assigned as the land component commander of the Massachusetts National Guard. In that capacity, he advises the adjutant general regarding Army issues and is responsible for all aspects of training, readiness and force deployment.

McGinn also serves as the deputy commanding general, Army National Guard, for the U.S. Army Cyber Center of Excellence at Fort Gordon in Augusta, Georgia.

McGinn deployed from 2004 to 2005 in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom. His major awards include the Legion of Merit, the Bronze Star Medal, the Meritorious Service Medal (with four bronze oak leaf clusters), the Army Commendation Medal (with one bronze oak leaf cluster), the Army Achievement Medal (with one bronze oak leaf cluster), the Iraq Campaign Medal (with bronze service star), the National Defense Service Medal (with bronze service star), the Global War on Terrorism Expeditionary Medal and the Air Assault Badge.

In addition to his military service, McGinn is a major with the Massachusetts

State Police. He is currently the commander of Troop F, which is responsible for patrolling Logan Airport, the Seaport District and other Massachusetts Port Authority properties.

McGinn holds a Master's degree in criminal justice from Anna Maria College and is a graduate of the U.S. Army War College.

Other speakers for the Memorial Day ceremony include Koch, Nicholson, Tinney, Norton and City Council President Brad Croall. The Rev. John Carl Swanson, chaplain of the Quincy Veterans Council, will deliver the invocation. The Rev. Rebecca Froom of the United First Parish Church will give the benediction.

The event will also include readings of Gen. John Logan's 1868 order proclaiming Decoration Day by Charlie Hurd, Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address by Guy Ferris, the poem "In Flanders Field" by Fred McCray, and the governor's Memorial Day proclamation by Jacob Lustig.

Doan Tran, an eighth grader at Sterling Middle School, will lead the audience in the Pledge of Allegiance. The Quincy High School chorus will sing "The Star Spangled Banner," Ward 5 Councillor Kirsten Hughes will sing "Amazing Grace," and Robert LaFleur will sound "Taps."

In the event of inclement weather, the ceremony will be held at 11 a.m. in the Quincy High gymnasium. For more information call 617-376-1194.

During the week leading up to Memorial Day, veterans' organizations will decorate squares and memorials throughout the city. On Memorial Day, a short memorial service will be held at 7 a.m. in Sailors National Cemetery off of Fenno Street.

Koch In, Tsaffaras Out At Quincy College

Mayor Set To Address Governors Tuesday

By SCOTT JACKSON

Mayor Thomas Koch planned to address Quincy College's Board of Governor's Tuesday, one week after being named the school's interim leader following the resignations of Peter Tsaffaras, the college's president, and Thomas Feenan, the board's chairman.

The Board of Governors was set to meet at 6 p.m. Tuesday, after The Sun went to press for the week.

The college's Board of Governors on May 15 voted to designate Koch the principle executive of the college, effective immediately, assuming all responsibilities of the school's president for up to six months while due diligence is exercised for a presidential search.

Koch, in a statement issued shortly after the governors' vote, said he would be "building a leadership and response team that addresses the myriad of challenges facing the college, both short- and long-term," in the coming days.

"This will include the recovery of the college's nursing program, the protection of its finances, and repairing the relationships between the college and its students, parents, state agencies and the community as a whole," the mayor said.

Koch said at the time he planned to address the Board of Governors this week.

"We will act transparently and my administration is prepared to take immediate steps to begin to reassure the college community that there is no challenge that cannot be resolved and that the future of this institution is absolutely critical to this community," he said.

Quincy College is municipally owned but had gained a large amount of independence from the city in the decades since its founding in 1958; the school does not receive money from the city or state and is instead funded by tuition and other revenue sources. Koch said he asked to be named the school's acting president given the seriousness of the college's situation.

"While the college has rightly gained a large degree of autonomy over the years, it remains a department of the city of Quincy," Koch said. "This unprecedented request I made this evening reflects the seriousness with which I and many others view the college's current situation. I will make decisions based on what I believe to be the best interests of the college and our city."

"And I wish to be abundantly clear about one thing: By taking this action, I stand fully accountable for the future of this institution."

Tsaffaras, the school's president since 2011, announced his resignation at the start of the May 15 Board of Governors meeting. He said the decision to resign had been made during a May 3 meeting of the governors behind closed doors.

In his resignation letter, Tsaffaras said discord with some members of the Board of Governors — and not a state board's revocation of the college's nursing program on May 9 — prompted him to leave his post.

"I believe that the fissure and division between the Board of Governors and myself would make it difficult to continue to move forward my agenda and vision for the college," Tsaffaras said.

GIVE YOURSELF A PRESENT

The "right-hand ring" is a ring (usually diamond) that women wear on the ring fingers of their right hands to celebrate their independence and power. These rings date back to the 1920s, when "dress" or "cocktail" rings were worn by women who were celebrating their newfound independence with shorter dresses and hairstyles. The style was further popularized by mid-century and continues into the new millennium, as women continue to make personal statements with diamond right-hand rings. If a diamond ring on the left hand speaks of the heart, a diamond ring on a woman's right hand speaks her mind. A right-hand diamond ring symbolizes strength and individuality in ways that few other jewelry pieces can.

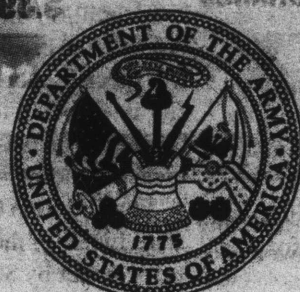

If there is a diamond ring in your future, for yourself or someone else very special, we hope you'll choose Rogers Jewelry to help you find it. We're sure you'll need to look no farther than our sparkling displays at 1402 Hancock St. in Quincy Center. THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On June 6, 1683, The Ashmolean, the world's first university museum, opens in Oxford, England. Today, the collection at the Ashmolean Museum of Art and Archaeology ranges from the earliest implements of man, made about 500,000 years ago, to 20th-century works of art.

• On June 10, 1692, in the Massachusetts Bay Colony, Bridget Bishop, the first colonist tried in the Salem witch trials, is hanged after being found guilty of practicing witchcraft. Bishop, known for her dubious moral character, frequented taverns, dressed flamboyantly (by Puritan standards) and had been married three times.

• On June 4, 1942, the Battle of Midway begins. During the four-day sea-and-air battle, the outnumbered U.S. Pacific Fleet succeeded in destroying four Japanese aircraft carriers while losing only one of its own, the Yorktown.

• On June 9, 1956, bestselling crime novelist Patricia Cornwell, creator of crime-solving medical examiner Kay Scarpetta, is born. Her mother had a nervous breakdown when Cornwell was 9 and tried to give the children away to evangelist Billy Graham and his wife. The Grahams placed the children in foster care.

• On June 5, 1967, the Six-Day War begins when Israel launches simultaneous attacks against Egypt and Syria. Jordan subsequently entered the fray. By the time the United Nations cease-fire took effect on June 11, Israel had more than doubled its size.

• On June 7, 1976, New York magazine publishes the story that becomes the film "Saturday Night Fever." "The Tribal Rites of the New Saturday Night," by journalist Nik Cohn, thought to be a true story about a Brooklyn disco dancer, was almost entirely fabricated.

• On June 8, 1999, some 1.3 million copies of "Hannibal," the final book in the Hannibal Lecter series by Thomas Harris, arrive at bookstores. The cannibalistic serial killer first appeared in Harris' 1981 book, "Red Dragon," as a minor character.

Burke Donates $10,000 To Father Bill's Place

Attorney George Burke recently donated $10,000 to Father Bill's & MainSpring. He has donated to Father's Bill's each year for over 20 years, bringing the total of all donations to Father Bill's from Attorney Burke to over $114,000.

Burke said that Father Bill McCarthy - the namesake for the Quincy homeless shelter - was a dear friend. They both believed in helping the homeless and believed in giving back to the ones who need help the most. Burke said has dedicated his life to helping charities and will proudly continue to help those who need food and shelter and other needs.

Schools Seek $4.2M Budget Hike

posed budget.

The superintendent said that no new classroom teachers would be needed in the 2018-19 school year since most class sizes are expected to be reasonable. Those class sizes deemed high would be addressed by shifting teachers where needed.

"We're feeling comfortable where we are with class sizes right now," DeCristofaro said. "We're looking at a couple buildings that may have lower class sizes that we can afford to tighten a bit and shift to a couple other schools that have higher class sizes."

Officials are proposing adding 8.9 fulltime equivalent support educators at a cost of just over $458,000. The new positions are a combination of full and part-time.

These include two English Language Learner (ELL) teachers - a fulltime for Lincoln-Hancock School and a part-time for Quincy High School to address a spike in ELL students in the district; two part-time occupational education teachers - one for Quincy High School's carpentry program and one for North Quincy High's new broadcast program.

Mullaney said a grant was to fund the broadcast program instructor, but, the position was instead added to the budget and the grant would be used to purchase needed equipment for the program.

Officials are also seeking to add 3.5 special education teachers to address students needs and state requirements - two fulltime for the CARES program and a full-time and a part-time for the language development class program; and three digital support teachers for the new elementary digital literacy program.

The district's special education director Erin Perkins explained that the digital literacy support teachers would co-teach with academic classroom teachers. The digital support teacher would provide instruction to students in computer skills and digital literacy and the classroom teacher would incorporate those digital skills throughout regular academic lessons.

"This is a collaborative effort where the digital literacy teacher brings expertise in digital literacy while the elementary teacher would provide expertise in content," Perkins said. "Working together in a co-teaching model, both teachers work to incorporate digital literacy skills into the practices that are already in place in the classroom."

She added that the program prepares students to "be digital citizens of the future."

The proposed budget request is being funded through a $104.8 million city appropriation - $3.2 million more than this year - and $5.25 million in projected state circuit breaker monies for special education. The city is expected to receive a $1 million increase in circuit breaker funding this year.

In addition to the city and state funding, the budget is being offset by $1 million in savings realized by 25 staff retirements.

Mullaney noted the city receives little Chapter 70 funding from the state to help offset the district's overall operating budget.

"For a city our size, we get extraordinarily little amount of state Chapter 70 funding for our schools compared to other districts," he said. "The vast majority then has to be made up by other sources such as fees and real estate taxes."

Mullaney pointed out that Quincy consistently spends above the state net school spending requirement.

"Year after year, we spend considerably more than the state mandates that we have to," he said.

Mullaney said there is a $1 million deficit in special education tuition this year because of the number of students being sent to out-of-district programs. The gap would be bridged by transfers from other accounts.

Over the past decade, special education tuition has increased from $9.5 million in 2009 to nearly $15 million this year.

"It's gone up pretty dramatically the past couple of years," he said.

In the proposed 2018-19 budget, there is $2.5 million in additional special education tuition funding. According to Mullaney, the increase would be covered by the state circuit breaker special education funding.

DeCristofaro told the committee that the district has made great strides in restoring staff and programs that were cut several years ago due to limited available funding.

Over the past six years, the city has added more than 17 new classroom teachers including eight elementary teachers, five technical education and 2.5 foreign language teachers for the middle schools and two classroom teachers - one each at the high and middle school levels.

The district has also added more than 40 teachers and instructors for special education, music, art, band, library/media and English along with nearly 70 academic support staff including paraeducators for full-day kindergarten, health, special education and English Language Learners and information technology technicians.

"We are continually making incremental progress in so many needed areas in the school system," said DeCristofaro.

The budget also provides $150,000 funding increase for substitute teachers to address a slight prior year deficit and to provide an increase in the daily rate. The substitute teachers' daily rate is being increased from $75 to $85.

Mullaney is proposing to reduce the custodial salary expense budget by $100,000. He explained that the federal universal free lunch program allows the district to charge back custodial services during the lunch periods. This, he said, would allow for the district to be reimbursed $100,000 and realize a savings in custodial services.

Mullaney also said there are no plans to increase lunch prices or fees for athletics or transportation in the upcoming school year.

A public hearing on the proposed budget will be held on Wednesday, May 30 before it goes to the city council in early June for approval. The school committee will take a final vote on the budget on June 13.

Hancock-Adams Construction Closes Two Sidewalks Downtown

The work zone for the Hancock-Adams Common construction project expanded Monday temporarily closing two sidewalks in the area for up to six weeks, officials announce.

As of May 21, the sidewalk on the west side of Temple Street, adjacent to the work zone, between the Burgin & Platner Building and the United First Parish Church, is temporarily closed. Access for businesses within the Burgin & Platner Building will remain open during this time; however through pedestrian traffic to Hancock Street and Washington Street has been redirected to the sidewalk on the east side of Temple Street.

The raised crosswalk on Temple Street has also been temporarily closed.

Pedestrian traffic to and from Washington Street and Hancock Street should utilize the eastern sidewalk on Temple Street and should utilize the crosswalks at the intersection of Washington Street and Temple Street (adjacent to UFPC) as well as the crosswalk at the intersection of Temple Street and Hancock Street (adjacent to the Stop & Shop Headquarters Building), officials said.

Pedestrian access to Quincy City Hall, the Quincy Center MBTA Station and the United First Parish Church will remain unchanged.

The section of sidewalk on the west side of Temple Street, between the Burgin & Platner Building and United First Parish Church, will remain closed to pedestrian through traffic for approximately six weeks, and is expected to re-open in early July.

SQ Social Club Collecting Toiletries For Homeless Teens

The South Quincy Social Club is again partnering up with the Homeless Teen Program for Quincy Public Schools to make baskets for those who will be in need for the summer.

The Club is seeking donations of full size items of 2 in 1 shampoo and conditioner, body wash, loofahs, brushes, combs, shaving cream, disposable razors, brushes, combs, wash cloths, socks, and feminine hygiene products.

Some 20 baskets were made last year, but there is a greater need this year. Anyone who would like to donate can drop off items at The Quincy Sun, 1372 Hancock St., or Cagney's Restaurant, 214 Washington St.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1950s photo published by Walsh's Restaurant which was on the corner of Billings Road and Holmes Street in Norfolk Downs. A Norfolk Downs landmark, the men's bar was opened just after Prohibition ended in the 1930s by Michael J. Walsh who had a sign painting stop here. At first it was named the Norfolk Tap and Café but he changed it to Walsh's in 1938. Walsh's had a bar and restaurant on the first floor and later opened this lounge in the basement. It was open Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings with live piano entertainment. This room was also a popular spot for private parties. Three generations of the Walsh family worked in the restaurant for over 60 years until it closed. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

She Was Just Wondering . .

Just wondering while on a packed Red Line train going home;

- With all these housing constructions, current and planned, all around Quincy, why don't I hear / read that even some are affordable housing? All I read and hear are luxury condos and the sort.

Is Quincy becoming the place to live just for the well-off? Nowadays, I don't feel the sense of community in Quincy, that there's a less of feeling "coming home" to Quincy compared to 10-15 years ago.

- The Adams Homestead on Butler Road - I see more dog owners with their dogs, with many dogs pooping there. Why are dogs allowed there? The Homestead is an HISTORICAL site, NOT a toilet or a dog park.

- Still little diversity in both Quincy Police and Fire Departments, after all these years and talk of civil rights and equal rights. All this talk and speeches but little action.

- The current city budget has increased by a good amount. I hope the source(s) for the extra $$ aren't from Quincy homeowners. We have had enough tax increases to last many years.

- Long Island Bridge - I hope there will be a solution regarding a possible road to the island that's amicable to both Quincy and Boston. Honestly, I hope Quincy continues to make a stand and demands Boston that Quincy "has a seat at the table" regarding negotiations. Ferry service could be another option. Let's not have us deal with Boston traffic.

- Wollaston Station - the Yankee bus drivers are very friendly and patient. Kudos to them! But I hope the station will be fully opened and operational BEFORE summer, 2019. Just wishful thinking.

- I can't believe the marijuana / cannabis ballot was approved by a majority of Quincy residents. It's bad enough that we have to worry about car drivers drinking alcohol, texting or talking on their smart phones...now we have to worry about drivers on marijuana and other drugs?? Short sightedness, selfishness, self-indulgence, that's all this is.

Prefers Doughboy Statue At Merrymount Park

It is nice that the Doughboy statue was moved, but instead of moving it to the corner of Hancock Street and Furnace Brook Parkway, why wasn't it relocated to the park at the corner of Hancock Street and Merrymount Parkway where the Veterans Stadium, the World War II Memorial and the Korean War Memorial are located.

More people go to those areas either by foot or car. How many people will go to the new park?

If they extend the Veterans Day Parade to Merrymount Park there is plenty of parking there. At the new park it is limited.

Bridge Issue Shouldn't Be An 'Us Vs. Them' Battle

As a Bostonian born and raised but who lived live in Quincy for 25 years with family roots in both communities, I believe the City of Quincy is right in opposing any new Long Island Bridge.

It seems clear that Boston Mayor Martin J. Walsh is quite insistent that a new bridge be built with or without the support of its neighbors to its south across the Neponset Bridge. Too bad that the Walsh Administration doesn't seem that cool with building a bridge of respect with Quincy.

Personally, I do not think a new bridge is a necessity in bringing much needed services to a large population in great need. Spending almost $100 million to just build a bridge seems wasting valuable resources that could be better used in providing housing, employment and medical services to a largely forgotten population.

Sad that there are public officials at Boston City Hall that simply don't get the issue. Two questions that need to be addressed are the need to use Long Island as a resource for services and wasting $100 million on a structure rather than on actual services.

I like the idea of Norfolk County Dist. Atty. Michael Morrissey using the Shattuck Hospital by Franklin Park Zoo when the Shattuck Hospital moves to the Boston Medical Area in Boston and I agree with Sen. John Keenan on using public funds for services rather than for a bridge.

I would hope that instead of causing a stupid border wall, that Boston Mayor Marty Walsh call up Quincy Mayor Tommy Koch and set up a meeting of equals. Both cities know that homelessness and mental issues are a priority. This shouldn't be an us versus them battle.

I believe that ferries can be used to take folks back and forth to Long Island. A Favorable Reaction Hancock St. Park

A national urban park proposal by businessman and candidate for mayor Peter O'Connell received mainly favorable reactions when presented for input to some 50 persons following a meeting of the Quincy Historic District Commission.

The $10 million proposal calls for a park to include City Hall, the First Parish Church, McIntyre Mall and the Hancock Cemetery with trees, ornamental lighting along with grass areas and flower beds.

Streets and sidewalks in the area would be upgraded while Hancock Street between City Hall and the First Parish Church would be closed and landscaped. Joyce Baker, chairperson of the Historic District Commission, noted the commission was "impressed" with the park proposal by O'Connell.

Manet To Honor Houghs Neck Storm Response Team

Five Local Residents To Receive The Elizabeth A. Swanton Award At June 5 Event

The Manet Community Health Center (Manet) Board of Directors will present the 2018 Elizabeth A. Swanton Community Service Award to a group of Quincy residents who responded valiantly and tenaciously to help their fellow citizens and neighbors during and after Winter Storm Riley, the intense nor'easter that hit the New England coast March 2-3.

The award will be presented at the Manet June Bloom event on Tuesday,

ELIZABETH A. SWANTON
June 5 at the Tirrell Room in Quincy to: Margaret Lafor-est, lifelong Houghs Neck Resident, former Ward 1 councillor and current vice president of Tourism for the Quincy Chamber of Commerce; Helen Shiner, Quincy native and owner of a real estate business in the city; Mike Berry, Jr., Houghs Neck resident and journeyman electrician with IBEW Local 103; and Atherton Hough Elementary School PTO members Merideth Earnest and Jill Hockney.

The Elizabeth A. Swanton Community Service

Award is presented periodically by the Manet Board of Directors in memory of Elizabeth A. "Betty" Swanton, a former member of the board, who dedicated 30 years of service advancing the Manet mission to provide accessible, quality health care for all.

The award recognizes an individual or group living or working in a community served by Manet who, like Betty Swanton, has demonstrated a significant commitment to volunteerism and community service.

"These individuals were selected to receive this award for their heroic efforts – far exceeding the bounds of normal volunteerism – to assist residents both during and in the aftermath of the devastating nor'easter that hit the coastal areas of the City of Quincy with unprecedented ferocity," said Manet board president Eva Greenwood. "Their efforts provided comfort and connection to resources for countless numbers of Houghs Neck residents. We are proud to acknowledge them in this meaningful way."

Past recipients of the Swanton Award include Mrs. Elizabeth A. Swanton, posthumously and Mr. Robert and Mrs. Gloria Noble.

For more information about or to register for the June Bloom, visit www.manetchc.org or contact Lucille Cassis at 857-403-0416. The event is open to the public and sponsorship opportunities are available.

Impairment Measurement Marijuana And Driving Technology

Dr. Denise A. Valenti, a Quincy resident and the scientist behind the technology - IMMAD - presented the science and demonstration of efficacy of IMMAD at two separate major research conferences.

The first was the Institute of Cannabis Research (ICR) conference 2018 which was held in Pueblo, Colorado. Dr. Valenti presented a paper discussing retinal dysfunction with acute use of cannabis. The paper discussed Dr. Valenti's innovative research in retinal dysfunction and peripheral vision impairment with acute marijuana use as well as the studies that are behind the concept of using retinal dysfunction as a marker of impairment to drive with marijuana use.

The ICR 2018 conference attracted more than 400 attendees and researchers from every field of cannabis expertise. The conference took place in April of 2018 and included researchers from 20 universities, representatives from five government agencies, and a host of industry experts. Presentations, panels, and posters covered the scientific, medical, industrial, legal, economic, and social elements of cannabis research.

The second conference Dr. Valenti presented her marijuana/cannabis research at was the Association of Research in Vision and Ophthalmology (ARVO). ARVO is a research conference venue where 11,000 international eye and vision researchers from laboratories and clinics meet to share the latest work that will advance the science and move forward research from bench to clinic.

Dr. Valenti's poster was only one of three papers related to cannabis marijuana. Dr. Valenti presented her research that involved the study of volunteers participating in a law enforcement training. The volunteers had been dosed with a variety of recreational adult use marijuana products. As part of the health assessments that participants underwent, Dr. Valenti provided a vision screening.

This screening included the testing of peripheral vision using a striped target that had the stripes flicker/alternate rapidly. Some of the stripes were reduced in contrast. The majority of those having used a marijuana product were unable to see many of the reduced contrast stripes. Such reductions in visual function can have serious consequences with driving. Dr. Valenti is currently using the research to design a simple roadside test of marijuana impairment for law enforcement officers that is IMMAD. The preliminary data presented at ARVO show significant reductions in retinal function and technology such as IMMAD will be demonstrative of functional impairment to drive with marijuana use.

Dr. Valenti is seeking investors to further advance the research.

In addition to the research presentations Dr. Valenti had been invited to give a one hour continuing education lecture to lawyers and law enforcement professionals on the visual system and marijuana impairment to drive at the Washington State Traffic Safety Conference held in April. The lecture room was at capacity, with chairs being added that extended into the hall. Research related to impaired driving is limited and professionals related to on road safety have a high interest in quality research.

'Back To The Beach' COA Event June 5th

The Quincy Council on Aging will head back to the beach Tuesday, June 5th with an event at Tony's Clam Shop, 861 Quincy Shore Dr.

from 12:30 to 3 p.m.

This annual event is in memory of the late Dick Herbert, former president of the Friends of Wollaston Beach. Each year Dick would plan this event in conjunction with the Quincy Council on Aging and the Friends of Wollaston Beach.

Members of the Kennedy Center will receive a free small fountain soda and a 10 percent discount on any meal from Tony's Clam Shop when they show their membership ID card. Music will be provided.

To register for this event call the Kennedy Center at (617)376-1506, or sign up at the Kennedy Center.

'Stone Benches Mystery' Stroll At Faxon Park Sunday

The Park Department's Environmental Treasures program invites the public to help solve "The Mystery of the Stone Benches" on Sunday, May 27.

Numerous stone benches, some in plain view, others hidden in the woods, each unique, are found throughout Faxon Park.

Who made them? How were they built? Why were they placed in such strange locations?

Join Sally Owen for a stroll through Faxon Park in search of the answers to these questions.

Meet at 2 p.m. at the parking lot by the pavilion at the top of the park off Faxon Park Road.

For more information and rain date rescheduling, call 617-472-0799.

Palliative Care, Hospice Presentation June 6th

Old Colony Hospice & Palliative Care is partnering with the Quincy Council on Aging for a presentation on the Difference Between Palliative Care and Hospice presented by Michael Cruza, director of Business Development, Old Colony Hospice.

The presentation will be held at the Kennedy Center on Wednesday, June 6th at 10:30 a.m. There will be light refreshments.

Registration is required for this event. To register call the Kennedy Center at 617-376-1506.

Lions Club To Honor Bertman Family At Evening For Sight

The Quincy Lions Club will host its annual Evening for Sight event on June 12, at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

Funds raised by this event will be used to support the club's charitable outreach initiatives, including the KidSight Program, vision screening and its North Quincy and Quincy High School scholarship program.

"Funds raised at the Evening for Sight will allow Lions to meet pressing needs in our community," said Evening for Sight Committee Chairperson David Sawyer of the Quincy Lions Club. "Lions members thank everyone who contributes to this important work. You are truly helping Lions make a difference in our community."

This year, the Francis X. McCauley Community Service Award will be presented to Mark, Isobel and Jeff Bertman in recognition of their many years of outstanding commitment to the Quincy community. Owners of Rogers Jewelry since 1960, Mark and Isobel have tirelessly supported Quincy through their volunteerism and philanthropic endeavors.

Stop & Shop will also be recognized with the Community Champion Award in recognition of their volunteerism and support of the Quincy Lions Club. Entertainment will be provided by Lil Miss Sophia Hurley.

Sponsor for this year's event include Eastern Bank, Rural Lodge of Masons A. F. & A.M., The Honorable Mayor Thomas P. Koch, Equitable Bank, NorthEast Community Bank, Hamel Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home, Lydon Chapel and Keohane Funeral Home.

Ticket and sponsorship information can be found on the club's website www.quincylionsclub.com

Julianna Montminy Receives Assumption Scholarship

Julianna Montminy of Quincy was among the students at Assumption College recently honored with awards for academic excellence during the 34th Annual Honors Convocation, held in the Jeanne Y. Curtis Performance Hall.

Montminy, a member of the Class of 2019, received an Augustine Scholarship, which is awarded to rising junior and senior students, who-through their academic achievement, leadership, community service and good character-best embody the Assumption College mission.

"The Honors Convocation recognizes those students who have not only demonstrated academic excellence, but also outstanding character and service to the community in which they reside," said Louise Carroll Keeley, Ph.D., provost and vice president for academic affairs.

'American Pickers' Seeks Leads For 'Hidden Treasures'

Mike Wolfe, Frank Fritz, and their team from "American Pickers" are returning to Massachusetts.

They plan to film episodes of the hit TV series throughout the region next month.

American Pickers is a documentary series that explores the fascinating world of antique "picking" on History. The hit show follows Mike and Frank, two of the most skilled pickers in the business, as they hunt for America's most valuable antiques. They are always excited to find sizeable, unique collections and learn the interesting stories behind them.

As they hit the back roads from coast to coast, Mike and Frank are on a mission to recycle and rescue forgotten relics. Along the way, the Pickers want to meet characters with remarkable and exceptional items. The pair hopes to give historically significant objects a new lease on life, while learning a thing or two about America's past along the way.

Mike and Frank have seen a lot of rusty gold over the years and are always looking to discover something they've never seen before. They are ready to find extraordinary items and hear fascinating tales about them.

American Pickers is looking for leads for "hidden treasure." If you or someone you know has a large, private collection or accumulation of antiques that the Pickers can spend the better part of the day looking through, send your name, phone number, location and description of the collection with photos to:

americanpickers@cineflix.com or call 855-OLD-RUST.

WHAT'S COOKING

with

Marie & Susie

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO and SUSIE FALCO

Bristalone

Also Known As Easter Bread

By MARIE

Today's recipe is one that I usually make at Easter and it is called Easter bread and I usually use an anise flavoring for this recipe. Because this recipe is so simple and delicious you can make and enjoy it anytime.

In addition to using anise flavoring, I have also used lemon, almond or vanilla. Today's recipe was made with lemon flavoring – and when it was baking the aroma filled the house!

This dough is very simple and comes out so wonderful that not one drop of it is left on the flour board when you get through. You will find this is a very easy dough to make and work with and I think it is one of the best recipes for dough that I have ever tried.

PRE-HEAT OVEN TO 350

Line a cookie sheet with parchment paper

RECIPE

¾ cup butter, softened
1 cup of sugar
2 eggs
¼ teaspoon of salt
3 cups of flour

3 teaspoon baking powder
¾ cup milk
3 tablespoons of lemon extract

Cream the butter and sugar and salt. Add the eggs one at a time and beat between each addition.

Add the flavoring and alternate the flour and baking powder with milk and mix.

Place dough on a floured board. I made 3 round breads out of it, all the same size. But you can make 1 large bread or 2 medium breads.

I placed two round breads on one cookie sheet and one on another cookie sheet because they rise quite well.

Bake for 35 to 40 minutes or until lightly tan on top. Frost with icing (recipe below) when they are cool.

ICING

Place powdered sugar in small bowl and add 1 or 2 teaspoons of flavoring and a few drops of water. Stir until smooth and brushable.

Brush the top of bread with icing. While the icing is still moist you can sprinkle with jimmies or cake sprinkles – or anything you want on the top.

Healthy Rice Pudding

By SUSIE

Rice pudding is one of my favorite desserts.

Normally loaded with cows milk, white sugar, and white rice (which means pretty much no nutrition or fiber.) This recipe takes the cake. Swapping the white rice for short grain brown rice (long grain will not get good results), real maple syrup (preferably Grade B), cinnamon (which modulates blood sugar) adding nuts (which add important monounsaturated fat, fiber, and minerals) and using coconut milk instead of cows milk (contains Lauric acid, a certain type of fat called MCT which your body loves) makes this dessert luscious and healthy.

RECIPE:

1 can organic coconut milk Water (just enough to make the total liquid content 2 ¾ cups)

1 cup short grain brown rice
1/4 cup unsweetened dried shredded coconut
4 tablespoons maple syrup (the real stuff)
¾ tsp cinnamon
1/2 tsp nutmeg
1/3 cup slivered almonds or pistachios (or any nut of choice)

Combine milk, water, rice, and coconut in medium sauce pan and bring to boil over high heat. Reduce heat to low and stir. Cover and simmer about 50 minutes.

Stir in everything else except the nuts, until well combined. Cover and remove from heat. Let stand for 10 minutes. Top with nuts. Serve hot or cold.

Quincy Chamber Sponsoring Trip To Ireland Sept. 12-17

The Quincy Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a 5-day trip to Ireland from Sept. 12th - 17th to celebrate the recent collaboration between the city of Quincy and Cork County, Ireland.

The all-inclusive air and land package has been arranged by Cara Group Travel of Quincy to take advantage of the international Taste of Ireland West Cork Food Festival.

The Norwegian Air flight leaves from TF Green Airport in Providence, R.I. and flies direct to Cork City and includes sightseeing excursions to some of the most beautiful vistas in all of Ireland, along its famous West Coast. The trip also includes two days of one-of-a-kind culinary experiences at the internationally renowned West Cork Food Festival, a visit to Cobh Heritage Center, a visit to the Rock of Cashel, Tipperary and more.

The trip, priced at $1,489 per person, includes direct round-trip airfare, hotels and all ground transportation.

The goal of the Economic Development Agreement, signed by Mayor Tom Koch of Quincy and Lord Mayor Declan Hurley of Cork County in February, is to foster business, educational and cultural collaboration and exchanges between the two regions. Already, a Cork business is planning to locate at the Quincy Center for Innovation as early as this summer and the Cork Institute of Technology is discussing potential scholarship and exchange opportunities for both Quincy High School and Quincy College students in the fall. This West Cork Food Festival Tour jump-starts the cultural and tourism part of the agreement to showcase the beauty, history and hospitality of both Cork and Quincy.

The trip is open to both Chamber as well as non-Chamber members. However there are limited spots available and you must contact Cara Group Travel soon and place a $300 deposit in order to reserve your place on this trip. Visit Caragrouptravel.com or call 617-639-0273 for more information.

Quincycles 'Bike The Beaches' June 2

Quincycles invites the public to their "Bike the Beaches of Quincy" bike ride on Saturday, June 2nd.

The ride is sponsored by Save the Harbor Save the Bay. Free T shirts and a lunch will be provided to the first 60 riders who register. Register at Quincycles.org.

Participants have a choice of doing a longer ride, starting at 7:15 a.m. at Anderson Bicycle (380 Washington St., Quincy), or a shorter ride, starting at 9:30 a.m. at the Kennedy Center (440 E Squantum St., Quincy).

The longer ride, which covers approximately 22 of Quincy's 27-mile coast, begins in Quincy Point and hugs the shoreline, taking riders from the Point to Germantown, Houghs Neck, Adams Shore, and Merry-mount before heading down Quincy Shore Drive to join up with riders participating in the shorter beaches ride. The pace for the longer ride will be about 12 mph with minimal stopping.

The shorter ride, approximately 8 miles, will be a more relaxed ride around the coast of Squantum, including the Nickerson Post, Marina Bay, Commander Shea, and Squantum Point Park.

Quincycles rides are free and open to the public. More information about the group and the full schedule of rides can be found on their website at www.Quincycles.org.

NQHS AFJROTC Earns Exceeds Standards Rating From Air Force

The Air Force Junior ROTC instructors and cadets of North Quincy High School in Quincy earned an overall unit assessment score of "Exceeds Standards," the highest rating attainable, during a recent evaluation by the Department of the Air Force.

Maj Gregg D. Jones and MSgt John D. DeLorenzo were commended for creating a dynamic and supportive learning environment coupled with excellent community outreach. The instructors were cited for providing outstanding leadership in administering the cadet-centered citizenship program.

The cadets performed exceptionally well and took great pride in leading and accomplishing their unit goals. The North Quincy High School Air Force ROTC citizenship program is making a positive impact on the cadets, the school, and the community.

Lyme Disease - Steps To Stay Safe

A Message From Ruth Jones, Director Of Nursing, Quincy Health Department

By RUTH JONES
BSN, RN, BC, CP-FS

Lyme disease is an infection spread by the bite of ticks that instigates more than 300,000 illnesses each year in the United States. It is the most commonly occurring vector-borne disease and the sixth most commonly reported notifiable infectious disease.

Lyme disease is caused by the bacterium Borrelia burgdorferi and is transmitted to humans through the bite of infected blacklegged ticks. Ticks can attach to any part of the human body but are typically found in hard-to-see areas such as the groin, armpits, and scalp.

In most cases, the tick must be attached for 36 to 48 hours or more before the Lyme disease bacterium can be transmitted. Most humans are infected through the bites of immature ticks called nymphs. Nymphs are tiny, less than 2 mm, and difficult to see; they feed during the spring and summer months.

Adult ticks can also transmit Lyme disease bacteria, but they are significantly larger and are more apt to be discovered and removed before they have had a chance to transmit the bacteria.

Early signs and symptoms of Lyme disease (3 to 30 days after tick bite) include: fever, chills, headache, fatigue, muscle and joint aches, and swollen lymph nodes and erythema migrans.

Erythema migrans (EM) rash:

- Occurs in approximately 70 to 80 percent of infected persons

- Originates at the site of a tick bite after a delay of 3 to 30 days (average is about 7 days)

- Expands gradually over a period of days reaching up to 12 inches or more (30 cm) across

- May feel warm to the touch but is usually not itchy or painful

- Sometimes clears as it enlarges, resulting in a target or "bull's-eye" appearance

- May appear on any area of the body

Later Signs and Symptoms (days to months after tick bite)

- Severe headaches and neck stiffness

- Additional EM rashes on other areas of the body

- Arthritis with severe joint pain and swelling, particularly the knees and other large joints

- Facial palsy (loss of muscle tone or droop on one or both sides of the face)

- Intermittent pain in tendons, muscles, joints, and bones

- Heart palpitations or an irregular heart beat

- Episodes of dizziness or shortness of breath

- Inflammation of the brain and spinal cord

- Nerve pain

- Shooting pains, numbness, or tingling in the hands or feet

- Difficulties with short-term memory

Lyme disease is diagnosed based on signs and symptoms, and a history of possible exposure to infected blacklegged ticks. Laboratory blood tests are beneficial if used correctly and performed with validated methods. Laboratory tests are not recommended for patients who do not have symptoms typical of Lyme disease. Treatment with appropriate antibiotics in the initial stages of Lyme disease, usually result in a quick and complete recovery.

If you find a tick attached to your skin, don't panic.

- Use fine-tipped tweezers to grasp the tick as close to the skin's surface as possible.

- Pull upward with steady, even pressure. Don't twist or jerk the tick; this can cause the mouth-parts to break off and remain in the skin. If this happens, detach the mouth-parts with tweezers.

- After removing the tick, thoroughly clean the bite area and your hands with rubbing alcohol, an iodine scrub, or soap and water.

- Dispose of a live tick by submersing it in alcohol, placing it in a sealed bag/container, wrapping it tightly in tape, or flushing it down the toilet. Never crush a tick with your fingers.

While it is beneficial to take preventive measures against ticks year-round, be extra vigilant in warmer months (April-September) when ticks are most active:

Avoid direct contact with ticks

- Avoid wooded and brushy areas with high grass and leaf litter.

- Walk in the middle of trails.

Repel ticks on skin and clothing

- Use repellent that contains 20 percent or more DEET, picaridin, or IR3535 on exposed skin for protection that lasts several hours.

- Always follow product instructions. Parents should apply this product to their children, avoiding hands, eyes, and mouth.

- Use products that contain permethrin on clothing. Treat clothing and gear, such as boots, pants, socks and tents with products containing 0.5% permethrin. It continues to be protective through several washings. Pre-treated clothing is obtainable and may be protective for a longer period of time.

Find and remove ticks from your body

- Bathe or shower as soon as possible, preferably within 2 hours after coming indoors, to wash off and more effortlessly find ticks that are crawling on you.

- Conduct a full-body tick check using a hand-held or full-length mirror to view all parts of your body upon return from tick-infested areas. Parents should check their children for ticks under the arms, in and around the ears, inside the belly button, behind the knees, between the legs, around the waist, and especially in their hair.

- Examine gear and pets. Ticks can ride into the home on clothing and pets, then attach to a people later, so carefully examine pets, coats, and day packs.

- Tumble dry clothes in a dryer on high heat for 10 minutes to kill ticks on dry clothing after you come indoors. If the clothes are damp, additional time may be needed.

- If the clothes require washing first, hot water is recommended. Cold and medium temperature water will not kill ticks effectively. If the clothes cannot be washed in hot water, tumble dry on low heat for 90 minutes or high heat for 60 minutes. The garment should be warm and completely dry.

Ruth Jones is the director of Nursing for the City of Quincy Health Department.

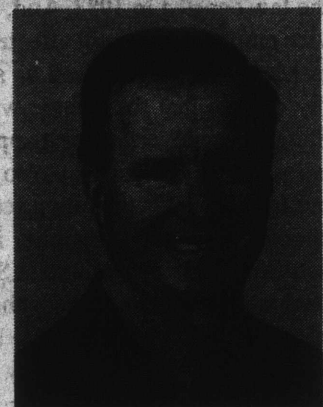

Surgeon Giovanni Ferrante, MD, Joins Beth Israel Deaconess Hospital - Milton

Board-certified general and vascular surgeon Giovanni (Giaff) Ferrante, MD, has moved back to Massachusetts and joined the Beth Israel Deaconess Hospital-Milton (BID-Milton) Medical Staff.

Dr. Ferrante recently returned to the South Shore area after spending five years practicing in Virginia. Before moving to Virginia, Dr. Ferrante was a long-time surgeon in the area. He was a surgeon and partner of South Shore Surgical Specialists, Inc. in South Weymouth, and formerly president of the Medical Staff at South Shore Hospital.

"We are delighted that Dr. Ferrante has chosen to join the growing surgery program at Beth Israel Deaconess Hospital-Milton," said Ashley Yeats, MD, chief medical officer and vice president of clinical integration and healthcare quality at BID-Milton. "He is an outstanding general and vascular surgeon, well known in the area, and his clinical specialties will complement our other surgeons' expertise very well."

Dr. Ferrante graduated

GIOVANNI (GIAFF) FERRANTE, MD

from Stanford University Medical School. He completed his general surgery residency at Stanford University Medical Center. Dr. Ferrante then went on to complete his vascular surgery fellowship at the University of Massachusetts Medical Center and a endovascular mini-fellowship at Mount Sinai Medical Center.

His clinical interests include dialysis and vascular access, peripheral artery disease, varicose veins and venous stasis.

Dr. Ferrante is board certified in general surgery and vascular surgery. He is a member of Harvard Medical Faculty Physicians at Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center.

Dr. Ferrante sees patients in the BID-Milton Center for Specialty Care and performs surgery at the hospital. The appointment telephone number is (617) 313-1450.

Nine QPS Seniors From HYPER Robotics Participate In Signing Day

Nine high school seniors from the Quincy Public Schools HYPER Robotics team were recognized on Saturday as part of FIRST Signing Day, a national campaign recognizing the outstanding high-school graduates who participated in FIRST Robotics programs and are choosing to continue their education beyond high school.

Inspired by the tradition observed by sports teams and athletes across the nation, FIRST Signing Day is an initiative where seniors in FIRST robotics sign a letter of intent and officially announce their plans for after high school. This is a step in transforming our culture – both by increasing collegiate awareness of STEM Programs and taking a step towards a world where science and technology are more celebrated.

A great way to recognize the outstanding Quincy Public Schools graduates on the team, FIRST Signing Day officially falls on May 21st, but QPS seniors were recognized on Saturday May 19th in front of approximately 300 elementary and middle school students at the Quincy Public Schools Robotics Challenge, a local robotics tournament for grades 5-8 in Quincy.

Seniors recognized:

Andrew Tham, North Quincy High School, who will attend Suffolk University and major in accounting. Tham also attended Central Middle School and Wollaston Elementary School.

Dash Chin, Quincy High School, who will attend Northeastern University and major in information science. Chin also attended Point Webster Middle School and Marshall Elementary School.

Emily Nguyen, Quincy High School, who will attend the University of Massachusetts in Amherst to study biomedical engineering. Nguyen also attended Central Middle School and Lincoln-Hancock Elementary School.

Justin Li, Quincy High School, who will attend Boston University and major in hospitality administration. Li also attended Central Middle School and Montclair Elementary School.

Klei Hamzallari, Quincy High School, who will study biochemistry and molecular biology at UMass Amherst. Hamzallari also attended Point Webster Middle School and the Marshall School.

Howard Zeng, Quincy

High School, who will attend WPI and major in mechanical engineering. Zheng also attended Atlantic Middle School and Parker Elementary School.

Erika Sato, Quincy High School, who will attend Penn State University and major in pre-medical. Sato also attended Central Middle School and Sterling/Lincoln-Hancock Schools.

Timothy Nguyen, Quincy High School, who will study computer science at UMass Amherst. Nguyen also attended Central Middle School and Atherton Hough School.

Rachel Shen, Quincy High School, who will major in environmental science and biomechanical engineering at MIT. Shen also attended the Broad Meadows Middle School and Snug Harbor School.

Social Security Matters

State Employees Getting Reduced Social Security

By RUSSELL GLOOR

AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor
Association Of Mature American Citizens

Dear Rusty: I'm retired for almost 17 years, and want to know why Massachusetts is one of only six states in the US that went along with President Reagan's double-dipping proclamation regarding Social Security? I worked for 15 years whereby I contributed to Social Security and accumulated my 40 quarters. I then left my job to take care of my family and went back to work for the county under our state's retirement plan. When I finally retired at the age of 65, I learned that I couldn't receive the full amount of monies earned under Social Security.

I am now receiving my pension from the county, and I've written to our federal representatives asking them to vote to revise President Reagan's policy of not double dipping. I have received replies saying that they would investigate this subject, but nothing has changed.

This policy not only affects me but many other people who are being short changed for working both under Social Security and working for the State and contributing towards their retirement. Why are there only six states in the United States participating in this double-dipping policy? Signed: Disappointed

Dear Disappointed: Without getting into too much history, what you're referring to is The Social Security Amendments of 1983, a bill passed by the 98th Congress and signed by President Reagan in April 1983. This was a large bipartisan effort to avert a serious issue with Social Security being unable to meet its short and long-term benefit obligations beginning later that year.

Both political parties joined together to enact numerous changes to the program, including the one you're referring to known as the Windfall Elimination Provision, or "WEP." WEP essentially says that employees who receive a pension from an employer (such as the Federal, State, or Local government), which did not contribute to the Social Security program cannot "double-dip" and collect both their non-covered pension as well as full Social Security benefits. The rule applies not to just 6 states but to all employers and their employees who do not participate in Social Security and, in fact, has caused some employers (such as the Federal Government) to change their retirement plan to contribute to Social Security.

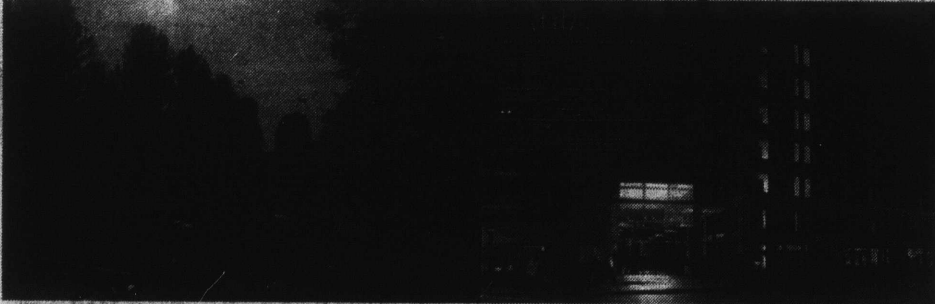

While that is helpful for recent employees, past employees who already receive a pension under the old systems, which did not contribute, are nevertheless still impacted by the law enacted in 1983. And, as you note, many public service employees are still affected by this law, including those in Massachusetts (as well as some other States). It's worthy of note that the change wasn't targeted to any specific State or employer; rather it applies generally to any employers who doesn't contribute to the Social Security program but instead funds their own retirement plan. That any state chooses to continue funding its own retirement system in lieu of contributing to Social Security is that State's choice. And while we cannot know the thoughts of those 1983 legislators about WEP, it's a safe bet that their main motivation was rescuing Social Security from defaulting on its obligations. Those Amendments have obviously sustained the program at least until now, some 35 years later.

You'll be happy to know that there is a bill before Congress now which addresses this issue and proposes to eliminate the impact that WEP - and a sister provision called the Government Pension Offset (GPO) - have upon the Social Security benefits of retired Federal, State and Local Government employees. This bill is known as the Social Security Fairness Act of 2017 (H.R. 1205). The bill has about 180 co-sponsors and has been referred to the Subcommittee on Social Security where, unfortunately, little action has been taken so far. My suggestion is that you contact your State legislators and ask them why your State's public service employee plan does not contribute to Social Security, and to contact your Federal representatives to demand action on H.R. 1205 to eliminate WEP and GPO.

Hancock/Adams Common & Downtown Construction Activities

Proposed work activities for the week of: May 20th, 2018

• Work within the new Hancock/Adams Common continues to progress with the brick walkway starting to be installed in front of the Hancock Cemetery, perimeter granite (on the lower level) of the Tidal fountain being installed, trees being planted, dense grade base for the walkways is being installed, the placement of the granite steps at the location of the north statue and installing granite curbing adjacent to the south section of the promenade walkway. The south end of the sidewalk of the new Hancock/Adams Common area will be closed off so that the work within that area can be completed. The pedestrian path of travel will be diverted to the other side of the street.

• Facade and interior work on the second building at Cliveden Place at the corner of Hancock and Cliveden Street continues.

• Night work continues in the area of Hannon Parkway and Cliveden Place on the relocation of the drainage system in the area. Detours will be set up in the area. Work will begin around 8pm to 5am.

• Foundation footings and columns continue to be constructed at 1500 Hancock Street for the proposed Nova Residence. Phase II of the Culvert Relocation Project continues to move forward with box sections being installed this week at the rear of the Hancock Lot closest to Revere Road.

$104,000 Cut From Municipal Finance, Assessors Budgets

By SCOTT JACKSON

City councillors cut $104,000 combined from the budgets for the Municipal Finance Department and the Board of Assessors during the first of three scheduled sessions to review the spending plan for the new fiscal year.

The council's finance committee began its vetting of the proposed budget for fiscal year 2019, which begins July 1, on May 16. Mayor Thomas Koch on May 7 unveiled his $310.81 million budget for the fiscal year 2019, an increase of $11.4 million or 3.8 percent over the current fiscal year budget. Koch said 90 percent of the increase is to pay for contractual raises and other obligations.

Chris Walker, the mayor's director of policy and information, on May 16 said the proposed increase in city spending would lead the average property tax bill for a single-family home to go up between $100 and $150 in 2019; the average single-family property tax bill increased by $97 in 2018.

"I think we're going to be in the same range as we were last year," Walker told the finance committee. "We're not going to commit to being under $100, but I would say within a $50 range is probably what we'd be looking at."

The mayor's latest proposed capital expenditures — including $33 million combined for street improvements, a new ladder truck and turnout gear for the Quincy Fire Department and improvements to Kincaide Park — would not impact the 2019 tax rate. Walker said debt service payments on those bonds, if approved by the council, would not begin until fiscal year 2020.

The largest cut made from the budget on May 16 was $100,000 from a line item in the Municipal Finance Department that is used to pay for the acquisition of new vehicles for other city departments. That line item had been funded at $250,000 in both fiscal year 2017 and fiscal year 2018. Koch had proposed increasing it to $400,000 in the new fiscal year.

Mark Cavanagh, the city's director of municipal finance, said the line item has primarily been used to purchase police cruisers, such as those taken out of service because of a crash or when their engine dies.

"The account is a hedge against whatever unknown needs we don't have identified now," he said. "I can't tell you how many are going to crash or get totaled or have engines blown."

Ward 2 Councillor Brad Croall proposed cutting the line item from $400,000 to $300,000. Croall, the council's president, said he didn't want to increase the line item if the extra money might not be needed, and said Koch could come back to the council to request additional funding, if necessary.

"Let's have the conversation as the year continues," Croall said. "Let's not budget for something that we may or may not need."

In response, Cavanagh cautioned councillors against cutting from line items where a surplus exists at the end of the year, because doing so could encourage department heads to spend that money for fear of losing it in the next fiscal year.

"If you become a body that cuts every single excess dollar in a budget, you'll have human nature spending everything — unnecessarily maybe or ahead of schedule — so they don't get cut," Cavanagh said.

Croall said the council has not done that and does not plan to do so now.

The proposed cut was approved in a 5-1 vote. Councillors Noel DiBona, Nina Liang, Anne Mahoney and Ian Cain, the finance committee chairman, joined Croall in voting in favor of the cut, while David McCarthy was opposed. Councillors William Harris and Kirsten Hughes were not in attendance May 16, and Brian Palmucci was not present for that vote.

The second cut made May 16 was to a professional/technical line item in the Municipal Finance Department budget. Koch set aside $5,000 for that line item in the FY19, the same as the last two fiscal years.

Liang proposed cutting that line item in half to $2,500. She said about $700 of that line item has been spent so far in FY18. About $2,000 was spent from that line item in FY15 and FY16, and $5,300 was spent in FY17.

"Over the last four or five years, we're looking at a little under $2,500," Liang said. "I know it's a small amount here, but every bit does count."

The committee voted 5-1 in favor of the cut, voting on the same lines as the first cut in the Municipal Finance Department budget.

The department's amended budget was then approved in a 6-1 vote, with McCarthy again opposed. Palmucci joined the five councillors who supported the cuts in voting for the departmental budget. The department's amended budget is $1.6 million.

The third and final cut made May 16 was $1,500 from the line item for overtime in the Board of Assessors' budget. Koch proposed $3,000 for that line item in FY19; the same amount that was set aside in FY18.

Liang proposed that cut because $203 has been spent so far in FY18 on that line item. Councillors approved the cut in a 6-1 vote, with Cain, Croall, DiBona, Mahoney and McCarthy joining Liang in support. Palmucci was opposed.

The Board of Assessor's $1.2 million budget was later approved by voice vote.

Liang proposed an additional cut in the Elections Department budget. She sought to reduce the line item for rentals and leases — which is used to lease polling places — by $5,000 from $17,250 to $12,500.

City Clerk Nicole Crispo said she is still trying to find a new polling place for Ward 5, Precinct 1, because the Quincy Career Center has moved. She anticipates having to use the line item in question to pay for the new location.

Liang's cut failed in a 5-2 vote. Cain, Croall, DiBona, McCarthy and Palmucci voted against it, while Mahoney joined Liang in favor of it.

The $741,000 budget for elections was then approved by voice vote. Other budgets under Crispo's purview, including the City Clerk's Office, Board of License Commissioners and the city census were all approved as well.

The two largest budgets approved May 16 were for health insurance and pensions.

The city's spending on health insurance — which also includes other items, such as dental and life insurance — will decrease from $47.79 million in FY17 to $47.08 million in FY18. The city will pay less in the new fiscal year as a result of leaving the Group Insurance Commission for a single provider, Blue Cross Blue Shield.

The city's pension system contribution will increase in FY18 to $28.02 million, up from $25.54 million in FY17.

The committee on May 16 also approved budgets for the City Solicitor's Office, Treasurer/Collector's Office, Council on Aging, Recreation Department, Purchasing Department, and Human Resources Department.

"Staying in this position without the support of the board would not only delay the college's forward progress but also, in ways large and small, have a negative impact upon the students, faculty, staff, and administration. As someone who has worked in higher education since June of 1972, just shy of 46 years, I find that alternative to be simply unacceptable."

The college's board elected Tsaffaras president in December 2010, and he was sworn in to that post in June 2011. Tsaffaras, who holds a law degree from the New England School of Law, was previously the acting general counsel and deputy commissioner for employee relations at the Massachusetts Department of Higher Education.

Tsaffaras had also served on Quincy College's Board of Governors, but resigned from the board to be considered a candidate for the job as the school's president.

Tsaffaras' resignation is effective June 1. The Board of Governors, however, voted in executive session to place Tsaffaras on administrative leave through the end of his tenure effectively immediately, according to Christopher Bell, the board's first vice chair. Bell emphasized the decision to place Tsaffaras on leave was not a disciplinary measure.

The decision to place Tsaffaras on administrative leave led to Feenan's resignation. Feenan left the boardroom about an hour into the executive session and announced, "I just quit."

"After 11 years on this board, I can't work with them anymore," Feenan told those gathered outside the boardroom. "This is outrageous what they've just done. They've destroyed the school."

Feenan had served on the board since 2007 and had been its chair since September 2014. He had been a staunch supporter of Tsaffaras in recent weeks as other board members called for the president to be terminated.

Bell chaired the remainder of the meeting after Feenan's departure. All told, the governors sat in executive session for more than two hours May 15. Tsaffaras joined them for the first 80 minutes or so of the closed-door meeting, as did several other college officials. Also present at the meeting were City Solicitor Jim Timmins and Chris Walker, Koch's director of policy and information.

Board members deliberated over pizza and were at times animated during the executive session, which could be seen, but not heard, by those waiting in the next room.

The vote to name Koch acting president was made in an open session following the conclusion of the closed-door meeting. Joseph Shea, a Norfolk County Commissioner and former Quincy city clerk, made the motion to name Koch to that post and it was seconded by Paul Barbadoro. The board voted 9-1 to make Koch acting president, with Barbara Clarke opposed.

Councillors Cut $15,000 From Own Budget

By SCOTT JACKSON

City councillors on Monday slashed $15,000 from their own departmental budget as they continued their review of Mayor Thomas Koch's spending plan for the upcoming fiscal year.

Councillors also approved the budget for several other departments, including Inspectional Services, which includes the creation of three new positions.

The money cut Monday comes from the nine line items in the council budget for communications. As part of his proposed budget for fiscal year 2019, which starts July 1, Koch proposed increasing each ward councillor's allotted funding for communications from $5,250 to $7,500. The mayor also proposed increasing the communications line item for each councillor-at-large from $500 to $1,500.

Council President Brad Croall proposed level funding each ward councillor's communication line item and increasing the line item for each at-large councillor to $1,000, not $1,500. Croall said surplus money is available in each of those accounts this fiscal year.

"This city council, with respect to its mailing budget, is way ahead of schedule. We have about a month to go and there is quite a bit of funding left over," he said.

Croall said he would check on those accounts at the end of this calendar year and early next spring to ensure councillors aren't close to exceeding their budget for communications.

The council's finance committee voted 8-1 in favor of Croall's proposed cut, with Ward 6 Councillor William Harris opposed.

The council's entire departmental budget, which will increase from $620,647 in the current fiscal year to $629,563 in fiscal year 2019, was then approved by voice vote. Koch's budget proposal includes a 2 percent raise for municipal employees, except for elected officials.

The council's finance committee on Monday also approved the budget for Moon Island Road before the gate providing access to the causeway that leads to Moon Island.

Boston Police and Fire Department vehicles traveling to and from Moon Island would be exempt from the ban, as would delivery vehicles servicing residents of those two streets and the Nickerson Post.

Koch and Ward 6 Councillor William Harris introduced the ordinance in April. Harris, who represents Squantum, said he looked forward to the signs going up.

"I'm looking forward to seeing the signs put up once the mayor signs it. Again, thank you for your support throughout this long process," Harris told his colleagues.

The council's ordinance committee, a committee of the whole, had given its approval to the measure last week. Rep. Bruce Ayers and seven Squantum residents spoke in favor of the ban at that time, and another eleven wrote letters to the council to back it as well.

The ordinance committee last week also approved an additional bill filed by Harris, which would designate the Planning Board as the special permit granting authority for new bridges in the city.

That ordinance, however, did not come up for a vote Monday night. Councillor Nina Liang, the chairwoman of the ordinance committee, said it must go before the Planning Board for review before the council can pass it.

Boston Mayor Marty Walsh in January announced his intentions to rebuild the bridge between Moon Island and Long Island and open a comprehensive, long-term recovery campus on the latter. Long Island was previously home to a homeless shelter before the bridge was closed in 2014, and later demolished, because its span had fallen into disrepair. The piers that once supported the bridge remain in place and Boston plans to re-use them to hold up the new bridge.

Walsh allocated $80 million in funding for the reconstruction of the bridge in a capital plan unveiled earlier this spring, bringing the total amount of funds available for the project to $92 million.

Boston officials have said construction of the new bridge could begin next year and take three years to complete. They have said pieces of the bridge would be built off site and then floated in by barge.

The Long Island Bridge had been a point of contention between Quincy and Boston for years prior to its demolition in 2015. The only vehicle access to the bridge is through Squantum and Moon Island, which is within Quincy's city limits but fully owned by Boston.

The Boston Conservation Commission approved the proposal to rebuild the bridge last week; Harris and several Quincy consultants voiced their opposition to the project at that hearing.

The proposal must still go before the Quincy Conservation Commission and several other permitting bodies, including the U.S. Coast Guard and Army Corps of Engineers, as well as a Massachusetts Environmental Policy Act review.

"Rock Solid Security"

City Seeks Temporary Taking Of Messina Lot

By SCOTT JACKSON
City officials have proposed temporarily taking the Messina Lot to ensure it can remain open as a parking area with Quincy's lease on the property set to expire next month.

Ward 5 Councillor Kirsten Hughes introduced a measure to take the lot, located at 1565-1597 Hancock St., at Monday's City Council meeting. It was referred to committee for review at a future meeting.

In a memo to the council, William Geary, Mayor Thomas Koch's special counsel for the downtown redevelopment effort, said the city entered into a lease agreement with the property's owner - FX Messina Enterprises - for use of the land as a 100-vehicle parking area in 2016. The city sought a five-year automatically renewable license for the land at that time, Geary said, but Messina only granted a license with one-year extensions.

"The city requested that the license be extended for a three-year term commencing in June 2018. At this time, the owner remains unresponsive to the city's requests and it appears the owner will not renew the license for any term," Geary wrote.

"This parking lot, improved by the city, is absolutely essential to the city's interim parking plan and its loss for that purpose would be extremely disruptive to the businesses and public facilities in the downtown area."

The order proposed Monday would allow the city to continue to use the site as a parking lot through June 2021. It would also award Messina $1.3 million for the property. The recommended compensation is based on an appraisal conducted by Steven Foster, who determined the fair-market annual rent for the 49,000-square-foot site to be $435,500.

Chris Walker, a spokesman for the mayor, said the city needs to continue to use the Messina Lot for parking, as construction of a new municipal garage on the Hancock Lot gets underway this summer. The order proposed Monday does not address the long-term future of the parcel.

"There is no doubt in anyone's mind that regardless of the eventuality of whatever happens at that piece of land, we need it for the interim parking plan," Walker said following Monday's meeting. "This piece of legislation solves for that while keeping open the possibility for future development at this site and doesn't get in to any related issues therein."

Earlier this month, FX Messina's chief executive, Arthur Stavris, said Koch planned to ask the council to use eminent domain to take the property and sell it to FoxRock Properties, who the mayor has designated the developer for the nearby

Ross Lot. Stavris said the company had hired a lawyer to fight against that use of eminent domain and felt betrayed by Koch's decision.

the Inspectional Services Department, which will increase from $1.49 million this fiscal year to $1.72 million in fiscal year 2019. The department's budget allows for the hiring of three new employees: a full-time plan examiner at a $68,971 salary, a part-time wire inspector and a part-time plumbing and gas inspector. Koch, when he introduced his proposed budget, said those new positions could be paid for with new revenue the city is receiving from permit fees.

Councillors welcomed the additions to the department.

"It is well worth it to add these additions to Inspectional Services," said Ward 1 Councillor David McCarthy, who said the department went above and beyond in its response to nor'easters that slammed the city this past winter.

"I'm glad to see that you're getting some extra bodies there in this budget," Ward 4 Councillor Brian Palmucci told Jay Duca, the department's director. "I have no doubt you will put them to good use."

Also approved Monday were the budgets for the mayor's office, city celebrations, the Planning Department, the Veterans Services Department, the Thomas Crane Public Library and the substance abuse prevention office, which is paid for by money Quincy receives from Ermont, the medical marijuana dispensary on Ricciuti Drive.

Councillor Anne Mahoney asked that the council hold off on voting for the Public Buildings Department's budget. She requested additional information on the contractual line item in that department's budget, which Koch has proposed increasing from $950,000 to $1 million.

"People always want money, but sometimes we need to live within our means to be able to get our projects done," Mahoney said.

Public Buildings Commissioner Paul Hines said the contractual line item is used for various projects. His department, for example, was contacted prior to the Parker School's 100th anniversary celebration earlier this spring and asked to clean up the building, including painting, a flag pole, and removal of unused electrical wires.

Two individuals are being paid through that line item, Hines said. One is Jack Nigro, who is paid $15,000 to manage projects for the department, and the second is former Ward 3 councillor Kevin Coughlin, who is paid $25,000 to act as a liaison between the department and Father Bill's and the Quincy Animal Shelter while plans for a new public safety headquarters are being put together. Both organizations are located in the same vicinity as the new public safety building.

Don Martin, who formerly worked with the department as a project manager, was also paid out of the contractual line item. Koch named Martin the new director of the Park Department in September 2017.

Councillors will consider the Public Buildings Department's budget on May 30, the finance committee's final scheduled meeting to review Koch's budget. Also on the agenda that night are the Police and Fire Departments, the Health Department, the Park Department, the Department of Public Works, Quincy Public Schools, and the Traffic, Parking, Alarm and Lighting Department.

The start of the May 30 meeting has been moved up to 6 p.m. because of the number of budgets that will be reviewed that night.

Mahoney Wants Update On Economic Development

By SCOTT JACKSON
Councillor Anne Mahoney is seeking an update from city officials on economic development efforts in Quincy.

Mahoney introduced a resolution seeking the update on economic development at Monday's City Council meeting. The council unanimously approved the resolution, which was referred to the council's community engagement committee.

Mahoney wants to hear from those responsible for marketing Quincy, and for those tasked with economic development in the city. The resolution asks those parties to make a presentation of all objectives and the status of all efforts to date at a future council meeting.

Mahoney said Quincy has seen a lot of development, but not economic development, in recent years.

"Quincy has experienced a lot of development in the city, but we haven't seen the increased economic development that we should be expecting in our city, and surrounding communities throughout the metropolitan area have had that," she said at Monday's meeting.

Councillor Nina Liang, the chairwoman of the community engagement committee, welcomed the resolution given the amount of development coming to the city.

"I think this is a wonderful topic that we should be discussing in light of all the traffic changes that are happening across the city and of course all the potential development coming down the pike citywide," Liang said.

"I really appreciate Councillor Mahoney for putting this in front of us."

Ward 5 Councillor Kirsten Hughes said she supported having an update on economic development, but disagreed with Mahoney's statement that such growth has not taken place in Quincy.

"I do disagree with the premise that Quincy as a city has failed to see any increase in economic development," said Hughes, who is the chairwoman of the council's downtown and economic growth committee.

"I think we have experienced a great deal of growth and positive change in the city in terms of economic development, in terms of new businesses coming to the city. I'll support this because I don't disagree with discussing the topic of economic development and certainly there are always ways to improve and getting folks in here to talk about that in a public setting is good, and I would support that."

O'Donnell Warns Homeowners About Direct-Mail Deed Scam

Continuing his efforts to combat consumer fraud, Norfolk County Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell is again advising county residents to disregard a direct-mail solicitation offering them a certified copy of their property deed for an outrageous fee of anywhere from $59.50-$86.00.

"There is a California company that continues to send direct-mail solicitations to unsuspecting homeowners asking them to send a check for $86.00 in order to receive a copy of their deed," O'Donnell said. "If a consumer knew that the Registry of Deeds would provide them the same certified copy of a property deed for a charge of only $1 per page, plus an additional $1 for postage, they would never agree to pay such an outrageous fee for service.

"The average price for a mailed homeowner's deed by the Registry (usually two pages) is $3."

"These solicitations," noted O'Donnell, "are labeled Recorded Deed Notice and request that the homeowner forward a check in the amount of $86 for a copy of their deed. The Registry has been contacted by many who have received this solicitation. Do not fall for this scam."

O'Donnell concluded, "While the deed direct-mail solicitation may be legal, it's certainly not ethical. From my perspective, this is a scam being perpetrated against hard working Norfolk County residents, many of whom are first-time homeowners or elderly.

"Consumers are interpreting these notices as a bill, since they are affixed with a due date. I again urge in the strongest terms that Norfolk County citizens not let themselves fall prey to these types of misleading deed scam advertisements."

If you receive such a deed solicitation notice, contact the Registry's Customer Service Center immediately at (781) 461-6101 or by email at registerodonnell@norfolkdeeds.org. Additionally, if you desire a copy of your own deed, also contact the Registry's Customer Service Center and the center will provide you with one for a nominal fee of usually $2 to $3.

4 Questions To Ask Before Fueling Outdoor Power Equipment

The season of the yard is upon us. Across America homeowners are opening up their garages and sheds and getting out their mowers, trimmers, blowers, power washers, and other outdoor power equipment.

The Outdoor Power Equipment Institute (OPEI), an international trade association representing more than 100 power equipment, engine, and utility vehicle manufacturers and suppliers, reminds homeowners to use smart fueling practices before starting their engines.

"You want your equipment available when you need it, and that starts with proper maintenance and fueling," said Kris Kiser, OPEI president and CEO. "Always check which fuel you're buying before filling up."

Here are four questions to ask before you start fueling outdoor power equipment:

1. Have you read the owner's manual for the equipment? Always follow manufacturer's fueling recommendations and use the type of fuel specified.

2. Have you drained your equipment of old fuel from last season? Fuel should not sit in the tank for more than 30 days. Untreated gasoline (without a fuel stabilizer) left in the system will deteriorate, which may cause starting or running problems and, in some cases, damage to the fuel system.

3. Did you purchase the correct fuel? What goes in your car or truck may not be the correct fuel to use in your outdoor power equipment. There are many choices at the pump today, and you should only use E10 or less fuel in any outdoor power equipment. Some gas stations may offer 15 percent ethanol (E15) gas or higher ethanol fuel blends, but any fuel containing greater than 10 percent ethanol can damage — and is illegal to use, says the Environmental Protection Agency — in small engine equipment not designed for it.

4. Are you using a fuel additive or the manufacturer's fuel? Many manufacturers make fuel additives and fuels, sold at retail locations, to improve equipment performance and mitigate any fueling problems caused by ethanol-based fuels. Check with your manufacturer's recommendations and make the best choice that will keep your equipment running strong all season.

"A clean machine performs better and lasts longer. Before you start your machine, do a visual inspection. Make sure the safety guards are in place and that your equipment is in good shape," adds Kiser. "You should also review the operating instructions and re-familiarize yourself with the controls before using your equipment."

For more safety tips, go to www.opei.org. For further information on proper fueling, go to www.LookBeforeYouPump.com.

Three Reasons To Upgrade To A Smart Thermostat

Nicholson Plumbing, Heating & Air Conditioning, a family-owned home service company and recipient of the Angie's List Super Service Award for the eighth year in a row, is recommending homeowners upgrade to the next generation of thermostats to maximize their heating and cooling systems.

"With summer right around the corner, now is a perfect time to update your thermostat," said Mike Nicholson, owner of Nicholson Plumbing, Heating, & Air Conditioning. "Smart thermostats will help you save money on monthly energy bills, and the great news is that nowadays they make them so easy to use you don't have to be particularly tech savvy to get your money's worth."

Nicholson provides the following reasons to invest in a new smart thermostat:

1. Save money by easily programming temperatures for periods of vacancy. Just like regular programmable thermostats, smart thermostats can be programmed to adjust the temperature for added comfort when residents are present and for extra savings when residents are at work or away from their home. However, smart thermostats can also be programmed to learn routines and even pair with a smartphone for easy adjustment while away from the home.

2. The hardware and software are continuously getting better. As the technology advances and new models are released, reliability and reviews are getting better. Like a smartphone or computer, these devices continue to improve in both performance and ease of use year over year.

3. You may qualify for a rebate. Because smart thermostats are considered energy-saving equipment, rebates may be available for purchasing one. Remember to check local organizations, like Mass Save, and take advantage of any potential savings offered.

"We never seem to hesitate in updating our computers and phones, but when it comes to the biggest investment we have, we often allow our home to fall behind in technology and efficiency," Nicholson said. "A smart thermostat is a simple, affordable update that can help you take better control of your comfort and save you money on your monthly energy bill, and we believe your home is well-worth such an upgrade."

Bike-Share Pilot Program Launches May 29

Quincy's first bike-sharing pilot program will launch on Tuesday, May 29 with an initial 200 bicycles accessible to residents in areas throughout the city, Mayor Thomas Koch announces.

The city is partnering with ofo, the world's first and largest dockless bike share company, and to bring the company's signature yellow bikes to town. The bicycles will be deployed in designated areas around the city, particularly around transit and residential hubs. The city, through its Bicycle Commission, plans to work with advocacy groups like Quincycles to promote the program and make improvements as it moves forward.

"Dockless bike-sharing programs are an affordable and accessible means of alternative transportation, and I'm greatly looking forward to offering this service to our residents," Koch said. "We'll be monitoring the program closely, designating members of our transportation team to work side-by-side with the company to make the program the most efficient and viable it possibly can be."

According to ofo, some of its partner cities have seen short-distance car trips (under three miles) reduced by as much as 44 percent.

In addition, more than 50 percent of trips in other cities begin or end at transit stops, helping to solve the first- and last-mile problem. These benefits will be particularly significant as the MBTA commences repair work on Quincy's four T stations and their parking garages. ofo bikes will be deployed near each station

On Wednesday, May 9, at approximately 4:45 p.m., Officer James Borden was dispatched to Star Market for a report of children left unattended in a vehicle. The Quincy Fire Department and Brewster Ambulance were also dispatched to the scene.

Upon arrival, the officer was flagged down by the store manager who stated that there was an infant and a toddler left alone inside a parked car. She stated a customer alerted an employee that the children were alone in the car for approximately 15-20 minutes. The manager used the store intercom to locate the owner but no one responded.

Officer Borden looked inside the car and saw that the toddler appeared to be asleep and the infant was in an infant seat with the cover pulled down, so only the child's feet were visible. The officer tried the rear passenger side door handle and discovered that it was unlocked, so he checked on the infant who was awake. He then attempted to wake up the female toddler by shaking her hand and making some noise to get her to wake up but was unsuccessful. Her hands were warm to the touch, and the vehicle was noticeably warmer inside (approximately 75-80 degrees) than the 65 degrees outside. The officer again tried these tactics and the toddler woke up.

A Job Well Done

By QUINCY POLICE LT. DAN MINTON

Brewster Ambulance and the Fire Department arrived on scene and checked the well being of the children while Officer Borden ran the license plate to determine the whereabouts of the owner. Once the EMTs determined the children were fine, the officer said that the children would have to be transported to Quincy Medical Center for evaluation. The EMT called for a second ambulance to transport the other child. During this time a crowd had gathered and there were numerous displays and comments of shock and disbelief that someone would leave such young children in a car alone.

Ten minutes later, a female approached the scene and said that she was the mother, offering, "I was only gone for a few minutes. I didn't want to wake them up." Based on the available information and statement made by the mother, Officer Borden placed her under arrest and she was transported to the station for booking. The officer then contacted her husband and told him that their children were at the hospital. He stated he would respond to that location.

The female, a 39-year-old Quincy resident, was charged with child endangerment, and disturbing the peace. Leaving two children under 2 years old in an unlocked, unattended car created a substantial risk of serious bodily injury or potential abuse to the child/children and she recklessly failed to take reasonable steps to alleviate that risk. Her actions also caused public alarm with store employees, customers, and the general public.

Officer Borden requested video of the parking lot and store to determine exactly how long the children were at risk. Nice Work!

NEXT QUINCY POLICE/CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL BLOOD DRIVE:

Will be at Wal-Mart on June 16th, from 8:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. For more information contact Lieutenant Dan Minton at 617 745 5719 or dminton@quincyma.gov

Quincy Girl Scouts Help Decorate Veterans' Graves

Quincy Girl Scouts recently took the time to honor deceased veterans by placing American flags at their graves at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

The Girl Scouts from Troop 68282 took time after school to decorate more than 300 graves at Mount Wollaston Cemetery. They were joined by family and friends in honoring the heroes.

"These girls enjoyed the experience so much they wanted to volunteer to take them out when the time comes in November," said George Bouchard, graves registration officer for Quincy Veterans Services. "Troop leaders and parents guided the girls with the help of Donna Yang and troop chaperones and Quincy Veterans Services to explain the true meaning of why and when these flags are put on the graves."

"Quincy Veterans Services would like to thank all of them and all of the volunteers who take the time to remember our veterans who are no longer with us but are remembered each and every day," Bouchard added.

The youngsters enjoyed the experience and have volunteered to help collect the flags in November. Among those who helped decorate the graves were: Owen George, Kenny Kirby, Oscar Liu, Alyssa Hopps, Dolores Quintos, Violet Liu, Maggie Webber, Angelina Rumble, Marcela Llamas, Alivia Caruso, Hailey Powers, Lilly George and Morris Yang.

AMONG THE VOLUNTEERS who helped place flags at 300 veterans' graves at Mount Wollaston Cemetery were Alyssa Hopps, Dolores Quintos, Hailey Powers and Lilly George.

SAL Memorial Day Honors Veterans' Sacrifices

By TOM GORMAN

As a sea of 400 fluttering American flags served as a backdrop, the sacrifices of Quincy's veterans were honored during a pre-Memorial Day ceremony at Flags for Veterans Island at Fort Square on Sunday.

Residents, local officials and veterans gathered at the traffic island that was transformed into a veterans' memorial eight years ago by the Sons of the American Legion Squadron 294 of the Cyril P. Morrisette Post. The grass-covered island is dotted with 400 American flags — each one representing a veteran — except one, that honors those missing in action and prisoners of war. The island also features a flagpole, brick walkways and marble benches. Sunday's ceremony was the 14th observance hosted by the Sons of the American Legion.

"By these ceremonies, we seek only to raise the level of reverence for our national symbol and bring increased recognition to all of our nation's veterans," said Master of Ceremonies, Guy Ferris, a member of the Morrisette Post and Sons of the American Legion Squadron.

Squadron Commander Paul Moody said the 488 engraved bricks and the 400 flags on the island are dedicated to those "who served, those who are serving and those who paid the ultimate sacrifice to keep America free."

Moody related the story of how red poppies came to symbolize the honoring of veterans. He said an American professor, Moina Michael read the poem, "In Flanders Field," written after WWI, that told how poppies covered the battlefields

Josiah Quincy House Open For Tours June 2

Historic New England's Josiah Quincy House in Wollaston will open for the season with free tours on Saturday, June 2, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Built as a country estate in 1770, the Quincy House was surrounded by fields and pastures overlooking Quincy Bay. Its elegant architectural details befit the status of the man who built it, the Revolutionary War leader Colonel Josiah Quincy.

Among the house's unusual features is its "monitor" roof. From this prospect Col. Quincy had a clear view of Boston Harbor, where he watched troop movements during the Revolution. In 1775, he scratched "Governor Gage sail'd for England with a fair wind" into one of the windows of the monitor roof. That pane of glass was carefully preserved by the family, and is on display in the house today.

For generations, the Quincys, like the Adamses, to whom they were related, played important roles in the social and political life of Massachusetts. The family produced three mayors of Boston and a president of Harvard. Much of the historical information pertaining to the house and family was documented in the early 1880s by Eliza Susan Quincy. She kept journals, inventoried the contents of the house, commissioned photographs of the interior, and persuaded relatives to return heirlooms so that the house could become a repository of Quincy family history.

The Quincy House recently underwent a four-year focus that included the repainting of several rooms based on the scientific analysis of the original paint color. In addition, curators reinstalled rooms based on Eliza Susan Quincy's journal and photographs taken in the 1880s.

The Quincy House will be open from June to October on the first and third Saturdays of the month. The house, located at 20 Muirhead St. in Wollaston, also offers school programs, and tours by appointment. For information call 617-994-5930 or visit www.Historic-NewEngland.org.

New Presidents Head Football Coach

Carey: 'We Want To Be Competitive'

The Quincy High football team found their next head coach from within their system.

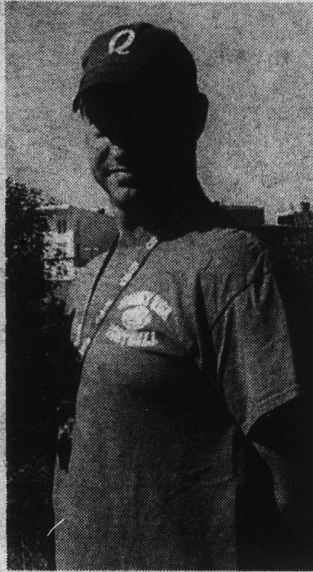

On May 15th, the school announced Kevin Carey would be taking over for Bill Reardon as the Presidents head coach for the 2018 season. If his name sounds familiar, it is because he is a 1994 Quincy High grad who has coached at his alma mater for nearly two decades; for the past decade, he served as the team's defensive coordinator. However, now, he is in charge of the entire program

"It's very, very exciting," he said. "I want to get started right away. The seniors have been wanting to know what's going on and now they have their answer. The team wants to get started. They want to get the season underway."

One obvious advantage Carey has in addition to his immense coaching experience is his experience with these particular players. After all, the returning varsity players all know him well.

"I think that's part of it," he said. "I have a good core relationship with the players, parents and even the community. It's been in my blood for a long time. I've been under these coaches whether it's Bill Reardon, Bob Noble or Peter Chella. All of them have been great advisers to me in my football career. It's a lot to absorb, but I'm ready for a challenge on and off the field."

From those coaches, Carey said he learned a lot.

The two aspects he said that stuck out the most for him were communication skills and preparation skills during the week leading up to gameday.

"I felt that as a defensive coordinator, we were ready to go week in and week out on Friday nights," he said. "That came from learning from the former head coaches and assistant coaches. Also, going to the coaching clinics and the colleges—whether it's Boston College, URI or even state colleges—you learn a lot listening to those coaches: the Bridgewater, the Springfields of the world. I think that should help prepare us. Obviously, the administration too has been great."

Last season, the Presidents went 2-9, but enjoyed more success as the season progressed. They went 2-2 in their final four games of the season with wins over Brookline and Framingham. Their two losses came against Durfee and North Quincy, both of which were decided by three points or less respectively.

That said, the young team showed they were capable of playing competitive football. With more experience now, they should be in better shape for this season.

Carey recognizes this—and said he expects his team will have a strong offensive line this upcoming fall.

"I want to build around them," he said. "The learning curve is still going to be there, but we can keep working. The fact that we can rely on Mark McKenna, Pat Nazzaro, Jalen Varela, Zac Carson and Andrew Rooney. It won't be their first time under the lights this fall. Linemen are the hardest working players on the field, as you know."

The Presidents will need good blocking up front in order to thrive in the Patriot League Keenan Division. After all, they will be going up against teams like Duxbury, Hingham and Silver Lake in Patriot League Keenan action, all of whom made it to the playoffs last season. Plus, Marshfield will be moving into their division in 2019 and the Presidents open their 2018 schedule with a pair of Bay State League opponents: Milton and Braintree.

"We've got a full schedule before we can even think," Carey said. "But my goal is to make the playoffs. You want to be playing in the playoffs and not be playing in that other subdivision. We want to be competitive, playing football at a high level. The student-athletes who are with me, I think they're ready to take on that challenge."

North Quincy Softball Outhits Hingham

By TOM JOYCE

The bats came alive early for the North Quincy High girls softball team last Friday afternoon and it worked out well for them.

The Red Raiders batted around the order in their first time up at the plate and their offensive momentum carried over for all seven innings as they toppled Hingham 13-5 at home. With the win, North Quincy improved to 9-4 this season.

"That's what we're trying to do: compete early," North Quincy head coach Jim Connor said. "We got off to a slow start to our season, but they're getting it now, free swinging and getting the rally mentality. Today was a good example of that aggression we want to have offensively."

"You've got to get your cuts in," he added, "especially early in the game to get the rust out and jitters out, and then they have the confidence to swing the bats later in the games."

After a quick three outs were recorded in the top of the first inning, the Red Raiders attacked at the plate. Samantha Smith hit a leadoff single, Maeve Kean reached on an error by the shortstop and Camryn Burgio walked to load the bases. With one out in the inning, Johanna Douglas hit a 3-run single and reached third base on a couple of overthrows. Then, Ashley Caldwell knocked her in with a single and with two outs, Smith was the third batter walked in a row, scoring the fifth run of the inning.

An inning later, Ashley Caldwell added another run for the Red Raiders, blasting a double and in the third inning, it was a bases loaded fielder's choice that got the force out at second base hit by Mia Sapienza that gave the Red Raiders a 7-1 lead.

In the next two innings, the team also tacked on an extra run apiece. Jessie Caldwell knocked in Ashley Caldwell thanks to an infield hit; one inning later, Douglas sacrificed to score Sapienza, who tripled in her previous at-bat. On the day, Sapienza had a pair of triples, including one in the bottom of the sixth inning to add two more runs which made the score 13-2.

Kristen Thornton picked up the win on the mound in a complete game effort. She retired the first six batters of the game, giving her team a distinct advantage as their offense exploded early in the contest. She mostly pitched to contact and nine of the 21 outs recorded were air outs.

Ultimately, she did not walk a single batter and the defense behind her made plays when tested.

"I'm happy with it all. There's still a lot of things we can work on, but overall I'm happy with it."

The win over Hingham was the third time the team had played that week and their fourth consecutive win. This streak includes another lopsided win, 20-5, over Hull on May 10. With the early season postponements, their schedule is more dense in the final few weeks of the season.

Albeit they're playing more games lately and enjoying success, Connor said his team is still fine-tuning areas of their game in practice.

"We're taking it one step at a time and working on what we need to in order to hopefully win some more games," he said.

North Quincy and Quincy were scheduled to play Wednesday at 6 p.m. at Mitchell/McCoy Field.

Spring Track Highlights - South Shore Twilight Invitational At Norwell High School

By GEOFF HENNESSY

Mother Nature tried her best to mess up peoples plans but Quincy-North Quincy athletes did their best and even better at the Annual South Shore Twilight Invitational (formerly the South Shore Principal meet) held at Norwell High school Saturday.

Nathan Sleiman took home the Outstanding Performer Award for field event competitors winning the triple jump in 43'11" and also took a 5th in the 110 high hurdles. Brian Gutro and Bobby Donovan finished in the top 6 for the freshman 400 meters. Gutro was 2nd and Donovan was 6th.

Jose Las made the finals of the 100 meters for freshmen and took 7th.

On the girls side Maeve White finished 8th and Lezly Acevedo 14th in the freshman girls mile. Devin Hiltunen lost in a photo finish in the 200. Her time of 26.46 was only 3 hundredths off of the winner. Alex Case was 7th.

Another highlight of the day was Quincy High senior Emma Nguyen making the hard standard for the MIAA championships with a PR 92'03" in the discus good for 7th.

About twenty athletes competed Monday night at the Last Chance Invitational at Notre Dame Hingham. The meet was moved for the impending rain storm and results were unavailable at press time.

On Sunday, May 27 the team will compete in the MIAA Division 1 championships at Andover High school. Qualifiers include Nathan Sleiman (110 hurdles, long jump, triple jump and 4x100 relay), Sarah Pilone (long jump, triple jump, 100m hurdles and is a relay alternate), Shorn Hawthorne (highjump, 100 meters and 4 x 100 relay), Emma Nguyen (shotput and discus), Rachel Smith (discus), Sorcha Quinn (javelin), Dominic Laptiste (longjump 4 x 100 relay), Maeve White (mile, two mile), Olivia Palazzi (400 meter hurdles, 100m hurdles), Liana Cunningham (100 meters, 4 x 100 relay, 4 x 400 relay), Abby Murphy (800m, 4 x 400 relay), Devin Hiltunen (200m, 400m 4 x 100 and 4 x 400 relay), Alex Case (200m, 4 x 100, 4 x 400 relays), Brian Gutro (4 x 100 relay), Jose Las (4 x 100 relay alternate).

Final qualifiers for the MIAA were determined May 23. White, Murphy and Quinn must make the final cut of 32 in a running event or 24 in a field event to qualify.

"We have our greatest number of qualifiers since the 1980s when I first coached," said head Coach Geoff Hennessy. Hennessy was quick to point out his staff of Carolyn Mullaney, Peter Chrisom, Jeff Pereira, Michelle Bell and Jackie Coleman are the reason the team has done as well.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

FIXING A CRACKED TOOTH

A cracked tooth is a fracture in the tooth enamel that can be caused by wear and tear; aging; grinding of the teeth (bruxism); chewing ice, gum, nuts, or hard candies; or biting down hard on a bone, pit, or other hard object. Cracked teeth are often difficult to diagnose because the crack may not be visible even on an x-ray. The first symptom of a cracked tooth is usually pain when biting or discomfort when inhaling. A crack can get larger and deeper with further wear and may cause serious injury to the tooth or promote infection. Depending on the severity of the crack, it can be treated with dental bonding, a veneer, or a crown. The pain of a cracked tooth is the body's way of signaling that something is wrong. When you ignore the pain, however, you also ignore the underlying problem, and relief slips farther and farther away. Be smart! For excellence in dental care from a compassionate staff committed to your comfort, well-being, and sunny smile, call us for an appointment, 617-479-6220, at our comfortable, leading-edge dental office at 44 Greenleaf Street. To learn more about us, visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. "Craze lines," tiny, shallow, painless cracks that affect only the outer enamel, are common for adults. They can be treated if they are deemed to be unattractive.

Q-NQ Boys Lacrosse Eyes Tournament Berth

By MATT GIBBONS

In the short existence of Quincy-North Quincy boys lacrosse - the two teams combined four years ago - there has been no bigger stretch than the one the team is in right now.

Last Thursday (May 17th) QNQ sat at a record of 5-7 with 6 games remaining. The goal has not changed since the season ended last year: qualify for the state tournament for the first time in program history. Team needs to finish with 9 wins.

This last week was a good start in that direction. It started with a 9-7 win over league opponent Whitman Hanson. Offense coming from Chris Donaghey who chipped in with 2 goals, Daniel O'Leary who had 1 goal, John Norton had 3 goals also scored the 9th goal to ice the game, and Connor Donaghey who had 3 goals including the game winner which came early in the 4th quarter. On Saturday the team dropped a tough one to a team who has become sort of a rival in the past few years, East Bridgewater by a score of 18-6.

So Monday's game vs. Cambridge Ring and Latin became a huge one for the team as the margin of error is as thin as it gets - 4 games left need to win 3 to get in. Well now its 3 games left and win 2 and they are in after a 13-7 win in Cambridge. Donaghey brothers were again key to the offense as Chris netted 6 goals and Connor had 2. Brendan Bailey played well scoring 3 goals, John Norton and Daniel O'Leary both chipped in with 1 goal apiece.

So this leaves the QNQ squad with 3 games left with a record of 7-8 the team needs to win 2 out of 3. They travelled to Nantucket Tuesday then it is senior night Friday Night at 7 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium vs. Coyle-Cassidy who they have previously beaten this season and then end the season next Thursday in a make up game with Cambridge the team they just beat.

This team has been getting some major contributions from a lot of different players, on offense besides the players already mentioned. Brian Nguyen who has been great on face-offs all year, defensive mid-fielders John Kamb and Jake Zisk have been huge key to the team's defensive success along with defensive long poles Jack O'Brien, Tommy Feeney, Michael Cugini, Ben Nutting and Matt McGourty. But the glue to this defensive and the most consistent player this season has been Goalie Kevin Finn, whether it was his 30 saves vs #1 Hingham or just the consistent effort and leadership he brings every game and practice.

Second year coach Matt Gibbons has surrounded himself with guys who not only know the game but are so good at communicating that knowledge to the players. Justin Lawless is in his 2nd year - Quincy Native and AWHs graduate. Lawless played at UMass Dartmouth, as well as first year defensive coach Brian Grant who also played at UMass Dartmouth.

Jake Hallisey has taken over the JV program as well as being a key part of the varsity squad and runs the teams must follow Twitter page (@QNQboyslacrosse). Gibbons also added a goalie coach in to the mix Brian Cushing. Not to mention the president of Quincy Youth Lacrosse Kevin Lynch helping out when he can but more importantly bringing the message of QNQ Lax to the youth program, getting these kids excited about Lacrosse in the city of Quincy.

Come out on Friday and cheer on this team as they make a run at a state tournament.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

2018-103

The Quincy City Council will hold a Public Hearing, on Monday, June 4, 2018 at 7:25 PM in the City Council Chambers, City Hall, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy in reference to a petition from Massachusetts Electric Company.

Massachusetts Electric Company and Verizon New England, Inc requests permission to erect and maintain poles and wires to be placed thereon, together with such sustaining and protecting fixtures as said company may deem necessary, in the following public way or ways:

Atlantic St.

Inst P35-1 Atlantic St. approximately 45ft NW of P35.

and that it is desirable that said poles be used for the attachment of the wires and fixtures of your petitioners.

Wherefore they ask that they be granted joint or identical locations for said existing poles, with the right to maintain wires and fixtures thereon, together with such sustaining and protecting fixtures as they may find necessary, said poles to be maintained substantially in accordance with the plan filed herewith marked:-

MASSACHUSETTES ELECTRIC COMPANY and VERIZON NEW ENGLAND, INC

Plan No. 25743891 Dated 2/28/2018

Also for permission to lay and maintain underground laterals, cables, and wires in the above or intersecting public ways for the purpose of marking connections with such poles and buildings as each of the said petitioners may desire for distributing purposes.

Your petitioners agree to reserve space for one cross-arm at a suitable point on each of said poles for the fire, police, telephone and telegraph signal wires belonging to the municipality and used by it exclusively for municipal purposes to help provide an alternative mode of transportation, helping to reduce the inconvenience to commuters.

A copy of the Applicant's plan may be examined at the Office of the City Clerk, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy, Ma. Monday thru Friday during regular business hours 8:30 A.M. to 4:30 P.M.

ofo's bright yellow bikes are rented at $1 an hour using the ofo mobile phone application. The service does not use parking docks that line curbs as seen in other cities; instead, customers find an available bike close to them on their phone, scan a barcode on the bike to unlock it and ride to their exact final destination. To finish a ride, users simply push a lever to lock the bike's back tire at the end of their trip, leaving the bike behind for the next rider. The bikes have GPS units, allowing customers - and the ofo operations team - to track their location. Users can ride anywhere within the City of Quincy.

"Mayor Koch has always been a forward-thinking leader who embraces innovation, and we're excited to work together to implement a next-generation bikes-sharing program that's right for Quincy," said Chris Taylor, Head of North America at ofo. "ofo's greener, more affordable and convenient way to get around has been a huge success in cities around the globe and we're thrilled to bring that same benefit to the people of Quincy."

ofo's operations team will be positioned to move improperly parked bicycles, such as those on private property or blocking a sidewalk, in addition to collecting and redistributing them, and ensuring the bikes are in working order. In each city it operates, ofo prioritizes hiring local residents for its operations team.

To date, ofo has connected users to more than 14 million bikes in over 250 cities across 22 countries.

Fundraiser June 16 To Benefit Disabled Veterans Day Salt Water Fishing Trip

Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club will hold a fundraiser to benefit the annual Disabled Veterans Day Salt Water Fishing Trip.

The fundraising event will take place at the Town River Yacht Club, 60 Mound St., Quincy, on Saturday, June 16 starting at 7 p.m. and running until 11 p.m.

The event includes DJ music by Mike Murphy, a hot and cold buffet, raffle prizes and a cash bar. All proceeds will go toward the 62nd annual Disabled Veterans Fishing Outing.

"We need your help and support to provide our disabled veterans with one day of outdoor fishing," said former Quincy city councillor Michael Cheney.

This year marks the 62nd year Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club has provided disabled veterans with a fishing outing. "For some disabled veterans this is the only day trip out of the hospital," Cheney said. "They have given so much for our country the least we can do is provide one day on the water fishing."

Members of Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club and friends of disabled veterans have been proud to host this event for 61 years. Volunteers from all walks of life including local lobstermen take the day off from work to help make this a special day for disabled veterans.

John Urbanus, of Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club, said, "It would be impossible to recognize everyone involved in making this event possible. However, on behalf of all the disabled veterans from area hospitals I would like to thank everyone involved whether you donate a dollar or assist of Vet's Day. I would like to thank you for your past help and support.

"Your involvement," Urbanus continued, "has made a difference. This year we need your help more than ever."

Each year Harvey's honors the service of disabled veterans by dedicating the event in their name. Urbanus announces the Board of Directors voted unanimously to honor the service of Thomas Cheney. Cheney served as a U.S. Marine in the South Pacific during World War II and became disabled during an air attack by the Japanese on the Island of Guam.

Tickets are available at the door at a cost of $15. All proceeds will go to offsetting the cost of running the Vets Day event.

For more information or to send a contribution, call Mike Cheney at 617-592-2501.

PUBLIC NOTICE

PUBLIC NOTICE 2018 - 101

Presently pending in the Ordinance Committee of the Quincy City Council to be passed at a later date:

BE IT ORDAINED by the City Council of the City of Quincy that Title 13 Public Services Chapter 13.12 UTILITIES PERMITTING of the Municipal Code be hereby amended as follows:

Add the following:

Section 13.12.110 Installation of Small Cell Wireless Facilities -

13.12.110 Installation of Small Cell Wireless Facilities on Utility Poles Located in the Public Way or in the Utility Easement Area Adjacent to the Public Way.

13.12.110.1 Purpose. It is the purpose of this Ordinance to establish specific standards and procedures to authorize the installation of Small Cell Wireless Facilities on utility poles located in the public way or in the utility easement area adjacent to the public way. Notwithstanding any provision in the Quincy Municipal Code to the contrary, this section shall govern such installations.

(a) Definitions:

(1) Small Cell Facility: The Antenna, radio, power source and meter, disconnect switch, fiber optic cable, and supporting equipment, if any, installed on a Utility Pole.

(2) Utility Pole: A privately owned utility pole located in the public right of way or in the utility easement area adjacent to the public right of way.

When not inconsistent with the context, words in the singular number include the plural number. The word "shall" is always mandatory and not merely directory.

(b) Authority: Consistent with Chapter 166, M.G.L., by amending the General Ordinances to include this section, the City Council has voted to authorize the Director of Inspectional Services to issue permits for Small Cell Facilities that satisfy the criteria identified in section 13.12.110.1 (d), and authorizes the Director of Inspectional Services to ensure that petitions to install Small Cell Facilities comply with such criteria.

(c) Petitions: All petitions submitted pursuant to this section shall include:

(1) Application stating: (a) petitioner's name and address; (b) name and address of the owner(s) of the Utility Pole; (c) name, address, telephone number, and email address of petitioner's attorney or agent; (d) Utility Pole number; and (e) address of nearest property and address of nearest property, if different, which contains a residential structure or fire station.

(2) Plan, signed by a professional engineer, showing the subject Utility Pole and the proposed Small Cell Facility.

(3) Letter or license from the owner(s) of the Utility Pole, authorizing the installation of the Small Cell Facility. Such a letter or license shall be deemed to constitute a structural certification by the owner(s) of the Utility Pole attesting to the integrity of the Utility Pole to support the Small Cell Facility.

(4) Evidence sufficient to reasonably satisfy the Director of Inspectional Services that the Utility Pole has an existing grant of location. Utility poles that support existing wires and cables shall be deemed to have an existing grant of location for purposes of this Ordinance.

(5) License(s) from the Federal Communications Commission evidencing petitioner's authority to transmit and receive wireless telecommunications, unless such license is already on file with the City.

(6) Proof of liability insurance including "completed operation" coverage or its substantial equivalent.

(7) Radio Frequency ("RF") Affidavit, signed by a professional radio frequency engineer, that includes a brief explanation of how the proposed Small Cell Facility addresses a significant gap in coverage, or capacity, or both, and why the proposed Utility Pole is the most feasible to install the Small Cell Facility.

(8) RF Emissions Report demonstrating that the proposed Small Cell Facility complies with the maximum permissible exposures adopted by the Federal Communications Commission, unless such a report has previously been filed with the City for the specific equipment to be used in the Small Cell Facility.

(9) A Fee equal to $200.00 with Check made payable to CITY OF QUINCY.

(d) Standard of Review: The Director of Inspectional Services shall issue a permit to a petitioner for the installation of a Small Cell Facility within ninety (90) days of the submission of a petition submitted pursuant to this section if such petition demonstrates the following:

(1) The Small Cell Facility does not interfere with the safety and convenience of ordinary travel over the public right of way.

(2) The Small Cell Facility does not exceed 60 feet in height above the ground.

(3) The appearance of the Small Cell Facility is similar to (a) the existing equipment on the Utility Pole or on other nearby Utility Poles, (b) the color of the Utility Pole, or (c) another color reasonably requested by the Director of Inspectional Services or his designee.

(4) The dimensions of the Antenna do not exceed sixteen (16) inches in diameter or forty (40) inches in height.

PUBLIC NOTICE

PUBLIC NOTICE

(5) No part of the Small Cell Facility projects from the Utility Pole further than four (4) feet if installed twenty (20) feet or higher above the ground or further than two (2) feet if installed below twenty (20) feet above the ground.

(6) No part of the Small Cell Facility shall extend below eight (8) feet above ground level.

(7) No other Small Cell Facility is installed on a Utility Pole within 180 feet of the subject Utility Pole, including the subject Utility Pole.

(8) The subject Utility Pole does not measure more than 20 degrees out of plumb in any direction.

(9) The subject Utility Pole is not a double pole.

(10) A Small Cell Facility has not already been installed on, or approved for installation on, the subject Utility Pole.

(11) The proposed Small Cell Facility complies with the maximum permissible exposures adopted by the Federal Communications Commission.

(12) The proposed Small Cell Facility shall not be installed at any location which is within twenty (20) feet of any residential structure, school building, child daycare structure or fire station.

(e) Effect of Permit: Upon the issuance of a permit to install a Small Cell Facility, or after the passage of ninety (90) days from filing with no action on the petition, a petitioner shall be authorized to commence installation.

Any proposed changes to the dimensions or specifications detailed in section 13.12.110.1(d) shall require a new petition, except that: (i) no approval is required for the refurbishment, repair, or replacement of any Small Cell Facility component; and (ii) in the event that a petitioner proposes, or is required, to change the approved position of a Small Cell Facility component, the petitioner shall submit revisions to the approved plan for such Small Cell Facility to the Director of Inspectional Services, who may approve the change so long as the change does not (A) reduce ground clearance to less than eight (8) feet above ground level, or (B) cause the height of the Small Cell Facility to exceed sixty (60) feet in height above the ground.

(f) Effect of Denial; Appeal: In the event that the Director of Inspectional Services denies a petition to install a Small Cell Facility, he or she shall provide a written explanation for the denial to the petitioner. Within thirty (30) days of the issuance of such denial and explanation, the petitioner may:

(1) Submit a new petition that satisfactorily addresses the reasons for denial, at which time the Director of Inspectional Services shall consider the new petition pursuant to this section; or

(2) Appeal the denial to the City Council. Upon receipt of an appeal under this section, the City Council shall consider the matter as a new application (i.e., de novo) at a publicly noticed hearing and allow the petitioner to appear before the City Council to support the appeal, submit further evidence to rebut the written explanation provided by the Director of Inspectional Services, and demonstrate that it has: (i) satisfied the standard of review established in section 13.12.110.1(d); and (ii) demonstrated that the relevant criteria contained in section 13.12.110.1(d) have been met. The City Council shall reach a final decision and act on any appeal within ninety (90) days. The petitioner has the right of further appeal available under law.

(g) Removal of Small Cell Facilities:

(1) Any Small Cell Facility approved pursuant to this section shall be removed and the relevant permit terminated if the City requires the removal of the Utility Pole where the Small Cell Facility is located.

(2) The permit holder shall notify the City if the Small Cell Wireless facility ceases to be used for its intended purpose, and shall remove all the permitted equipment no later than sixty (60) days following cessation of use.

(3) Except as otherwise provided for in this section, the City may remove Small Cell Facilities approved pursuant to this section and terminate the relevant permit(s) by using the procedures established for the removal of overhead structures and equipment contained in M.G.L. Chapter 166, §§22A-22N.

(4) The Director of Inspectional Services, or his designee, is authorized under this section to order the removal of any Small Cell Facility installed on a Utility Pole that has not been authorized pursuant to this section. Any party installing any such Small Cell Facility shall be subject to penalties consistent with §1-9.

(h) Relationship to Zoning Code: This section shall govern the installation of Small Cell Facilities on Utility Poles located in the public right of way or in the public utility easement area adjacent to the public right of way. Except as otherwise stated herein, the provisions of the City of Quincy Zoning Ordinance do not govern such installations.

THIS ORDINANCE SHALL TAKE EFFECT UPON ITS ENACTMENT.

A copy of this order may be examined at the Office of the City Clerk, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy, MA Monday through Friday during regular working hours 8:30 A.M. to 4:30 P.M.

of France and Belgium where so many soldiers died. Michael was inspired to write her own poem, "We Shall Keep the Faith" that prompted a campaign where red poppies would be worn on Memorial Day to honor the sacrifices of veterans.

"If there were no veterans, there would be no America," Moody said. "Freedom is not free."

City Council President Brad Croall said that it is inspiring to see the Flags for Veterans Island continuing to grow from its inception and the ceremony that "recognizes the commitment veterans in this city and throughout the world have made to this great country."

He noted that one of the flags on the island honors his grandfather who "instilled in me at a very young age the importance of answering the call to duty, recognizing the importance of the American flag and taking the time out to thank veterans."

Croall also recognized the squadron for its work on the island and the Quincy community "for its amazing advocacy and enhanced commitment to veterans throughout the city."

Fred White, Morrisette Post senior vice commander and who will be taking the reins as commander of the state American Legion, acknowledged post members "for all they do for veterans."

Massachusetts Detachment of the Sons of the American Legion Adjutant Clifford Smith said when he arrived at the ceremony and saw the flags gracing the island, he was reminded of the choices veterans made.

"The veterans that served our country in the various wars had a choice to make and choices that they made are the reasons why we have the freedoms today," he said. "They were hard choices. They went into battle. Many of them did not come home. Many of them were injured. But, they did it and they fought for all of us back in this country. To that, we owe them a debt of gratitude. To those brave men and women that are serving today, we also owe them that same gratitude. For they, who are the soldiers of today, will be the veterans of tomorrow."

Smith said that elected officials must be reminded of veterans' sacrifices so that today's veterans will receive the support they need.

"The freedoms that we have in our country are because of the brave men and women who fought and are willing to die and sacrifice themselves," said Smith.

This year, a new flag was placed on the island honoring police officers and firefighters - inspired by the Commonwealth's Fallen Heroes program.

"Its purpose is to honor all of our fallen heroes, to include not only our military members, but, also those who protect the people of the communities day in and day out - our police officers and firefighters," Ferris said. "And, especially honor those from their ranks who made the ultimate sacrifice while engaged in that service."

Quincy Police Officer Mike Delaney and Sgt. Pat Buonaugurio and firefighters Gerry Murphy and Brian Donelin placed the flag among the field of flags on the island.

Guest speaker, Stephen Dunlea of West Quincy, served in the Army and was stationed in South Korea in the early 1980s and later joined the Massachusetts National Guard. He is a member of the Morrisette Post and Bryant Post Veterans of Foreign Wars and was commander of the Quincy Veterans Council and the District 6, Norfolk County American Legion.

In his address, Dunlea noted that South Korea, through the sacrifices of American soldiers who served there nearly 30 years before him, had made great strides rebuilding and becoming a modern nation - with super highways, American-style shopping malls and U.S. franchises such as McDonald's and Dunkin' Donuts. He said education is a priority there and the country is ranked number one in the world in that category while the U.S. is ranked in 17th place.

"All of this and more because of our men and women that fought, served and continue to serve in South Korea under our red, white and blue," he said.

Dunlea noted Quincy's patriotism.

"A lot of great history pervades this community and patriotism and support for our service people and veterans is second to none," he said. "The Quincy community flies the flag proudly all over the city."

Dunlea said that while there is division in the United States, the flag should not be disrespected as way of protest.

"Use the freedoms the flag represents to get your point across, but, disrespecting and desecrating the flag is not the answer," he said. "We have to improve our country by staying united, not divided. This flag unites this country and it should never divide it. Men and women, old and young, served and gave their lives

Dorothy G. Marchant, 95

Funeral services and interment for Dorothy G. (Deacon) Marchant, age 95, of Weymouth, formerly of Quincy, were private.

Mrs. Marchant died peacefully May 11 at Care-One at Weymouth, in the comfort of her loving family.

She was born in Quincy to the late John R. and Gladys (Hirtle) Deacon. She was raised in Quincy and was a graduate of the Woodward School for Girls, Class of 1941, and the Burdett School of Business in 1943. She had lived in Weymouth for eight years and most of her life in Quincy.

Mrs. Marchant had been employed for many years as a data processing specialist for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts with the Department of Unemployment Security in Boston. Previously, she had worked at the former Quincy City Hospital.

She loved all animals and as a young woman had enjoyed playing the piano. Mrs. Marchant was dedicated to her family and was especially proud of her many grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

DOROTHY G. MARCHANT

Beloved wife of the late Lamont D. Marchant. Devoted mother of John R. Marchant and his wife Linda of Stoughton, Philip G. Marchant and his wife Jody of Weymouth, Kenneth E. Marchant of Weymouth and the late Russell J. Marchant. She was survived by many loving grandchildren and great grandchildren.

One of four siblings, she was sister of William Deacon of Middleboro and is also survived by many nieces and nephews.

Memorial donations may be made to the charity of your choice.

Arrangements under the direction of the Sweeney Brothers, Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Patrick S. Irwin, 59

A funeral Mass for Patrick S. Irwin, age 59, of Quincy, formerly of Weymouth and Braintree, was celebrated Wednesday in Sacred Heart Church, Weymouth.

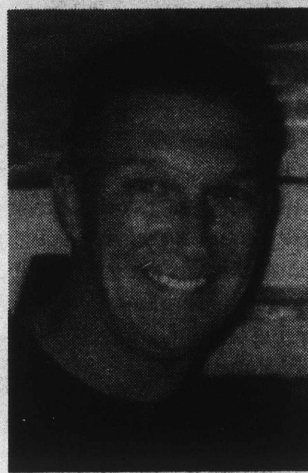

Mr. Irwin died May 17 at South Shore Hospital, in the loving care of his fiancée, Laura Jo.

He was born in Quincy to the late Susan M. (Damiano) Irwin. Raised and educated in Braintree and Quincy schools, he was a graduate of Quincy Vocational Technical School. He had lived in Quincy most of his life, previously in Braintree and Weymouth.

Mr. Irwin was a building engineer, specializing in property management, and worked for the Able Engineering Company and Bridge Commercial Real Estate Company for seventeen years. He managed the State Street Corporation property at Crown Colony in Quincy.

He was an avid sportsman and woodsman. Mr. Irwin's passion was the outdoors, the woods, hunting, and fishing. He especially enjoyed hunting trips to Westport, MA and New York with his friends and beloved late uncle Peter Damiano. He was a fan of the Boston Red Sox, the New England Patriots, the Boston Bruins, and the Boston Celtics. Most of all, Mr. Irwin was devoted to his family and to his cherished grandson Kyle.

He is survived by his fiancée, and the love of his life, Laura Jo Laracy of Quincy. Father of Patrick S. Irwin, Jr. and his wife Ashley of CT. Loving grandfather of

Kyle Mitchell-Irwin and Evelyn Grace Irwin. Dear brother of Eric Irwin and his wife Keri of CA, and his sister Wendy Fichera of ME, and pre-deceased by Pamela J. Irwin and Mark G. Irwin. Uncle of Stephanie Marie, Maritza Nichole, Linus, and David. Former husband of Leslie Irwin of Quincy.

Mr. Irwin is also survived by many aunts, uncles, cousins, friends, and the Laracy family; Dorothy J. (Navicky) and Frederick J. Laracy, Captain, Quincy Police Department, Retired of Braintree and their children, Mark and Laracy and his wife Lori of Braintree, Linda E. Laracy of Quincy, Lisa J. Pearl J. Dalton, 97

A funeral Mass for Pearl J. (McDonnell) Dalton, age 97, of Quincy and Sagamore Beach, was celebrated Tuesday in St. John the Baptist Church, Quincy.

Mrs. Dalton died May 17 surrounded by her loving family.

She was born in Durham, N.H., and grew up in Green, R.I., before moving to Quincy, where she lived for over 68 years. After graduating with a biology major and as a member of the Chi Omega Sorority from the University of Rhode Island Class of 1942, Mrs. Dalton worked at Rhode Island Hospital where she met her beloved John who was completing his medical internship. They were married in Fresno, CA, where he was stationed during World War II.

Mrs. Dalton had many talents and interest. She was an avid golfer and winner of many tournaments as a member of the Wianco Club in Osterville, Stoneybrook Country Club in Sarasota, FL, and Hatherley Country Club in Scituate. She was a member of the Neighborhood Club of Quincy and the Sagamore Beach Colony Club. As a member of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts for many years she attended The Devens Lectures and annually enjoyed the Art in Bloom event.

Gardening, cooking, traveling with her husband John, and spending summers at Sagamore Beach were among her greatest joys. She also enjoyed travelling with her family on cross-country trips to Colorado and California as well as trips to Ireland, Washington, D.C., Florida, New England, and New York. Mrs. Dalton loved opera and bird watching and shared these passions with her children and grandchildren. Gifted with a loving manner, sense of humor, generous nature, and outgoing personality she had many wonderful friends and neighbors whom she enjoyed entertaining at both her Quincy and Sagamore Beach homes. As a wife and mother of six children she was a Cub Scout leader, president of the St. Ann School Mothers Club, the Quincy and Norfolk County Doctors Wives' Clubs. She had a deep and abiding faith in God and was a long-term parishioner of St. John the Baptist Parish in Quincy. Most importantly Mrs. Dalton loved her family including her nieces and nephews with whom she treasured spending time. She was a wonderful wife and mother with the gift of making each of her family members feel very special.

Beloved wife of the late John T. Dalton, M.D. Beloved daughter of the late George Henry and Fannie McDonnell. Devoted mother of Mollie Tucker and her husband Thomas of Sagamore Beach, Denise "Dede" Dalton-Martell and her husband Bob of Quincy, John T. Dalton Jr. and his wife Anne of Hingham, Lois Hamilton and her husband Mark of East Greenwich, R.I., Michael Dalton of Quincy, and the late Kevin A. Dalton. Cherished mother-in-law of Kevin's wife Mary Dalton of Sarasota, FL. Loving grandmother to Tom, Emily, Colleen, John III, Christopher, Johanna, Mollie, Michael Jr., and great-grandmother to Oliver, August, Hanna, Henry, Beatrix and Benjamin. Beloved sister of the late Irene Fuller and the late George McDonnell. Beloved aunt to many nieces and nephews.

Interment at St. Mary's Cemetery, Quincy.

Tickets On Sale For Fr. Bill's Food Fest

Tickets can be purchased by visiting 501auctions.com/foodfest or by calling 508-427-6448, x2238. FBMS is the leading provider of innovative and cost-effective services, including permanent, supportive housing, that aim to prevent and end homelessness in Southern Massachusetts.

FoodFest, featuring tastings from 40 of the South

Shore's most popular restaurants and bakeries, will be held Tuesday, July 31 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at The Launch at Hingham Shipyard and Hingham Beer Works. Tickets are $150 apiece, with proceeds from the event helping FBMS close a funding gap at its emergency shelters for individuals and families who are experiencing homelessness.

FoodFest is supported by dozens of corporate sponsors including this year's presenting sponsors, Arbella Insurance Foundation, Bank of America, and United Way of Massachusetts Bay and Merrimack Valley. The event will also feature live music and auctions for one-of-a-kind items. For more information, visit helpfbms.org/foodfest. Corporate sponsorship opportunities, which include ticket packages and access to the 5 p.m. VIP party at FoodFest, are still available.

Last year, FoodFest raised more than $320,000, allowing FBMS to provide emergency overnight shelter to 2,713 people, including 430 children, last year.

"Thanks to FoodFest, we're able to ensure that no one has to sleep out on the street tonight," FBMS President and CEO John Yazwinski said.

for this flag and the freedom it represents. By disrespecting the flag, you disrespect them."

The flag along with the POW-MIA and Sons of the American Legion flags were raised on the main pole of the island then lowered to half-staff in memory of victims of the Santa Fe, Texas high school shooting that occurred two days earlier. A memorial wreath was placed at the base of the flagpole and flags were placed at Flags for Veterans Island memorial. A roll call of the deceased honorees, Taps and a volley followed.

Ferris noted that the squadron's initiative that began three years ago to have bricks inscribed by families of service members proved successful where 488 bricks have been inscribed by Monti Granite. The bricks make up the island's flagpole walkway and apron.

Color guards from the Quincy police and fire department and North Quincy High School ROTC participated in the ceremony. Boy Scout troop 6 and Woodward school for Girls students also participated.

Squadron Chaplain Robert LaFleur offered prayers and Abigail Coughlin performed the National Anthem.

HONOR AND COLOR guards participated at Sunday's Memorial Day observance at Flags for Veterans Island. They included the honor guard from the Quincy Fire Department (top), Quincy Police Department (right), North Quincy High School Air Force Junior ROTC (below) and Boy Scouts Troop 6, Quincy (bottom.) HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) An apparent act of injustice might turn out to be either an error in judgment or just plain stupidity. So calm down and cool off, and let the explanations roll out.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) It's upsetting when someone you trusted might have failed you. But with new opportunities ahead, you'll soon be too busy to feel even a wee bit sorry for yourself.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A sense of uncertainty could be a good reason to change your position on an important matter. Someone close might try to talk you out of it, but it's your decision to make.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Being too zealous in pursuing your goal could create some resistance. Try to be more mindful of what you ask people to do, and they'll be more likely to do it.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Things change as you go from being ignored to being Lionized once again. This is a good time to reintroduce those previously rejected ideas to a more receptive audience.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Someone new in your life creates both anticipation as well as anxiety. Avoid the potential for misunderstandings by watching what you say and how you say it.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Watch your budget so that you don't overspend now and have less to invest when the time is right later on. Arrange to share your weekend with someone special.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) The temptation to involve yourself in a friend's or family member's personal problems is laudable. But get the facts before you make a firm commitment.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You might be upset by some of your critics. But most of your associates continue to keep the faith in your ability to get the job done, and done well.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You've reached an important point in your ongoing pursuit of your goals. You might now want to consider letting someone you trust join you on your journey.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You've been going through a spate of uncertainty involving people you care for. But it might be time to take a stand on a position you feel sure you can defend.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Treading water keeps you busy, but it won't get you where you need to go. Time to stop making excuses and to start moving ahead toward your goals.

BORN THIS WEEK: You see life as both creative and pragmatic. You would not only be a fine artist, but also a successful one.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD — Jim Carrey had a dark time after his former girlfriend Cathriona White died from an overdose of prescription drugs. Both her mother and her former husband filed wrongful death suits against him, which were dismissed in January. Carrey's "Dumb & Dumber To" (2014) was a hit ($50 million cost/$170 million gross), but the black comedy "The Bad Batch" (2016) totally bombed. His latest film, "Dark Crimes," opened May 18. In it he plays a serious role as Tadek, a detective investigating the murder of a businessman identical to the murder of a character in a recently released novel.

Peter Dinklage finally will realize his dream to star as Herve Villechaize, who played Tattoo on "Fantasy Island" and died in 1993. He's been trying to make the film "My Dinner with Herve" for several years, and now his home network, HBO, which has starred him in "Game of Thrones" since 2011, has given the greenlight. The TV film will co-star Jamie Dornan as a journalist, and Andy Garcia as Ricardo Montalban. Dinklage, father of two children with wife Erica Schmidt (since 1995), has made 48 films, including "The Chronicles of Narnia: Prince Caspian" (2008), "X-Men: Days of Future Past" (2014), "The Boss" (2016), "Three Billboards" (2017) and "Avengers: Infinity War" (2018). He is currently shooting "O Lucky Day," billed as "a leprechaun comedy." I can't wait to hear his Irish accent.

Broadway theatergoers can see a host of film and TV stars in current shows. Jim Parsons ("Big Bang Theory"), Zachery Quinto ("Star Trek's" Mr. Spock) and Andrew Rannells ("Girls") are in the 50th-anniversary revival of "Boys in the Band." Denzel Washington stars in "The Iceman Cometh"; "Roseanne's" Laurie Metcalf in "Three Tall Women"; Chris Evans (Captain America, currently in "Avengers: Infinity War") in "Lobby Hero"; and Nathan Lane ("Modern Family") and Andrew Garfield ("Hack-saw Ridge") in "Angels in America." Diana Rigg ("The Avengers" Mrs. Peel) appears in the revival of "My Fair Lady," and "Dawson Creek's" Joshua Jackson stars in "Children of a Lesser God." If any of these are your favorites, it's time to make that trip to NYC you've put off for too long.

Here are some surprising salaries. Sarah Huckabee Sanders, age 35, only makes $179,700 for putting her spin on the news. Albert Einstein's estate still earns $10 million a year. The CCO of Netflix, Ted Sarandos (53), downloaded $15 million last year. Mark Harmon (66), in addition to acting in "NCIS," got paid for producing the show and made $19 million. Fox's Sean Hannity (56) made $36 million for presenting his exaggerated truths, while performers Chris Rock (53) made $57 million and Bruce Springsteen (68) made $68 million. And what was in your pay envelope last year?

KOVELS' Antiques & Collecting

By Terry and Kim Kovel

Animal Horn Chair

Animal horns have been used to make furniture for centuries. Chairs, chandeliers and storage racks made in the 15th century exist in some museums. But the popularity of antlers and horns for chairs came about in the 19th century. They were made first for hunting lodges and castles for nobility, but almost all of that furniture is now known only through pictures and reports.

In 1851, chairs, chests of drawers and even a sofa made of horns were exhibited at the London World Exhibition. The Tobey furniture Co. of Chicago displayed the first American horn furniture at the 1876 Exposition. The idea lost favor by 1920. Around 1990, the horn chairs were rediscovered by Western collectors.

The most famous horn-furniture maker in the U.S. — and also the most expensive today — is Wenzel Friedrich of San Antonio, which started in 1880. All of the furniture is made from cattle horns, available from the slaughter houses. The horns require little care. Some owners like to oil the parts, but most prefer to just dust and wipe with a damp cloth. Chairs are rarely marked and often misattributed, because the makers often copied each other.

A Victorian upholstered oak armchair with four cow horns as the arms and back sold in Asheville, North Carolina, at a Brunk auction a few years ago for $1,400. Chairs by identified makers sell for much more. The National Texas Longhorn Museum pictures many chairs and describes the unique shapes used by the makers.

Q: I was given a silver bookmark by my grandmother, who was born in Holland in the early 1890s. It was hers as a child. The bookmark was a dagger shape and would slip over the page. It was approximately 2 1/2 to 3 inches long and had a long burgundy tassel. It was stolen from my house. I'm looking for prices for insurance purposes.

A: It's impossible to give an accurate value for your grandmother's silver bookmark without seeing it and weighing it. Do you remember if it had a maker's mark? Was it solid silver or silver plate? Was it heavy? Silver bookmarks sell for $30 to $80, with most of the value determined by the weight of the silver.

CURRENT PRICES

Toggle charm, Confucius, holding staff, hand-carved, boxwood, counterweight, silk cord, c. 1900, 2 x 1/2 inches, $80.
Parian doll, dancing woman, red lace dress, revolves on lead base, pull string, Germany, 9 inches, $235.
Radio, Motorola Bullet, AM, tube, turquoise blue Bakelite, gold bullet-shaped dial, c. 1957, 6 x 12 inches, $850.

TIP: Gold and silver trim on glass or ceramics will eventually wash off if cleaned in a dishwasher. Gold- and silver-trimmed glassware and ceramics should never be put in a microwave. The metallic glaze will cause electric arcing and could start a fire.

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was British writer and humorist Jerome K. Jerome who made the following sage observation: "It is impossible to enjoy idling thoroughly unless one has plenty of work to do. There is no fun in doing nothing when you have nothing to do. Wasting time is merely an occupation then, and a most exhausting one. Idleness, like kisses, to be sweet must be stolen."

* Europe is the only continent without a desert. Even icy Antarctica has deserts — including the world's largest cold desert.

* Modern dietary trends notwithstanding, raw vegetables have not always enjoyed the healthsome reputation they now have. In medieval times, in fact, veggies would always be cooked; raw ones were considered to be bad for the humors.

* Have you ever heard of an "adhocracy"? If you're like many frustrated workers these days, you may be employed by one. An adhocracy is an organization characterized by lack of planning, responding to problems as they emerge rather than anticipating and avoiding them.

* In La Paz, Bolivia, you can find one of the most unusual prisons in the world. At San Pedro Prison, inmates have to purchase their cells. Those who are well off financially can buy private cells with bathrooms, television and kitchens. Those who are less lucky must share tiny rooms.

* You might be surprised to learn that the world's most-translated author, by far, is Agatha Christie. Jules Verne ranks second, followed closely by William Shakespeare. It's interesting to note that three of the top 10 — Enid Blyton, Hans Christian Andersen and Jacob Grimm — wrote works for children.

Thought for the Day: "The trouble with having an open mind, of course, is that people will insist on coming along and trying to put things in it." — Terry Pratchett

by Jo Ann Derson

* When you replace batteries, write the date of installation on the actual battery with a permanent marker.

* "Get a sock bag for your laundry room. In our house, all stray socks go in the bag. Sometimes I will find a lone sock in a dresser drawer or under the bed. Chances are good I'll find its mate in the sock bag." — I.L. in Pennsylvania

* "If you're cooking ribs for a large group, you should use a small cooler to store them. I have two. I cook my ribs in the oven, then finish them on the grill. So, cooked ribs out of the oven go in a small blue cooler, and when they are finished on the grill and I'm ready to grill the next batch, they go in a red one. These are ready to eat. They don't lose much heat this way, and the meat will fall right off the bone." — T.S. in North Carolina

* "I sew a lot and do alterations for many people. I have found that if I use invisible thread for the top thread and change bobbins for different colors that I save a lot of time not threading the needle every time I do a different-colored garment." — J.S. via e-mail

* Dollar-store game hack: "I purchased a set of laundry bags at the dollar store. I use them to keep our building sets intact inside a larger container for Legos. The bags are mesh, and they don't bubble up and waste space like the plastic zipper-close bags." — H.K. in Missouri

* If you keep a couple of crackers in your sugar jar, they will keep the sugar from caking. Plain saltine crackers work best, especially the no-salt kind.

QUINCY FIREFIGHTER Steve Sweet plays "Amazing Grace" on the bagpipes at Sunday's Memorial Day observance at Flags for Veterans Island.

QUINCY POLICE OFFICER Mike Delaney and Sgt. Pat Buonaugurio install an American flag on "Flags for Veterans Island" dedicated to fallen heroes - police officers, firefighters and other first responders who have died in the line of duty. The flag joins 400 American flags on the island that symbolize veterans who were killed in action, are deceased or are still serving in the active military. The Fallen Heroes flag installation was part of Squadron 294, Sons of the American Legion, annual Memorial Day observance at the island Sunday. Quincy firefighters Gerry Murphy and Brian Donelin also placed a memorial wreath near the Fallen Heroes flag.

ROBERT LaFLEUR, past commander of the Morrisette American Legion Post and a member of Squadron 294, Sons of the American Legion, sounds taps at the Squadron's annual Memorial Day observance at Flags for Veterans Island. The American, POW-MIA and Sons of the American Legion flags fly at half staff in memory of the victims killed in a school shooting in Texas last week.

LOCAL VETERANS bow their heads as taps is sounded at Sunday's Memorial Day observance at Flags for Veterans Island, Fort Square, Quincy.

WREATHS WERE PLACED at the World War II Memorial at Mount Wollaston Cemetery during the city's Memorial Day ceremony Monday by (from left) Gold Star Mother Angela Durkin, Quincy Veterans' Council Commander Daniel Tinney and Quincy Graves Registration Officer George Bouchard. The wreaths commemorated Quincy servicemen and women who have died serving their country in the Armed Services. Durkin's daughter, Ciara, an Army National Guard soldier, died Sept. 28, 2007 while serving in Afghanistan.

Paper Shredding At Hazardous Waste Drop-Off Day

The City of Quincy Department of Public Works will host the spring Hazardous Household Waste Drop-off Day on Saturday, June 9, in the rear of the DPW at 55 Sea St.

The expanded drop-off event will begin at 8 a.m. and end at noon.

This year's event will also feature free paper shredding provided by Bay State Shredding.

The City of Quincy provides this free service to assist Quincy residents in the proper disposal of hazardous waste and to protect the environment. Proof of residency is required with a valid MA Driver's License. Residents should arrive early as the line often extends onto Southern Artery.

Some of the eligible items for disposal are paints, thinners, strippers, oils and varnishes, household cleaners, drain and plumbing cleaners, automotive fluids including oil and gasoline, chemical fertilizers, insecticides and herbicides, polishes, ni-cad and lithium batteries, roofing tar and driveway sealants.

Of the utmost importance is all mercury containing products such as thermostats, thermometers, fluorescent tubes, CFL (swirly) light bulbs, button batteries and mercurochrome. Once released into the environment, mercury persists for long periods of time and does not degrade into harmless chemicals. Mercury can damage the nervous system, brain, kidneys, liver and immune system. Developing brains and nervous systems of children are extremely sensitive to the detrimental effects of mercury.

When gathering products for the drop-off event leave materials in original containers and tighten all caps and lids. Sort and pack items separately in sturdy upright boxes. NEVER MIX CHEMICALS. Pack your car the morning of the event and drive directly to the DPW. Do not smoke while handling hazardous material and do not bring children in the car with you.

Items not accepted at the hazardous materials drop-off day are ammunition, asbestos, fireworks, explosives, commercial, industrial and biological waste, prescription medicine and radioactive waste. For the proper disposal of these materials visit the Department of Public Work's home page at www.quincyma.gov scroll down to "How can I get rid of..."

For free, off-the-rim tire pick-up, call the Norfolk County Mosquito Control at 781-762-3681.

Large 20 lb. propane tanks can be dropped off at Curry Hardware on Willard St.

Most fire extinguishers can be brought to Gorham Fire Equipment on Willard St.

Household batteries such as A, B, C, D, AA and AAA can go into your regular trash, DPW officials said.

Quincy College To Reimburse Some Nursing Students

By SCOTT JACKSON

Quincy College will provide up to $4.5 million in reimbursements to nursing students who are unable to find accommodations elsewhere after a state board withdrew approval for the school's nursing program.

Meanwhile, the college continues to explore other opportunities for nursing students, including a possible partnership with another institution that would enable Quincy College to host a satellite nursing program on its main campus.

Mayor Thomas Koch, the school's interim leader, on May 22 requested the college's Board of Governors grant him permission to provide reimbursements to nursing on a case-by-case basis. The school will tap into its $15 million reserve fund to do so.

"I support a program to provide reimbursements to those that don't have a path forward - for those that maybe cannot transfer, those who committed x amount of dollars to the program and were let down," Koch said.

"We have a moral obligation to deal with that."

The reimbursement process, Koch added, would entail "a lot of individual meetings with individual students," and college staff.

Members of the board approved Koch's request in a unanimous vote.

"We need to take care of these folks as quickly as we can," said Paul Barbadoro.

Koch addressed the board one week after its members voted to name him the school's principal executive following the resignation of Peter Tsaffaras, the school's president, on May 15.

The mayor said he reached out to state officials - including Gov. Charlie Baker and Attorney General Maura Healey - in that week to reassure them the college is in a good place. City and college officials met earlier on May 22 with the Department of Higher Education and the Department of Public Health.

Quincy College continues to have discussions with Mount Wachusett College in Gardner. The goal, Koch said, would be for Mount Wachusett to operate a satellite campus at Quincy College for nursing students impacted by the loss of the nursing program at Quincy College.

"It would take care of not everybody, but it would take care of a fair amount of students," the mayor.

Mount Wachusett, Koch added, is very interested in such an arrangement. Through the meetings with state agencies, the mayor said he learned there would be no major regulatory hurdles to entering into such a partnership.

"In our meetings today, it was clear to me that this is a real possibility that may help and assist a number of our kids," Koch said. "I thought that would be a big obstacle on the regulatory side - it's not a big obstacle on the regulatory side because they are a school in good standing."

"I think it's very real and I would not have talked about it publicly, honestly, if it wasn't real because I don't want to put false hopes out there."

The Board of Registration of Nursing on May 9 withdrew approval for the college's associate degree in nursing and practical nursing programs. As part of that decision, students in the associate degree in nursing program who complete their

40 Years With Department

By SCOTT JACKSON
Quincy Fire Chief Joseph Barron will retire July 14, ending a 40-year career with the department after nearly a decade as the city's highest-ranking firefighter.

"This is one of the most difficult decisions — and I think I've heard it said it's the last major decision you're probably going to make — and I feel comfortable with it," Barron said in a recent interview.

"I feel comfortable where I am in my life and I feel comfortable where the department is. We've got an awful lot of talent on the department and I believe it is their time to step up and take the reins."

Barron, age 63, joined the department in June 1978 at the age of 23 after four years in the Coast Guard, where he served in Oregon and Scotland. He was promoted to lieutenant in April 1993, captain in October 1994 and deputy chief in July 2002. Barron was named acting chief on July 15, 2009, and then chief on Nov. 17, 2009.

Barron's father, William, served with the Quincy Fire Department for 40 years as

Police Self-Defense Class June 4-5

Quincy Police Department will hold a Self Defense Class for women Monday and Tuesday, June 4 and June 5, at 6 p.m. at the water fountain at Merymount Park, across from Central Middle School on Hancock Street.

The class is open to females ages 18 and up, 16 if accompanied by a parent and/or guardian.

Attendance at both nights is required because this is a progressive learning program. There is no exam and no one is required to do anything that they do not feel comfortable with.

The first night involves learning strikes, blocks and blows and the second night provides an opportunity to test your skills against an "attacker." Bring a friend.

This will be the final Quincy Police self defense class offered until the fall.

To sign up or get more information, contact Lt. Dan Minton at 617-745-5719 or dminton@quincyma.gov.

QUINCY FIRE CHIEF Joseph Barron will be stepping down as the city's top fire official July 14 capping a 40-year career with the department including the last decade as chief.

Access the equity in your home or free up cash monthly Here's how...

Maybe you'd love to access the equity in your home but you're nervous about taking out an adjustable home equity line with interest rates rising. Or maybe you went with a shorter term and that monthly payment has become a burden. This is something that could work for you — refinance into a new 30-year mortgage. With 30-year rates still so low, lower than fixed-rate equity loans, it's definitely a home equity loan/line alternative. And also a way to free up cash monthly and make your life easier. Would a new 30-year loan be right for you? It's easy to find out. Apply online or call Angela Blanchard at 617-471-0750. Colonial Federal, a bank with ideas.

MAKING THE GRADE

As surprising as it may seem, the pearl industry has not adopted a universal standard grading system that applies to purchasing or selling pearls. While two major grading systems are used by nearly every major pearl retailer in the United States, the AAA-A system and the A-D system (also called the Tahitian system), these systems are sometimes subject to misinterpretation. With all this in mind, consumers should be sure to ask questions that help them evaluate pearl quality. While both grading systems chiefly focus on the luster and surface quality of the pearl when determining grade, there are other factors that contribute to pearl quality, especially the thickness of the "nacre," which often determines how durable the pearl will be.

Although a pearl is the product of an oyster or a mussel's defense system, the sheen of the nacre of pearl jewelry needs its own protection to keep its luster and beauty. That's why we recommend that you're careful not to subject your pearls to household chemicals, hair sprays, and perfumes. Rogers Jewelry can help you choose the right pearls for you. We're proud of the way our designers turn pearl and other beautiful treasures of nature into wearable art, and we invite you to see our selection of one of June's exquisite birthstones at 1402 Hancock St. in Quincy. Quincy Remembers Fallen Service Members, Families On Memorial Day

Brig. Gen.
Francis McGinn
Keynote Speaker

By SCOTT JACKSON

Brig. Gen. Francis McGinn on Monday told Quincy's residents and veterans he was named after his grandfather, who was killed in action nearly 74 years ago during the Battle of Leyte in World War II.

"He left his wife and six children in Dorchester, and of those boys all would go on to serve — two in the Army, one in the Marine Corps, and one in the Navy — during the Korean and Vietnam eras," McGinn said.

"I offer our story as one of the many remembrances occurring here in Quincy and across the nation — not only on this day, but for many every day."

McGinn, who serves in the Massachusetts Army National Guard, was the keynote speaker at Quincy's Memorial Day ceremony. Some 200 residents, veterans and elected officials attended the ceremony, many with American flags in hand, despite the day's dreary weather.

Scores more lined the streets of Quincy Center for the annual Memorial Day parade, which made its way from Quincy Credit Union to Mount Wollaston Cemetery before the 45-minute ceremony. The parade featured local veterans, Quincy's first responders, boy scouts and girl scouts, and marching bands.

During his remarks, McGinn noted more than 37,000 American flags were planted on Boston Common leading up to Memorial Day. One flag was placed for each Massachusetts resident killed in service from the Revolutionary War to the present.

McGinn said those flags also represent the families of the fallen service members, adding that the true meaning of Memorial Day should not be forgotten.

"Each one of those 37,000 flags that were placed last week represented not only a service member, but a family. A family whose life changed on a particular day in a particular country so that we can continue to live in freedom," McGinn said.

"During the month of May, our nation has the opportunity to commemorate and celebrate the American spirit and those men and women in uniform past and present who served and in some cases died for our country during Armed Forces Day and Memorial Day.

degree requirements during the spring 2018 semester will still be able to take the national licensure exam. Students in the practical nursing program who complete their degree requirements prior to Aug. 1 will likewise be eligible to take the national licensure test.

The Board of Registration in Nursing had placed the college's nursing programs on approval with warning status in June 2017 with the school's graduates passing the national licensure exams at the lowest rate of all schools in the state.

Tsaffaras had lodged an immediate appeal of that decision, but Koch has withdrawn that appeal.

"There is no sense in continuing the battle or to create a battle if we're going to lose the war," the mayor said. "The battle is over. We have work to do as a college. The onus is on us."

State regulators, he added, were pleased the college dropped the appeal.

"The beauty is those agencies are going to work with us. They know the history of the college. They know what needs to be done. They want to help us get there," Koch said. "They also know that there is a lot of nurses needed in the marketplace and we have a great institution here that can help deliver that."

With the nursing program shutdown, Koch said layoffs are unavoidable.

"Obviously the loss of the program is going to have an impact on the budget. We will be looking at layoffs and we will be looking at a contraction period until we get this thing back up and running," Koch said.

"I didn't get in the business to do layoffs, but the reality is if there is no program there we can't have everybody there collecting checks when the revenue isn't coming in."

Koch has brought on Maureen Sroczynski as a consultant to the nursing program. She is the president and CEO of Farley Associates, a management consulting firm. From 2004 to 2011, Sroczynski was the chief nursing consultant to the Board of Higher Education and she was previously the vice president for post acute operations and executive director of health ventures at UMass Memorial Medical Center in Worcester.

The mayor said he is also putting together a five-member "roundtable" to advise him on the college.

The roundtable includes Pam Eddinger, the president of Bunker Hill Community College; Carmen Mariano, the former president and later principal at Archbishop Williams High School in Braintree who also held administrative positions at Quincy College and Quincy Public Schools; and two recently appointed members of the Board of Governors, Mary Jo Brogna and Katherine Craven. Koch did not identify the fifth member because he had yet to reach out to that person.

Lisa McBirney, Koch's chief of staff at City Hall, will soon begin working at the college as a liaison to oversee day-to-day operations at the school, Koch said. McBirney was formerly the head of the Edward M. Kennedy Institute for the U.S. Senate.

Koch said he also retained the firm of Powers & Sullivan to undertake a forensic audit of the college's finances, which Koch described as a routine thing to do following a transition in leadership. Robert Cerasoli, an adjunct professor at Quincy College and former state inspector general, will do a performance audit to look into areas such as procurement.

The Board of Governors named Koch the school's principal executive for a period of up to six months. Koch on May 22 said he would be back before the board within a month to discuss the hiring of an acting president.

"Quite frankly, running the city and trying to run the college at once - I don't want to say it's impossible, but it's challenging," he said.

The college, Koch added, needs to get its house in order before beginning the search for a permanent president.

Bay Pointe Waterfront Restaurant Marks 20th Anniversary

Receives City Council Commendation; Plans Fourth Of July Fireworks Display On Town River

By SCOTT JACKSON

A Quincy Point restaurant will celebrate its 20th anniversary with a bang this Fourth of July.

The City Council on May 21 presented a commendation to the Bay Pointe Waterfront Restaurant, formerly known as the Inn at Bay Pointe, in recognition of its 20th anniversary. The owners of the Washington Court restaurant, Kevin and Erik Hynes, announced that night they would mark the occasion with a fireworks display on the Town River on Independence Day.

City Council President Brad Croall presented the commendation to the restaurateurs, recognizing them for their commitment to their customers, employees and community.

"In recognition of 20 years in business in the city of Quincy, we honor your extraordinary commitment to your customers, staff and community over these 20 years," Croall said. "Your location, hospitality, value and quality have made you a top restaurant destination on the South Shore. The investment you have made over the past few years shows your commitment to the city of Quincy and to your customers."

"We wish you continued success. You are a true friend to the city of Quincy."

With the restaurant's 20th anniversary coming this year, Kevin Hynes said they decided it was time to give back to the city this Fourth of July – and every Fourth of July in the future.

"It's our 20-year anniversary. We wanted to celebrate it somehow and going forward each year we want to do the same thing," he said.

BAY POINTE Waterfront Restaurant's owners Kevin and Erik Hynes were recently honored by the City Council in recognition of their restaurant's 20th anniversary. The restaurant is planning a fireworks display July 4 to celebrate the anniversary. "It's time to give back to the community."

Erik Hynes said they decided to do something on Independence Day because Quincy is the City of Presidents and their restaurant does most of its business in the summer. They settled on the fireworks display after meeting with Mayor Thomas Koch.

"We met with the mayor and decided we are going to do a huge fireworks display for the City of Quincy," Erik Hynes said. "It's going to be a great show."

The owners of the restaurant are working with city officials to plan the display. Erik Hynes said the fireworks would be launched from a barge in the middle of the Town River. The display is set to start around 9:15 p.m. that night.

If all goes well this year, next year's fireworks display could be even better, he added.

"There is a lot of buzz down in Quincy Point for that event all ready," Croall said. "We appreciate that."

Councillor Nina Liang, whose family owns a group of restaurants, congratulated Kevin and Erik Hynes for their 20 years of business in the city because she knows how much work it takes to be successful in the industry for so long. She said she looked forward to seeing the fireworks this year and for years to come.

"This is an amazing thing you're giving back to the community," Liang said. "You guys are doing a phenomenal thing. I'm so excited for this to become a tradition."

Councillor Noel DiBona thanked Kevin and Erik Hynes for the improvements they've made to the restaurant in recent years, including an outdoor bar area, which DiBona said makes customers feel like they're in Florida.

"Thank you for everything you guys are doing investing into your restaurant," he said. "We wish all the restaurants would do improvements with their establishments."

Taste Of Quincy Food Fest June 6

At Best Western Adams Inn

The Quincy Chamber will be showcasing the best of the food and drink scene in Quincy and its neighboring communities at its upcoming Taste of Quincy Food Festival at the Best Western Adams Inn on Wednesday, June 6th from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The event includes local restaurants and shops, farmers market, a local brewery, winery and distillery along with live music, all together in a "beer garden-type" setting on the banks of the Neponset River.

Thus far over 20 restaurants, shops and pouring establishments have reserved spots under the tent and gazebo at the outside reception facility at the Adams Inn in North Quincy along the Neponset River. They include Alba's, Fuji's, The Common Market, Montilio's Bakery & Pizza Oven, Punjab Café, The Tavern at Granite Links, The Townshend, Rozafa, KKatie's Burger Bar, 16C, Abby Park, Assembly, Adams Pub, Ginger Betty's, Jenny's House, Craig's Café, Coffee Break Café, The Neighborhood Club, Gennaro's and Confectionately Yours. More are being added as the event gets closer.

Included in the festivities will be neighboring craft brewer Widowmaker, Boston Winery and Boston Harbor Distillery, all selling their locally made beer, wine and spirits. The evening also features live music with Rhode Island's The Little Compton Band, whose members all met in elementary school in Little Compton, RI and play with a sound that's best described as "a little psychedelic country, with a roots-rock vibe."

Tickets are $30 and the event is open to the public.

The Chamber thanks presenting sponsors, Mountain One Bank, Stop & Shop and silver sponsors, Cambridge Packing and Quincy College. For a complete and up-to-date list of participants or to register visit thequincy-chamber.com. To become a sponsor call Tim or Melissa at 617-471-1700.

Classical Music Concert Saturday Benefits QCAP

Quincy High School senior, Brandon Ho, will host an afternoon of classical music to benefit Quincy Community Action Programs (QCAP).

The concert will be held Saturday, June 2 from 3 to 4 p.m. at Christ Church Episcopal Church, 12 Quincy Ave. in Quincy.

Ho, 17, organized the event as part of his final year project through the EKS Music School, owned by Ellyses Kuan. Having started playing piano as a child, he has grown to become an accomplished pianist. He will perform solos and chamber music by Bach, Haydn, Liszt, Chopin, Ac-cola, and Beethoven.

Guest artists include: Smriti Kumar (violin), Rachel O'Connor (violin), and Leanne O'Connor (cello). Following graduation, Ho will begin his freshman year at the University of Connecticut.

"QCAP is honored and humbled to be the beneficiary of proceeds for the event," said Susan Harington, QCAP's director of Development and Marketing. "He is a remarkable person in both talent and charitable spirit. He will no doubt leave an indelible mark on his high school and community."

Tickets may be purchased at the door: Ticket prices are $15 for adults; $5 for students and $30 for a family.

Donations may be made at: <https://www.gofundme.com/qcaprecital>. The event is sponsored by C&C Company and EKS Music School.

QCAP serves more than 21,000 unduplicated individuals every year. Its programs include fuel assistance program, weatherization and energy conservation, housing and homelessness prevention services, food assistance, adult education and workforce development, financial education and job placement, free tax preparation, early education and care, including Head Start & Early Head Start, and child care vouchers.

Dependable Cleaners 'Read To Ride' Underway Summer Reading Program For Children Marking 20th Year

About 50 afterschool program children heard author Anna Staniszewski talk about her writing career and the joy of reading as Dependable Cleaners kicked off its summer reading program May 18, at the South Shore YMCA's Germantown Neighborhood Center.

Dependable Cleaners President Christa Hagearty, the third-generation of her family to run the business, introduced Read to Ride, now in its 20th year. The program encourages children in Greater Boston and the South Shore to read over summer vacation, with the chance of winning a bicycle and other prizes.

From June 4 to Aug. 17, a name will be drawn from entries received at Dependable Cleaners' locations. Eleven lucky winners receive a new bicycle and two others, runner-up prizes each week, courtesy of Dependable, which has partnered with The Bicycle Link in Weymouth, Farina's Bicycle Center in Watertown and The Patriot Ledger. The Ledger will print photos of the weekly winners.

Weekly winners from Quincy will also appear in The Quincy Sun.

Staniszewski is the author of 20 books, including "Power Down, Little Robot," and "Dogosaurus Rex"

AUTHOR ANNA STANISZEWSKI talks to children gathered at the South Shore YMCA's Germantown Neighborhood Center in Quincy May 18th at the kickoff for Dependable Cleaners' 20th annual Read to Ride summer program. June Events, Activities For Children At Crane Library

By JULIE RINES
Thomas Crane
Public Library

The Thomas Crane Public Library announces the following events and activities for children during the month of June.

Saturday Storytime with Big Joe

Join us on Saturday, June 2nd at 10a.m. storytime with Big Joe the Storyteller

With his unique style, Big Joe will take us on a storytelling trip around the world. There will be puppets, there will be props, and best of all, there will be stories kids will not soon forget.

This program is recommended for children ages 2-5 accompanied by an adult.

Mother Goose Explores Science

Come and explore our new early STEM program for children ages 12 - 24 months accompanied by an adult. We'll have fun with science, technology, engineering and math. You will be amazed at what your little scientist (and you) will learn while having fun.

The program will meet on the four Tuesdays in June, the 5th, 12th, 19th and 26th at 10 a.m. in the large meeting room at the main library. No registration is required.

Science Saturday

- Physics of Swordplay

On Saturday, June 9th at 10:30 a.m. join us when Guard Up presents the Physics of Swordplay.

Come learn the Laws of Physics from the gentleman that literally wrote them, Sir Isaac Newton! He has come all the way from the Renaissance era to teach young heroes his discovery of the 3 Laws of Classical Physics through swordsmanship. While Sir Isaac Newton is well regarded as a mathematician, astronomer, theologian, author and physicist, he was also an amateur sword fighter.

Sir Isaac has constructed a fun way to teach his laws using his lesser known skill. It gives him quite the education edge! This promises to be an entertaining event for all. Physics not only explains the laws of the universe, but piratical sword fighting as well. Come learn from the gentleman, Sir Isaac Newton, before he returns to his own time.

This program is for children ages 5 and older accompanied by an adult.

Middle School STEAM - Circuits

Students in Grades 5-8 are invited to join us on Tuesday, June 12th at 2 p.m. to experiment with Snap Circuits and Circuit Maze. Challenge yourself to create a variety of electrical circuits from simple to complex.

Book Clubs for Kids

Do you like to read? Would you like to talk to others about books? Then you will like our book discussion groups. Join us each month to discuss all kinds of books

The Night Owls Book Club for children in grades 3 and 4 meets on June 14th at 7 p.m. to discuss the graphic novel, Primates by Jim Ottaviani.

This is an action-packed account of the three greatest primatologists of the last century: Jane Goodall, Dian Fossey, and Biruté Galdikas. Primates is an accessible, entertaining, and informative look at the field of primatology and at the lives of three of the most remarkable women scientists of the twentieth century.

The Phoenix Book Club for children in grades 5-8 will meet on Tuesday, June 12th at 7 p.m. at the Main Library.

Summer is fast approaching and the summer reading theme for 2018 is Libraries Rock!

Get a head start on summer reading by picking out a book with music as a theme. Jazz, rock, punk, classical, even musical theater! Is it music played by an orchestra or someone all alone? Is the music in the real world or from somewhere fantastical? Pick anything musical, read it, and join us for a discussion (and end-of-school pizza) in June.

Please note: Fourth graders who will be in fifth grade next year are welcome to join us in June to meet the group. Please call the main library children's room to let us know you'll be coming.

Preschool Discovery @ Wollaston

Drop by the Wollaston Library with your preschooler any time between 10 and 11: a.m. on Thursday, June 14th to do some fun simple science together. Activities, experiments and instructions will be provided for science you can do with your child.

Take a look at things that go! This month we'll be investigating Vehicles. We'll be making parachutes, helicopters and airplanes as well as looking at wheels that spin and boats that float - and sink!

Music and Movement with Rubi

On Saturday June 16th at 10 and 10:30 a.m. sing and dance with Rubi Lichauco! Rubi brings her popular preschool program to Quincy so put on your favorite dancing shoes and join us for this lively mix of music and movement for children ages 0-4 accompanied by an adult.

This program is presented as 2 half hour sessions to ensure that there is space for everyone to dance and move around.

Dungeons and Dragons Encounters

New and experienced players ages 10 to 15 are invited to join us on Tuesday, June 19th at 7 p.m. in the Main Library Children's Room for this introduction to D&D 5th edition game play. Take on the role of a fantasy hero in this monthly Dungeons and Dragons game.

We will help you customize an Adventurer's League D&D character you can use both in our monthly adventures and at other D&D Organized Play. If this is your first time joining the group please arrive early, about 6:45 p.m., to create your character so we'll be ready to play when everyone else arrives.

Your group of adventurers will start out at level one and take on the module from the 5th Edition D&D Starter Set. Unravel the mysteries of the Lost Mine of Phandelver and what monsters and treasures lie within!

Saturday Storytime @ North Quincy

Join children's librarian Cathy deVeer and Quinn Z. Bear at the North Quincy Branch, on Saturday, June 23rd at 10 a.m. for summer stories, songs and more.

This program is for children ages 2-5 accompanied by an adult No registration required.

Preschool Discovery @ North Quincy

Drop by the North Quincy Library with your preschooler any time between 11 a.m. and noon on Saturday, June 23rd to do some fun simple science together. Activities, experiments and instructions will be provided for science you can do with your child.

Take a look at things that go! This month we'll be investigating Vehicles. We'll be making parachutes, helicopters and airplanes as well as looking at wheels that spin and boats that float - and sink!

What's Going On In Your Backyard

Children ages 6-9 are invited join us at 10:30 a.m. on Thursday, June 28th to learn about two endangered animals that live in our area, the New England Cottontailed Rabbit and the Hawksbill Turtle. We will discuss the animal's habits and habitat and what has led to their endangered status.

Our program will finish up with some coloring sheets and a craft.

Childrens Movie Matinee @ Adams Shore - Captain Underpants

Join us at the Adams Shore Branch on Thursday, June 28th at 2 p.m. for a showing of Captain Underpants the first epic movie.

George and Harold are fourth-grade BFFs who love dreaming up funny pranks. One day, they accidentally hypnotize their principal into believing he's a dimwitted superhero.

But when the new schoolteacher turns out to be a disgraced scientist bent on ridding the world of laughter, George, Harold, and the dimwitted superhero must band together to stop his evil agenda!

Rated PG Runtime 90 min.

All programs sponsored and supported by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

WHAT'S COOKING

with
Marie & Susie

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO and SUSIE FALCO

Chicken Pot Pie With A Different Topping

By MARIE

Today's recipe was actually published years ago and it was a recipe from my daughter, Nancy.

When Nancy made this pie, instead of a pastry crust she used biscuits. She also made her pie with leftover roasted chicken, but if you don't have leftover chicken or want to make the pie from scratch use 3 cups of cooked chicken breast or boneless chicken thighs or a mixture of both.

My niece, Anita, who is from Arizona and who gets The Quincy Sun, used this recipe recently and because she had leftover steamed browned rice she used that for the topping instead of a biscuit crust.

RECIPE

1 medium onion, chopped

1/2 cup flour

1 teaspoon of salt

Pepper to taste

1 bag of frozen carrots and peas

3 cups of chicken stock

3 cups of cooked, cubed chicken

3 tablespoons of butter

2 cups or so of steamed brown rice (leftover rice or cook your own according to directions)

In a skillet, add butter or oil and sauté the onion until tender.

Blend the flour, salt and chicken stock and cook, stirring until thick and bubbly.

Add the cooked chicken and vegetables and stir until ingredients are well blended.

Place in a casserole dish and top with the rice.

Bake uncovered in a 350 oven for 20 to 30 minutes until top is brown.

Edamame Hummus

By SUSIE

This is a delicious recipe made with edamame. Edamame is versatile and very mild tasting. It is packed with protein and fiber as well.

Make sure you purchase the 12 oz frozen bag of the organic variety. This is a great appetizer to bring to a spring/summer shindig!

INGREDIENTS

1 12 oz bag of edamame, cooked and cooled according to package directions.

1/4 cup chopped onion

1 garlic clove minced

1/2 cup parsley chopped

1 tablespoon sweet white miso (available everywhere now, in refrigerated section of supermarket next to tofu)

1 tsp red chili paste

1/4 cup lemon juice

1 tsp sea salt

1/4 tsp pepper

5 tablespoons olive oil

Simply mix all in a high speed blender, vitamix, or ninja until creamy and smooth. That's it! Serve with crackers, chips, or vegetables.

Plein Air Painting June 16 At Dorothy Quincy Homestead

Plein Air Painting, drawing or photography - will take place at the Dorothy Quincy Homestead, 34 Butler Rd., Quincy, on Saturday, June 16, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Join fellow artists in capturing the charming herb and flower gardens, a babbling brook and a seventeenth-century historic home and Carriage House set in a green oasis. The Dorothy Quincy Homestead is the ideal setting, located on the corner of Hancock Street and Butler Road.

Artists of all ages can sketch, photograph or paint. The home itself has an intriguing history, so join a tour and learn about some amazing Quincy women and men.

The program is free and open to the public, bring your own materials and equipment.

Yvonne Lamothe, a Quincy artist, will be on site to help guide and inspire if necessary.

Slow Down - Pay Attention - Buckle Up!

A Message From Ruth Jones, Director Of Nursing, Quincy Health Department

By RUTH JONES
BSN, RN, BC, CP-FS

Motor vehicle crashes are a leading cause of death among those aged 1-54 in the U.S.

In 2009 alone, crashes killed over 33,000 people and injured another 2.2 million, more than 70 percent of these involved passenger vehicles and trucks. The greatest price we pay for car crashes is in the loss of human lives; however, society also bears the burden of the multitude of costs associated with motor vehicle accidents.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, U.S. motor vehicle crashes in 2010 cost almost $1 trillion in loss of productivity and loss of life. Additionally, more than half of the people killed in car crashes were not restrained at the time of the crash.

Most crash-related deaths in the United States occur to passenger vehicle occupants, that being drivers and passengers. By wearing seat belts and properly buckling children into age and size appropriate car seats and booster seats, people can decrease the risk of serious injury and death in a crash by half. Although the majority of drivers in the United States follow these safety measures on every excursion, there are still millions who don't comply.

Many excuses such as seatbelts are uncomfortable, the seatbelt may trap me in a car, you don't need seatbelts in the back seat, or I am a skilled driver and can avoid a crash, result in countless injuries and fatalities every day. If you are one of those doubting the use of seatbelts... here are some frightening facts:

• A total of 22,441 passenger vehicle occupants died in motor vehicle traffic crashes in 2015.

• More than half (range: 52 percent - 59 percent) of teens (13-19 years) and adults aged 20-44 years who died in crashes in 2015 were unrestrained at the time of the crash.

• More than 2.5 million drivers and passengers were treated in emergency departments as the result of being injured in motor vehicle traffic crashes in 2015.

• Motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for U.S. teens. Six teens ages 16 to 19 die every day from motor vehicle injuries. Per mile driven, teen drivers ages 16 to 19 are nearly three times more likely than drivers aged 20 and older to be in a fatal crash.

• In 2015, more than 6,800 older adults were killed and more than 260,000 were treated in emergency departments for motor vehicle crash injuries.

• According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) in 2016, 10,111 lives were lost due to speed-related accidents, up 4.0 percent from 9,723 in 2015. NHTSA says that speed-related crashes cost Americans $40.4 billion each year.

• Every day, 29 people in the United States die in motor vehicle crashes that involve an alcohol-impaired driver. This is one death every 50 minutes.

• Each day in the United States, approximately 9 people are killed and more than 1,000 injured in crashes that are reported to involve a distracted driver. Distracted driving is driving while doing another activity that takes your attention away from driving. Sending a text message, talking on a cell phone, using a navigation system, and eating while driving are a few examples of distracted driving.

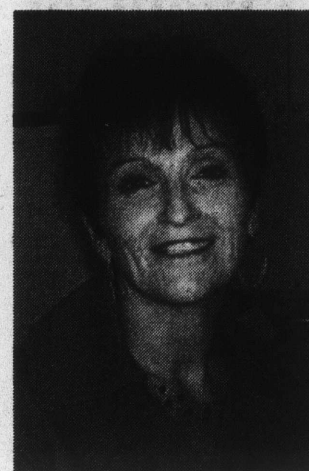

• Texting while driving is especially dangerous. Sending or reading a text message takes your eyes off the road for about 5 seconds, long enough to cover a football field while driving at 55 mph

Wearing a seat belt is the most effective way to prevent death and serious injury in a crash. In Massachusetts, seat belt laws are secondary. Secondary enforcement laws only allow police officers to issue tickets for seat belt violations if drivers have been pulled over for some other offense. They cover drivers, as well as passengers age 13 and older in all seats. Child restraint laws vary by state.

• Most drivers and passengers killed in crashes are unrestrained. 53 percent of drivers and passengers killed in car crashes in 2009 were not wearing restraints.

• Seat belts dramatically reduce risk of death and serious injury. Among drivers and front-seat passengers, seat belts reduce the risk of death by 45 percent, and cut the risk of serious injury by 50 percent.

RUTH JONES

• Seat belts prevent drivers and passengers from being ejected during a crash. People not wearing a seat belt are 30 times more likely to be ejected from a vehicle during a crash. More than 3 out of 4 people who are ejected during a fatal crash die from their injuries.

Life is precious and can change or be lost in seconds, please... SLOW DOWN... PAY ATTENTION... BUCKLE-UP!

Lions Club To Honor Bertman Family At Evening For Sight

The Quincy Lions Club will host its annual Evening for Sight event on June 12, at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

Funds raised by this event will be used to support the club's charitable outreach initiatives, including the KidSight Program, vision screening and its North Quincy and Quincy High School scholarship program.

"Funds raised at the Evening for Sight will allow Lions to meet pressing needs in our community," said Evening for Sight Committee Chairperson David Sawyer of the Quincy Lions Club. "Lions members thank everyone who contributes to this important work. You are truly helping Lions make a difference in our community."

This year, the Francis X McCauley Community Service Award will be presented to Mark, Isobel and Jeff Bertman in recognition of their many years of outstanding commitment to the Quincy community. Owners of Rogers Jewelry since 1960, Mark and Isobel have tirelessly supported Quincy through their volunteerism and philanthropic endeavors.

Stop & Shop will also be recognized with the Community Champion Award in recognition of their volunteerism and support of the Quincy Lions Club. Entertainment will be provided by Lil Miss Sophia Hurley.

Sponsor for this year's event include Eastern Bank, Rural Lodge of Masons A. F. & A.M., The Honorable Mayor Thomas P. Koch, Equitable Bank, NorthEast Community Bank, Hamel Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home, Lydon Chapel and Keohane Funeral Home.

Ticket and sponsorship information can be found on the club's website www.quincylionsclub.com

Quincy Credit Union Accents Financial Literacy At 'Credit For Life' Fairs

Social Security Matters Ask Rusty – Spousal And Survivor Benefits

As part of a continued effort to support financial literacy within the local community, Quincy Credit Union along with other business partners, participated and served on the planning committee for "Credit for Life" Fairs in Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth. The "Credit for Life" Fair is a nationally-recognized program designed to prepare high school students for financial independence in the real world. Participants of these interactive half-day fairs included high school seniors from Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth who experienced various adult financial scenarios.

Quincy Credit Union sponsored multiple tables at all three fairs, including Reality Check, Credit and Lending, and Credit Counseling. At the Reality Check table, students rolled the dice to see what their financial outcome would be in a mock "Game of Life" which was filled with unplanned expenses or payouts like a flat tire or winning lottery ticket.

At QCU's Credit and Lending table, students made vehicle purchase decisions based on their income and credit score. Each student selected from multiple new and used vehicle options. There was a life lesson for some students who were in the predicament of being denied financing due to poor spending choices or a low credit score.

Most students discovered the costs of many standard monthly expenses, especially apartment rentals and transportation associated costs, were much higher than anticipated. Unlike in real life, when participants overspent or underbudgeted during the fair, they were educated on how to make the proper spending adjustments to fix their credit and budget with no lasting impact. Students expressed gratitude to the local business experts for their time and real-world financial knowledge.

Quincy Credit Union provides financial services to over 33,500 Members operating from two locations; 100 Quincy Ave., Quincy and 519 Columbian St., Weymouth. Membership is available to those who live or work in Norfolk, Plymouth Counties and the communities of Dorchester.

Thanks For Quincycles, Bike Support

I would like to thank the Quincy Police Department's Community Police Unit for their guidance and assistance on Saturday, May 12th with Quincy's 4th Annual Ride the Spine event. Forty bicycle riders braved a rainy weather forecast to join Quincycles in a ride along Hancock and Washington Streets, the backbone of Quincy's Bicycle Network.

This ride successfully kicked off Bay State Bike Week 2018 and celebrated Quincy's bike-ability thanks in no small part to the involvement of Quincy's finest bike police officers. They kept our group together and created a comfortable environment to ride in.

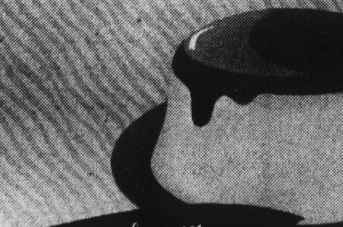

I would also like to thank Mayor Koch for including funding for the implementation of Quincy's Bike Network in the FY2019 Budget. With his administration's support, Quincy can look forward to the growth of our city's on-road bike network and safer streets for all.

AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor
Association Of Mature American Citizens

Dear Rusty: I worked in my career, but I now get Social Security disability. My husband retired in 2015 at age 66 and took his Social Security at that time. When he is 70 can I get spousal benefits from his Social Security or is that not allowed? And if I can't get them when he turns 70, can I get them if he dies before me? I am 5 years younger than my husband, but my health is up and down, so if I die before him can he get spousal benefits from my Social Security?
Signed: Kentucky Woman

Dear Kentucky Woman: Since your husband is already receiving his Social Security retirement benefits, you are eligible to collect spousal benefits at any time after you reach age 62, even though you are collecting Social Security Disability benefits (you don't have to wait until he's 70); however, if you start those spousal benefits before you reach your full retirement age (FRA) they will be reduced. How much of a reduction depends upon how soon before your full retirement age that you claim your spousal benefit. If you claim at or after your full retirement age (66+2 months) your spousal benefit would be 50% of your husband's full retirement age benefit; but if you start earlier than your FRA it would be less. If you file for spousal benefits at age 63, you would get 37.5% of your husband's FRA benefit; instead of 50%.

Please note too that your Social Security Disability Insurance benefits will automatically convert to regular Social Security benefits when you reach your full retirement age but will continue at the same amount you were receiving on disability (including the spousal portion). If your husband predeceases you, and you have already reached your full retirement age, you will get 100% of whatever Social Security benefit he was receiving, instead of any disability benefit or spousal benefit you may be receiving. If he passes and you claim survivor's benefits before you reach your full retirement age, those benefits will be reduced to something less than 100% of the benefit he was receiving. How much of a reduction depends upon how many months before your FRA that you start the survivor's benefit. If you were to predecease your husband, he would get survivor's benefits from you only if that benefit is higher than the amount he is already receiving from his own work record.

St. Joseph's Church Rosary Pathway Dedicated

Local Boy Scout Joseph Desmond, Jr.
Spruces Up Area For Eagle Scout Project

By SCOTT JACKSON

A new rosary pathway on the grounds of St. Joseph's Church in Quincy Point was recently dedicated, after a local boy scout spruced up a formerly overgrown garden area for his Eagle Scout project.

Joseph Desmond Jr., a member of Troop 6 out of Houghs Neck, is a parishioner at St. Joseph's Church. He oversaw the effort to create the new rosary pathway, which also includes a statue of St. Mary and flowers.

"There was this area in our church. It was overgrown with two statues there. It was really out of shape. It was a mess, so we re-did the area," Desmond said in a recent interview. "We took out all those overgrown plants. We moved one of the statues... and we put in a rosary pathway. That's pretty much it."

A rosary pathway like the one at St. Joseph's allows individuals to pray the rosary as they walk along it.

"It's just like a walkway with little pebbles, little gravel, and it's got stones — one stone for each bead of the rosary. So what you do is you walk along it and you pray the rosary as you walk around the path," Desmond said.

The rosary pathway was dedicated May 6 after the 10:30 a.m. Mass.

Planning for the project began last July when Desmond and his father, Joseph, began taking measurements of the roughly 15-foot by 43-foot garden and putting together blueprints for the area.

To help support the project, Desmond organized a fundraiser at the church, collecting $1,400 in donations over the course of a weekend.

"We had a fundraiser too to get the extra materials that we would need," he said. "What we did for that, we got these chocolate bars from Hilliard's. We went to the church one weekend — three Masses. During each Mass, during the collection, I would go up, give a little speech saying I would be outside selling candy bars for this project. And we made about $1,400, so that was very successful."

Desmond also received assistance from Quincy companies and community members for his project. An employee at TLC Landscaping was able to provide granite used in the walkway. Bay State Equipment donated the use of a cut-off saw to cut the granite into one-foot by one-foot squares. Mike Naughton, a landscape architect with M.J. Nicholls, helped design the new space and provided stone dust and pea gravel. Joe Scribi, a local landscaper, assisted with the project as well.

The garden itself was completed in late September and early October. Desmond said two dozen people, including eleven scouts, assisted with the project.

With his project complete, Desmond must now go before a review board to determine whether he will receive the Eagle Scout award, scouting's highest honor. That process is expected to take a few months to complete.

Desmond, a junior at Quincy High School, joined Cub Scouts in first grade and

Fashion Show Benefits Maria Droste Agency

The Maria Droste Counseling Agency recently hosted its annual Spring Fashion Show - Pretty In Pink - in Randolph.

Each year this event is held to benefit the efforts of the Maria Droste Counseling Services. The agency, founded in Quincy in 1992, is located at 1354 Hancock St.

Several local celebrities and community leaders - both male and female - took to the runway showcasing spring selections for Caryn's Corner, a Quincy boutique. The male side of the fashion show featured a collection from Hajjar's apparel for men, also of Quincy. Hair styles were under the direction of Susan Canavan from Aura, a Quincy salon. Make up was by Nicole Sapienza.

Maria Droste staff provides services to all in need of a brighter future by offering affordable and timely mental health and holistic services that nurture body, mind and spirit. With this in mind, since the agency's beginning, the full-time staff and the many volunteers - all licensed professional social workers - have provided critical support to individuals, couples and family groups with clients ranging in age from 7 to 70. A negotiated sliding fee scale, based on financial ability to pay, makes it possible to offer support to all people in need of help in several South Shore communities.

The ability to offer this program relies on the work of the committee organizing this special fashion show, the event sponsors, volunteer models and the guests who attend the evening. This is the agency's major fundraising effort and the success of the evening makes the most vital services the agency delivers available to those in need of their compassionate care.

Check the agency's website for more information about the agency and their services at www.mariadrostecounseling.com.

Saint Yves School Fundraiser Great Fun For An Amazing Cause

Quincy Community Supports New School In Haiti

By MARIE-DENISE
FABIEN

The Saint Yves School fundraiser took place on May 6. The event was a great success thanks to the huge number of generous residents and business owners from Quincy who participated.

They donated, money, gift certificates, baskets, and food to help raise money for St. Yves School. We thank all who filled the hall of the Knights of Columbus like an egg in order to celebrate the feast of St. Yves, patron Saint of Lawyers and to help rebuild the school and help the students. The school was destroyed during the terrible earthquake which ravaged Haiti on Jan. 10, 2012.

The event began with a powerful blessing by pastor Karen Palmatier of the Covenant Church, a great benefactor of St. Yves School. Pastor Karen blessed the 60 wonderful baskets and gift certificates that surrounded the K of C. hall. She also prayed for the people of St. Yves School in Haiti and blessed the people of Quincy who were in the hall.

The attendees ranged from a few months old Jemallice Rene and 1-year old, baby Laguerre to over 90 years young, Mr. Gene Rau. The Holy Spirit was surely present at the K of C, bonding the attendees for a common cause. They were banking in heaven while having great fun.

The participants were originally from Asia, Africa, Latin America, Europe, America and the Caribbean. They came singles, married couples, widows, parents with their children, sisters, friends and families. All heads bowed, eyes closed they were gathered together to make a difference in the lives of the students of Saint Yves School in Haiti.

After the blessing, the attendees savored tasty Italian American food, courtesy of Gennaro Eatery and delicious Haitian food. Simultaneously they enjoyed magnificent Waltz dances from Vienna performed by the elegant young girls of Stars Dance School in Quincy. The lovely teenagers dressed beautifully in yellow offered an outstanding show which kept the attendees breathless.

The highlight of the soiree was the musical show performed by the Atlantic Youth Orchestra. It was a show unlike any other. Mrs. Susan Bill, who directed the Atlantic Orchestra, played with the entire group the Star Spangled Banner and the national anthem of Haiti, La Dessalinienne. They also played lovely Irish tunes in honor of several longtime couples like Mr. Charlie Donovan and wife Edie who were celebrating a record 62 years marriage.

Meanwhile, there were tasty pieces of cake from Gennaro Eatery served along with dates from the Middle East. Mr. Charlie and Mrs. Edie Donovan received a standing ovation for their 62 years of marriage.

There were also, among the attendees, some longtime couples such as Mr. John and Mrs. Lucy Fair, celebrating 61 years of marriage; Mr. and Mrs. Larry and Leah Shea celebrating 46 years of marriage as well as Mr. and Mrs. Sue and Peter Graceffa over 30 years of marriage; and Mr. John and Ann Morash with over 20 years.

Later on, the distinguished General Consul of Haiti in Boston, Mrs. Stephanie Jean rose up to give an eloquent speech.

In her statement, the young bright and very beautiful General Consul of Haiti thanked the people of Quincy for their generosity toward Haiti especially for the children of St. Yves School Haiti. Consul Jean emphasized the importance of education in the life of Haitian children, and the need to rebuild schools. She was followed by Marie Denise, the daughter founder of St. Yves Haiti, the late attorney Joseph Fabien. Marie Denise thanked the people of Quincy in an emotional address which brought tears to the eyes of many. She reminded the assistance of the 316,000 Haitians who perished in the terrible earthquake on Jan. 10, 2012. She also reminded them about the 8,000 destroyed schools.

The attendees were invited to observe a minute of silence in memory of the late victims. They were especially the janitor, his children and the students and adults who perished when the school collapsed during the disaster.

"We would not be present here today if the money given to Haiti at the time of the earthquake was given to the Haitian victims," Marie Denise noted. She also informed the attendees in a funny tune of the two significant news that she had for them.

The first great news was that the St. Yves Foundation had all the money needed to rebuild the school. The second news was not so good: all the needed money was in their pocket books, purses, and in their bank account and they needed to deliver it. They could do so either during the event or by making a pledge to donate at the account at citizen Bank account #1321934820.

The rebuilding of St. Yves School is moving forward. Today, the school welcomes 250 students in two sessions spread out in 12 rooms under a metal roof. Approximately 60 students from grades 1 to 3 attend the school free of charge, thanks to the people of Quincy.

Our goal is to rebuild a modern school for 500 students. All proceeds are used 99 percent for the school. There is no administrative cost, except for a $15 transfer fee paid to Western Union for every $1,000 dollar transferred.

The soiree was concluded at the best moment: the raffle of gifts baskets and gift certificates. Mostly everyone got either a door prize or a gift basket. Everyone left the Knights of Columbus Hall with full bellies, hands, and a wide smile displayed on their faces.

The Saint Yves School event was a great fun time for huge cause. Quincy businesses, parents and children are pioneering a great wave of love. They are banking in heaven: for love is action. Love needs to be spread not just parent-to-children, husband-to-wife, brother-to-sister, coworker-to-coworker, or friend-to-friend. Love must be spread adult-to-adult, child-to-child, adult-to-child, beyond the boundaries of color, languages, nationalities and taste. We must love our neighboring countrymen.

The parents and adults who came to this soiree for St. Yves School in Haiti are teaching the children to do so. Father Finn of the Irish Pastoral Center made a surprise visit and blessed all those attendees as they left the K of C happy with their hands full of baskets and gifts certificates.

Our thanks to all the people who made this event a great success. Our thanks to Mrs. Tita Fabien, widow of late attorney Joseph Fabien, co-founder of the school. Mrs. Fabien is a passionate supporter of the children of St. Yves School. When she is in Haiti, she goes daily to greet the children and to eat with them. She made the trip from Haiti with gifts from the children to the people of Quincy.

Our greatest thanks to the parents who came with their children to dance or play an instrument or help around the hall. Our thanks especially the children of the North Quincy High School Inter-Arc who diligently with Mrs. Gail MacDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Ann Morash, Miss Jocelyn Lym, and Mrs. Juanita Rapuci did fantastic work at the door to get people to buy raffles tickets and 50-50 tickets at the event. Thanks to Mr. Peter Lyn for the most beautiful pictures and to Mrs. Lyn and Stars Dancers Amand, Angela, Amy and Vicky. Thanks to the friends of Grace L'Or, Ryan, Sandro, Max, and Aidan Mc Gee. Thanks to all the attorneys who came or who made donations especially Attorney Burke, Attorney Dolbec, Attorney Jimmy Gavigan, Attorney Collins. Thanks to all businesses Donovan Brothers Car Care Center, Meineke Southern Artery, Dr. and Mrs Jeannings, Father Finn Irish Immigration Center, Pastor Karen Palmatier, Roche Brothers, Comeback Physical Therapy, Amy Mary Dyer, Mrs. Judy Mac Gann, Mr. Brian Leonard, Mrs. Joella, Quincy Inter Ac Club students, Roxie's Supermarket, Mr. Ed, Star Dancers, Mr. and Mrs. Linn. All the people who sold tickets, Mrs. Christine Leblanc, Miss Cindy Mullen, Mr. Steve Buckley, Mrs. Elsie Laguerre, Mrs. Philippe, Mrs. Mary Brady, Mr. Kenel Nelson, Mr. Peter Olson, Mrs. Joella Marie. Thanks to the people at the school in Haiti - the principal, Mr. Jaques Robert Jean Louis, Prof. Bertrand, Guito Watson the janitor, Louinor.

The St. Yves School foundation is a 501 3c tax ductile donation can be made at P.O. Box 60, Wollaston, MA 02170 or at Citizen Bank account # 1321934820.

To all who helped or donated thank you. You are banking in heaven. Those who have not yet do not miss the boat. There is still time to do so.

We pray that God open the gates of heaven and shower 100 folds back on you on, St. Yves School and on Quincy. With God's help and your help we are rebuilding.

Thanks and blessings, Marie-Denise.

O'Donnell: Homeowners Need To File Mortgage Discharges

Norfolk County Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell reminds homeowners about the importance of filing a mortgage discharge after their mortgage has been paid off.

"When a mortgage has been paid off, a mortgage discharge document needs to be recorded with the Registry of Deeds to clear a homeowner's property title relative to that loan," O'Donnell said. A discharge is a document (typically one-two pages) issued by the lender, usually with a title such as "Discharge of Mortgage" or "Satisfaction of Mortgage."

"In some cases," O'Donnell said, "discharges are filed directly by banks or settlement closing attorneys with the Registry as part of a property sale or as a result of a refinancing transaction. In other instances, the mortgage discharge is sent to the property owner who then becomes responsible for making sure the document is recorded.

"Whether or not a discharge is recorded by the lending institution or the individual property owner, it is important that the property owner makes sure all necessary documents have been recorded at the Registry of Deeds.

"One way for a homeowner to check on their title," noted O'Donnell, "is by accessing the Registry's online records at www.norfolkdeeds.org and verifying if all mortgages associated with the property have been discharged. Please remember not having a mortgage discharged will result in a title issue and thereby impact the process of selling one's home."

O'Donnell further noted that there have been cases where no discharge has been recorded against a long paid off mortgage.

"Unfortunately, some of the lending institutions that provided funds for these mortgages are no longer in existence. In other cases, financial entities have merged with another lending institution," he said.

If a property owner needs to retrieve an original discharge of a mortgage and is unclear which lending institution is now responsible for providing the document, an option is to contact the Massachusetts Division of Banks at 1-800-495-2265 x-61501. This government agency can assist the consumer in tracking down contact information for the lending institution that is responsible for the mortgage.

When recording a discharge, the original document is required. The Registry of Deeds does not accept photo copies or faxed copies of documents. The filing fee, set by state statute, is $76.

"After paying off all the mortgages on their property, homeowners want peace of mind that they have clear title to their property, especially if they are contemplating selling it," O'Donnell said. "Being diligent and aware of what is required will go a long way in giving the homeowner assurances that they have clear title to their property. I strongly urge homeowners to make sure their mortgage discharge has been filed with the Registry of Deeds once their mortgage has been paid off.

"There is no reason to wait."

The Norfolk County Registry of Deeds is staffed with customer service representatives who can be reached Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 781-461-6101. Representatives have been trained in researching documents and are well versed on the subject of mortgage discharges and what, if necessary, needs to be done to clear title to a property.

The Norfolk County Registry of Deeds is located at 649 High St. in Dedham.

The Registry is a resource for homeowners, title examiners, mortgage lenders, municipalities and others with a need for secure, accurate, accessible land record information. All land record research information can be found on the Registry's website www.norfolkdeeds.org.

Residents in need of assistance can contact the Registry of Deeds Customer Service Center by calling (781) 461-6101, or email registerodonnell@norfolkdeeds.org.

well, including 25 as a deputy chief. Barron recalled following his father and fellow firefighters around the city and spending time inside firehouses growing up, which sparked an interest in joining the department.

"My dad - my entire memory - he was a deputy chief," the fire chief said.

"I can tell you sitting in Saint Ann's School, when the fire engines went by everybody stopped talking and blessed themselves. There was a great deal of reverence for the job of a firefighter.

"Seeing these guys in action as I followed my father and followed them around the city was very exciting. When you respond to the fire it's intense, it's dangerous, and it's very rewarding.

"And then when they're not busy, I'd go by the firehouse as well, largely with my dad or sneaking up to the local firehouse, and there is just a great deal of camaraderie whether it's putting together children's toys for Christmas and everybody helps out putting that bicycle together, or planning a meal, or in those days there was only one television, so whether you were into that sport or not you all watched the same game.

"It was an extended family and it was always part of my family."

When he joined the department, Barron said he never anticipated becoming chief one day.

"I only ever wanted to be a firefighter. I only ever wanted to be on the back step," he said. "Those opportunities came up and I took the test. As I grew into the career, I did want the other positions."

Barron's older son, Joseph Jr., is a lieutenant at the Wollaston firehouse and his younger son, Timothy, is a rising senior at Merrimack College.

"I'm very proud of both of my sons and now I have two granddaughters, Emily and Olivia, at 6 and 3. They're wonderful as well,"

Barron said. "I have an adorable daughter-in-law, my son's wife, Kirsten."

Barron's wife, Patricia, worked in the court system for more than 30 years before her own retirement last year.

"She retired 32 years in the court system," Barron said. "She managed the criminal office at the district court in Plymouth. She retired last July and I figured I'd give her the house to herself for the year."

In retirement, Barron says he plans to spend time with his family, do some traveling, focus on his own health, and do some volunteer work.

"My granddaughters are at a wonderful age; they still like to see us at 3 and 6," he said. "And we do hope to travel. When you're running around with a job like this it's difficult to focus on your own health and you start to let things go."

"I've worked since I was 12 years old, so I'm not really looking for a second career, but I expect to do some volunteering, but I'm not exactly sure where yet," Barron added.

The fire chief had originally said he would retire sometime in 2017 but he opted to stay on until this July because of positive things going on in the department, including a class of 26 new firefighters, Rescue 1 being in service full-time, and the return of incident command technicians, senior firefighters who can assist deputy chiefs at the scene of a fire.

"There are so many good things going on with the department: Rescue 1 in service, we trained 26 firefighters, put a drill school together, and I just wanted to see that through. There were so many positive things coming up in a year," Barron replied when asked why decided wait to retire until July.

"We were able to get what we call incident command technicians with the deputy chiefs, which are vital when you pull up to a large incident. First-alarm assignment, we put 20 people to work. If that deputy chief strikes a second alarm, he's going to get another nine. So he's putting roughly 30 people to work and he's supervising them all himself with perhaps victims and excited residents in one ear. We have EMS responding and police responding and they're looking for direction. So that deputy chief is supervising upwards of 50 people by himself. It's very important to get that incident command technician riding with the deputy chief to allow him to more effectively get his arms around the incident.

"We haven't had that position full time in 15 years at least - probably longer - budget cuts had taken them away. We got a grant to put those positions back in for two years. The benefit to safety and performance at incidents has been recognized throughout the department and I hope in the future that position is kept in place."

Barron thanked his fellow firefighters and officers in the department. He said he is grateful for the support the department has received from Mayor Thomas Koch and other city officials, Quincy's business community and residents.

"Obviously I would thank every firefighter for their support - every firefighter and officer. The mayor and City Hall and every other department head has been outstanding and works so well together," Barron said. "And then the business owners that have been extremely supportive of the Fire Department, particularly Dan Quirk, who has provided training facilities and mechanics facilities to us for many, many years through no charge at all.

"Then I would just thank all the residents for their nice comments and letters and baked goods they've brought the guys. They need to bring some low-calorie treats though."

Barron said he would most miss being able to help out members of the public in their time of need.

"When things are going really bad and oftentimes someone doesn't know who to call, often it's the Fire Department. From the moment we arrive on the scene we make sure things get better," Barron said.

"To have that personal connection to people when they're having their most difficult days, and really it's just to see how well our guys perform when they're in that position and how they take everyone's personal tragedy as if it was their own. These guys have big hearts and they're on display every day they respond."

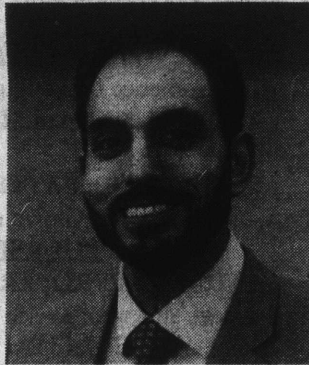

"Kind of like when I was sitting at grammar school at Saint Ann's and everybody stopped and blessed themselves, when I'm retired and I see the engines go by, they might not see me do it, but I'll pause and I'll wish that those guys return safely," he added.

Souheil Adra, MD, Joins Beth Israel Deaconess Hospital-Milton

Board-certified general and bariatric (weight loss) surgeon Souheil Adra, MD, has joined the Beth Israel Deaconess Hospital-Milton (BID-Milton) Medical Staff as Director of Metabolic and Bariatric Surgery and Chief of Harvard Medical Faculty Physicians Surgery at the hospital.

In these positions, Dr. Adra will serve as medical director for BID-Milton's nationally accredited Weight Loss Surgery Program as well as head of the more than one dozen Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center/Harvard Medical Faculty Physicians currently performing surgery at BID-Milton.

On Monday, May 14, at approximately 6:20 p.m., Officers Steve Kelly and Bruce Tait were dispatched to the Good Health Store on Hancock Street to investigate a report of a male attempting to steal a bicycle.

The Quincy Police dispatcher stated the suspect was carrying a pair of bolt cutters and fled toward Burgin Parkway when confronted by an employee. Officer Kelly arrived seconds later but the suspect was gone.

Officer Tait searched the area while Officer Kelly interviewed the store employee. He stated he was in the bathroom at the rear of the store when he heard a banging noise coming from the exterior wall. He then opened the rear outside door of the business and walked around to the rear where he observed a male attempting to steal a co-worker's bicycle.

The bike was locked to a chain link gate and the male was attempting to use bolt cutters to break the lock. The employee emphatically said, "That's not your bike" to the suspect, who then stood up and pulled out a crow bar, held it up in a cocked threatening manner, and stated, "Try me" to the employee. The employee immediately backed away, believing the suspect would use the crowbar as a weapon on him. The suspect walked away with the two tools, leaving behind a flat head screwdriver, a pry bar, and a scraping tool.

The employee followed the suspect from a distance and without being detected saw him walk behind 34 Elm St. Officers looking for the suspect were redirected to the area where the suspect was last seen while Officer Kelly interviewed the victim, who said there was no damage to the bike and it was valued at about $200. Detective O'Rourke then broadcast he was observing the suspect riding a bicycle on Elm Street with a pair of bolt cutters in hand.

Officer Kelly drove around the corner to Detective O'Rourke's location and saw that he had the suspect stopped by South Street. Officer Kelly immediately spotted a pair of garden shears in the middle of the street which the witness/employee may have thought the suspect was using when he attempted to steal the bike initially. The suspect clearly matched the description given by the witness/employee.

Detective O'Rourke confirmed that he saw the suspect throw the garden shears to the ground, as he believed the suspect may have detected that he (O'Rourke) was a police officer. Once stopped the suspect denied throwing anything on the ground and quickly became agitated, his body language suggesting that he may attempt to flee.

The witness was brought to the scene and upon seeing the suspect, said, "Without a doubt that's him." Officer Kelly searched the area where the suspect may have dropped the crowbar and located one on the ground, which was taken as evidence. The crowbar was shown to the witness and he responded, "That's it, that's the same one he had."

The suspect did not have a crowbar on him and the area was searched for other tools to no avail. The only tool found was the garden shears, which were shown to the witness. He stated he could identify the shears by the yellow and black handles and that he initially thought they were bolt cutters.

Officer Tait transported the suspect, a 28-year-old Tewksbury resident, into the station for booking for on the charges of assault by dangerous weapon, intimidation of a witness 268/13B (for threatening the witness) and attempt to commit a crime. The red and silver bicycle possessed by the suspect was transported to the station to determine if it was stolen or belonged to the suspect.

Perform 'The Wizard Of Oz'

Quincy Catholic Academy has established a proud tradition of outstanding musical theater that students in grades 4-8 are thrilled to be a part of every year.

sical theater that students in grades 4-8 are thrilled to be a part of every year.

This year over 100 students participated in the production of "The Wizard of Oz" as cast and crew. Amazing sets and costumes were created by parent and student volunteers allowing the audience to feel as if they were visiting the Emerald City themselves.

The talented cast sang and danced to songs from the popular MGM movie after hours of hard work and practice. Thanks to Grant Kuehl, middle school English teacher and dedicated director; Maddie Berner, music teacher; and Cheri Kelly, parent and choreographer, students proudly performed on Thursday and Friday nights, May 17 and

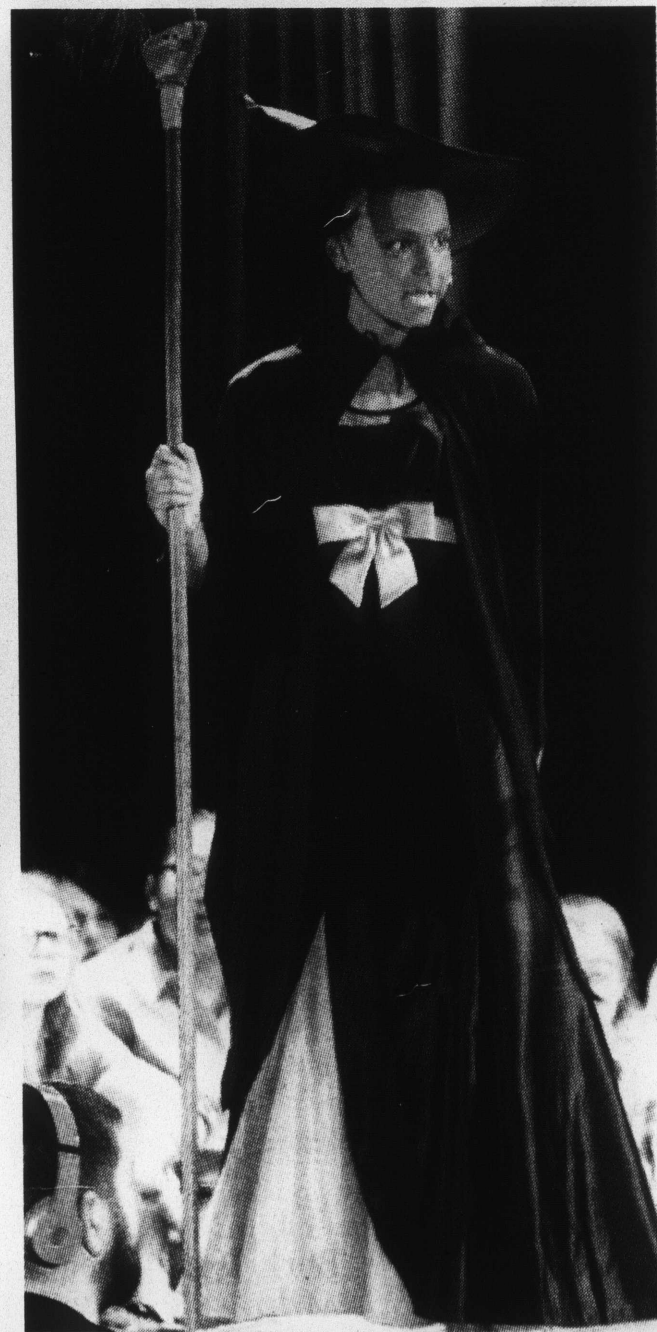

18. As Mr. Kuehl so eloquently stated in his director's note, "It is true that teamwork does, in fact, make the dream work!" Established in 2010, Quincy Catholic Academy (QCA) located in Quincy, is a Roman Catholic School enrolling students in Pre-Kindergarten (starting at age 3) through Grade Eight.

North Quincy Boys Tennis Nets Win Over Quincy

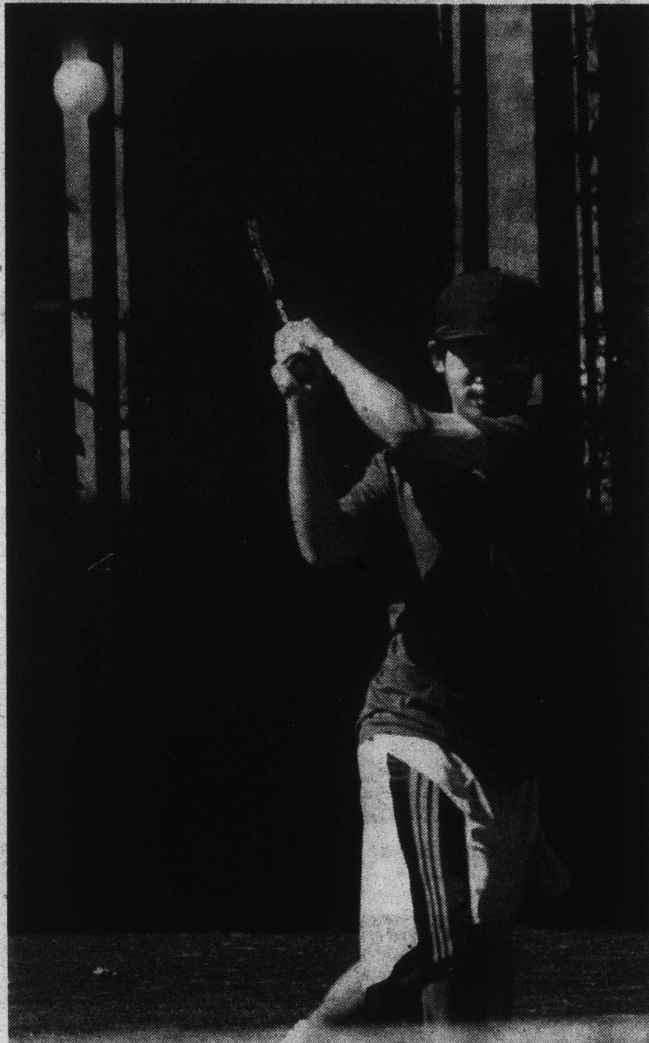

By TOM JOYCE
The Quincy and North Quincy High boys tennis teams are in two different positions this season, but they both continue to play hard in hopes of achieving their goals.

This difference was evident when the two teams went head-to-head May 21 at the Quincy Tennis Club and the Red Raiders came up with a 5-0 victory to improve to 13-4 on the season. "It's always awesome being able to play your city rivals here at this beautiful court," North Quincy head coach Matt Ramponi said.

a beautiful day. Can't complain."

Up and down the lineup, the Red Raiders were dominant. Shane Lerkvikarn, Shangbin Wu and Alex Atanassov got the job done in singles and in doubles. Payton McGaffigan and Daniel Chen won in first doubles while James Zheng and Adam Tiacoxolal were victorious in No. 2 doubles.

Interestingly enough, the Red Raiders are not even that old of a team. Wu and Chen are seniors this season, but the rest of their starting lineup is set to return next season. In fact, Lerkvikarn, a sophomore, Atanassov, a junior, and Tiacoxolal, who is also a junior, are the team's captains this season.

"It's been great to watch," Ramponi said of his team's youth and success. "We lost some guys to graduation so we're rebuilding a bit, but we're competing once again. Before last year, we had only won four games in the last two seasons combined, so it's good to see."

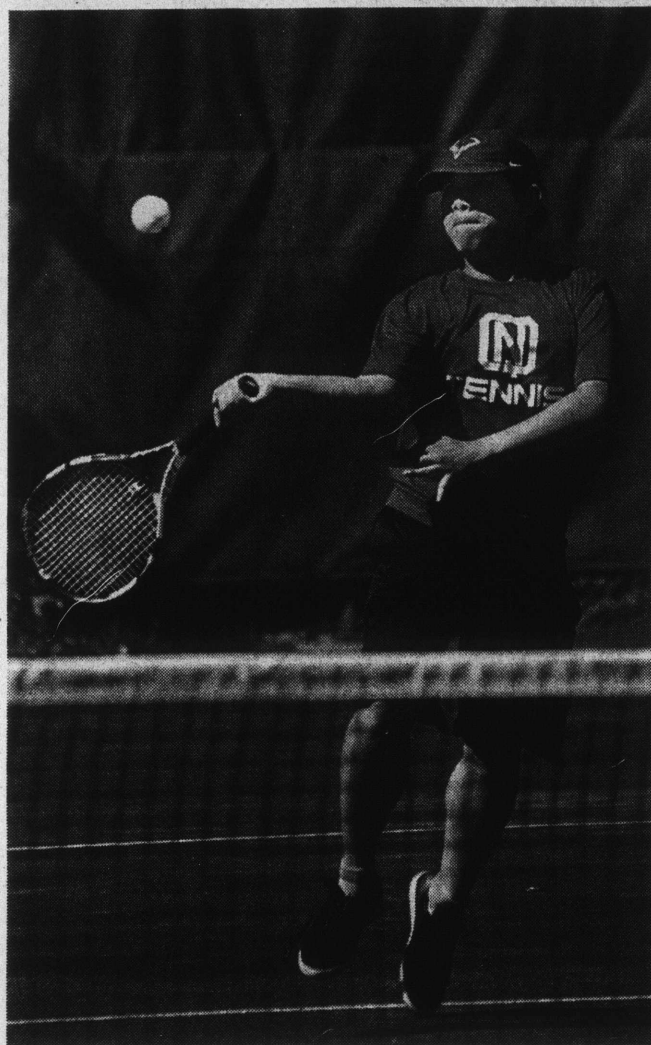

Of the bunch, Lerkvikarn, who is their No. 1 singles player, is their standout. At the start of the week, he was 15-1 on the season.

"He's definitely going to be a college player one day. I call him our Bill Russell because he's pretty much a player coach. In practice, he's out there helping the other kids which is nice."

Ramponi also credited his team's assistant coach, Daniel Wong, as a key part of the team's success this season.

Speaking of youthful teams, the Presidents have a young squad this season and they are continuing to grow and develop.

The Presidents only have one win so far this season, but their participation rate is high and their roster is loaded with youth. In fact, they have six freshmen this year who have never played tennis before.

"The fact that they have better ground strokes at the end of the year and hit the ball correctly, that's been a tremendous accomplishment," Presidents head coach Elliot Columb said. "There's been a lot of growth on the team, just not a whole lot of victories."

In addition to the leadership from the team's three captains, No. 1 singles player Tony Duong (who will play tennis at UMass Boston next year), No. 2 singles player Jamie Nguyen and Stephen Pham, a member of the No. 1 doubles team, Allen Ha and Eric Zhou have played many competitive matches in the No. 2 doubles role. Ha and Zhou are juniors this season.

"They're out at all of the practices hustling, so they've definitely made progress this year," Columb said of his No. 2 doubles team.

Columb said his team is focused on their strategy in practice as they continue to grow and develop as a team. For example, they are looking to get their hits in different directions to keep the opposition on alert.

Quincy Baseball Walks Off With Win Over North Quincy

By TOM JOYCE

It really shouldn't be a surprise at this point what happens when the Quincy High and North Quincy High baseball teams play one another.

Of course, their Memorial Day game ended up being a memorable contest with great play on both sides — like most match ups between the two schools in the city, regardless of the team's records. This time, it was the Presidents who came out on top thanks to some clutch hitting in the final at-bats of the contest. They came out on top with a 4-3 win at Adams Field on Monday night. With the win, the Presidents improved to 3-15 on the season while the Red Raiders fell to 6-12.

"What a game for the seniors, who've struggled all year to come up with some big hits," Presidents head coach Rick Beach said. "What an ending to a game against our cross-town rivals, with a packed stadium. That was huge. We needed a win."

With one out in the bottom of the seventh inning, catcher Curtis Frazier got things going for the Presidents. Frazier, who had a pair of hits in his team's victory, ripped an RBI triple to tie the game at 3-3. His triple allowed Devin Desmond to score, who reached base after drawing a walk earlier in the inning.

"Curtis is one of the greatest hitters, along with one of the clutchiest hitters, I've had the pleasure to coach," Beach said. "He came up in the last inning and came through once again for us with a huge triple. That ended up being the difference."

Frazier's triple may have rattled the Red Raiders just a little bit. If not, it at least sparked some further momentum for the Presidents. The next batter, Griffin Lynch, drew a walk, putting runners on the corners for Nolan Walker. All he really had to do was put the ball in play and his team had a shot at winning. He did just that; he smacked a grounder to the third baseman and Frazier hustled down the line to beat the throw at home for the game-winning run. It was an RBI fielder's choice for Walker that won his team the game.

On the mound, the Presidents got a great performance from Matt Tomlinson, who picked up the win. He tossed a complete game and allowed three runs on five hits and struck out five men.

"Matt Tomlinson pitched a great game," Beach said. "What a way for these seniors to go out."

On the other side, Jack Free took the loss for North Quincy, but he too was sharp. In his eight-strikeout performance, he allowed three earned runs on six hits, pitching 6.1 innings.

"Jack Free was great out there tonight," Red Raiders head coach Matt Edgerly said. "He competed for the whole game and gave us a great chance to win."

Although they trailed in the last frame, the Presidents struck first in the contest. In the bottom of the fourth, Nolan Walker, who went 2-for-3 in the game, knocked Frazier in with an RBI single to put their team up 1-0.

It would not take the Red Raiders long to respond. In the top of the fifth inning, Tommy Kelly, who had a game-high three hits in four at-bats, rocketed a 2-RBI double to put his team up by a run. Free knocked him in with a single two batters later, giving the Red Raiders a 3-1 lead.

"Tommy has been one of our best hitters all season," Edgerly said. "He showed it again tonight with some big hits in some tough spots."

In the bottom half of the fifth inning, the Presidents managed to cut the deficit to one run thanks to an RBI single from Desmond.

Neither of the two city's baseball teams made it to the postseason this season so once their regular seasons wrap up this week, their seasons will be over.

The Presidents will lose seven seniors to graduation: catcher Curtis Frazier, infielder Corey Shaw, outfielder James Robinson, outfielder Cullen O'Connell, outfielder John Kelly, pitcher Matt Tomlinson and outfielder Slade Burke.

The Red Raiders will also lose quite a bit of talent to graduation. Those eight players include: Ethan Herman, Joe Connaughton, Max Gustin, Doug Brown, Jake Roos, Ryan Cox, Jack Free and Tommy Kelly.

Ryan Craig Named NQ Football Head Coach

'We Have A Program That Is Ready To Be Led'

By TOM JOYCE

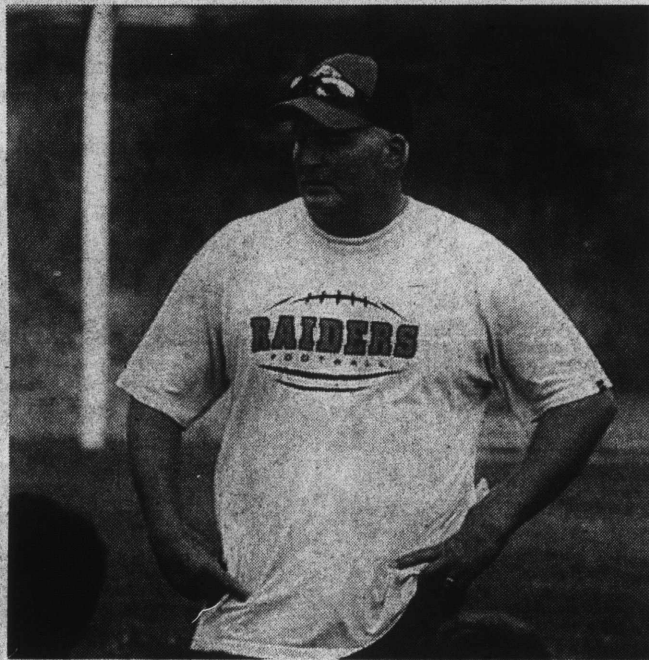

If the new North Quincy High football varsity head coach seems familiar, there are plenty of good reasons for it.

Last week, the Red Raiders announced Ryan Craig had been hired as their new head coach, a man with deep connections to the city of Quincy. Craig is taking over for Mark Nutley, who resigned from his post back in March.

"I've had a lot of experience coaching in the city," Craig said. "I had a really great experience there and loved coaching at the high school level awhile back. Standing back a bit, I looked at a program that needed some help. I thought that I could come in and help."

A 1989 North Quincy grad, Craig has the second most rushing yards in school history and is a member of the Q-NQ Football Hall of Fame. As a coach, he is also very experienced. In all, he has 22 years of coaching experience, much of which has come in the city of Quincy. He has served as the Red Raiders' head freshman football coach and their varsity defensive coordinator. However, most recently, he was the head coach of the North Quincy Apaches youth football team. He held that post from 2014 to 2017 and last November, he coached them to the Quincy Youth Football Championship.

Since he was a youth football coach at the eighth grade level for the past few seasons, one upside to Craig's hiring is that he is familiar with some of the team's varsity players already as well as its future varsity players.

RYAN CRAIG, a 1989 graduate of North Quincy High School and member of the Q-NQ Football Hall of Fame, is the new head coach of the Red Raiders varsity football team.

"It's not like I'm going in there not knowing anybody, which is good," Craig said. "I know the situation. I know we have some great kids up here. You have a program that's ready to be led, and I'm ready to be that guy."

Last year, the Red Raiders had mixed results, going 4-7. However, they earned a postseason bid and won their Thanksgiving Day game over Quincy, so there are positive aspects to build from. Craig recognizes this and said it makes his job a little bit easier.

"I think that's a little boost of confidence," he said. "We have a group of kids that works really hard and had success together. I think now, they need someone to come in and believe in them and show them how to get things done."

Craig said he is working on putting together his coaching staff using his connections not only within the city, but with other coaches he knows in the area. Although he has not finalized his staff just yet, he indicated it would likely be a mix of people who were on last year's staff as well as some new faces who coach football locally.

Regardless of who ends up on the staff, Craig's goal remains the same.

"We're going to bring the pride and tradition back to the program to levels that we haven't seen in years," he said.

"I'm looking forward to bring the drive, competition and tradition back to North Quincy football," he added. "We're going to get it back and we're going to get it back real quick. We want to hit the ground running here. We don't have a lot of time, but we're going to do it and it's going to be fun."

Craig also noted he wants to try to get the community to be as engaged as possible with the program this upcoming fall.

Emily Bryson Outstanding Female Athlete At Brandeis

Emily Bryson of Quincy was the recipient of the Max I. Silber Award, presented to the outstanding female athlete, at Brandeis University.

Bryson is already one of the most decorated track and cross country runners in Brandeis history as a junior. She won the UAA cross country championships in Franklin Park in Boston as a freshman, making her the first woman to earn UAA Rookie and Runner of the Year honors in the same season. She went on to earn her first All-America honor in cross country that year. Between track and cross country, she has gone on to earn six more UAA titles in six different events.

Bryson has also added two more All-America honors in cross country and two in track and field to bring her total up to five. This year alone, she finished 21st at the Division III cross country championships and anchored the third-place Distance Medley Relay at nationals to help three of her teammates also claim All-America honors. Her crowning achievement came in the 3,000-meter run, where a devastating finishing lap helped her set a school record and earn a national championship — Brandeis's first since 1999.

Bryson is currently ranked 14th nationally in the 5,000-meters during the outdoor season, giving her a chance to add to her All-America total later this month. She is a 2015 graduate of North Quincy High School.

Josiah Quincy House Open Saturday

Historic New England's Josiah Quincy House in Wollaston will open for the season with free tours on Saturday, June 2, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Built as a country estate in 1770, the Quincy House was surrounded by fields and pastures overlooking Quincy Bay. Its elegant architectural details befit the status of the man who built it, the Revolutionary War leader Colonel Josiah Quincy.

Among the house's unusual features is its "monitor" roof. From this prospect Col. Quincy had a clear view of Boston Harbor, where he watched troop movements during the Revolution. In 1775, he scratched "Governor Gage sail'd for England with a fair wind" into one of the windows of the monitor roof. That pane of glass was carefully preserved by the family, and is on display in the house today.

For generations, the Quincys, like the Adamses, to whom they were related, played important roles in the social and political life of Massachusetts. The family produced three mayors of Boston and a president of Harvard. Much of the historical information pertaining to the house and family was documented in the early 1880s by Eliza Susan Quincy. She kept journals, inventoried the contents of the house, commissioned photographs of the interior, and persuaded relatives to return heirlooms so that the house could become a repository of Quincy family history.

The Quincy House recently underwent a four-year focus that included the repainting of several rooms based on the scientific analysis of the original paint color. In addition, curators reinstalled rooms based on Eliza Susan Quincy's journal and photographs taken in the 1880s.

The Quincy House will be open from June to October on the first and third Saturdays of the month. The house, located at 20 Muirhead St. in Wollaston, also offers school programs, and tours by appointment. For information call 617-994-5930 or visit www.HistoricNewEngland.org.

North Quincy Holds Off Quincy In Softball, 7-5

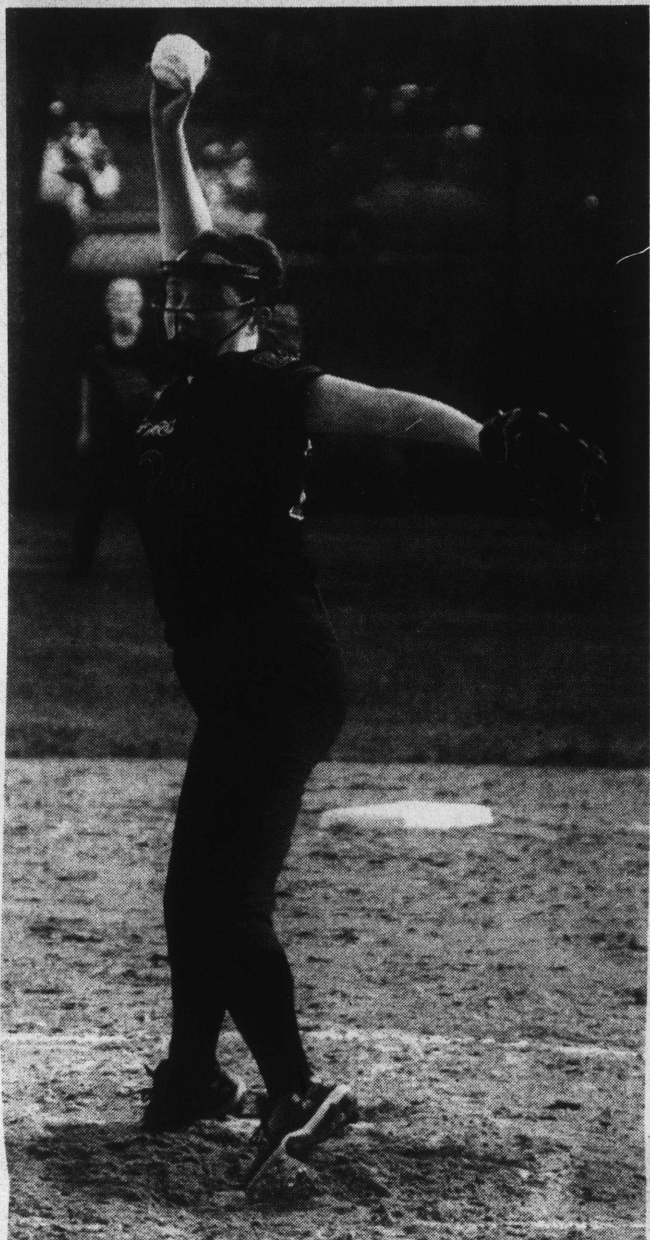

By TOM JOYCE

When the two high school sports teams in Quincy compete, a competitive game is likely to happen.

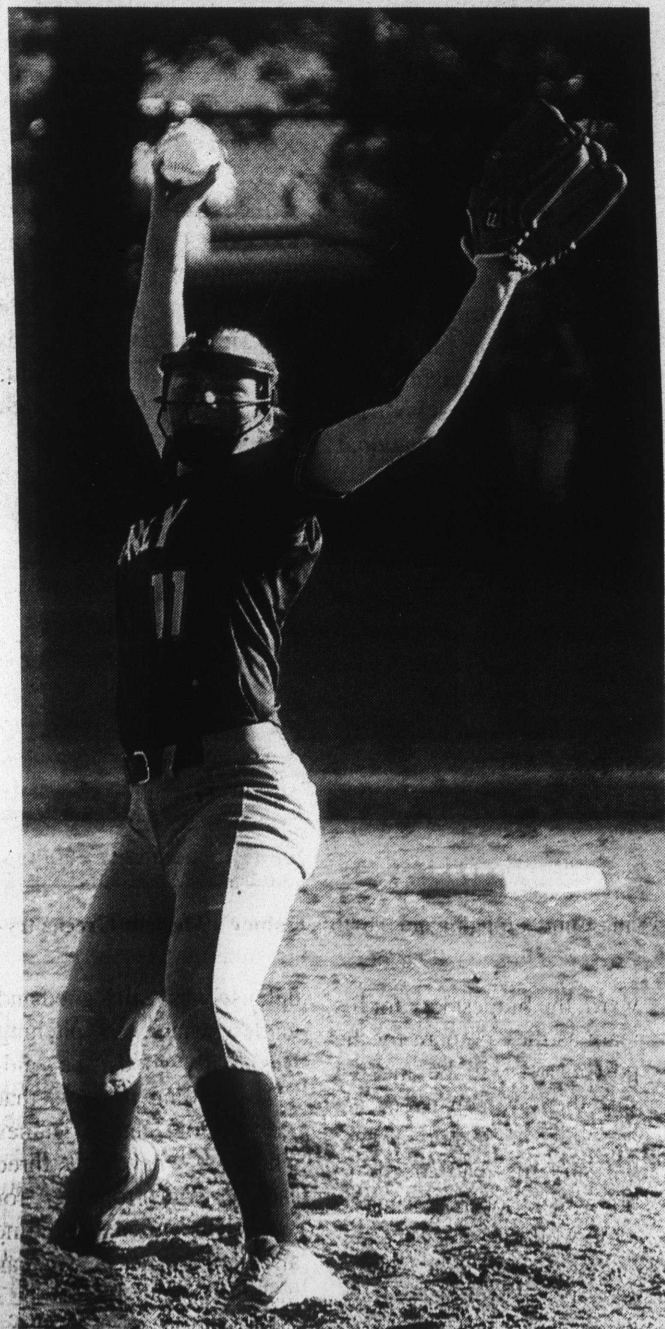

That was the case May 23

when the North Quincy Red Raiders and Quincy Presidents faced off in softball. The Red Raiders came into the game with a winning record; the Presidents did not. However, the Presidents put together an impressive last-inning rally that came up just short. Ultimately, the Red Raiders took this one with a 7-5 win that improved their record to 10-5 on the season, clinching a playoff spot. The Presidents fell to 3-14.

NORTH QUINCY senior pitchers Kristen Thornton (shown here) and Shannon O'Brien combined to hold Quincy to five runs in a 7-5 victory May 23 at Mitchell-McCoy Field.

QUINCY'S JULIANA TRACEY pitched the entire game for the Presidents.

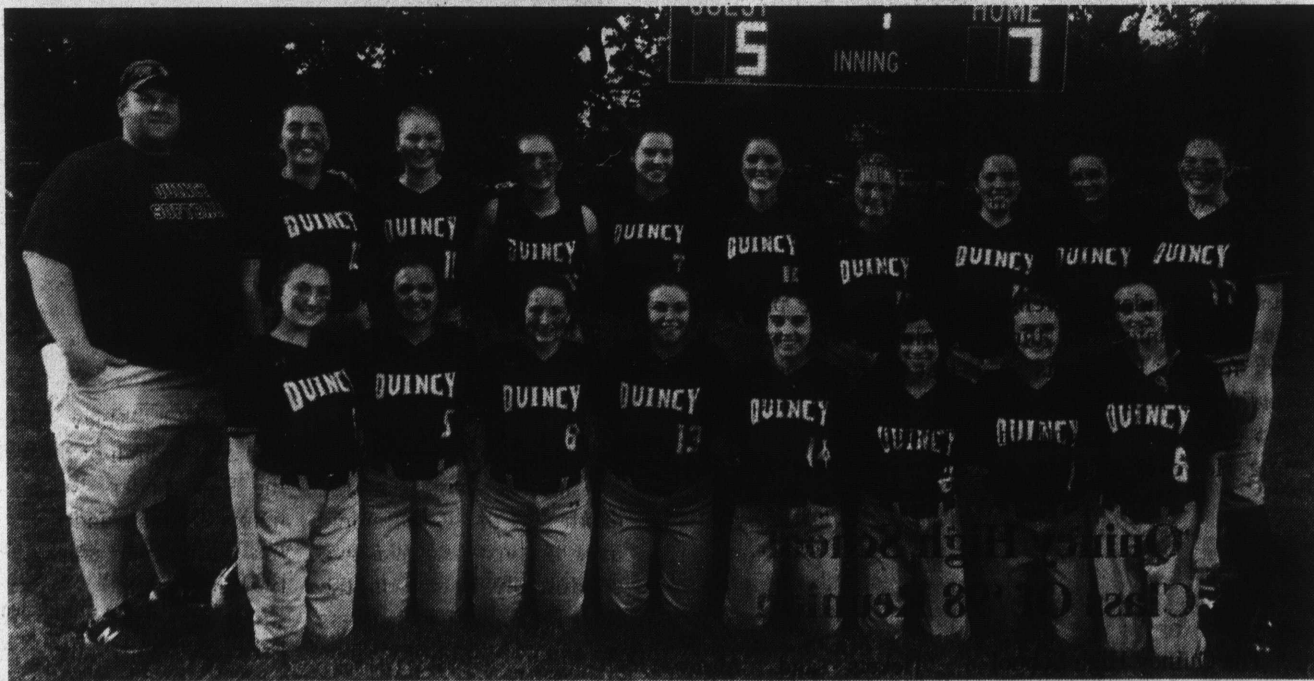

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL mounted a rally in the 7th inning scoring four runs, but just came up short in a 7-5 loss to North Quincy May 23. Here North Quincy catcher Jessie Caldwell just puts a tag on Quincy's Rachel Beck to end the game.

"Today, our pitching was good, but our offense and defense was inconsistent," Red Raiders head coach Jim Connor said. "It's just another episode in these Quincy/North Quincy match-ups. Believe me, I know, after coaching football here for 10 years, when these two schools meet, the records never matter, and you know it's going to be a tight one right down to the wire."

Trailing 7-1 headed into the final inning, the Presidents started to come back. They had some success using a few pinch-hitters, but their effort came up short thanks to strong play from the Red Raiders' defense. Priscilla Bonica had three hits for the Presidents including an RBI-single with two outs in the seventh inning. However, after Bonica hit that RBI single, Samantha Smith made a great throw from center field to the plate, so catcher Jessie Caldwell was able to tag out the Presidents' runner who could have made it a 7-6 game.

"I think that our bats have definitely been getting better as the season has gone along," Presidents head coach Greg Sommers said. "Having lost our last game 7-6, and then scoring five runs here, it is tough to score five and six runs and go home with a loss. Our defense was pretty good, our fielding was great, and our pitching today was great. We just came up a little short. But I am very proud of the way the team kept battling — down 7-1, they could've packed it up and gone home, but they kept going and digging and made it exciting at the end."

Pitching was a major reason for the Red Raiders success in the win, specifically from their starter, Kristen Thornton. She pitched four innings and surrendered just one run and picked up the win. After that, the team handed the ball off to Shannon O'Brien, who earned the save. Since most softball teams usually roll with just one pitcher, it shows the depth that the Red Raiders have that they can use two comfortably. In the win, the Red Raiders' offense was led by a few major contributors. Mia Sapienza knocked in a team-high three runs thanks to a bases-loaded single and a sacrifice fly. In terms of hits, Maeve Keane had a team-high of three for the Red Raiders while Johanna Douglas and Samantha Smith each chipped in two hits apiece.

On the Presidents side, Priscilla Bonica's three hits were a team-high and Juliana Tracey also got two hits in the game.

Connor said moving forward, the biggest key for his team as they prepare for the postseason will be making sure they are consistent. He is confident in their ability, but said his team needs to bring their top performance to do well there.

"We have had games where our offense was really good, games where our defense was really good and games where our pitching was really good," he said. "The baffling thing is that we seldom have games where we have all three aspects come together for us. When we can combine all three elements, we can make a run and this can be a scary team going up against anyone."

Dorothy Quincy Homestead Public Tours Saturday

The Quincy Homestead, the beautiful, yellow Georgian mansion backing on Furnace Brook, still sits on the original 1635 land grant accorded to Edmund Quincy I. The land and the evolving architecture of the Homestead tell the story of a family who, over five generations, played a significant role in Colonial and American history. Please join us for a free tour on June 2 to learn more about this fascinating family.

When you take the tour of the Homestead, you will observe the stages of architecture and decor that each Quincy generation made. Included within the changes are items left behind. Some items seen are difficult to relate for our fast paced times. An example is the old clock in the parlor. This is a single-handed 30-hour clock. It was a practical clock for home use. Made in a British style, it has no markings, which indicates that it was probably made by a country clock maker. It is not fancy, but it served the practical purpose of basically knowing "close-enough" the hour of day and estimating the time an invited guest might arrive. Much different from our present day of gauging time in seconds and milliseconds!

While the house of Edmund Quincy I was taken down in 1893 to make way for the Central Middle School, the nearby 1686 Homestead, built by Edmund Quincy II and expanded in 1706 and 1737 by Edmund Quincy III and IV, was continually lived in until 1904 when the Homestead was purchased and restored by the National Society of Colonial Dames in The Commonwealth of Massachusetts. It is currently owned and operated in public/private partnership with the Massachusetts Department of Conservation and Recreation. Located at 34 Butler Rd. on the corner of Hancock Street, the Homestead is easy to find – it is just south of Furnace Brook parkway and the Armory.

Public historic house tours will be held throughout the summer on the following Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tours take about 45 minutes – the last tour begins at 2:30 p.m. There is no admission charge or fee for the tours at the Public Historic House Tours, but as Quincy Homestead is a Non-Profit 501(c)(3) organization, donations are always welcome.

The Homestead will be open for public tours Saturday, June 2 and June 16; July 7 and July 21; Aug. 4 and Aug. 18; and Sept. 1, Sept. 15 and Sept. 29.

Private tours may be requested by calling 617-742-3190 or by emailing dames@nscdama.org. For more information visit www.nscdama.org and on Facebook under Quincy Homestead 1686.

Quincycles 'Bike The Beaches' Saturday

Quincycles invites the public to their "Bike the Beaches of Quincy" bike ride on Saturday, June 2nd.

The ride is sponsored by Save the Harbor Save the Bay. Free T shirts and a lunch will be provided to the first 60 riders who register. Register at Quincycles.org.

Participants have a choice of doing a longer ride, starting at 7:15 a.m. at Anderson Bicycle (380 Washington St., Quincy), or a shorter ride, starting at 9:30 a.m. at the Kennedy Center (440 E Squantum St., Quincy).

The longer ride, which covers approximately 22 of Quincy's 27-mile coast, begins in Quincy Point and hugs the shoreline, taking riders from the Point to Germantown, Houghs Neck, Adams Shore, and Merry-mount before heading down Quincy Shore Drive to join up with riders participating in the shorter beaches ride. The pace for the longer ride will be about 12 mph with minimal stopping.

The shorter ride, approximately 8 miles, will be a more relaxed ride around the coast of Squantum, including the Nickerson Post, Marina Bay, Commander Shea, and Squantum Point Park.

Quincycles rides are free and open to the public. More information about the group and the full schedule of rides can be found on their website at www.Quincycles.org.

Quincy Fair Trade Task Force Evening Of Food, Facts, Fun June 5

Human Rights Watch reports that over 100 million children around the world work in hazardous conditions in agriculture, mining, domestic labor, and other sectors. On tobacco farms, children work long hours in extreme heat, exposed to nicotine and toxic pesticides that can make them sick.

In Africa, Asia, and Latin America, child laborers in artisanal and small-scale gold mines work underground in pits that easily collapse and use toxic mercury to process the gold, risking brain damage and other serious health conditions.

The World Bank reports that 2 billion people in the world live on less than $2 per day. Two-thirds of the world's cocoa come from West African farmers that make less than 50 cents a day. Children are often working to bring us the products that we consume every day. They often work 10-20 hours per week. Between 10 and 40% of them are not enrolled in school. Labor laws in the developing world are either weak or not enforced.

But what can be done about these discouraging facts?

Kristina Kaiser, a pastor at The River South Church in Quincy Center, knows the answer to this question.

A year ago she gathered a small group to begin making a difference. She started the Quincy Fair Trade Task Force. It is a newly formed group of local businesses, congregations, schools, and community members. They are working together to help Quincy become a leader in promoting social and economic justice. It's happening through events that work to raise awareness and by inviting others to commit to purchasing Fair Trade products when available.

"Did you know that the US makes up 5% of the world's population but we consume 29% of the world's resources?" asks Kaiser. She says "The facts can seem dismal and alarming, but there are millions of people linking arms together around the world to help solve this issue, one choice and one purchase at a time."

Together we can make a difference."

On Tuesday, June 5th, at 7 p.m. she and other members of the Task Force will lead a community meeting on this subject. The meeting will be held in the main conference room in the bottom floor of the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., in Quincy Center. The evening will include presented information, videos, and discussion. There will be fair trade offerings to sample and opportunities for members of the public to get involved.

Kaiser encouraged participation by saying, "Join us as we discuss ways that we can be a part of a system that's working to help sustain farmers and workers, teach farming techniques that are better for the environment, support stronger communities, empower women in the workplace, and bring higher quality goods to the consumer."

The event is free and open to all.

Quincy Chamber Sponsoring Trip To Ireland Sept. 12-17

The Quincy Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a 5-day trip to Ireland from Sept. 12th - 17th to celebrate the recent collaboration between the city of Quincy and Cork County, Ireland.

The all-inclusive air and land package has been arranged by Cara Group Travel of Quincy to take advantage of the international Taste of Ireland West Cork Food Festival.

The Norwegian Air flight leaves from TF Green Airport in Providence, R.I. and flies direct to Cork City and includes sightseeing excursions to some of the most beautiful vistas in all of Ireland, along its famous West Coast. The trip also includes two days of one-of-a-kind culinary experiences at the internationally renowned West Cork Food Festival, a visit to Cobh Heritage Center, a visit to the Rock of Cashel, Tipperary and more.

The trip, priced at $1,489 per person, includes direct round-trip airfare, hotels and all ground transportation.

The goal of the Economic Development Agreement, signed by Mayor Tom Koch of Quincy and Lord Mayor Declan Hurley of Cork County in February, is to foster business, educational and cultural collaboration and exchanges between the two regions. Already, a Cork business is planning to locate at the Quincy Center for Innovation as early as this summer and the Cork Institute of Technology is discussing potential scholarship and exchange opportunities for both Quincy High School and Quincy College students in the fall. This West Cork Food Festival Tour jump-starts the cultural and tourism part of the agreement to showcase the beauty, history and hospitality of both Cork and Quincy.

The trip is open to both Chamber as well as non-Chamber members. However there are limited spots available and you must contact Cara Group Travel soon and place a $300 deposit in order to reserve your place on this trip. Visit CaraGroupTravel.com or call 617-639-0273 for more information.

Hundreds Walk And Run To Help Stop The Stigma

Over 500 Support Interfaith Social Service's Road Race For Mental Health

More than 500 supporters came out April 28 for Interfaith Social Services' Stop the Stigma 5K, a record for the 44th annual event. The race, held each spring at the Kennedy Center in North Quincy, gets families and individuals running and walking on a scenic race route through Quincy's Squantum neighborhood and along Boston Harbor.

Participants run in support of friends, family and neighbors living with mental illness or addiction. The event raised more than $40,000 for Interfaith's programs, including The New Directions Counseling Center. New Directions has been offering compassionate and skilled counseling to the South Shore since 1947. The nonprofit counseling services provide a safety-net ensuring that everyone is able to receive care regardless of their health insurance status or income.

Support from multiple local businesses and individuals help to make the event possible, including backing from platinum-level sponsors Arbella Insurance Foundation, Boston Medical Center HealthNet Plan and DST Systems, Inc.

Next year's Stop the Stigma 5K is set for Saturday, April 27, 2019.

Quincy Remembers Fallen Service Members, Families

"But for some it's easy to forget the purpose of Memorial Day. We're often grateful for the early release on Friday, the long weekend to spend with family and friends. Although Memorial Day should be a day of rest, we should never lose focus on its true meaning: honoring and remembering.

"It's a day to remember those lost — not for how they died, but for how they lived. How they chose a life of service to the nation. How they chose to join the less than 1 percent of citizens that currently serve a cause larger than themselves: freedom and democracy."

"No words can adequately describe the debt we owe the men and women we honor here today," McGinn added. "They've earned our freedom in places like Bunker Hill and Yorktown, Gettysburg and Antietam, the trenches of France, Guadalcanal, Leyte and Normandy, the Korean peninsula, Vietnam, Kuwait, Afghanistan and Iraq. Because of their sacrifice, our freedom endures."

MAYOR THOMAS KOCH thanked those present at Monday's Memorial Day ceremony for their attendance. "Your gift to our veterans is your presence here today. That's all you can do is give your presence, and you've done that."

One day, McGinn continued, is not enough to remember those killed in service to the U.S.

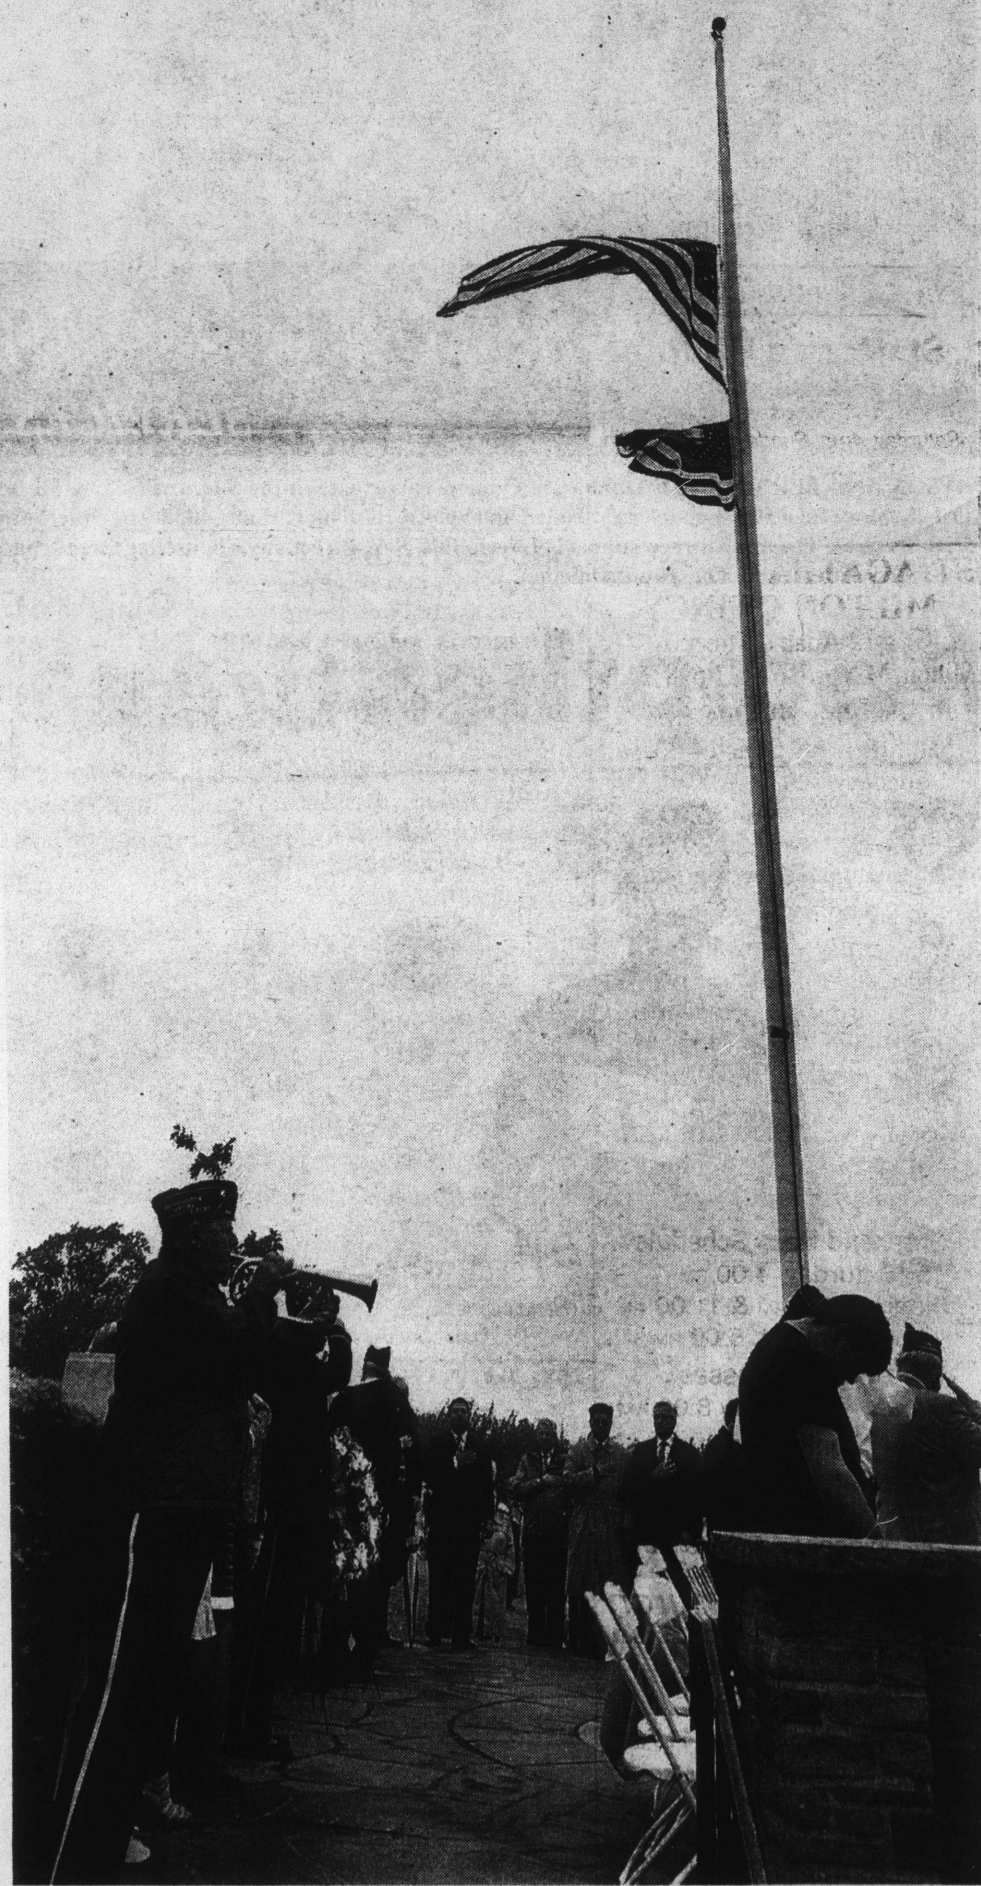

"Every day we enjoy liberties paid for by the blood of our fallen, we must resolve to honor their sacrifice in our daily lives," he said. "How do we do this? Support the families of those we honor today. They too have sacrificed upon the altar of freedom. They lost husbands, wives, sons and daughters, and we owe them our solemn gratitude."

"Support our living veterans. They too risked their lives. Though they overcame, they lost many friends who served beside them on the shores and in the jungles, deserts, pastures and cities where they fought for our freedom. Veterans are our link to the past and our connection to those we have lost. Families of veterans are all around you; they are your friends, neighbors, parents, brothers, sisters, sons and daughters, many

A Sunday school child rings the bells every Sunday to call everyone to church service at 10 a.m. at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave.

Liturgist Chris Keating will welcome and call to worship. Pastor Steve Vandergrift will lead the Communion service, give the children's message and preach his sermon.

Covenant Church Seeks Children's Pantry Donations

The Children's Pantry at The Covenant Church of Quincy is in need of donations of gently used or new children's clothing, books, and supplies.

"For more than 15 years our church members, neighbors, and members of other Quincy churches have helped us with donations," said Rev. Karen Palmatier, pastor of the congregation. "This is a very important ministry to our congregation and to the community. We are very grateful for all the help and now we need people to help again. We especially need children's summer clothing sizes infant to 4T."

Minister of Music Steve Reed will direct the choir for the last Sunday before the choir is on summer hiatus. A fellowship coffee hour hosted by Nancy Jacobs follows the service.

On Saturday, June 2nd the Strawberry Festival Craft and Vendor Fair will be held outside (inside in case of rain). Fun, food, music, pie contest and more.

The Children's Pantry, located at 315 Whitwell St., serves children and their families by providing clothing, books, and supplies, free of charge. Many of the visitors have become good friends of the pantry because they have been coming for years, very often donating clothing their children have outgrown.

Hours for the Children's Pantry are Wednesday and Friday mornings from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Or call the church office at 617-479-5728 to make an appointment for drop off.

Quincy Point Congregational

The Sacrament of Holy Communion will be celebrated on Sunday, June 3rd at 10 a.m. worship at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St.

Rev. Stan Duncan will be preaching. Following the service, all are welcome to coffee hour for light refreshments and conversation. The church is accessible to all with designated parking and an elevator via the building's Abbey Road entrance.

The South Shore Children's Chorus will perform in concert Sunday, June 3 at 3 p.m. in the Church sanctuary. Purchase tickets online at www.southshorechildrenschorus.org.

Some spaces are also available for the SSCC Summer program from July 16-20 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. for students entering grades 3-12. See their website for further details.

June 10th will be the annual Children and Youth

Sunday. The Children's Choir and Pointer Youth Band will perform during worship.

After worship coffee hour takes place in the social hall. Those interested are welcome to grab a refreshment and then attend the Second Sunday Adult Education Series in the library.

The speaker will be James Ikeda, the advisor of Quincy High School's Spectrum Gay/Straight Alliance and some members of Spectrum. They will talk about their challenges and accomplishments to help us understand all members of God's family. Youth Group also takes place at 11:30 a.m.

On Saturday, June 16 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. there will be an Indoor Yard Sale in the Social Hall on the bottom floor of the church building. Proceeds will go to benefit the QPCC Sanctuary Piano Fund.

Bethany Congregational Church

Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Center will have a Communion Sunday Worship Service 9:30 a.m.

The Rev. Martha Swanson will conduct the service and preach the sermon. Bring a food donation to help the ISS Food Pantry.

Fellowship with light refreshments will follow the worship service.

All are welcome to attend Bethany Church Worship Services and its numerous group activities, including an active Missions and Growth Committee doing various charity works.

The church office is open from 8:30 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Visit the church website: www.bethanyconchurch.org for updates and activities.

Thanks to the Video Ministry, if you're unable to attend worship service on Sundays, the Bethany Church Service is broadcast on Quincy Access Television at 6 p.m. on Thursdays and 10 a.m. on Sundays on Channel 8.

The church is wheelchair accessible.

Strawberry Festival June 2

The annual Strawberry Festival at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave. will be held Saturday, June 2 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

There will be 20 vendors, strawberry shortcake, a berry pie bake off, crafts, music by Jimmy Peters, face painter, moonwalk for kids and more. Boy Scout Troop 6 will serve a barbecue lunch.

For more information contact Jaime at strawberry-festivalhnc@gmail.com or to enter the berry pie bake off contact Chris at Cmo-nal695@hotmail.com.

PEACE

OBITUARIES

Sheila J. Tordoff, 83

A funeral Mass for Sheila J. (Cahill) Tordoff, age 83, a lifelong resident of Quincy, was celebrated Tuesday in Holy Trinity Parish at the Most Blessed Sacrament Church, Quincy.

Mrs. Tordoff died peacefully May 24 at Hancock Park Rehabilitation and Nursing Center in Quincy.

She was born, raised, and educated in Quincy. She was a graduate of the former Archbishop Cushing High School in South Boston, Class of 1953.

Mrs. Tordoff had been employed for thirty years at the former New England Telephone and Telegraph Company as a marketing representative in Boston. She was a former secretary and treasurer of the New England Telephone Pioneers, former Presidents Chapter.

She was a longtime, active parishioner of the Most Blessed Sacrament Church in Houghs Neck where she served as a religious education teacher and sang in the choir. Mrs. Tordoff was also a past prefect of Our Lady's Sodality and was a former secretary of the Catholic Daughters of America #1065. As a young woman, she played basketball and was a catcher on the church's softball team. Later in life, she enjoyed bowling.

Mrs. Tordoff was a community activist and proud to live in Houghs Neck. In 2003, she and her late husband, Tom, were honored with the Good Neighbor Award by the Houghs Neck Community Council.

Mrs. Tordoff was an animal lover and over the years enjoyed her four black cats, all named "Snowball."

Beloved wife of the late Thomas Tordoff. Devoted daughter of the late Peter J. and Catherine M. (Fitzgerald) Cahill and loving granddaughter of the late Josephine (Geddes) Fitzgerald. Mrs. Tordoff is survived by many nieces, nephews, several cousins and dear friends.

Interment at St. Ignatius Cemetery in Sanford, Maine.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the American Heart Association, 300 5th Ave., Suite 6, Waltham, MA 02451-8750 or to the Houghs Neck Community Council, 1193 Sea St., Quincy, MA 02169.

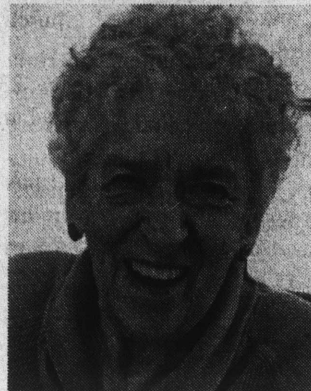

Christine M. Gaffney, 84

A funeral Mass for Christine M. (Busalacchi) Gaffney, 84, of Quincy was celebrated Wednesday in St. Joseph's Church, Quincy.

Mrs. Gaffney died May 24.

Born in Boston where she was raised and educated, she lived in South Weymouth for 51 years before moving to Brookdale in Quincy in 2014. Mrs. Gaffney earned a Bachelor's Degree in business from Emmanuel College in 1954 and a Master's Degree in education at Boston College in 1958. In her early career she was a fourth grade teacher. After raising 7 children, she dedicated her life's work as director of religious education at St. Francis Xavier in South Weymouth for over 25 years.

The beloved wife of Thomas L. Gaffney, devoted mother of Robert Gaffney of So. Weymouth, Anthony Gaffney and his wife Lauren of Randolph, NJ, Gina Doherty and her husband Brian of Braintree, Maria Rice and her husband Keith of Marshfield, Anita Joyce and her husband Jeremiah of Westford, Noelle Low and her husband Evan of Plymouth and the late Leo Gaffney; proud, affectionate and loving "Mimi" to Penny, Johnny, Spencer, Teddy, Jerry, Thomas, Joseph and Margaret; loving sister of Rosemarie Buckley and her husband John of Rockville, MD and Joanne Busalacchi of Bethany Beach, DE; and is also survived by several nieces and nephews.

Full of life, laughter, and always ready to socialize with family and friends right up until her last days, Mrs. Gaffney will be remembered for her deep empathy, kind nature, wisdom and spiritual strength.

Interment at St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Weymouth.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Dennis Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., Quincy.

Mrs. Gaffney lived the last few years of her life with limited mobility. Because of the support and care she received from the dedicated staff at Brookdale, she was able to live autonomously and with dignity. This made a difference for which we are eternally grateful.

Memorial donations may be made to the Brookdale Quincy Bay Associate Appreciation Fund at Brookdale, 99 Brackett St., Quincy, MA 02169.

Donna M. Mann, 57

A private memorial service is planned for Donna M. Mann, 57, of Quincy.

Ms. Mann died May 21.

Daughter of Ivy Macdonald and the late Robert J. Mann. Beloved wife of James J. Hurley of Quincy. Stepmother of Tanner J. Hurley of Block Island, RI. Sister of Bobby, Steve, Dave, Debra, Ken, and Chris Mann, all of Quincy, and Frank Macdonald and his wife Susan of Braintree. Loving aunt of Robert and his wife Ashley, Christopher, Martha, and aunt and godmother of Michael. Great-aunt Avery. Longtime friend of over 30 years of Bonnie MacGregor of Weymouth.

Ms. Mann was a selfless caregiver and volunteered for various charities. She also loved to bake, and especially enjoyed spending time with her family.

Memorial donations may be made to the American Diabetes Association, 260 Cochituate Rd. #200, Framingham, MA 01701.

Arrangements by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Josephine Montalto, 88

A funeral Mass for Josephine (Coronelli) Montalto, age 88, of Bridgewater and New Bedford, will be celebrated at 11 a.m. Thursday in St. Francis of Assisi Church, New Bedford.

Mrs. Montalto died May 20 in Quincy, surrounded by her loving family.

She was married to the late Filippo Montalto for 55 years.

Born in Milan, Italy, a daughter of the late Annibale and Elena (Corbellini) Coronelli, she immigrated to the United States with her husband in 1961, moving to New Bedford in 1967. She was a communicant of St. Francis of Assisi Church, New Bedford, and St. Thomas Aquinas Church of Bridgewater. She was employed as a bookkeeper/accountant for 30 years, first in Italy and later at Eyedea Vision in New Bedford. She was extremely proud to be an American citizen.

Mrs. Montalto loved her family dearly and cherished her time with her grandchilddren and was so proud of all of them. Her great sense of humor and ready laugh made her a joy to be with. She was an original "foodie" and an outstanding cook who loved cooking for large family gatherings. The family feasts were fantastic!

She was deeply religious and loved to be part of the church community, was a member of the St. Francis of Assisi Choir, and the New Bedford Sons of Italy. She was an avid reader and enjoyed the outdoors and trips to the beach.

Mrs. Montalto is survived by her children, Bartolino Paul Montalto and his wife Heather, Mary Grace Montalto and her husband Harry Donaghue, Carol Bresciani and her husband Lawrence and Michael Montalto, all of MA; a stepdaughter, Cristiana Montalto-Turati and her husband Gianni of Italy; a sister Eugenia Coronelli, a brother Giovanni Coronelli and his wife Gabriella and several cousins, all of Italy; eight grandchildren and several nieces and nephews. She was the sister of the late Carlo Coronelli and Marisa Casiraghi. Visiting hours were 4 to 8 p.m. Wednesday in the O'Reilly Funeral Home, New Bedford. A funeral service will be held there at 10 a.m. Thursday, prior to the Mass. Interment at St. Thomas Aquinas Cemetery, Bridgewater.

Paul DiSalvio, 85

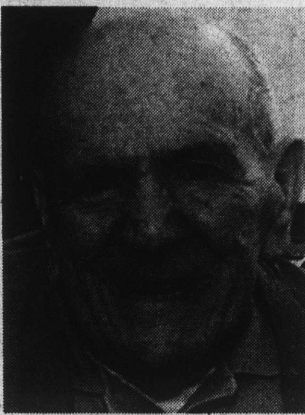

A funeral Mass for Paul "Junior" DiSalvio, 85, a lifelong resident of Quincy, will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Thursday in St. John the Baptist Church, Quincy.

Mr. DiSalvio died May 26 at Hancock Park Rehab & Nursing Center in Quincy.

He was the loving son of the late Panfilo and Lena (Chella) DiSalvio.

Mr. DiSalvio attended Quincy schools and worked for the city of Quincy Water Department for 41 years until his retirement. He enjoyed horse racing, especially going to fairs. He was a Yankees fan mostly because of the late Joe DiMaggio, who was his favorite player, he even attended a Red Sox-Yankees game in New York Stadium, and he finally switched to being a Red Sox fan because of his mother being an avid fan.

Mr. DiSalvio's family would like to thank the terrific staff at Hancock Park; they were like family to Mr. DiSalvio and his family. His brother Jerry cannot thank them enough for the great job they all did in caring for Mr. DiSalvio.

PAUL DISALVIO

He was the dear brother of Jerry DiSalvio and Virginia Rocuzzo both of Quincy and Edward DiSalvio and his wife Rita of Weymouth. Also survived by many nieces, nephews, grand nieces, grand nephews and great-grand nieces and nephews. He was also brother of the late Samuel, Louis, William, Robert, Eva and Eunice DiSalvio, Anna Durante, Olga Golden and Angelina Bastarache.

Viewing will be held prior to the Mass from 9 to 9:30 a.m. Thursday at the Bolea-Buonfiglio Funeral Home, 116 Franklin St.

Interment at Mount Wollaston Cemetery, Quincy.

Edward Russo, 95

A funeral Mass for Edward Russo, 95, a lifelong resident of Quincy, was celebrated Wednesday in St. John the Baptist Church, Quincy.

Mr. Russo died May 23 at South Shore Hospital in Weymouth.

He was the beloved husband of 67 years to the late Mary (Volpe) Russo. Born in Quincy on May 26, 1922, he was the son of the late Edward and Mary (Boudrow) Russo.

Mr. Russo served in the Army during WWII. He was employed as a forklift operator for 39 years for the former Grossmans Company, retiring many years ago. He enjoyed traveling with his wife and also enjoyed casinos and horse racing.

He is survived by his three children, Edward F. Russo of Plymouth, Michelle Moore and her husband Gary of Scituate and Janice Russo of Scituate; a sister, Eleanor Steele of Braintree; four grandchildren, Alex Russo and his wife Laura of Bourne, Raychel Brides and her husband Tyler of Rochester, Gary Moore and his wife Kim Bothwell of Whitman and Laura White and her husband Andrew of East Bridgewater; three great-grandsons and several nieces and nephews. He was also predeceased by five sisters.

Interment at Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Bolea-Buonfiglio Funeral Home, 116 Franklin St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, 262 Danny Thomas Place, Memphis, TN 38105.

Robert S. Antoine, 66

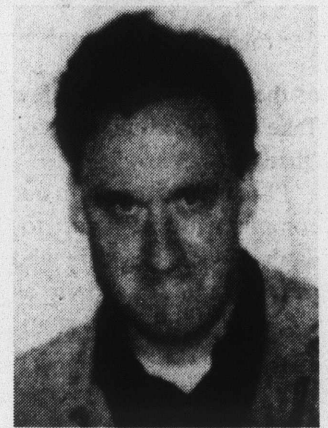

A funeral service for Robert S. Antoine, 66, of Quincy was held Wednesday at 6 p.m. in the Dennis Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., Quincy.

Mr. Antoine died May 23.

A lifelong Quincy resident, he worked as a housekeeper at the VA Hospital in West Roxbury.

The son of the late Murwin and Anna Antoine, he was the beloved brother of Melvin J. Antoine of Rockland, Richard L. Antoine of Quincy, Ann Marie Antoine and Patricia D. Milan, both of South Boston and his late twin Michael A. Antoine; and is also survived by six nephews.

Visiting hours were 4 to

ROBERT S. ANTOINE

6 p.m. Wednesday in the funeral home.

Private interment.

Memorial donations may be made to the Alzheimer's Association, 309 Waverley Oaks Rd., Waltham, MA 02452, www.alz.org.

'Conflict Resolution: A Spiritual Approach' June 9

John Tyler, a practitioner and teacher of Christian Science healing, will present a free interactive talk titled "Conflict Resolution: A Spiritual Approach" on Saturday, June 9 at 5 p.m. at 1460 Hancock St., Quincy.

Tyler's ideas are based on the Bible, the original source book on Christian healing, along with the book Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy; a book of universally applicable ideas on practical spirituality. This talk will focus on prayer-based action. Explore how we can get involved in healing conflicts in our own lives and for the world, from century-old, divisive national conflict to a family fight.

Tyler, a former labor union organizer, has degrees from both Princeton University and the Institut d'Etudes Politiques, Paris, and taught political science at Princeton and the University of Pittsburgh, before becoming a practitioner and teacher of Christian Science healing. He now travels internationally speaking about the power of prayer to bring peace, health, and healing in people's lives.

For event information call Mary Bing at 617-472-7099.

Shine Under The Stars Gala At Waterclub June 3

This Star Won't Go Out will hold its Shine Under the Stars Gala Sunday, June 3 at the Waterclub at Marina Bay.

The event will be held from 6:30 to p.m. Attire is cocktail/business formal.

TSWGO was begun in honor of Esther Earl, a local Quincy high school student whose battle with cancer inspired the bestseller novel and blockbuster movie The Fault in Our Stars. Since 2011, TSWGO has given away nearly a half million dollars in support of childhood cancer, providing funds to help pay for travel, housing, and other cost of living expenses. TSWGO frees up families to focus on their child who is in treatment—and that's a gift beyond value.

The gala will be hosted by author and TV personality Sorboni Banerjee. The event will feature hors d'oeuvres and desserts, wine tastings, music, and a silent auction. Attendees will meet a Star Kid, be inspired by Project LOVEly innovators, and congratulate the winners of TSWGO high school essay contest!

Space is limited. For ticket information visit TSWGO.org.

Event platinum sponsors include the Waterclub at Marina Bay, FastSigns of Quincy and Granite Telecommunications. Organizers said support from local businesses is vital to making a difference for families caring for their child during their cancer journey.

Additional partnership levels are available by contacting Lori Earl, executive director, This Star Won't Go Out, at TSWGOoffice@gmail.com.

of them here with us today. Take the opportunity to say, 'thank you.'

"Let us also re-affirm our commitment to support today's service members who are defending freedom as we speak, including the citizen-soldiers of the National Guard and reserves."

George Nicholson, Quincy veterans' service director, said 1,000 flags were placed on the graves of veterans interred at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

"There may be a thousand flags out here, but every single flag represents a family and it represents untold numbers of memories from the families and from these individuals," he said.

Nicholson also honored Quincy's first responders for their service.

"We honor these men and women who kept freedom on the shores of our nation," he said. "I know that every one of them is eternally grateful that we have our first responders looking after our daily freedom."

"Many of us are fortunate not to be a hands-on recipient of first responder care, but these men and women sleep knowing that every single day your freedom and your quality of life is defended - with their lives if need be - by the magnificent men and women of the Quincy Police Department, the Quincy Fire Department, Brewster and Fallon Ambulance, the National Guard."

"We can never thank them enough either," Nicholson added. "Thank you, Quincy's finest."

Daniel Tinney, the commander of the Quincy Veterans' Council, urged the city's veterans to join local veterans' organizations. Tinney noted he was the last commander of Chapter 79 of the Disabled American Veterans, which had to disband because of a lack of participation.

"I'm just going to use these few moments to ask that those of you who are veterans, please come out to the legions and the VFW," Tinney said. "I'm 62 years old and I'm among the youngest that attend these meetings. That makes it obvious that there are a lot of younger veterans out there. We need you to fill the offices of these organizations."

Mayor Thomas Koch thanked those present at Monday's ceremony for their attendance.

"Your gift to our veterans is your presence here today," he said. "That's all you can do is give your presence, and you've done that."

The veterans interred at the city's cemeteries - Mount Wollaston, Pine Hill, Hall Cemetery, the Hancock Cemetery, and the Sailors' Cemeteries in Germantown and Wollaston - make those grounds hallowed and sacred, the mayor added.

"All those folks that are buried in the grounds here at Mount Wollaston and those other cemeteries really make it sacred and make it hallowed ground. Let us never forget the sacrifice they have made for our freedom," Koch said.

City Council President Brad Croall said it was honor to speak on Memorial Day.

"Let us reflect on a quote made famous by the late Gen. Norman Schwarzkopf, which is, 'It doesn't take a hero to order men into battle. It takes a hero to be one of those men who goes into battle,'" Croall said.

"Let us all remain keenly aware that all gave some, some gave all, and the sweetness of freedom comes with a price."

The Rev. John Carl Swanson, the chaplain for the Quincy Veterans' Council, delivered the invocation at Monday's ceremony.

"It is said in the Apocrypha that many men die and leave a name for themselves but many more do not. It is as if they never lived, yet they shall be remembered for their deeds," Swanson said. "Let us remember the cliché is true: freedom is not free."

The Rev. Rebecca Froom, pastor at the United First Parish Church, gave the benediction.

"May our lives be guided by the highest ideals that we shared with those that have given their lives in service to our country. May those that have died in times of war and conflict be blessed with eternal peace," Froom said.

"And may the gratitude, the respect and the love that was shared today stay with us as we depart this sacred space."

Monday's ceremony also included a roll call of deceased comrades by Nicholson and George Bouchard, the city's graves registration officer. It also featured several readings including Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address by Guy Ferris, Gen. John Logan's letter proclaiming Decoration Day in the wake of the Civil War by Charlie Hurd, John McCrae's poem "In Flanders Fields" by Fred McCray, and Gov. Charlie Baker's order declaring Monday Memorial Day by Jacob Lustig, a Project 351 student.

The Quincy High School chorus sang the "Star-Spangled Banner" and Ward 5 Councillor sang "Amazing Grace." Doan Tran, an eighth grader at Sterling Middle School, started the ceremony with the Pledge of Allegiance.

Monday's ceremony was held at the World War II memorial at Mount Wollaston Cemetery, which bears the names of the 252 Quincy residents killed during the war.

A new location for the annual Veterans Day ceremony has yet to be identified. It was previously held on the grounds of the Adams Academy where the Doughboy Statue, which honors Quincy residents who served and died in World War I, was located before it was moved to its own park at the corner of the Furnace Brook Parkway and Hancock Street earlier this month.

SOME 1,000 AMERICAN FLAGS were placed at the graves of veterans interred at Mount Wollaston Cemetery in observance of Memorial Day. Veterans graves were also decorated with flags at Pine Hill Cemetery and other city cemeteries.

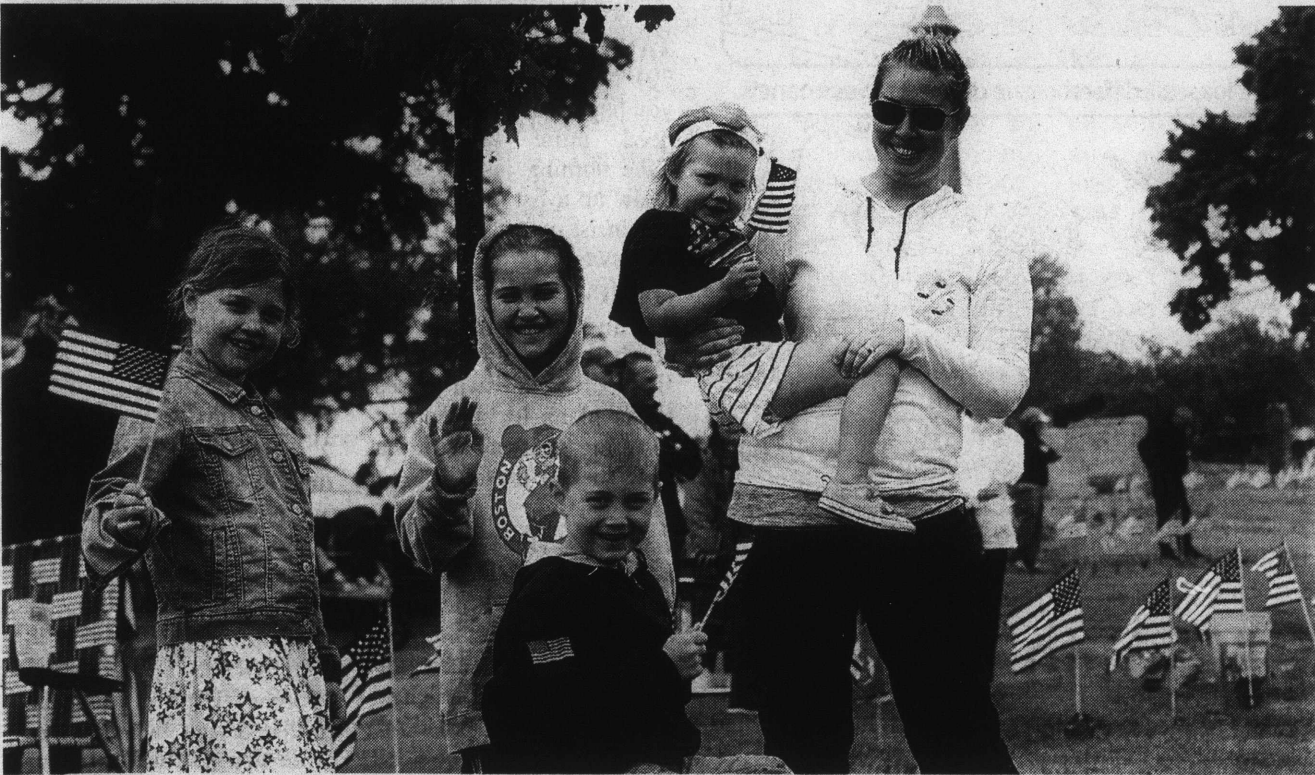

NAVY VETERAN Joseph Brill, a member of the Morrisette American Legion Post Squadron 294, joins in the singing of "Amazing Grace" by Ward 5 Councillor Kirsten Hughes at the conclusion of the Memorial Day observance at Mount Wollaston Cemetery Monday.

Pile Driving This Week At Center T Station Project

This week, the contractor at the Quincy Center MBTA Garage demolition project will begin the required pile driving operation to support a foundation for the new accessible walkway to the station, officials announced Tuesday.

Work is expected to take approximately six days/nights. Pile driving (27 piles) between the railroad right-of-way and Burgin Parkway will cause disruption since it occurs in a narrow strip of land and will generate construction noise and ground vibration from the hammering and other activities.

- Pile Driving Construction activities are anticipated

- Day Shift: Tuesday-Friday 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

- Week Night Shift: Tuesday-Friday 7 p.m. to 4 a.m.

The MBTA contractor has secured the work area with safety fencing and has mobilized equipment onto the site.

Pile driving activities will necessitate Burgin Parkway be reduced to one lane on the northbound side.

During day shifts and nighttime shifts, pile driving activities will continue and Quincy Center MBTA and Commuter Rail Stations will remain open to passengers with clearly designated public access areas to ensure public safety.

Garage demolition activities continue on the north end and Hancock Street side of the station.

Pile driving requires the use of large construction equipment including pile driving machines and mechanical hammers which will cause noise and ground vibration.

If pile driving is not completed the week of May 29, work will resume Monday-Tuesday, June 4-5.

A spokesperson for the project said: "We understand that pile driving and garage demolition activities will be difficult for abutters and a disruption to passengers. We apologize for the adverse but temporary impacts as we work to bring much needed Red Line Improvements to Quincy. Should you have questions or concerns, please feel to contact the Project Team at: Wollaston@MBTA.com.

Quincy Shipbuilding Topic At Historical Society

Wayne G. Miller will present an illustrated lecture based on his recent book, Quincy, Massachusetts, A Shipbuilding Tradition, Thursday, June 7, at 2 p.m. at Quincy Historical Society, the Adams Academy Building, 8 Adams St., Quincy Center.

Drawing on his research, Miller's talk will review the history of Quincy shipbuilding from the semi-legendary Unity of 1696 through the many ships and giant operation of Fore River yard. It will also tell the stories of the builders, men who regularly gambled everything on the success of their ventures.

Published by Quincy Historical Society this past November, Quincy Massachusetts, A Shipbuilding Tradition is the first comprehensive history of the topic to be written. Miller is also the author of Fore River Shipyard, A Postcard History. He is a member of the boards of Quincy Historical Society and the Thomas Crane Public Library Foundation.

There will be a book signing following the talk. The public is welcome. There is no admission charge.

Crane Library Bookstore Offers Summer Specials

Ask Barbara Graceffa: 'Secretary Of The Interior' Green Rug With Blue Walls & Beige Furniture?

Does a green rug go with blue walls and beige furniture? I took up my blue rug thinking I'd like the exposed wood floors in my living room but the floor looks too bare for my taste. I have my eye on a green rug at the store but I'm not sure it will work well. Anita

In general, yes – especially if they are the same value (in other words, the same color intensity or saturation.) Since blue and green are next to each other on the color wheel, they are "good neighbors." Also, due to the popularity of blue (its America's favorite color!), many consider it a neutral these days.

The same can be said for green as a neutral. Think of a mixed bouquet of flowers and the green stems and leaves that play well with an orange tiger lily, yellow daffodil, or purple iris – really, any color flower body.

Since Mother Nature put a blue sky and green foliage together, buy the new rug, Anita, and enjoy. As a final tip, take the analogy of the bouquet and add colored pillows of your choice.

What does "bespoke" design mean? I've seen it pop up more and more lately. I'm a decorating aficionado but never heard it used before. Mona

Your question tickles my funny bone because I, myself, had the same question a few weeks back! So I looked it up; the dictionary tells us the term means custom.

People choose custom design for lots of reasons. First, they want something no else has – from sofas to window treatments, for example. Second, their space does not allow standard sizes – perhaps wider, more narrow, shorter, or taller kitchen cabinets make your room function better. Third, they want to create their own art to express their home's personality – whether it be a chandelier made from canning jars or wine bottles to a handmade quilt or pillows.

Do you have a decorating challenge needing a professional solution? Send your questions to Secretary of the Interior at barbara@sec-interior.com.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Cheer up, Lamb. Your emotional impasse will lift once you allow your highly tuned sense of justice to guide you on what to do about an associate's questionable behavior.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) News about a project you hoped to work on might need more clarification. Take nothing just on faith. Draw up a list of questions, and insist on each being fully answered.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Giving your time to help others is fine. But don't lose sight of your own needs. Make plans for an energy-restoring getaway with that very special person in your life.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Congratulate yourself on getting that difficult job done to everyone's satisfaction. This could be the first of many such challenges you might be offered down the line.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) With your enthusiasm soaring again; you feel ready to tackle a tough new assignment. Good for you! And remember: Don't be too proud to accept help when it's offered.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Cupid rules the week for single Virgos eager to make a romantic connection. Meanwhile, Virgo couples experience renewed commitment in their relationships.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Home and work issues vie for your attention through early next week.

Rely on your Libran sense of balance to keep you from being overwhelmed by either side.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Creative projects might have to go on standby as you tackle other matters making demands on your time and energy. Things should ease by the middle of next week.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your energies are high, and so are your aspirations. But be careful not to let work dominate the week. It's also important to spend time with family and friends.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) It's a good time to set aside your pride and stop nursing those hurt feelings. Instead, consider restoring relationships you want to have back in your life.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You might be miffed at not being shown more appreciation for your hard work. But don't brood over it. Recognition comes in its own time and in its own way.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) With your inner creative juices starting to boil and bubble, this is a good time to launch a new arts-related project, or go back and restart the one you had set aside.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a way of seeing the best in people, which helps encourage them to live up to your perceptions.

HOLLYWOOD -- As the song says, "Everything Old Is New Again," and that's what happens when studios keep remaking the properties they own. "Catch 22" (1970) will now be a Hulu miniseries produced/directed by and starring George Clooney (with his partner Grant Heslov), with "Friday Night Lights" Kyle Chandler and "House" star Hugh Laurie. Keanu Reeves and Alex Winter are reteaming for the threequel "Bill & Ted Face the Music." "Bill & Ted's Excellent Adventure" (1989) made $40 million and their "Bogus Journey" (1991) earned $38 million. Winter has only appeared in "The Borrowers" (1997) and an episode of "Bones" (2007) since then because he has concentrated on directing and producing. "A Quiet Place," nearing $300 million, will have a sequel, most likely with John Krasinski and Emily Blunt. Now that Krasinski is hot as a producer/director, his old project with Aaron Sorokin, based on Shawn Levy's book "The Castle on Sunset," about the famed Chateau Marmont Hotel, has been revived and is in the works. Among other planned sequels are: "Sherlock Holmes 3," with Robert Downey Jr., Jude Law and Rachel McAdams returning for a December 2020 opening; "Journey 3: From the Earth to the Moon," the threequel to "Journey to the Center of the Earth 2" (2012), again with Dwayne Johnson and Josh Hutcherson; "Men In Black 4," without

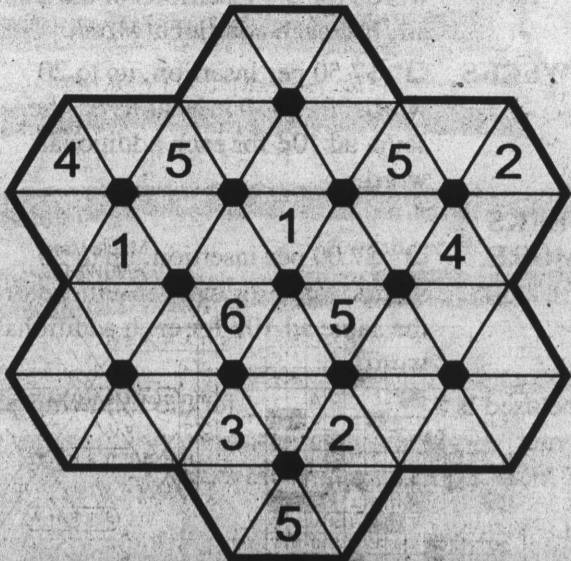

Will Smith and Tommy Lee Jones, but probably with Chris Hemsworth; "Beverly Hills Cop 4," with Eddie Murphy; "Rush Hour 4"; "Get Smart 2"; "Jump Street 3," with Channing Tatum and Jonah Hill; and a "Pacific Rim" threequel are just some of the 179 planned sequels. Also in the works are "The Chronicles of Narnia: The Silver Chair," and "Oz, The Great & Powerful 2," which continues the story of Oz and Glinda, now married with a daughter, Olivia, who doesn't know she's been cursed by an unknown witch (want to bet it's The Wicked Witch of the West?!).  Hugh Grant, who won a London Film Critics Award as best supporting actor for "Paddington 2" (which raked in $226 million), is returning to TV in a three-part BBC miniseries, "A Very English Scandal," with Ben Whislaw. Amy Poehler is producing, directing and starring in Netflix's "Wine Country," with SNL ladies Tina Fey, Rachel Dratch, Ana Gasteyer and Maya Rudolph. She's also got two shows for NBC: "Abby's," a "Cheers"-like series, with Neil Flynn (just off nine years in "The Middle") and Natalie Morales; and as host of an unscripted NBC competition series, "Making It," with Nick Offerman. If you're over 30, you can't help but hear the song "Deja Vu" play in your head while watching rebooted movies and TV shows!

By Terry and Kim Kovel

Yellow Fan Clock

Some of the most popular clocks made after 1944 in the mid-century modern style were designed by an architect and journalist. George Nelson (1908-1986) graduated with a degree in architecture in 1931. He went to Europe and wrote magazine articles praising the famous designers and introducing both their ideas and his to the U.S. He suggested the open-plan house, storage walls and family rooms, which all are popular today. Herman Miller, the furniture maker, asked him to become the design director of his company. And that was the beginning of his many still-collected designs, like the "Marshmallow" sofa, "Coconut" chair and the "Ball" clock.

Howard Miller Clock Co. produced over 30 different wall clocks based on his idea of an almost-round face with geometric additions, or subtractions and simple hands. Some were just a group of sticks with colored balls at the end that radiated from the center to form a circle. There was no frame, no glass and no numbers. Each design for a clock was made in many different colors. The "Fan" clock was designed in about 1954. It looks like a folded star-shaped cutout. A yellow Fan clock sold for $3,625 at the Los Angeles Modern auction in Van Nuys, California, in 2016. A black version sold at the same auction brought only $2,250. The original clocks ran on electricity, but you can substitute a battery so no cord will show. Save and reinstall the old parts before you sell the clock or the value will be less.

Q: I have three Mr.

Peanut glass jars with "Planters," a picture of Mr. Peanut and "75th anniversary" embossed on both sides. They are about 8 1/4 inches tall and have lids. The dates 1861 and 1906 also are on the jars. What are they worth?

A: You're reading one of the dates wrong. The 75th anniversary of Planters was in 1981. If you read 1981 upside down, it looks like 1861. The company started as Planters Nut and Chocolate Co. in Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, in 1906. Mr. Peanut was adopted as a trademark in 1916. The company was bought by Standard Brands in 1961. Standard Brands merged with Nabisco in 1981. Some of the Mr. Peanut jars have been reproduced. These jars sell for $5 to $10 each.

CURRENT PRICES

Soap dish, Union Porcelain Works, white, green transfer emblem, oval, rolled rim, marked, c. 1905, 3 1/2 x 5 inches, $25.

Doorstop, mouse, sitting up, cast iron, painted, shaped base, bottom lined with felt, c. 1905, 4 inches, $60.

Bread slicer, cast iron, turned wooden handle and slice tray, curved blade, Alexanderwerk, Germany, 1930s, 11 x 15 inches, $160.

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was computer guru Jef Raskin who made the following sage observation: "Imagine if every Thursday your shoes exploded if you tied them the usual way. This happens to us all the time with computers, and nobody thinks of complaining."

* The Secret Service is well-known today as the protector of the U.S. president, so you might be surprised to learn that it was originally established to fight counterfeit currency.

* The world record for the most published works by a single author is held by L. Ron Hubbard (who also, incidentally, founded the Church of Scientology). His first work was published in February 1934, and his final work -- number 1,084 -- was published in March 2006.

* Doubtless you've heard of the Taj Mahal in India, but did you know that there is a tourist attraction in America that is so grand it is popularly known as the Taj Mahal of the West? In 1968, a group of Hare Krishnas founded the New Vrindaban Community near Wheeling, West Virginia. Though they began on 100 acres with no electricity or running water, the community now covers more than 1,200 acres and features Prabhupada's Palace of Gold, an ornate edifice of gold, marble and hand-carved teakwood. The award-winning rose garden alone is said to be worth a trip.

* Those who study such things claim that in the wild, animals don't die of old age.

* The town of Key Largo, Florida, did not exist before the 1948 film of that name starring Humphrey Bogart made it famous.

* Due to a series of earthquakes in 1811 and 1812, the Mississippi River ran backward for a time.

Thought for the Day: "To fall in love is to create a religion that has a fallible god." -- Jorge Luis Borges

Now here's a tip!

by Jo Ann Derson

* Sunburn relief: Take two nonsteroidal anti-inflammatories right away (aspirin, ibuprofen) and soak a cloth in cold milk. Drape over the burn until it warms to room temperature. Repeat if necessary and apply a light moisturizer.

* "When purchasing clothes for a loved one in a care facility, look for garments that are comfortable and stylish, but double-check that they do not require any special care, like ironing or dry cleaning. Also, be sure they are labeled clearly with the person's name." -- C.G. in Michigan

* If you want your chocolate chip cookies to really pop, sprinkle lightly with coarse sea salt before baking. They do not come out tasting salty. Rather, the salt enhances the sweetness and make the whole thing extra delicious.

* "When you shop for shoes, go in the evening.

Feet swell and expand throughout the day, so if you buy shoes in the morning, the fit might not feel too good later in the day." -- A.T. in Louisiana

* "I make my grilled cheese sandwiches with mayonnaise instead of butter. I know it sounds gross, but it is so good. The oil and egg in the mayo flavor and crisp the bread without leaving it too greasy." -- S.O. in Alabama

* To ease the ache of a "brain freeze" after eating or drinking something really cold, simply cup your hands over your mouth and nose. Blow out hot air, and it recirculates to warm your palate in seconds. Works like a charm.

St. Joseph's Rosary Pathway Dedicated

SAINT JOSEPH'S CHURCH rosary pathway was recently dedicated. Joseph Desmond Jr., a Quincy boy scout and parishioner at the church, created the new pathway for his Eagle Scout project. A rosary pathway allows individuals to pray the rosary as they walk along it.

Boy Scouts in sixth grade. He plans to remain active in his troop.

"When I get my Eagle Scout, I'm going to stick with the troop – maybe become like an assistant scoutmaster or something," Desmond said.

At Quincy High School, Desmond is involved in the robotics program as well as the school's math club. He is intent on attending college after high school, and plans to major in astrophysics or computer science, or both. He has already visited several colleges, including Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Boston University and Boston College.

Desmond's father said he was proud of the project his son completed.

"It's a great accomplishment. It all came together nicely and he did a good job seeing it through," he said. "There was a lot of work behind it. It really looks nice."

School Committee ‘Open Forum’ To Be For Residents Only

By TOM GORMAN

Non-Quincy residents will no longer be allowed to address the school committee during its open forum session, where parents and citizens can personally raise issues or ask questions about the Quincy public system.

The committee recently voted 4 to 2 to amend the open forum policy that now calls for non-residents to submit a written statement to the committee. Vice Chairwoman Emily Lebo and colleague James DeAmicis cast dissenting votes. Member Douglas Gutro was absent.

The open forum session is held at the beginning of school committee meetings where the community can have input on school matters. Those addressing the committee are allowed a maximum of four minutes and cannot exchange their time or yield to another speaker.

Some committee members opined that the public forum should be limited to Quincy residents.

“I am accountable to the voters of Quincy and the residents of Quincy,” said Mayor Thomas Koch, who is also chairman of the committee. “There have been some instances that people have wasted our precious time, people not from not this community with no vested interest in this community.”

Lebo countered there have been few occasions where non-residents have addressed the committee.

“This is a solution to a problem that we do not have,” she said. “I am really concerned about the unintended consequences.”

Money OK'd For Rat Control

By SCOTT JACKSON

The Health Department's budget for the new fiscal year includes additional funds to fight Quincy's rat problem.

Mayor Thomas Koch's spending plan for fiscal year 2019, which starts July 1, boosts the Health Department's budget from $836,000 to $1.27 million – an increase of $292,000. Included in the increase is an additional $200,000 for pest control, bringing that line item up to $280,000 total, and funding for a new food inspector who will be assigned to rat-control efforts.

The City Council's finance committee approved the department's budget by voice vote on May 30.

Health Commissioner Drew Scheele said his department has received about 1,000 rat-related calls from residents so far this fiscal year, roughly the same as in fiscal year 2017. About 500 homes have been baited so far this year.

The city currently uses poison to bait rat traps, Scheele said. The additional money in the new fiscal year's budget will allow for the use of a new product, ContraPest, which doesn't kill the rats but stops them from reproducing.

“ContraPest is a little more expensive than the regular baiting, but ContraPest will eliminate the reproduction activity of the rats so we're hoping that by controlling the reproduction aspect of it we can get them out of the neighborhoods where they are,” Scheele said, and into areas of the city where people don't live, like marshes.

The City Council's finance committee on Monday approved a $310.71 million budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 after cutting more than $100,000

Senate Passes FY'19 Budget, Keenan Highlights Local Impact

The State Senate last week voted unanimously to pass a $41.49 billion budget for Fiscal Year 2019, a budget that proponents say invests in key areas related to education, local aid, health and human services, housing and tools for low income families, while limiting the use of one-time revenue sources and directing $88.5M to the state's Stabilization Fund.

State Sen. John Keenan (D - Quincy) said the budget included targeted investments to create opportunities and ensure access to the tools that individuals, children and families need to succeed in the economy and in their communities.

"By focusing on local aid increases, investments in public education, family services and health care, the budget passed by the Senate reflects its commitment both to both local municipalities and to all the citizens of the Commonwealth," said Keenan.

Overall, the budget includes a 3.9 percent increase in local aid, moving the City of Quincy up to a total of $19,743,316 for fiscal year 2019 to help fund schools, public safety, and other essential local services. The Thomas Crane Library and the Council on Aging will also see funding increases.

The budget invests significantly in education for people of all ages and backgrounds and focuses in particular on elementary and secondary education, including $4.91B for the Chapter 70 education formula, its highest level ever. This funding allows for a minimum aid increase of $30 per pupil for every school district across the state and 100 percent effort reduction to bring all school districts to their target local contribution. The budget also continues to phase in the Foundation Budget Review Commission (FBRC) recommendations to more adequately fund school districts and ensure high quality education for all students.

Locally, Quincy will receive an increase in Chapter 70 education funding, reaching a total of $27,395,085 for fiscal year 2019, as well as additional funding for Special Education programs.

The Senate budget also increases funds available to cities and towns from the Community Preservation Trust, which provides partial-match grants to municipalities for certain conservation, recreation, or housing focused projects. The additional funding will come from increased recording fees at Registry of Deeds across the Commonwealth. Quincy has been a participating municipality since 2006.

New Emergency Management Post Gets First OK

By SCOTT JACKSON

Mayor Thomas Koch's proposal to hire a new director of emergency management has received a preliminary go-ahead from the City Council.

The council's finance committee on May 30 approved Koch's request to set aside $86,700 for the new director position in the city's budget for fiscal year 2019, which starts July 1. The committee also approved three other public safety budgets — police, fire, and animal control — that night.

The city previously had a part-time emergency management director but the position was cut about eight years ago in the wake of the Great Recession, Chris Walker, Koch's director of policy and information, told the council.

The Emergency Management Department was included in subsequent budgets; the department's budget included a secretary and several other line items, including those for office supplies, maintenance and food supplies. Fire Chief Joseph Barron served as the director of emergency management following the elimination of the part-time director.

Koch announced plans to restore the position earlier this year following the March 2 nor'easter that caused coastal flooding in Ward 1 and elsewhere in the city. First responders evacuated more than 500 people from homes and vehicles during the storm.

Walker said the new emergency management director would be able to plan for emergencies in advance, such as identifying locations for shelters and assembling teams of volunteers — including doctors and nurses — to staff them.

Barron voiced his support for the change.

"It's the preparation and planning that takes a lot of time. It is a separate discipline from being a firefighter or a fire chief," Barron said.

"It takes me away from being the fire chief. I do spend a lot of time in the EVERYTHING'S COMING UP ROSES!

"Rose gold," an alloy of gold and copper, was very popular during the mid-1920s. However, by the end of the twentieth century, its popularity waned. Then, interest in what is also known as pink gold, red gold, and blush gold began to skyrocket, helped along by the introduction of the rose gold variant of Apple's iPhone 6s in 2015. Today, rose gold is finding its way back into fine jewelry everywhere, from multiple necklaces to engagement rings and stacked rings and bangles. Depending upon how much copper is added to the gold, the color of rose gold can range from orange-yellow to dusky pink to red-orange. These beautiful colors can also work with men's jewelry.

Jewelry to find exquisite gold jewelry of fine design. Whether you prefer rose gold with its soft, shimmering, flattering beauty or yellow gold with a bright mirror finish, there is really nothing quite like the feeling you get when you wear gold jewelry. Senate Passes FY 2019 Budget

Sen. Keenan filed several local amendments to the budget for which were approved, resulting in a continued allocation of $50,000 for hazardous materials training for Quincy's Fire Department, $30,000 for safety improvements to the Adams' crypt where the two former U.S. Presidents and their wives are buried, and $30,000 for Quincy's 400th anniversary celebration. Additionally, funding for the Metropolitan Beaches Commission will specifically support Wollaston Beach cleanup and seasonal staff.

Keenan also filed several other amendments. He was successful in securing additional funding for the Department of Developmental Services. "A challenge to those with developmental disabilities is securing transportation to get to work or to day programs," said Keenan, "and this funding will ensure access for them."

As a result of another of Keenan's amendment, Chapter 766 schools offering education to students with special needs will be able to offset increasing costs with tuition increases. "Our local public schools cannot always meet the demands of students with special needs, so many go to Chapter 766 schools," Keenan stated. I am pleased that my colleagues joined with me to make sure that these schools have the resources necessary to provide the quality education their students deserve."

Keenan also filed an amendment, that was adopted, to provide funding for Manet Community Health's integrated behavioral health program, a critical piece of the region's response to the opioid epidemic. He also successfully pushed for an expansion of the Massachusetts Child Psychiatry Access Project, which will further integrate behavioral health into primary care settings by providing specialized consultation in perinatal health and substance use to primary care practitioners. Keenan pointed out that funding to the Department of Mental Health for mental health and substance use programs was increased by nearly $100 million.

Other highlights of the Senate budget include:

- $518.9M for the University of Massachusetts,
- $282.7M for community colleges, and
- $259M for state universities

- $100M to reimburse school districts for costs incurred when students leave to attend charter schools

- $8.7M for Childcare Resource and Referral Centers to boost salaries and decrease caseloads for caseworkers helping parents, childcare providers, employers and community groups navigate the state's early education landscape

- $4M for Youth-At-Risk Matching grants, including support for YWCAs, YMCAs and Boys & Girls Clubs

- $142.9M for a range of substance abuse treatment, intervention and recovery support services, including funding to open five new recovery centers

- $92.5M for children's mental health services, including $3.9M for the Massachusetts Child Psychiatric Access Program

- $33.4M for adult basic education services to improve access to skills and tools necessary to join the workforce

- $10.3M for summer jobs and work-readiness training for at-risk youth.

- $156M for Emergency

Assistance Family Shelters

- $97.5M for the Massachusetts Rental Voucher Program (MRVP)

- $18.5M for Residential Assistance for Families in Transition (RAFT), including $3M to expand eligibility to include persons with disabilities, seniors, unaccompanied youth and individuals

- $6.5M for nearly 160 new rental subsidies for individuals with mental health challenges

The Senate also adopted an amendment to protect the civil rights of immigrants and prevent state resources from being used to enforce federal immigration law or to establish a registry based on a person's protected status.

A Conference Committee will now work out the differences between the Senate budget and the version passed by the House of Representatives in April. Fiscal Year 2019 begins on July 1, 2018.

Citizens with any questions on the Senate budget are asked to contact Senator John Keenan's office at 617-722-1494 or email John.Keenan@masenate.gov.

AARP Massachusetts Fraud Update - June

BY CINDY CAMPBELL

AARP Massachusetts, Communications Director

Did you know that someone's identity gets stolen every two seconds?

The AARP Fraud Watch Network provides tips and resources to help spot and avoid identity theft and fraud so you can protect yourself and your family. AARP watchdog alerts keep you up to date on con artists' latest tricks. It's free of charge for everyone: AARP members, non-members, and people of all ages.

The AARP Fraud Watch Network is:

An Educator: Get real-time alerts about the latest scams, tips on how to spot them, and the inside scoop on how con artists think so you can outsmart them before they strike.

A Watchdog: Our nationwide scam tracking map gives you access to a network of people who've spotted scams and the opportunity to pass along your own experiences, so together we can beat con artists at their own game.

A Resource: Get connected to a real live person trained in how to avoid fraud and advise you if you or a loved one has been scammed by calling our fraud hotline or attending a forum in your community.

Free for Everyone: Anyone, of any age, can access our resources at no cost.

SCAM ALERT #1:

Elder abuse can happen anywhere, anytime. It's estimated that older adults lose about $3 billion annually due to financial exploitation and abuse. The effects go beyond the checkbook; it can cause emotional distress, deterioration of physical health, and loss of independence. Only about 1 out of 14 cases are actually reported to authorities. If you suspect someone is being abused, please report it. June 15th is World Elder Abuse Awareness Day. Seniors, family members and senior providers are encouraged to contact their local AARP State Office for free scam and fraud prevention resources or for more information.

SCAM ALERT #2:

Concerts are especially popular during summer months. Scammers have found a way to use this to their advantage. Make sure to always buy your tickets from a reputable source! Be on the lookout for any ticket sellers that tell a sad story about why they can't use their tickets, can only accept cash, want you to wire the money or transfer through a prepaid account, or who pressure you to act quickly. Report any suspicious sellers to local law enforcement.

SCAM ALERT #3:

Summer isn't all about spending days at the beach or traveling. Finding employment has become a top priority for younger adults and temporary job seekers. However, discerning whether or not the job is legitimate has become a huge problem. Watch out for employers who require fees for training and for ordering a background check. A genuine employer would NEVER ask for someone to pay for this. Make sure the company is legitimate before sharing any personal information or sending them any money.

SCAM ALERT #4:

Reports are coming in about a Publisher's Clearing House (PCH) scam so please be aware and share this important information. The scammer will call you, claiming to be an employee of PCH and will direct you to a "claims agent." This person will inform you that you have won millions of dollars, but that you have to pay a tax or collector's fee in order to receive your prize. Please note: PCH will never ask you to pay a fee to collect a prize. No legitimate prize promoter ever charges a fee when you win. In addition, PCH never calls ahead to tell the winner they have won a prize. Please check the PCH fraud protection page for more information about this and other scams: <https://info.pch.com/fraud-protection-2/>.

Be a fraud fighter! If you can spot a scam, you can stop a scam.

Report scams to local law enforcement. Contact the AARP Fraud Watch Network at www.aarp.org/fraudwatch-network for more information on fraud prevention.

Thank You

Despite the cold and wet day, the Memorial Day parade and ceremony were well attended.

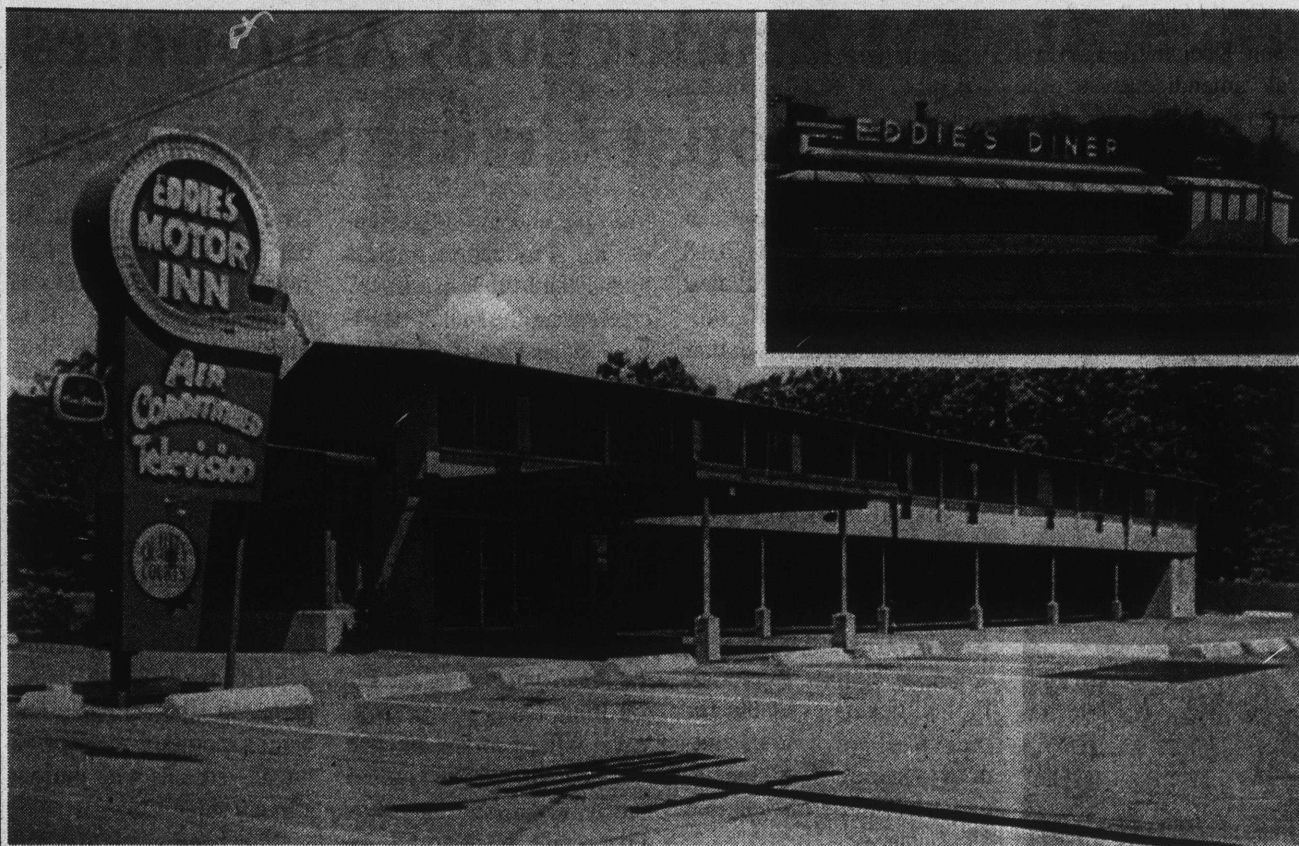

People of all ages came to pay tribute to those who sacrificed their lives for the freedom we are so fortunate to enjoy. The city's cemeteries were as impressive this year as in the past. With the fountain at the entrance to Mount Wollaston adorned with flowers, flags standing tall at the passage through to Pine Hill, and Veterans' graves at all of the City's cemeteries bedecked with flags, visitors streamed through to visit and plant flowers at loved ones graves.

Thank you to all who worked so hard for this solemn holiday.

THIS 1960 POSTCARD was published by the owners of Eddie's Motor Inn in Quincy Point. It had just been built next to Eddie's Diner at the junction of what was then Route 3 and Quincy Avenue, known as the "Gateway to Cape Cod." The motor inn, with 24 new modern rooms, was a member of Quality Courts United which was the first group of independent motel owners to offer amenities such as wall-to-wall carpeting, tile baths, televisions and telephones in every room along with 24-hour ser-

QCAP, MASSCAP To Discuss Poverty In Quincy, South Shore At Forum June 12

Panel Discussion At Quincy Chamber Of Commerce

Quincy Community Action Programs (QCAP) will host an economic opportunity forum on Tuesday, June 12 to discuss the findings from a new report on poverty written by Mass-Budget called "Obstacles on the Road to Opportunity: Finding a Way Forward Together."

The Massachusetts Association of Community Action (MASSCAP) and the United Way of Massachusetts Bay and Merrimack Valley are co-sponsoring the event with QCAP, where the results of the poverty study will be highlighted by a panel discussion.

MASSCAP, the statewide association of 23 Community Actions Agencies (CAAs) operating in Massachusetts, commissioned the study, an update of findings that the agency released in 2014. The discussion will be moderated by Chazy Dowaliby, former editor of The Patriot Ledger. Panelists will include Tim Cahill, president and executive director, Quincy Chamber of Commerce; Michelle Elias Bloomer, Dean of Professional Studies & Workforce Development, Bunker Hill College; Richard Fernandez, president and CEO, Beth Israel Deaconess Hospital - Milton; Gail Sokoloff senior director for Community Impact, United Way of Massachusetts Bay and Merrimack Valley; and Beth Ann Strollo, CEO, QCAP.

This landmark report is underwritten by United Way of Massachusetts Bay and Merrimack Valley along with The Boston Foundation, Cambridge Community Foundation, Greater Worcester Community Foundation, Community Foundation of Western Massachusetts, Eastern Bank, Essex County Community Foundation, Lowell Community Foundation, United Way of Pioneer Valley, and Worcester Community Action Council.

The forum will start at 8 a.m. and be held at the Quincy Chamber of Commerce, 180 Old Colony Ave. in Quincy. To register, visit www.qcap.org.

Legislators Share Small Business Experiences With Quincy Chamber Members

In celebration of Small Business Month, the Quincy Chamber of Commerce recently hosted a breakfast sponsored by Eastern Bank.

Speakers included small business owners Sen. John Keenan, Rep. James Murphy, and Rep. Bruce Ayers.

The legislators shared their business backgrounds and experiences with the chamber members, along with addressing legislative initiatives in the Quincy and South Shore region.

Quincy Chamber of Commerce Chairman Tim Cahill was praised for his efforts in building the relationship between the public and private sectors.

Della Chiesa Urges Funds For Revaluation

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa again urged the City Council to approve funds for a revaluation program.

Della Chiesa took issue with arguments that there is no urgency about sending out tax bills since they are not due until November anyway.

The city is enjoined from preparing or sending out tax bills which 19 Quincy taxpayers charge, in a lawsuit, are based on illegal and disproportionate assessments. It is understood that if the councillors pass the order appropriating funds for revaluation, the lawsuit will be withdrawn and the injunction lifted.

Some councillors have reportedly sought to achieve unanimity on the issue so individual councilors will be "off the hook" politically in voting for the program.

Alba Gilabert-Reid To Perform At Project STEP Anniversary Concert

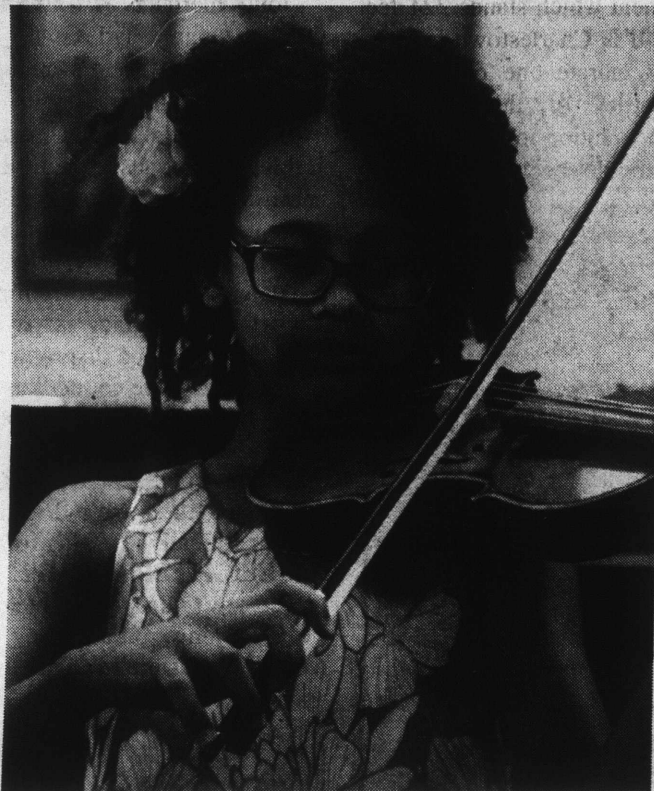

Alba Gilabert-Reid of Quincy will take part in Project STEP's 35th anniversary celebration.

In partnership with the New England Conservatory (NEC), a free anniversary celebration event will be held on Sunday, June 10, at NEC's Jordan Hall.

Project STEP as an organization dedicated to opening doors for young musicians of color and addressing the issue of minorities being underrepresented in classical music.

"We are so tremendously grateful to reach such a milestone," said Project STEP Executive Director Gabriella Sanna. "Over the last three and a half decades, Project STEP has been blessed with dedicated faculty, staff, and board members—but it is really the students and their families that shine the brightest among us. Their commitment to this program, week after week, is truly inspiring. It serves as a daily reminder that this is why we do this."

Project STEP began back in the early 1980s with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and William Moyer, then-Orchestra Personnel Manager of the BSO, as he was

Despite travelling across the country, Moyer could not find any with the extensive music training required for the auditions. Project STEP opened its doors officially in 1982 with 7 students and has since welcomed hundreds of children to receive dedicated, rigorous training and music education that they may never have otherwise received

Today, Project STEP offers programming grades K-12, and includes a Spring Recital, Masterclasses with both nationally and internationally-acclaimed musicians, attendance to concerts, and more.

JM Productions Announces Showboat Cruise Schedule

JM Productions of Quincy announces its 2018 Showboat Cruises aboard "The Music Queen" presented live from Squantum Point Park at Marina Bay, Quincy.

JM Productions 2018 dates include the annual Weymouth Fireworks show on July 3rd aboard "The Massachusetts" with fireworks and DJ music. There will be a cash bar and an appetizer station. There are limited tickets available for this cruise for upstairs outdoor seating. This special event sells out each year due to its popularity.

On July 14th and Aug. 25, JM Productions offers a three-hour morning matinee cruise with buffet, entertainment and cruise that also includes tax and gratuity. Also offered is a three-hour Sunset/Moonlight Cruise on both dates with passed hors d'oeuvres, entertainment, cruise, tax and gratuity. There will be one "no frills" afternoon cruise on Aug. 25th that will not include entertainment or food options but there will be a cash bar.

On July 14th at both morning and evening cruises JM Productions offers "An Elton John Experience" celebrating the music of Elton John and many other 70s and 80s acts. Dance and sign along to some of America's favorite music.

From "America's Got Talent", "Legends in Concert", and for over 15 years with more than 3,000 performances, vocalist and pianist Bill Connors has perfected the art of portraying Sir Elton John. Every mannerism, voice inflection and nuance has been carefully studied and recreated. Bill also has what can't be learned by impersonators: an uncanny resemblance to Captain Fantastic. The costumes, the color, the fabulous showmanship, time tested hit songs is all captured by Bill, making this the perfect show for JM Productions Showboat Cruises.

Bill has portrayed Elton in sports arenas, top venues and concert halls across the country. Bill's show at the world famous Jake Ivory's won "The Improper Bostonian's Best of Boston" award and the club he runs currently in Connecticut won an award twice for "best piano bar" in Connecticut. Last June Bill was honored to be invited to Liverpool, UK to perform "Lucy in the Sky" as part of the official Sgt. Pepper 50th anniversary.

On Aug. 25th at both the morning and evening cruise JM Productions offers "The Gypsy Moths" a seven-piece Rock and Roll, Soul, R&B high energy band based out of Boston. This group brings a full-fledged Rockin' dance party to the cruise. The band's members are Boston music veterans who present a lively stage show.

The band's mission has been to bring a rollicking high energy groove matched by no other band, in the tradition and under the influence of the true "Rock-Rhythm-and-Blues show bands" like Sam Cooke, Van Morrison, David Bowie, Chicago, Steel Dan and the J. Geils Band to name a few.

For tickets visit www.jm-productions.com/presents/event-brite.com. Order and print your tickets at your home or office 24/7. Patrons can also call JM Productions during normal business hours at (857) 333-4199.

Fireworks July 4th Celebrate Independence Day, Restaurant Anniversary

Bay Pointe Waterfront Restaurant, owned and operated by the South Shore's Hynes Restaurant Group, will host a large fireworks display July 4 for Quincy residents in honor of Independence Day and in conjunction with the restaurant's 20th anniversary celebration.

In recognition of the rich history of the city, its roots in American politics, and its famous residents' contributions to shaping the beginnings of the United States, the pyrotechnics show will launch from a barge in Town River Bay at 9:15 p.m. allowing for maximum viewing from many vantage points citywide including, but not limited to, Germantown, Quincy Point, Merrymount, Hough's Neck and the Fore River Bridge area adjacent to North Weymouth.

The City of Quincy was home to such American heroes and framers as President John Adams and his wife Abigail Adams, President John Quincy Adams as well as John Hancock, the first signer of the Declaration of Independence. Hynes Restaurant Group owner Kevin Hynes said the city of nearly 100,000 residents in current day deserve an Independence Day celebration worthy of the contributions of some of its earliest occupants from centuries earlier.

"We have been honored to be a part of the City of Quincy for the past two decades as a culinary destination for the freshest seafood New England has to offer and some of the best water and sunset views around," Hynes said. "Now it's time for us to give back not only to our guests and all those who have made Bay Pointe Waterfront Restaurant what it is today but also to the entire city and we are excited to work with Mayor Thomas Koch on this great occasion and event."

While Bay Pointe Waterfront Restaurant will be closed to the public beginning at 6 p.m. on July 4 for a private event, the fireworks display can be viewed citywide.

Tickets for the private party at Bay Pointe are on sale now. Call the restaurant at 617-472-3200 or visit in person. Questions regarding the party or suggested viewing sites for the fireworks can be directed to restaurant management at the same phone number.

Ed Keohane Celebrates 50 Years As Member Of Quincy Rotary Club

Ed Keohane, owner of Keohane Funeral Homes celebrated his 50th Anniversary of membership in the Rotary Club of Quincy on May 21.

This milestone was celebrated at The Neighborhood Club of Quincy at a regular Tuesday Lunch Meeting on March 27. To commemorate the occasion, Keohane served as the luncheon guest speaker and gave his updated autobiography, mainly recalling all of the good community service work, shenanigans and fellowship that he has shared during his time as a club member and leader.

It is customary for newly inducted members to deliver their autobiography to the other members, as a way of getting to know one another. It seemed fitting, after 50 years of membership, for Keohane to provide an updated autobiography, so that newer members of the club understand and appreciate Ed's rich history as part of the Rotary Club of Quincy.

A surprise guest was in attendance, Mayor Thomas Koch, to officiate the celebration. The mayor shared both kind words and congratulations to Ed on this significant milestone. In addition, he bestowed an Official Citation from the City of Quincy, commemorating the celebration of Ed's 50th Anniversary of membership in the Rotary Club of Quincy.

A special Rotary Anniversary cake, provided by Montilio's Bakery was enjoyed by all as part of the celebration.

The Rotary Club of Quincy would like to sincerely thank Ed for his 50 years of dedicated service and leadership. He is always a positive voice, with words of encouragement to others. He steps up when leadership is needed and he has been very generous with his financial support of Quincy Rotary and other community service efforts. He serves as a role model to Rotary members and the community alike, for his generosity of time, talent and treasure. His personal and business conduct exemplifies the Rotary Motto: Service Above Self.

The Rotary Club of

Quincy is a group of business professionals who value ethical business conduct and associate as friends for the purpose of bettering their Quincy community, as well as the world community through Rotary International. They do so through direct community service projects, as well as financial support of other service organizations.

Quincy Rotary meets at the Neighborhood Club on Tuesdays for lunch from 12:15-1:30 p.m. Guests are welcome.

To learn more about the Rotary Club of Quincy join the members for lunch or visit the club's website at www.quincyrotary.com.

Bunker Hill Quarry Tour June 16

The Bunker Hill Monument which stands 221 feet tall in Charlestown to commemorate one of the first battles of the American Revolution in 1775, had its humble beginnings in the rocky hills of the Blue Hills Reservation.

Solomon Willard, the architect and superintendent, roamed the countryside looking for suitable stone for the monument and found it in West Quincy.

Join members of the Quincy Quarry and Granite Workers Museum and a DCR park interpreter to explore Bunker Hill Quarry, and learn about the amazing engineering feats behind the building of the Bunker Hill Monument and the Granite Railway, first commercial railroad in America that transported granite from the quarries of West Quincy to the Neponset River for shipment to Charlestown.

Must be able to walk 1 mile on moderately rocky, uneven terrain.

The walk will be held Saturday, June 16 at 10 a.m. Meet at the Quincy Quarries parking lot at 10 a.m. located on Ricciuti Drive in West Quincy. Look for the large paved parking lot on the right at the top the first hill.

Free Flag Cleaning At Dependable Cleaners

With Flag Day coming up June 14 and Fourth of July to follow, many plan to display the red, white and blue outside homes and businesses.

If your American flag isn't in the best condition, bring it to any Dependable Cleaners' location for a free cleaning.

"Dependable Cleaners began the tradition of cleaning U.S. flags for free in 1944, and today we clean hundreds of flags each year," said Christa Hagearty, president and CEO of Dependable Cleaners. "Hanging our flags outdoors all summer can take a toll on them. We want to help our clients keep their flags in top shape this season."

The experienced team of master dry cleaners will remove all stains using an eco-friendly solution, leaving flags looking as crisp and clean as the first time they waved. Visit any one of Dependable Cleaners' 16 locations for the free cleaning, which is offered year-round.

For more than 70 years, Dependable Cleaners, a third generation family-owned company, has been providing premium dry cleaning and laundry services throughout greater Boston and southern Massachusetts, with more than 16 locations and convenient home and office delivery.

Jean's Grain-Free Pumpkin Pie

After Easter my niece, Jean, brought me over a piece of her delicious pumpkin pie and because some members of her family cannot eat flour, this pie crust is made with dates and nuts.

Although it was different, it was very delicious and also healthy too.

RECIPE:

Ingredients for Crust

15 - 18 pitted dates
3 cups of walnuts
½ teaspoon of cinnamon

Ingredients for Filling

2 large eggs
1 cup of canned coconut milk
1 large can of pureed pumpkin
½ cup of honey
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

1 teaspoon of cinnamon
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cloves

(In place of separate spices you can also use 2 teaspoons of mixed pumpkin pie spice)

Preheat oven to 350 degrees, combine the crust ingredients and place in blender or food processor and pulse until mixture is crumbly.

Press crust mixture into a 9 inch round baking pan or pie dish and set aside.

Add the ingredients for pumpkin pie filling also into a blender or food processor until well combined.

Pour filling over crust and bake for 45-50 minutes or until edges begin to turn brown.

Allow to cool before cutting and serving.

A Lighter Coleslaw

By SUSIE

You know, coleslaw really is a health food.

Its main ingredient is cabbage, which is rich with an array of cancer fighting plant chemicals (called indoles), fiber, along with lots of other vitamins and minerals.

This dressing is light and flavorful. Adding the fresh cilantro and flaxseed oil knocks the nutritional value out of the park!

1/2 head green cabbage, halved, and sliced very thinly. (You can purchase it already chopped if you like!)

2 carrots, grated

1/2 cup chopped scallions
1/3 cup chopped fresh cilantro
2 tablespoons flax oil
1 1/2 tablespoons apple cider vinegar (the raw kind)
1 1/2 tsp raw honey
1/4 tsp cumin
1/4 tsp sea salt and pepper

Simply whisk the dressing ingredients in small bowl and toss with everything else. Chilling this dish makes it taste even better.

Adjust seasonings if needed. (May need more salt and pepper.)

Lions Club To Honor Bertman Family At Evening For Sight June 12

The Quincy Lions Club will host its annual Evening for Sight event on June 12, at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

Funds raised by this event will be used to support the club's charitable outreach initiatives, including the KidSight Program, vision screening and its North Quincy and Quincy High School scholarship program.

"Funds raised at the Evening for Sight will allow Lions to meet pressing needs in our community," said Evening for Sight Committee Chairperson David Sawyer of the Quincy Lions Club. "Lions members thank everyone who contributes to this important work. You are truly helping Lions make a difference in our community."

This year, the Francis X McCauley Community Service Award will be presented to Mark, Isobel and Jeff Bertman in recognition of their many years of outstanding commitment to the Quincy community. Owners of Rogers Jewelry since 1960, Mark and Isobel have tirelessly supported Quincy through their volunteerism and philanthropic endeavors.

Stop & Shop will also be recognized with the Community Champion Award in recognition of their volunteerism and support of the Quincy Lions Club. Entertainment will be provided by Lil Miss Sophia Hurley.

Sponsor for this year's event include Eastern Bank, Rural Lodge of Masons A. F. & A.M., The Honorable Mayor Thomas P. Koch, Equitable Bank, NorthEast Community Bank, Hamel Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home, Lydon Chapel and Keohane Funeral Home.

Ticket and sponsorship information can be found on the club's website www.quincylionsclub.com

FRIENDS OF QUINCY'S Adams Montessori School gathered for their Denim & Diamonds gala on May 19 at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy. The annual gala raised funds for a renovation of the school's playgrounds and outdoor spaces, as well as to keep tuition affordable. The event was sponsored by several local businesses, including Lumiere Dental Spa, East Boston Savings Bank, Marino, Stram & Assoc. LLC, Kumon Math & Reading of Milton, Baker, Braverman & Barbadoro PC and Quincy Firefighters Association IAFF Local 792. Registration, Testing For Rec. Dept. Instructional Swimming, Boating Programs

The Quincy Recreation Department announces its calendar for registration and testing for the upcoming summer swimming and boating programs.

The instructional swim program will be conducted at the Lincoln Hancock Community School Pool by Recreation staff, who are all certified by the American Red Cross.

"With a long tradition of aquatic activity from boating to swimming and 27 miles of waterfront, the Recreation Department believes that teaching swimming skills is an essential service to the children of Quincy," said Recreation Director Barry Welch. "In addition to learning important water safety skills, learning to swim opens a lifetime of recreational opportunities such as boating and sailing and other aquatic activities. Classes are offered from beginner to advanced levels supervised by water safety instructors on the Recreation Department staff."

Swim lesson registration is done by swim level and the Recreation Department will conduct a night of in-pool testing in preparation for Quincy residents unfamiliar with the swimming ability of their child or for those children who may have improved with additional instruction or swim time during the winter.

The schedule for this testing is Friday, June 8th from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. The Boating and Sailing prerequisite swim test will also be given at this time for residents age 8 or older who are planning on participating in the Department's rowing, sculling, sailing, canoeing or kayaking program this summer.

Past boating participants do not need to be retested. The normal recreational swimming schedule will be canceled during hours of testing.

There will be two summer sessions for instructional swimming. Session One begins Thursday, June 28th and ends Thursday, July 19th. Session Two begins Monday, July 23rd and ends Friday, Aug. 10th. Lessons are for children who are age six and over and are Quincy residents.

The following classes are offered for both sessions and are conducted in accordance with the standards of the American Red Cross: Level I/II- Water Exploration and Primary Skills; Level III- Stroke Readiness; Level IV- Stroke Development; Level V/VI- Stroke Refinement and Proficiency.

The Department will also offer lifeguard training which will begin Thursday, July 5th and continue through July 27th. Lifeguard training candidates must be 15 years of age and must pass a pre-requisite swim test. Contact the Recreation Department for details regarding this course by calling 617-376-1394.

Because school is still in session, registration for all classes will be held at the Quincy Recreation Department Office, One Merrymount Parkway, according to the following schedule.

Session 1: Class dates are June 28th - July 19th and registration will be Thursday, June 14 at 9 a.m. to noon.

Session 2: Class dates are July 23rd to Aug. 10th and registration will be Wednesday, June 13 at 9 a.m. to noon.

Lifeguard training registration will begin Wednesday, June 13 at 9 a.m.

The William F. Ryan Boating and Sailing facility in Merrymount Park will host rowing, sculling, sailing, canoeing, kayaking and Harbor Explores programs throughout the summer.

Registration for the Ryan Boathouse Sailing and Boating Program will be held on Wednesday, June 20 at 9 a.m. at the Recreation Department Community Room, One Merrymount Parkway. Registration will continue throughout the summer at the Ryan Boathouse as openings exist.

All participants must be Quincy residents.

The Quincy Recreation Department will not accept pre-registration or phone registrations. Assured placement in the class, day and times of choice should be done during the above dates and times. Post-registration is accepted on a space available basis.

For more information call the Quincy Recreation Department at 617-376-1394, or visit www.QuincyRec.com.

Actinic Keratosis - Sun Cancer

A Message From Ruth Jones, Director Of Nursing, Quincy Health Department

By RUTH JONES
BSN, RN, BC, CP-FS

Actinic keratosis (AK) is a small, rough spot occurring on skin that develops because of chronic sun exposure.

Actinic keratoses typically appear on sun-damaged skin. It is also referred to as a solar keratosis or sun cancer. The lesions of actinic keratosis generally range in size between 2-6 mm in diameter (between the size of a pencil point and that of an eraser). They are characteristically reddish in color, with a rough texture and often have a white or yellowish scale on top. There is often a prickling pain sensed when it is touched.

Those who acquire actinic keratoses tend to be fair-skinned people who have spent years outdoors at work or at play or who have exposed their skin to indoor tanning. Their skin frequently becomes wrinkled, mottled, and thinned from sun exposure. Others at risk for developing actinic keratoses include those who have their immune systems suppressed, such as organ-transplant patients, as well as patients with psoriasis treated with PUVA therapy (long-wave ultraviolet light plus an oral drug called Psoralen). Customary locations for actinic keratoses are the cheeks, bridge of the nose, rim of the ears, scalp, back of the neck, upper chest, and the tops of the hands and forearms. Men are more likely to develop the lesions on top of the ears, whereas women's hairstyles often protect this area.

Actinic keratoses are considered to be a precancerous or premalignant lesion, which means they may progress into an invasive skin cancer. Although the chance of an individual actinic keratosis developing into an invasive squamous cell carcinoma is less than 1%, it is common for patients with many of these lesions to continue to expose their skin to carcinogenic ultraviolet sunlight causing them to be more likely to develop invasive skin cancers. Squamous cell skin cancers are locally destructive and have a small but real potential for metastasis or spreading to other areas.

Treating actinic keratoses at an initial stage will help prevent invasive skin cancer. When patients are diagnosed with this condition, they are often surprised, saying that they never go out in the sun. The justification for this is that there can be a long delay, even decades, for these keratoses to develop. Short periods of sun exposure do not generally either produce actinic keratoses or transform them into skin cancers; they are usually the result of years of exposure.

The most successful treatment for an actinic keratosis is prevention. For light-skinned individuals, this necessitates minimizing their exposure to the sun. By the time actinic keratoses develop, however, the pertinent ultraviolet radiation exposure is often so far in the past that present preventive measures play a relatively small role. Fortunately, treatment methods are usually simple and straightforward:

• Cryosurgery: Freezing with liquid nitrogen

• Other forms of surgery: Doctors sometimes scrape away or burn off actinic keratoses.

• 5-fluorouracil (5-FU): Creams containing this medication cause actinic keratoses to become red and inflamed before they fall off. Even though effective, this method often creates unsightly and uncomfortable skin for a period of weeks, thus making it impractical for many patients. This method is best for patients who have a great deal of sun damage and many lesions. Once the skin heals, it frequently looks much smoother and even-toned.

• Imiquimod (Aldara): This immune stimulator is similar in its indications and effects to 5-FU.

• Ingenol mebutate (Picato): Is derived from the sap of a plant of the genus Euphorbia, which is related to the poinsettia plants that are popular at Christmas time. It is advantageous in the treatment of small areas, but causes significant irritation.

• Photodynamic therapy (PDT): This therapy involves applying an agent (aminolevulinic acid [Levulan] or ALA) that sensitizes the skin to light, leaving it on for about one hour, and then exposing the skin to light that activates the chemical.

This blue light is absorbed by the compound, releasing the energy as heat which is believed to destroy the actinic keratoses. Like 5-FU and Imiquimod, photodynamic therapy works best for patients with many lesions. Patients need to avoid exposure to sun or intense fluorescent light for two days after treatment to prevent ongoing peeling.

• Diclofenac (Solaraze): This cream is a nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drug (NSAID), an agent related to ibuprofen (Advil, Motrin). Diclofenac is gentler than 5-FU or Imiquimod, causing less inflammation, but must be applied for a longer period of about two months to achieve only modest improvement.

• Superficial chemical peels using trichloroacetic acid (TCA) can also be effective. This procedure is performed in the doctor's office.

Sun avoidance is the easiest way to avoid actinic keratoses. This would include applications of SPF 50 sunscreens to exposed skin, wearing sun-protective clothing, shade-seeking when outdoors, and avoiding tanning. Concerns about vitamin D deficiency can be avoided by taking multivitamin supplements.

For patients who develop actinic keratoses it is usually recommended to have a doctor examine them at least annually. The rationale behind these regular checks is to be certain that new lesions have not developed and that old ones are not becoming thicker and more suspicious looking for cancer.

Ruth Jones is the director of Nursing for the City of Quincy Health Department.

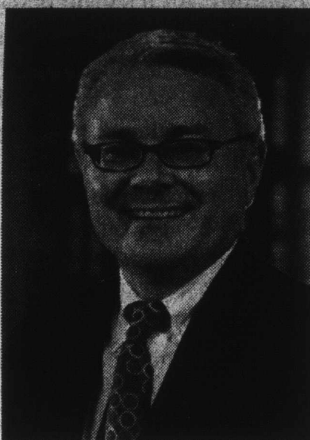

Dr. Michael Gustafson President UMass Memorial Medical Center

Eric Dickson, MD, president and CEO of UMass Memorial Health Care, announces Michael Gustafson, MD, MBA, has been selected as the next president of UMass Memorial Medical Center.

Dr. Gustafson joins the Medical Center from Boston's Brigham and Women's Faulkner Hospital where he was president for the past three years and chief operating officer from 2011 to 2015. He will assume official duties on Sept. 1.

"We had a very competitive and diverse applicant pool but in the final analysis the selection committee strongly believed Michael was the right candidate to lead our academic medical center," Dr. Dickson said. "Throughout his career Michael has demonstrated an ability to build a culture of quality, safety, transparency and efficiency. His deep experience in change management is closely aligned with the Medical Center's strategic goals. We are excited to have him on our team and look forward to working with him in his stewardship of the medical center and its important role here in Central Massachusetts."

decades, and directed departments including pharmacy, pathology, neurology, psychiatry, and the Neurosciences Institute. He has worked with staff throughout the Brigham family to develop and coordinate strategies for performance improvement, patient safety, quality of care and performance measurement and analysis.

Dr. Gustafson founded and directed Brigham and Women's Center for Clinical Excellence from 2001 until 2011. The center has been a widely regarded role model for how to effectively organize and support improvement activities within a large complex academic center. Dr. Gustafson has also served as a member and chair of multiple committees focused on patient affordability, process improvement and care redesign for the Partners HealthCare system, of which Brigham and Women's Hospital is a founding member.

"I am both honored and humbled to have the opportunity to lead UMass Memorial Medical Center in its next chapter," Dr. Gustafson said. "I look forward to sharing my passions for quality, the patient experience, continuous improvement, and clinical innovation to support the incredible work that UMass Memorial providers and staff do each and every day."

Dr. Gustafson received his MD degree at West Virginia University and completed his general surgery residency at Brigham and Women's Hospital. He went on to become one of the first surgeons to receive an MBA from Harvard Business School. As an assistant professor in the department of surgery at Harvard Medical School, Dr. Gustafson's research interests have included the relationships between volume and quality, measurement of risk-adjusted surgical outcomes, and the application of human factors and systems engineering concepts in the operating room.

With the addition of Dr. Gustafson as president, Jeff Smith, MD, JD, MMM, will resume his position of chief operations officer of the Medical Center.

Carney Nurses Donate To Barbara Bertoni Scholarship Fund

For the second year in a row, during National Nurses Week, the nurses at Carney Hospital decided to give back to the community.

This year they chose to donate to the Barbara Bertoni Scholarship Fund. The Barbara Bertoni Scholarship Fund was created by her family upon her passing late last year.

Barbara worked as a registered nurse in the Emergency Department at Carney Hospital for almost 35 years and over that time she had become a key figure amongst the nursing staff, serving as a mentor and resource to the many new nurses and nursing students who spent time learning from her at the Carney.

National Nurses Week is an annual week of recognition and appreciation for all of the hard work nurses do in service to the community and their patients. Carney Hospital honored its over 300 nurses with a week of activities and giveaways, which culminated in a conference and luncheon. During this final day of recognition, the nursing staff presented a check for $2,500, raised amongst themselves, in honor of their longtime colleague.

"I am continually amazed at the seemingly never-ending generosity of nurses. During a week designed to recognize their efforts, they donate their own hard-earned money to honor others," said Carney Hospital CNO/COO Karen Ahearn.

The idea for the donation during National Nurses Week originated organically from the nursing staff and was funded entirely from individual personal contributions. Members of the staff collected donations throughout the weeks preceding Nurses Week and presented the Bertoni Family with the donation at the end of the week banquet.

The Barbara Bertoni Memorial Scholarship is managed by the Quincy Elks Lodge, of which both Barbara and her husband were members. The scholarship will be awarded to high school seniors who elect to pursue a career in nursing.

USS Constitution Commemorates Battle Of Midway

USS Constitution will be getting underway from Charlestown Navy Yard on Friday, June 8 at 10 a.m. in commemoration of the 76th Anniversary of the Battle of Midway.

The ship will travel to Fort Independence on Castle Island where she will be firing a 21-gun salute at approximately 11:30 a.m. An additional 17-gun salute will be fired as she passes the U.S. Coast Guard Station, the former site of Edmund Hartt Shipyard where Constitution was built and launched.

Following the second salute Constitution crew and members from National Parks of Boston will pay tribute to the fallen of WWII with a wreath laying towards the World War II-era destroyer USS Cassin Young (DD 793). At the conclusion of the wreath laying, members of the 1812 Marine Guard Riflemen will fire a 3-gun volley followed by the playing of taps.

Constitution will return to her berth at pier 1, Charlestown Navy Yard by 1:30 p.m.

The public is encouraged to view the events held on June 8th from around Boston Harbor, Castle Island or the Charlestown Navy Yard.

USS Constitution will reopen for public tours 3 p.m. - 6 p.m. While USS Constitution is closed, the World War II-era destroyer USS Cassin Young (DD 793) will be open for tours 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The ranger-staffed NPS Visitor Center, featuring an introductory film on the history of the Navy Yard and "Serving the Naval Fleet" exhibition, is open daily 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Social Security Matters

Ask Rusty: Does Turning 65 Change My Social Security Benefit?

By RUSSELL GLOOR

AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor
Association Of Mature American Citizens

Dear Rusty: I started drawing Social Security at age 62. At that time I checked what half of my ex-husband's Social Security amount is and it was not much different than what I am getting so I decided to just draw off of mine. We were married 15 years. Since then my cousin mentioned I might be eligible for more money from my Social Security at age 65; is there any truth to that? Signed: Turning 65 soon.

Dear Turning: Well, since you're already collecting your Social Security retirement benefit, there's nothing especially significant about age 65 that will change your retirement benefit amount; but there will be a reduction in the net amount you receive because your Medicare premium will be deducted from your Social Security payment (unless you make other arrangements, in which case you'll need to pay the Medicare premium separately). Age 65 was once the Social Security full retirement age but today it is between 66 and 67 depending upon the year you were born. In any case, since you're already collecting Social Security, there will be no change to your benefit just because you turn 65.

Generally, once you claim your Social Security retirement benefit, it doesn't change except for cost of living adjustments or an increase due to current high earnings replacing any past year's earnings used to compute your original benefit amount. There is, however, another way your benefit could change — you might become entitled to a higher spousal benefit or a survivor's benefit.

Since you say that you are drawing only your own retirement benefit and not a spousal benefit from your ex-husband, you should know that if you haven't remarried, you may still be entitled to a larger benefit as an ex-spouse. Spousal benefits are based upon full retirement age amounts, so even if years ago you compared half of your ex-husband's early retirement benefit to yours and found "it wasn't much different," you may want to verify now that your benefit as an ex-spouse isn't more than you are currently receiving. And just to be clear, you can apply for your spousal benefit at any time before you reach your full retirement age, but it will be reduced for claiming it early.

Finally, please be aware that if your ex-husband predeceases you and you didn't remarry before you were 60, you would be entitled to 100% of the benefit he was receiving at his death (instead of what you're now receiving) if you have reached your full retirement age. None of this is related to you turning 65 but might nevertheless result in an immediate or future increase of your Social Security benefit.

DENTISTRY
for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

ABSENT TEETH

The term "anodontia" is used to describe the genetic or congenital (hereditary) absence of teeth. The teeth most commonly missing are the "lateral incisors" (on either side of the two front teeth) and the "second bicusps" (two teeth behind the canine, or eye, teeth). As you might imagine, missing these teeth poses some problems beyond cosmetic. When holes are left where teeth should be, other teeth may slowly shift out of place, changing the way teeth fit together and adversely affect bite. Depending on the teeth that are missing, the dentist can provide a variety of tooth-replacement options, including a partial denture, a Maryland bridge (resin bonded), a bridge, or a crown supported by a dental implant. It's one of life's simple truths—no one gets more than one set of permanent teeth. Teeth are meant to last a lifetime, but you have to work at it; you have to want to keep them badly enough to do what needs to be done. And if that means protecting them by eating and drinking healthy foods and beverages, brushing and flossing regularly, and having regular professional visits, then we hope you will call us for an appointment. We're easy to find at 44 Greenleaf Street. You can reach us at 617 479-6220. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. If left untreated, anodontia can lead to malocclusion, gum damage, impeded bone (jaw) growth, reduced chewing ability, inarticulate pronunciation, and other possible problems.

New Emergency Management Post Gets First OK

emergency operation center. Every couple hours I wind up visiting the shelters. It's a bit uncomfortable to not be able to spend as much time at the emergency scenes as I would like to."

City councillors unanimously approved hiring a new director by voice vote.

"We have encountered many disasters in the last eight or nine years," said Ward 5 Councillor Kirsten Hughes. "I think it's important that we have somebody whose sole focus is to pre-plan and keeps up to date with the changing tactics, the changing strategies that are out there."

The budget for the Quincy Police Department will increase to $28.97 million in the new fiscal year, up from $27.99 million.

Included in the budget is a $450,000 increase to a total of $800,000 for training time. Police Chief Paul Keenan said the department is required to provide each officer with 40 hours of training annually. Some officers, such as SWAT and

K-9 officers — have to receive additional training as well.

"As it stands today, I feel very comfortable with that number that we'll be able to keep our officers as well-trained as they need to be under the law and also with special units, the training they do," Keenan said.

Keenan said funding for training time previously came from the line item for overtime. The new budget includes increases for police overtime — from $733,000 to $833,000 — and court time — from $323,000 to $423,000.

The budget also includes a $357,000 line item for retroactive pay. Keenan said that money is being set aside because the city and patrol officers union have gone to arbitration because the two sides could not agree to a new contract.

At the recommendation of the police chief, councillors also voted 9-0 to rescind a previous cut to a line item in the budget of the Municipal Finance Department for vehicle purchases. Koch's budget set aside $400,000 for that line item, up from $250,000 in the current budget.

Keenan said the additional $150,000 would pay for the purchase of three police SUVs to replace others lost. Two SUVs were totaled in car crashes; the city was able to collect insurance money from the drivers of the other vehicles involved, but that money goes directly to the general fund. The third was destroyed when it caught on fire. Keenan said the department sought reimbursement from Ford and the vendor who outfits the vehicles for police use, but the cause of the fire was not determined because of the extent of the fire damage.

The Quincy Fire Department's budget will increase from $25.03 million to $25.17 million. The increase would go towards contractual line items for increased communication capabilities, fitness training for firefighters and equipment needs.

The Animal Control Department's budget will increase to $126,000 from $123,000.

Quincy Dumps Trash Contractor; Change Effective July 1

By SCOTT JACKSON

Quincy has kicked its contractor for trash and recycling to the curb following the company's sale to a private equity firm and growing complaints from city officials and residents.

Sunrise Scavenger, Quincy's trash contractor since 2013, was served a termination letter May 30. The termination letter is effective June 30.

The city's prior contractor, Capitol Waste Services, will take over responsibilities for collecting trash and recycling starting July 1.

"Trash and recycling collection is one of the most core services our city provides to its residents, and we've historically provided a level of service that was truly above and beyond what most communities offered. We're not going to tolerate anything less than that," Mayor Thomas Koch said in a statement.

The termination was based on Sunrise Scavenger's sale to a private equity firm, but city officials said the company's service record could not be ignored.

Resident complaints about late pick-ups, missed pick-ups and otherwise shoddy service mounted following Sunrise Scavenger's hiring as Quincy's trash collector, officials said. The city tracked those complaints and worked to address issue with the contractor, with little to no improvement.

Sunrise Scavenger signed a 10-year contract with the city that began in 2013; five years were remaining on the deal when it was terminated.

The new contract with Capitol Waste Management is for three years, according to Koch spokesman Chris Walker.

Koch's proposed budget for fiscal year 2019, which starts July 1, includes $4.51 million for trash collection. The budgeted amount for trash collection in fiscal year 2018 was $3.96 million. Walker said the market rate for waste collection has risen since the deal with Sunrise Scavenger was signed, outpacing the rate included in the contract.

Walker said city officials remain committed to overhauling how trash and recyclables are collected in the city. The centerpiece of that plan would be the distribution of uniform covered containers citywide. The plan, unveiled in September 2016, was placed on the backburner because of concerns over the service provided by Sunrise Scavenger, Walker said, but remains in the pipeline.

"The priority now is to ensure the transition is done smoothly, then we can have discussions about the barrels," he said.

There will be no change in collection schedules under the new contract.

The transition period over the next month will be closely monitored by the Department of Public Works, and residents who experience issues with collection should call 617-376-1953.

Quincy Center MBTA Garage Demo Underway

By SCOTT JACKSON

The ongoing demolition of the Quincy Center MBTA station's garage will be completed in about a year, a spokeswoman for the transit agency said recently.

The T is in the midst of demolishing the top three floors of the parking structure; the bottom two levels of the garage will remain intact. The demolition work began in March.

Lisa Battiston, a spokeswoman for the MBTA, said completion of the demolition remains about a year away.

"Demolition work at Quincy Center is anticipated to be complete in about one year," she said in an email.

The Quincy Center station was closed the weekend of May 19 and 20 with work underway to remove the helix ramp at the north end of the station, directly above the tracks. The station was closed during that work because it took place directly over the railroad tracks below.

Additional weekend closures are anticipated in the fall as work takes place directly over the tracks on the south end of the facility.

"The remaining portions of the garage that are not directly over the track area, starting from the north (away from the tracks) to the south, will be taken down during daytime hours," Battiston said.

"In the fall, it is anticipated that the south-side portion of the garage that is over the track area will be demolished during weekend shuttle bus diversions that will be scheduled."

The garage, which has room for 870 vehicles, first opened in 1971. State officials closed it suddenly in July 2012 because of structural concerns.

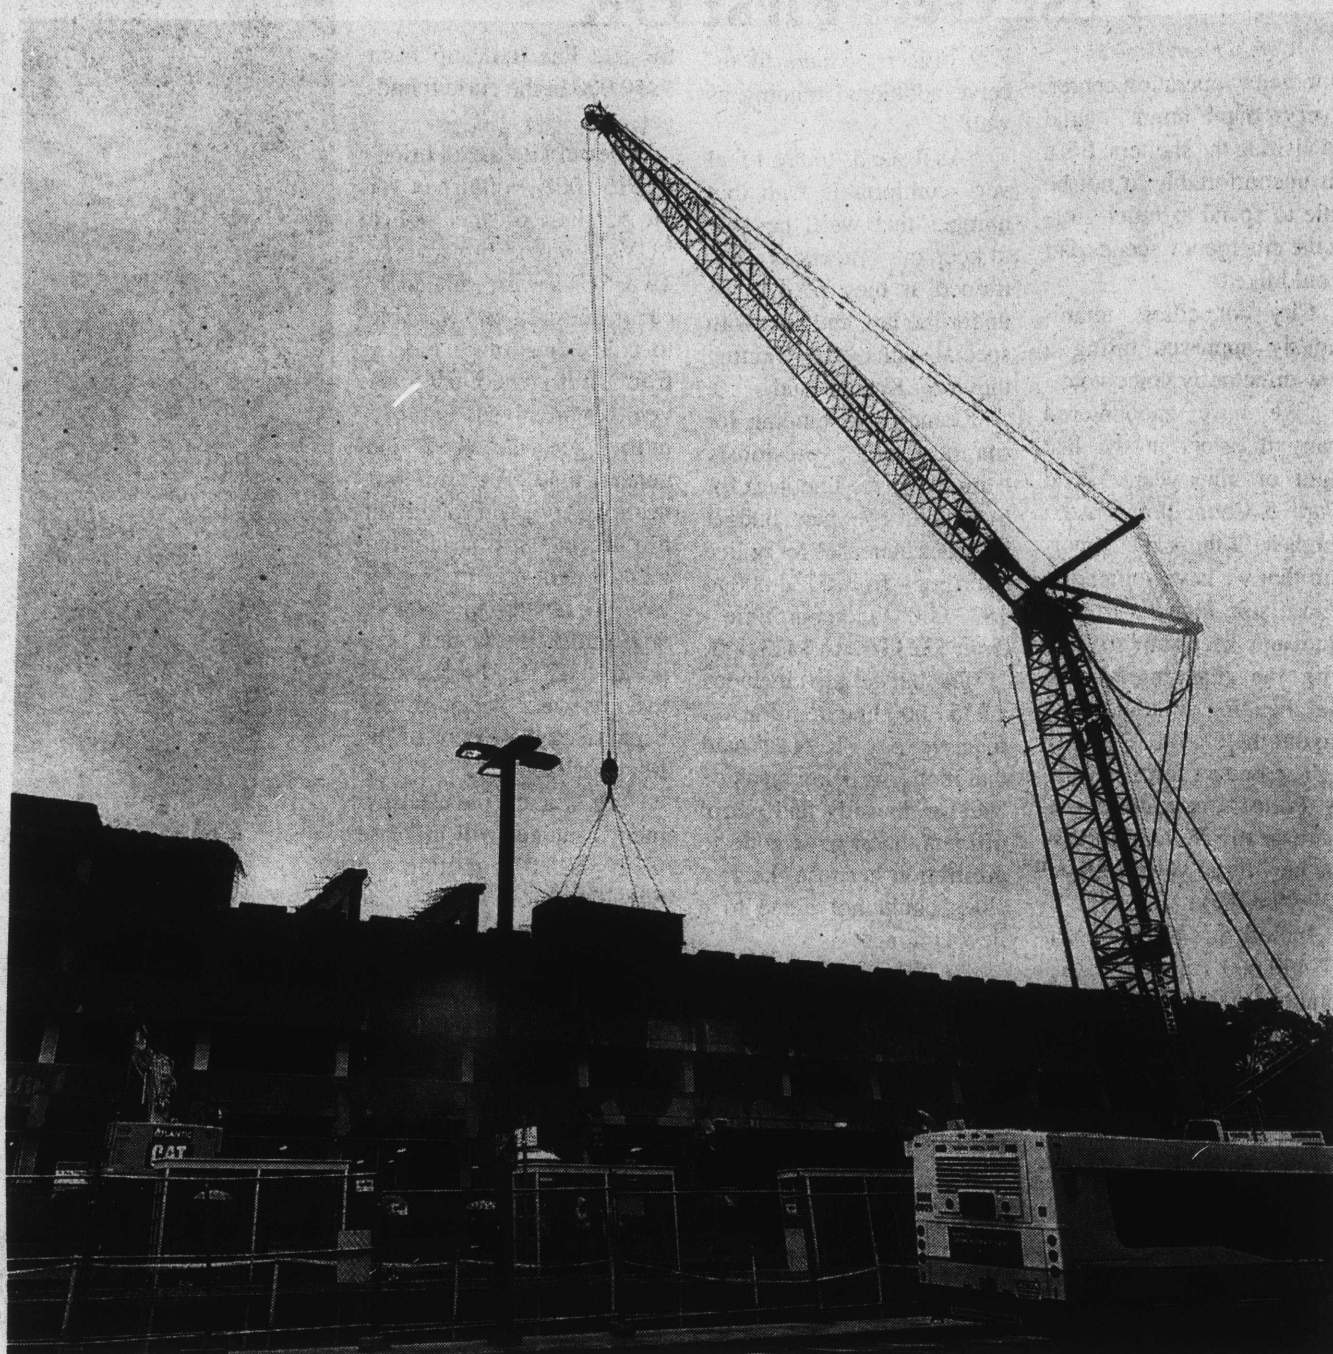

The MBTA has awarded development rights at the 6.3-acre station site to two firms, Atlantic Development of Hingham and Maryland-based Bozzuto Development. Mayor Thomas Koch and the City Council have both approved the project as required under special legislation passed in 1967; the project still requires approval from the Quincy Planning Board.

The developers and MBTA began a six-month due-diligence period to determine if the project is feasible earlier this year. Battiston said two sides remain in talks.

"Discussions are ongoing and there are currently no new updates," she said.

The firms' proposal submitted to the MBTA featured 600 apartments, 225,000 square feet of office space, and at least 600 parking spaces. The developers planned to construct the project in three phases, with 300 apartments in each of the first two phases followed by the new office building in the final phase. The whole project would be completed by early 2031.

The first phase would be built in front of the Hancock DEMOLITION of the Quincy Center MBTA station's parking garage is underway. The project is about a year away from completion, a T spokeswoman said. The station will be shut down during several weekends this fall as work takes place directly over the tracks on the south end of the facility.

Street side of the station, the second phase would be located on top of the station itself, and the final phase in the area over the train tracks behind City Hall. Station upgrades would be undertaken during the first phase of the project, including construction of a new busway on the Burgin Parkway side of the facility.

D.J. MacKinnon, Atlantic's president, told the City Council in December the number of apartments on site could be cut in half to 300 by converting the second phase of the project to office space.

AND A FEW blocks away from the Quincy Center T garage demolition, another building was being razed this week. Here three excavators began demolishing the buildings at 23 and 31 Cottage Ave. Monday. The two buildings (foreground), acquired by the city through eminent domain, are being razed to allow for construction of a new public park and the widening of Cottage Avenue to provide access to a new municipal garage planned for the Hancock Lot. Peter O'Connell's Chestnut Place project - a 15-story building with 124 apartments and street level retail - will be located next to the park on a portion of the Hancock Lot. In the background of this photo is the West of Chestnut apartment building.

A variety of trees are being planted in the common including Autumn Blaze Maples. A bronze statue of John Hancock, first signer of the Declaration of Independence, will be positioned at this end and a bronze statue of John Adams, the nation's second President, will be erected at the other end of the common. The statues will be unveiled by Gov. Charlie Baker and noted historian/author David McCullough at a dedication ceremony set for Saturday, Sept. 8. Quincy Sun Photo/Robert Bosworth

SchComm. 'Open Forum' Residents Only

Lebo explained that the amended policy will ban such non-residents as Quincy business or property owners, superintendents from other districts or the director of the South Shore education Collaborative - which Quincy students attend. "When people come to talk to us in open forum, the city gets to hear that whether or not we choose to respond to it," she said.

Lebo also criticized the requirement of non-residents to submit written statements, explaining that the public would likely never hear what issue is being raised.

"We are not held accountable to written statements unless we publish them," she said. "If we don't show the public what people are trying to get us to discuss, we could be hiding those things and people would never see them. I would be uncomfortable having written communication for this. Unless they come and talk to us in person, the city does not know whose talking to us about what."

Colleague Anthony Andronico, while supporting the proposal, asked that by the fall, the policy be further amended to allow property owners to address the committee.

"They pay taxes in the city," he said. "They should be allowed to come up and speak to the school committee. I feel they should have a voice."

Koch disagreed with Lebo, saying the measure is "in the right spirit," allowing only Quincy residents to have the floor.

"Quite frankly, I don't care what people outside the district feel about the Quincy Public Schools," he said. "I care what our educators are talking about, what our parents are interested in and what our kids are interested in. I work for the people of Quincy not for the people outside of Quincy."

A rat in the wild can reproduce four to six times during its lifespan, Scheele said, and produce 36 to 60 offspring.

"If we can eliminate 36 to 60 offspring from a rat in its lifetime, I think we'll do a real service to the citizens of Quincy to try to control this," he said.

Poison to kill the rats will still be used alongside ContraPest.

"I really think you need a two-pronged approach to this," Scheele said. "We have to do both of those at the exact same time. That way if anybody does eat it and gets away they're not going to be able to reproduce, but if they do eat the poison they're going to die."

In addition to assisting with the deployment of ContraPest, Scheele said hiring a new inspector would allow the department to do more outreach to the community to inform residents why there is a rat problem in a particular neighborhood and steps they can take to keep rats away.

Quincy will never be rat-free, Scheele said, but he is optimistic the new approach will lead to fewer complaints next spring.

"We're always going to have rats," he said. "I would hope that at this time next year we would be seeing a decrease in our spring complaints coming in."

Church Of The Presidents History, Visitors Program Seeking New Volunteers

The History and Visitors Program at the Church of the Presidents announces its June Open House for prospective new volunteers will be held Sunday, June 10 from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

Are you passionate about local history? Are you interested in learning more about Quincy's history and heritage? Are you looking for a new volunteering opportunity?

The History and Visitors Program at Church of the Presidents is hosting its June Open House for new prospective volunteers at the United First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock Street, Quincy.

United First Parish Church (the Church of the Presidents) is a National Historic landmark and the final resting place of Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams, and First Ladies Abigail Adams and Louisa Catherine Adams.

The History and Visitors Program provides daily tours of the historic sanctuary and presidential crypt from April to November to over 10,000 visitors each year from all 50 states and over 30 countries around the world.

The program is seeking to add a select number of volunteers to its team of guides. If interested attend the open house any time between 1:30 and 3 p.m. Sunday, June 10th. Open House participants will have an opportunity to tour the church and crypt, meet current volunteers, and learn more about the program from Program Director Bob Damon.

For questions or more information about the Open House or volunteering with the program, contact Program Director Bob Damon by phone (617) 773-0062 or email visitorsprogram@ufpc.org.

67th Annual Flag Day Parade, Fireworks June 16

One of largest and longest-running Flag Day celebrations anywhere in America will step off for its 67th year on Saturday, June 16, capped as always by the dazzling fireworks display at Pageant Field.

The Quincy Flag Day Parade and celebration will begin at 7 p.m. with 1.5 mile parade starting at the intersection of Coddington and Hancock Streets and proceeding north on Hancock Street to Merrymount Parkway, disbanding at Pageant Field.

The parade consists of specialty units ranging from fire units, Army National Guard vehicles, and community organizations. Some of the best marching bands throughout the state march the parade route playing everyone's favorite patriot songs as impressive floats carrying very special guests follow the sound of music.

The fireworks display, considered one of the best outside of Boston, will be "turned up even a few more notches this year," organizers say.

The Quincy Flag Day Parade has devoted itself to instilling patriotism and pride in our youth. Each year, more than 1,500 flag-waving youngsters highlight the event as they march down Hancock Street side by side with their youth organization.

The celebration portion of the evening held at Pageant Field following the parade consists of the flag raising of an impressive 30-foot by 60-foot version of Old Glory, a patriotic medley, and presentation of awards to the parade grand marshal and the recipient of the Richard J. Koch Youth Service award. The award is named in honor of the parade's founder, who started the event in 1952 by handing out small American flags to his youth baseball players and leading them on a short march through North Quincy, ending with a flag-raising ceremony at Cavanagh Field.

FinCom Oks $310 Million City Budget

new fiscal year, fiscal year 2019. That vote will take place at the council's next meeting on June 18.

Koch unveiled his $310.81 million proposed budget for fiscal year 2019 on May 7. The finance committee, which can take money away from the budget but not add to it, cut $107,924 from the budget over the course of four hearings to review the spending plan.

The fiscal year 2019 budget is an increase of $11.29 million over the $299.42 million budget for the current fiscal year.

The committee made two cuts Monday night to the budget for the Traffic, Parking, Alarm and Lighting Department at the request of Chris Cassani, the director of the department. Cassani asked councillors to eliminate entirely the $51,503 included in the budget for a painter's position, which he said would not be filled going forward, and to cut $13,421 from an enhanced longevity line item.

Councillors had made one other cut to the TPAL budget on May 30. At that meeting, Councillor Nina Liang proposed eliminating a $24,000 line item for office space rental because money in that line item had not been used for office rentals during the past two fiscal years.

The finance committee approved the TPAL budget unanimously Monday. The department's $2.95 million budget - up about $140,000 over the current fiscal year - includes funding to hire two new parking control officers and $50,000 for bike lanes.

Councillor Noel DiBona said residents are eager to see improvements to traffic and parking in the city, and said he has faith Cassani can help address those concerns.

"I have really good faith in you. I am very optimistic that this is going to work out," DiBona said. "Just remember, Mr. Cassani, we've been out there and knocking on peoples' doors, and the residents of the city want to see progress in the traffic department."

Also approved Monday were five items in the budget falling under the purview of Public Works Commissioner Al Grazioso - the Engineering, Public Works and Drain Departments, and the budgets for snow and ice removal and trash collection. Those budgets include funding for a GIS administrator and entry-level engineer.

The finance committee on Monday also approved the sewer and water enterprise fund budgets, which are funded by sewer and water bills and not the city's general fund.

Spending in the sewer enterprise fund will increase from $25.6 to $25.84 million in the new fiscal year. Spending in the water enterprise fund is set to decrease from $19.33 million to $19.21 million, after councillors cut $162,358 from the budget on Grazioso's recommendation. The money cut is from the line item for other assessments, which goes toward the MWRA.

The finance committee cut an additional $19,000 from the general fund budget during two prior meetings.

Councillors on May 21 approved cutting $15,000 from their own departmental budget. That money came from reductions to the line items for communications.

Councillors made $4,000 in cuts on May 16, including $2,500 from a professional/technical line item in the Municipal Finance Department budget and $1,500 in an overtime line item in the Board of Assessors budget. Councillors had also cut $100,000 on May 16 from a line item in the Municipal Finance Department for vehicle purchases, but rescinded that cut May 30 at the request of Police Chief Paul Keenan, who said the funds would be used to replace three police SUVs lost in the past year.

The new city budget includes funding for several other new positions, including a full-time director of emergency management at a salary of $86,700. The budget also includes money to hire a health inspector who will specialize in rodent control and three positions in the Inspectional Service Department's budget - a plans examiner, a part-time wire inspector and a part-time plumbing and gas inspector.

The budget also increases city spending on the Quincy Public Schools by $3.2 million to a total of $104.86 million. School officials have recommended hiring 8.9 full-time equivalent support educators with the increased funding. They include two English language learners teachers, two part-time high school occupational teachers, 3.5 special education teachers, and three elementary digital support teachers.

The School Committee, not the City Council, is responsible for determining the school system's budget.

Statues Of Uncle Sam Rounseville, Wife Jean Kenney To Be Unveiled At Quincy Historical Society

By Quincy Sculptor Daniel Myers

Statues of Uncle Sam Rounseville and Jean Kenney will join one of Abigail Adams during an unveiling and dedication ceremony at a luncheon sponsored by the Quincy Historical Society on Flag Day, June 14.

Quincy sculptor Daniel Myers is donating the statue of Abigail Adams to the historical society and displaying the statues of Uncle Sam Rounseville and Jean Kenney. Adams was the first lady to second president John Adams and mother to sixth president John Quincy Adams. She is portrayed sitting at her desk with a quill pen writing her famous letter from March 1776 where she asks her husband to "remember the ladies" when drafting laws for the new country.

The full-size head statue of Uncle Sam Rounseville includes on the back of his head, a carved image of the James Montgomery Flagg poster of Uncle Sam pointing his finger and saying, "I want you to serve your country." Myers included a dedication on the statue which reads, "For Sam Rounseville: He loves his country enough to personify it."

To support patriotic causes and fundraisers, Uncle Sam Rounseville legally changed his name to Uncle Sam from Leroy Lincoln in 1991, and since the mid 1990s, has promoted his causes using a popular billboard at the corner of Burgin Parkway and Beale Street.

Other head statues of Uncle Sam by Myers' students and fellow artists from the Quincy Art Association - Fred Costello, Elizabeth (Betsy) Millard, Lesley Grill, and Jack Haran - will also be on display.

Jean Kenney's head statue, created to honor her work promoting voter registration, includes a Statue of Liberty engraved on the back of her head with the inscription, "It's a Man's World Unless Women Vote."

For more information about the luncheon, contact the historical society at 617-773-1144, or Uncle Sam Rounseville at ussam76@gmail.com. The QHS is located at 8 Adams St.

Councillors Seek Answers On Traffic, Parking

By SCOTT JACKSON

City councillors pressed for answers to Quincy's traffic and parking woes, cautioning that cuts to the department overseeing those areas could be coming in the future if improvements are not made.

The council's finance committee on May 30 met to review several departmental budgets as it continued its review of Mayor Thomas Koch's proposed spending plan for fiscal year 2019, which starts July 1.

Koch's proposed budget included $3.03 million for the Traffic, Parking, Alarm and Lighting Department, up from $2.81 million in the current fiscal year.

The mayor's budget includes money to hire two new parking control officers at salaries of approximately $42,000 – bringing the total number of traffic control officers to four – and $50,000 for new bike lanes. It also shifts $200,000 from the line item for street lighting to a contractual line item, which department head Chris Cassani said would be used for a pedestrian traffic signal at the intersection of Independence Avenue and Verchill Street as part of the city's plan to open a pedestrian gate to the Quincy Adams MBTA station this fall.

Councillors discussed the TPAL budget for more than an hour and a half on May 30 but did not vote on it. The meeting ended abruptly at 11 p.m., when councillors voted against waiving a rule requiring all meetings to end at that time. The finance committee resumed deliberations on the department's budget Monday, approving it in about five minutes.

During those two meetings, councillors cut a total of $88,924 from the TPAL budget, reducing the department's overall budget to $2.95 million in the new fiscal year.

Cassani asked councillors to eliminate entirely the $51,503 included in the budget for a painter's position, which he said would not be filled going forward, and to cut $13,421 from an enhanced longevity line item. Councillor Nina Liang had proposed eliminating a $24,000 line item for office space rental because money in that line item had not been used for office rentals during the past two fiscal years.

During the May 30 meeting, councillors raised concerns about traffic and parking with Cassani, who was appointed earlier this year to lead the department, which was established in July 2016.

Councillor Noel DiBona said that if the budget increase were to be approved by the council this year, he expects to see improvements. If not, he said cuts could be coming this time next year.

"I want to see results," DiBona said. "This is a department that I get continuously, continuously concerns throughout the city. No matter what part of the city, traffic comes up number one. I know this is in other municipalities, but we have a duty and an obligation to the citizens of our city."

Liang said no improvements have been made since the department was formed two years ago.

"We've been given a lot of lip service the last couple years," she said. "We've seen, from my perspective anyway, no significant changes as a result of this department existing."

Cassani said he understood the task he was taking on when he accepted his new job as the leader of the department. The department, he said, is finalizing a plan to make improvements to traffic and parking issues in the city.

"I live here just the same as you do and this is my job – this is what I was hired to do, come in here...and actually make improvements on this stuff," Cassani said.

"I am telling you that we have a plan in place right now that I have full confidence in will give us the ability to say we are moving cars throughout the city as efficiently as we possibly can."

Cassani outlined that plan May 30.

He said the department will use a $2.3 million bond, introduced by Koch in April 2017 and approved by the council six months later, to install a cutting-edge traffic management system at key intersections that will allow real-time adjustments to signal timing.

"We have actively pursued and we now have an agreement with a company to provide as advanced and intuitive a traffic control regime as there really exists anywhere in the country. I am extremely excited about what that will do in practice," Cassani said.

"Each intersection will be essentially equipped with the right equipment to make the right choice about how to move the right group of cars at the right time."

The new equipment will be installed at 22 intersections later this year, he said. Those intersections are primarily along the Hancock Street corridor, but include others on Washington Street, Sea Street, Southern Artery, Franklin Street, Burgin Parkway and Newport Avenue.

The department is also using that bond to work with a consultant, AECOM, on changes to signal timing along the Newport Avenue corridor. Cassani said those changes to timing would make traffic flow more intelligently throughout the day, and would account for things such as school buses and the exodus of vehicles from office parks in North Quincy at the end of the business day.

AECOM is also working to re-engineer the intersection of Newport Avenue and Adams Street, to both make it safer and improve how it looks, given its proximity to the Adams National Historical Park.

Additionally, the city is working with AECOM to finish a complete streets policy for Quincy and apply for Massachusetts Department of Transportation complete streets funding for roads identified as a priority. The MassDOT complete streets program is one that focuses on improvements for all modes of transportation – walking, biking, transit and driving – for people of all ages and abilities.

Cassani said the city would apply for the complete streets money this fall.

In addition to initiatives funded by the $2.3 million bond, Cassani said he is working to finalize a new residential parking program that will roll out later this year. He said the project would debut in certain areas of the city, including Ward 3 and Ward 2 and 4 in the vicinity of Independence Avenue.

The new parking control officers are meant to help make the enforcement of the new residential parking plan possible, Cassani said. By doubling the number of parking control officers, he said the city can expand the area where parking is enforced and also issue tickets at nighttime and not just during the day.

Marijuana Ordinance Clears Committee

By SCOTT JACKSON

The City Council's ordinance committee on Monday approved legislation regulating where and when marijuana establishments in Quincy can operate.

Mayor Thomas Koch had introduced the proposed ordinance earlier this year. The ordinance must still go before the Planning Board for review on June 13 and then can be approved by the full council on June 18, the body's last regular meeting before councillors recess for the summer.

The ordinance would prohibit marijuana establishments from opening within 1,500 feet of any residential zoning district. They would also be barred from opening within 500 feet of any school, playground, athletic field, beach, public park, library, skating rink, public transit center, day care facility, or youth sports facility. Those regulations would essentially limit recreational pot shops to the Fore River Shipyard, the vicinity of Ricciuti Drive or Crown Colony.

Hours for such establishments are included in the ordinance as well. They would be allowed to open between 11 a.m. and 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from noon to 6 p.m. on Sundays.

Councillor Brian Palmucci on Monday proposed amending the hours of operation to allow marijuana establishments to open between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Palmucci said he wanted to bring the hours in the ordinance closer in line to the city's rules for retailers who sell alcohol.

"This is far more restrictive than what the liquor license provisions are," he said.

The city allows for the retail sale of alcohol from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. six days a week and from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Sundays.

Palmucci's amendment did not pass with councillors split 4-4 on the matter. William Harris, Kirsten Hughes and Nina Liang joined Palmucci in favor of it, while Brad Croall, Noel DiBona, Anne Mahoney and David

Norfolk Registry Of Deeds Marks 225th Anniversary June 20

Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell invites the public to attend a party with guests John Adams, John Hancock and his wife Dorothy Quincy and listen to the patriotic music of the Singing Trooper Dan Clark as the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds celebrates its 225th birthday.

"It was on June 20, 1793 that Norfolk County and the Registry of Deeds came into existence thanks to a bill signed into law by then

Governor John Hancock," O'Donnell said. "As some residents of Norfolk County will proudly tell you, next to his being the lead signer of the Declaration of Independence, this was probably the second most important signature in John Hancock's life.

"Today much has changed," O'Donnell continued. "Back then it was a time when land documents at the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds were written in the old cursive penmanship style by scribes. Deeds told stories, such as John Adams' tribute to John Hancock when Adams deeded a portion of his land to the city of Quincy. Additionally, people had to travel to the county seat in Dedham to research land documents.

"Today research can easily be done from the comfort of your home computer. And those 18th and 19th centuries land documents written in the hard to read cursive style now can be read in an easy to read text format."

O'Donnell said the night will be a celebration of history as county residents will be able to browse at notable land records of prominent and famous people of Norfolk County, including Nobel Prize winners and governors of the Commonwealth. Additionally, there will be an exhibit of land records that highlights 28 remarkable people, one from each of the 28 communities comprising Norfolk County.

"You will be amazed at the contributions that these men and women have made to the arts, science, culture, politics, environment, public service, military, medicine and the law," said O'Donnell.

The event is scheduled to take place on Wednesday, June 20th from 4 to 6:30 p.m. at the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds located at 649 High St., Dedham.

The public is invited to attend the open house and celebration. Admission is free.

For additional information about the event, contact ksirais@norfolkdeeds.org or call the Registry at (781) 461-6116.

Empty Firebox, Room Whimsy

Each spring, I quickly grow tired of looking at my fireplace's empty firebox. What ideas can you offer me on how to decorate it until I can build a fire again in the fall? Tutti

I love "think outside the (fire)box" decorating challenges! Here are a few ideas.

Place a large fern or other real or artificial floral arrangement in the spot. Add a painted decorative screen or other painting to fill the space. Showcase a collection of globes, ships, birdhouses, baskets, or other medium to medium-large sized objects using lifts (or stacks of books) to vary the heights.

Or, for that special ambience that you may be missing from a fire, set up a collection of candlesticks and candles of various heights and light them. Any one of these ideas should create an aesthetic view for you to enjoy in the spring and summer months.

I enrolled in one of your decorating classes a few years back and remember your advice that every room needs a little whimsy. I want to add a whimsical, non-fabric valance to the one window in my laundry room. I look forward to your creative suggestions. Patty

When choosing an element to add whimsy to a room, the possibilities are limitless. So replace the ordinary with something extraordinary to bring a little humor, fancy, or just something to catch your eye and make you smile. However, be judicious; allow it to be a small component in a large room. The exceptions are small rooms like a laundry room, powder room, or pantry where the whimsy can take more of a center stage.

You can break the routine of a fabric valance with objects of various materials and textures. For example, hang a spider plant (with lots of "babies") over the window top. Attach a series of straw hats with pretty ribbons bands to a curtain rod. Hang a "home sweet home" or other sign at least the same width of the window including trim. Add some sports pennants. But, here is my favorite that I used in my last home: string a clothes line and add children's or doll's clothes to the line with clothespins.

South Shore Realtors Leadership Team Advocates Policy Issues Affecting Homeownership, Commercial Real Estate

At Legislative Meetings, Trade Expo In Washington, D.C.

More than 9,000 realtors gathered in Washington, D.C. last month during the 2018 -Realtor Legislative Meetings and Trade Expo, to advocate for crucial real estate issues on behalf of current and future home and property owners across the country.

South Shore Realtor President Stephen Damon, President-Elect Christine Silva, CEO Rachel Tristano, NAR Director Marcia Solberg and individual realtor members joined fellow realtors from throughout the U.S. to attend meetings and informational sessions, as well as meet with regulatory agency staff and lawmakers on Capitol Hill to discuss and advocate real estate issues affecting the real estate industry, and their businesses, communities and clients.

Realtors met with Sens. Elizabeth Warren and Ed Markey, Congressmen William Keating, Jim McGovern, Stephen Lynch, Joseph Kennedy, Michael Capuano, Richard Neal, Seth Moulton, and Congresswomen Katherine Clark and Niki Tsongas to discuss public policy decisions affecting Americans' ability to own, buy, rent and sell residential and commercial real estate. Realtors advocated for strong net neutrality protections; extending and reforming the National Flood Insurance Program; and urged Congress to index homeownership deductions for future inflation and permanently extend the tax exclusion on mortgage debt forgiveness.

Realtors also acknowledged the 50th anniversary of the Fair Housing Act during their legislative focused meetings by urging Congress to adopt sexual orientation and gender identity as protected classes under the Fair Housing Act, bringing it in line with NAR's strict Code of Ethics.

"Realtors are proud to lead the way toward greater equality in housing opportunities and are committed to furthering policies that support sustainable and inclusive communities without discrimination," Damon said. "Realtors are also the leading advocates for homeownership and commercial real estate, which is why it is so critical that we connect with lawmakers and ensure they understand the issues facing the real estate industry and their constituents - of which many are home and property owners," said Damon.

"Supporting home and property owners through smart legislation and regulatory initiatives is essential to advancing our nation's economy, as well as our communities, so realtors are continuing the fight to keep Congress's attention on the issues that impact real estate most."

Members of South Shore Realtors and other attendees also heard from industry experts and leaders, including Acting Director of the Bureau of Consumer Financial Protection Mick Mulvaney, who spoke about the latest initiatives out of the CFPB, plans for improved efficiency of agency operations, as well as his perspectives on issues shaping the real estate industry.

In addition, attendees heard from U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development Secretary Dr. Ben Carson, who discussed the nation's commitment to fair housing during the conference's General Session; U.S. Rep. Emanuel Cleaver (D-Missouri), who shared a personal story with attendees about the importance of safe and affordable housing for all Americans; realtor.com Chief Economist Danielle Hale, who provided an overview of current conditions in the residential and commercial markets; Federal Emergency Management Agency Administrator William "Brock" Long, who addressed a broad range of disaster and emergency management topics such as National Flood Insurance Program reauthorization and federal disaster relief; and NAR Chief Economist Lawrence Yun, who shared residential and commercial real estate market updates and forecasts for the remainder of 2018.

On Saturday, May 26, at approximately 1:20 a.m., numerous police units and an ambulance were dispatched to the Water Club in Marina Bay for a fight. Upon arrival, Officer Daniel Parisi entered the large crowd, who were exiting the club at closing time and saw that Captain Gregory Goyette had a male detained in handcuffs on the boardwalk.

Officer Parisi stayed with the male while Captain Goyette interviewed others involved in the incident. It was soon determined the male was actually trying to break up a physical conflict between two women who were fighting over him. One was the male's current girlfriend and the other was a past girlfriend. While waiting with the male, who was cooperative, two other male patrons who had no connection to the incident started antagonizing him.

Officer Parisi observed on several instances the two male (suspects) smiling, leering and staring at the male. The two suspects were highly intoxicated and it appeared that suspect 1 was holding up suspect 2. Although the boardwalk was congested but people were leaving, the two suspects had stopped in the center of the boardwalk for no apparent reason and blatantly stared at the handcuffed male, which in turn began to cause stress to him.

Officer Parisi instructed the two suspects to keep walking because now other patrons couldn't leave and they were focusing unneeded attention on the handcuffed male. Although a simple request, suspect 1 responded angrily by saying, "F@#$ you. We aren't going anywhere." When asked again, the second suspect said, "I'm a court officer - we are not moving." The officer explained to the drunken suspects that they were interfering with an ongoing investigation and if they didn't move on they could be placed under arrest for intimidating/harassing a witness and disorderly conduct.

The suspects refused this third command so the officer attempted to guide both of them from the area. Suspect 1 reacted to the request by pushing the officer in the chest area while yelling, "F@#$ you - we aren't leaving." Upon being pushed, the officer attempted to place suspect 1 under arrest, suspect 2 stepped around and shoved the officer too.

Suspect 2 then wrapped his arm around the officer's shoulder/neck area.

Officer Parisi delivered one strike to the suspect in an attempt to gain control of the situation and create distance. As the officer was able to bring suspect 1 to the ground, suspect 2 landed on top of the officer. At this time, Officer Dan Francis came to Officer Parisi's assistance and with the help of several bystanders, the two suspects were separated but they continued to resist, refusing to put their hands behind their backs.

Officer John Leuchte joined in and the officers were able to handcuff both suspects. Suspect 2 continued to yell, "You can't arrest me. I'm a court officer." During the altercation, suspect 1 sustained a head laceration and was subsequently evaluated by the EMTs. He was extremely hostile to EMS staff and initially refused to provide them with his information. He refused EMS treatment and refused to sign documentation regarding his decision.

A citizen came up to Officer Parisi once the situation was under control to inform him that suspect 2 spit on him during the altercation. The suspects, ages 22 and 26 and from Weymouth, were transported to the station for booking on charges of assault and battery on a police officer, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

The male who was originally detained? He was released after it was determined after numerous interviews of witnesses that he tried to break up the initial fight between the two women.

Nice Work!

PAYING BY GIFT CARD?

Has someone called you to purchase a gift card to pay for something? Many people have reported that they have received telephone calls from a scammer claiming to be from the IRS, or tech support, or a so-called family member in need demanding payment be made in gift cards. The scammer will then ask for the gift card number and PIN. Once you provide this information, your money is gone. Scammers are well versed at convincing potential victims that there really is an emergency requiring action, so many people have made the trip to Wal-mart, Target or CVS to buy gift cards to send these callers. These scammers like the gift card because it is like cash - nearly untraceable unless you act almost immediately. Anyone who demands payment by gift card is always a scammer. Gift cards are for gifts, not payments. If you've bought a gift card and lost money to someone who might be a scammer, tell the company who issued the card. (The contact info might be on the card and require some research) Call or email iTunes or Amazon etc. and tell them their card was used in a scam. If you act quickly enough, they might be able to get your money back.

BOTTOM LINE: Hang up! The IRS never calls to make first contact - it is always a letter first. If it is tech support, again hang up because they cannot tell if you are having computer difficulties. If it is for the family member in trouble scam, ask for a call back number for the alleged law enforcement agency the scammer is claiming to be from and then verify the number and call the agency. No law enforcement agency is going to make the call for payment by gift cards to bail someone out.

Francis W. Parker School Celebrates Centennial

By TOM GORMAN

Former and current students joined local officials recently in celebrating the 100th anniversary of the Francis W. Parker Elementary School.

"One hundred years ago, the children of Quincy were given the opportunity to learn and grow in a safe and healthy environment at Parker School," Principal Margaret MacNeil told the gathering. "A century later, Parker School is still providing these opportunities to students."

MacNeil said Parker students are "becoming engaged citizens who are critical thinkers, creative problem solvers and lifelong learners."

"Each and every day, we see scientists, literary hopefuls, athletes and artists in meaningful learning," she said. "Although the faces have changed, the spirit and enthusiasm surrounding Parker has not."

MacNeil noted that she was a Parker School student and "is proud to be back as principal."

Mayor Thomas Koch, also a Parker School student, praised the school staff.

"This building has been the four walls where incredible teachers with amazing legacies have taught in this building," he said. "It's not about the building, it's about what happens in the classroom. Our kids are in good hands."

Not only was the centennial of the school celebrated, but also, its namesake, Col. Francis W. Parker, Quincy's first school superintendent and a Civil War colonel. Parker is credited with developing the "Quincy Method," a revolutionary teaching system he introduced in 1875 that focused on child-centered instruction and socialized activities instead of the rigid ways of teaching.

"Col. Parker was a pioneer of the progressive school movement in the

Quincy, NQ Girls Tennis Teams Court Success

By TOM JOYCE

Equipped with experience, the North Quincy High girls tennis team rolled through the final couple weeks of the regular season as they prepared for the playoffs.

This season, the Red Raiders returned all but one player from last season's starting lineup and thanks to that talent and experience, they went 13-6 in the regular season this year; they also won five of their last six matches headed into MIAA postseason bracket. One of the wins in that span was a 5-0 victory over their crosstown rival, the Quincy Presidents on May 24. If this success is any indication, they have continued developing and growing as players as the season has progressed.

"It's been a very successful season," Red Raiders Coach Francesca Quintero said. "I'm really excited we were able to pick up from last year's momentum and keep moving forward. It's

Although the Red Raiders came into the season with experience, they had to make adjustments to their lineup and now, they are at a point where they are working well in their new roles. The talent is certainly one reason for their success, but the players knowing they could be successful once again has been beneficial as well.

"I think everyone came into the season feeling confident," Quintero said. "Also having been to the tournament, even if it was in different roles, makes things easier. I think a lot of these girls knew they were capable of doing it again."

The squad is led by senior captains Sydney Ly and Jade Tang, who comprise the first doubles team. Ly has been a captain since she was a sophomore and together, the two have given the team hope in tight matches.

"They've been very, very crucial for us," Quintero said. "We've had a few matches for example against Scituate and Whitman-Hanson that came down to their match and those were some nerve wracking matches that went three sets. However, they showed great composure. It's been unbelievable. They completely took on that leadership role and have not let the occasion get to them."

The Red Raiders No. 1 singles player, Lydia Chan, also gives the team plenty of reason to be confident. This is her second year in that role for a playoff-bound team despite only being a sophomore.

"She has nerves of steel which isn't always the case for a younger kid," Quintero said. "She has a lot of talent, works hard and has made herself into a huge asset. She's so beyond her years out there, it's impressive."

One reason why the Red Raiders have been successful over the past couple of years is because of their high participation rate. Their varsity roster lists 15 players which means they could fill out two lineups and still have one player leftover with the amount of girls they have this season.

"It's great to see the program grow over the years," Quintero said. "It's great to see tennis becoming a more popular sport in North Quincy. We're also having kind of a JV team as well and it's great. They come to practice, cheer the girls on at the varsity meets and act as a feeder system for the varsity team."

ers are enjoying a playoff-bound year, their rival has undergone a little bit different fate this spring.

The Quincy High Presidents girls' tennis team has a lineup that is loaded with underclassmen and only features two seniors: Catlinh Le and Erika Sato. In contrast, it's a team with 10 freshmen, five sophomores and a pair of juniors.

That said, the Presidents won just one match this season against Fontbonne Academy May 21. Despite the losses, the Presidents kept working and kept improving.

Not only did they get their first win in their 16th match of the season, but two of their final three matches of the season were 3-2 contests (against Brockton and Hanover). As the team continues working hard during the offseason — building more experience playing tennis — they will likely achieve more success in the future.

This year's Presidents team — coached by Meg Matthews — featured: Kasey Chow, May Huang, Thuy Huynh, Oceana Huang, Catlinh Le, Limei Li, Taylor Lo, Amy Nguyen, Melanie Nguyen, Celine Nguyen, Tiffany Pham, Mariangeliz Rivera, Kenia Rosemberg, Annie Ruan, Erika Sato, Jennifer Truong, Ygan Jae Tumapang, Alita Wanaslip and Qi wen Zhou.

Red Raiders Sweep O'Bryant, At B.C. High Tuesday Night

By TOM JOYCE

Phase one of the postseason conquest was no problem for the North Quincy High boys volleyball team.

The No. 6 Red Raiders got off to a great start in its match against No. 11 O'Bryant in the first round of the MIAA Division 1 South playoff bracket May 31 at home and the momentum carried over to the final two sets.

Ultimately, the Red Raiders topped their foe 3-0 (25-8, 25-22, 25-18) to improve to 14-4 on the season. They advanced to the Div. 1 South quarterfinal with their victory and faced the third-seeded BC High Eagles on the road on Tuesday night.

"We had not played O'Bryant before, so we didn't know what to expect coming into this one," Red Raiders head coach Jason Cai said. "We did have some common opponents though which helped. We have not played BC High either, although I know O'Bryant took them to five games before losing. But until Tuesday we will focus on our game, and one thing we know is that we need to work on more consistent serving."

From the start of their first round matchup against O'Bryant, the Red Raiders proved they deserved to win. They opened the first to take a commanding lead. From there, they had O'Bryant in a major hole, but the Red Raiders kept going. They found themselves up 17-2 shortly thereafter. The Red Raiders ended up taking the set 25-8.

"I thought we played really well in that first game," Cai said. "Unfortunately, I think we got a little lax after that. I think we had two mistakes in the first game and then we probably made about eight or 10 mistakes in that second game. I know the other team made mistakes, too, but I'm more focused on our mistakes and we could've lost either of those last two games."

After that, the Red Raiders weren't quite as dominant, but they had established some confidence early and managed to get the job done because of it.

The second set had the potential to be a nail-biter, however, senior Timmy Chiu, who shined with 16 kills and 11 digs on the day, propelled the team late on the attack; they won the set 25-22.

In the final set, the Red Raiders initially fell behind, 3-1. However, they fought back even though their opponent would not quit. Late in the set, the Red Raiders held a 19-16 lead before they truly exploded; they went on a 6-2 run to finish the set, taking it 25-18 which meant they also won the match.

One setback the Red Raiders had in the match was being without their regular setter, Alex Pham. However, Gary Liang stepped up and filled the void at the position. Liang ended up recording a team-high 29 assists in the victory.

In addition to Chiu, Chris Nguyen stood out offensively for the Red Raiders; he recorded seven kills and eight digs as his team advanced to the next round of the playoffs.

Cai also noted that his team received strong play from Ilan Valencius, Tyler Li and Ben Chen, especially in the final set.

Coupled with their success late in the regular season, the Red Raiders victory over O'Bryant put them on a five-game winning streak. It's also worth noting all of those wins were by a score of 3-0, meaning they did not lose a single set in that time frame.

JUNIOR SETTER Gary Liang makes a nice block for a point in the second set of North Quincy's first round win over O'Bryant in the South Sectional Div. 1 tournament May 31.

Small Steps In Right Direction For Quincy Girls Lacrosse

Quincy high girls lacrosse finished a tough season this year.

They ended 0-10 in the league and 3-17 overall. An improvement from last years 1-19 overall record. Small steps in the right direction for this squad.

The big numbers for the Presidents was that they had an overall high on numbers of players; with over 60 girls. This made them able to field all three levels (varsity; junior varsity and freshman teams).

Top four leading scorers for the varsity squad where Maguire Tierney with 41 goals and 23 assists; Megan Bailey with 39 goals and 6 assists; Maggie Martin with 25 goals and 8 assists and Tara McCleary with 16 goals and 10 assists.

Megan Bailey was able to secure a spot on the all league team with not only her outstanding offensive performance but her unwavering dedication to giving her all and proving to be the real work horse for the team.

Alex Gagne in goal finished with all 20 starts under her belt. She averaged 13.25 goals against and had 364 saves this season.

The Presidents will graduate some key players including senior captains

Mailead Connolly, Gretah DiOrio, Yasmina Zaharian-tourio, and Isadora Lenna. Kat Casey was a wild card switch made by coach Arakelian and proved to have big payout for the Presidents' defense. She along with Gretah will be playing lacrosse in college.

New blood Alyssa Ryan and Jacqueline Kane were solid additions to the team and showed large promise for the future. The team looks to continue to improve on their competitive drive by increasing their out of season play and fitness. Look out for the squad next year!

Strong Finish, Season Success For NQ Girls Lacrosse

The North Quincy varsity girls lacrosse finished their season strong with a record of 8-11.

The team won the last 3 out of 4 of their games. The greatest success with this year's team was the obvious growth in not just one individual, but the entire team.

Playing for the Raiders were seniors Jillian Hallisey, Celia Hussey, Olivia Hussey, Nora McLaughlin, Toni Alvarado, Joanna Rafti, Brenna Kirby, Mindy Truong, Olivia Keenan; juniors Lindsay Lee, Eve Anderson, Celia White, Sara Wong, Gina Ash, Olivia Liang; and sophomores Joanna Setow and Olivia Murray.

Defense was led by senior captain Jillian Hallisey. She brought a great competitive edge in the zone and in the offense. Jillian also received the Patriot League Sportsmanship award.

Sophomore goalie Joanne Setow came in big especially the last week with some standout saves.

Captains Nora McLaughlin, Olivia Hussey and Celia Hussey led the way during transitions and on the offensive board. Nora McLaughlin was selected for as a Patriot League all-star; she had 50 goals and 11 assists.

Olivia Hussey completed her season with 41 goals and 17 assists.

Lastly, Celia Hussey with the most assists of the team had 19 assists and 26 goals. All players worked very hard throughout the season and should really be proud of themselves.

Jonathan Brillo New B.C. High Head Football Coach

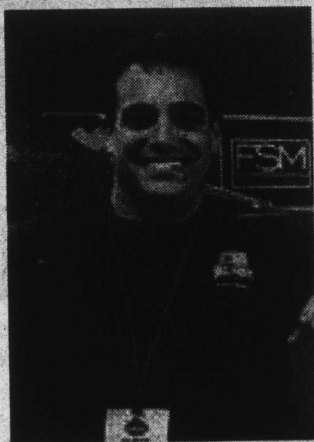

Jonathan Brillo has been named head football coach at Boston College High School effective July 1, announces Athletic Director Jon Bartlett.

Bartlett announced his departure as head football coach on April 12 to focus on his role as athletic director of the all-boys, Jesuit, Catholic school. Bartlett will continue to oversee the 19 varsity sports and hundreds of athletes in grades 7-12.

Brillo has been a part of the BC High football program for many years, serving as an assistant coach on the 2008 and 2011 championship football teams.

"We are extremely happy that Coach Brillo is our next head coach," Bartlett said. "For the past 10 years on the BC High Staff, Coach Brillo has coached multiple positions and has coordinated both sides of the ball. He has without a doubt been one of our hardest working coaches, with the hours and preparation he puts in on the field and off.

"This work ethic and his JONATHAN BRILLO ability to relate to our student-athletes will make him a successful head coach" Bartlett said.

In addition to his commitment to football, he has been an instrumental part of the Indoor and Spring track teams, assisting in the 2009 indoor track championship team.

Brillo is a graduate of BC High Class of 1999 where he played played football and participated in track.

"I am confident that Jonathan Brillo will be a strong leader for the football program. I know he will continue to mentor and challenge our student-athletes to be their best selves in the classroom and on the field," said President Grace Cotter Regan.

Brillo takes over a program that has seen great success under the leadership of Jon Bartlett. Each year, a number of student-athletes go on to play at the collegiate level. Brillo will seek to continue that record of achievement.

"I am truly honored and excited to be named head football coach of the Boston College High School Eagles," Brillo said. "I want to thank President Regan, Principal Hughes, Athletic Director Jon Bartlett and those who sat on the search committee for this incredible opportunity. I am eager to get to work and will strive to build on the current success of the program, and uphold the wonderful tradition that is BC High Football."

Brillo graduated from Assumption College in 2003 and works for the City of Quincy as the inspector of Weights and Measures. He lives in Rockland with his wife, Lindsay and daughter, Emma.

Highlights From Track Div. 1 Championships, MIAA All-State Meet

Devin Hiltunen Sets New NQHS Record In 200 Meters With Time Of 25.79

By GEOFF HENNESSY

The mark of any good program is to peak at the championships.

Such was the case for Quincy-North Quincy track teams at the Division 1 meet held at Andover High School. With possible impending bad weather Sunday, May 27th, the meet was moved to Monday, May 28 - Memorial Day - which was a welcome change for most of the athletes.

"We trained very hard early in the week leading up to States, so we knew a few extra rest days would do us well," said Coach Geoff Hennessy. In fact, nearly every athlete had a season PR.

For the girls Devin Hiltunen broke a 37-year-old North Quincy High School record eclipsing Deirdre (Donovan) Page's record of 25.9 with a 25.79 electronic timing in the 200 meters. Devin's 4th place qualified her for Allstate.

Teammate Alex Case battled injury and illness to finish 11th out of the trials in 26.74. Liana Cunningham was 18th out of a field of 36 in the 100 meters with a 13.21. Freshman Maeve White ran 5:35.84 for 20th in the mile. Sarah Pillone was 15th in the 100 meter hurdles in 16.46 only 2 hundredths away from volleyball superstar Makini Thompson's school record of 16.44. Sarah went on the leap 36'10" in the triple jump to finish 5th and move on to Allstate.

Olivia Palazzi was 30th in 100m hurdles and 13th in 400 meter hurdles in 1:10.79 pretty close to her best ever.

In the discus Emma

Nguyen was 10th in 93'8" her best and Rachel Smith threw 83'10" for 18th.

In the 4 x 100 relay the team of Pillone, Cunningham, Case and Hiltunen finished 7th in 51.69 missing the cut for allstate by one spot. A bad handoff cost the team valuable time.

In the 4 x 400 relay Abby Murphy replaced Pillone and the team ran away with the penultimate heat in 4:11.72 but all six teams in the seeded heat ran 4:08 or faster and with a 7th place also finished one spot out of moving on.

"It was disappointing" said Hennessy. "Andover has a 6 lane track and we were 7th seed. I guarantee if we ran in the last heat we would have been going to Allstates. Cunningham, Hiltunen and Case all ran season best relay splits and Murphy was close."

On the boys side, Nathan Sleiman leaped 45'7" for 2nd in the triple jump and clocked a 15.91 in the hurdles good for 18th. Shorn Hawthorne cleared a personal best 6'2" in the high jump but finished 8th. MIAA rules state that high jumpers must finish 6th or better to be considered for Allstate and Hawthorn's leap would have placed in the top 4 in many divisions.

Dominic Laptiste punched his ticket to Allstate despite a clerical error. In the trials Dom long jumped 23'00" a new QHS school record but during the finals his best was 22'3" and that is what was written down. Rules state that all six jumps count.

"We were running around with multiple events happening between the long jump and triple jump and it slipped by us. You can only protest a decision within 15 minutes of it happening. In talks with the state director, they admitted the error and in reality would have only moved Laptiste from 6th to 5th. We were happy for him to advance."

The 4 x 100 relay team of Brian Gutro, Laptiste, Sleiman and Hawthorne finished 11th with a PR 45.03. Hawthorne also finished the 100 meters in 11.42 for 12th.

The Division 1 meet was clearly the most talent laden with most of the big Catholic Schools plus additions of powerhouse programs like Natick and Wellesley.

At Allstate Devin Hiltunen could not overcome a bad start and finished 15th despite another sub 26 with a 25.99.

Sarah Pillone was battling a turned ankle from earlier in the week and could only jump 35'01" good for 20th.

Dominic Laptiste finished 7th in long jump (22'2.5") but qualified for New England by virtue of one of the top 6 deciding not to move on.

Nathan Sleiman was not so lucky with all top 6 elected to move on the the meet which will be held at UNH in Durham. Nathan leaped 44'3.5" in the triple jump good for 8th.

"The heat as the day wore on was intense," said Hennessy. Coaches attending included Hennessy, Jeff Pereira and Jackie Coleman.

OVER 500 STUDENTS from Clifford Marshall Elementary School recently participated in an outdoor physical activity demonstration inspired by lessons learned throughout the school year in the BOKS program, which aims to improve kids' academic performance and overall health by promoting physical activity and nutritional education.

Marshall School Students Celebrate Physical Activity

Outdoor Demonstration Highlights Role Of Exercise In Strengthening Bodies And Minds

Quincy School Supt. Richard DeCristofaro, school officials, and representatives from Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts were on hand recently as over 500 students from Clifford Marshall Elementary School participated in an outdoor physical activity demonstration inspired by lessons learned throughout the school year in the BOKS program, which aims to improve kids' academic performance and overall health by promoting physical activity and nutritional education.

Wearing yellow and blue t-shirts, dozens of Marshall Elementary students enrolled in the BOKS program formed a circle in the cul-de-sac in front of the school and led a massive group of their peers and teachers through an afternoon of stretching, singing, dancing, and exercise. Marshall Elementary principal Nicholas Ahearn and Jeff Bellows, vice president of Corporate Citizenship, joined students in the demonstration.

A $24,000 grant from Blue Cross Blue Shield of MA has supported BOKS programming in all 16 of Quincy public elementary schools for the 2017-2018 school year.

"We're thrilled about our partnership with BOKS to offer opportunities for kids to get active in the morning and improve their performance in the classroom and overall health. This program aligns so well with our priorities as a company — promoting active lifestyles and making healthy nutritional choices — and is a major win for everyone involved. I'm so impressed by the energy and leadership skills displayed by these students," said Bellows.

bok Foundation, BOKS is a free before-school program designed to get elementary students moving in the morning, helping to prepare their brains for the school day ahead. BOKS provides two 12-week sets of curriculum developed to be run three days a week for 40-45 minutes before school.

"This event showcased how the BOKS program turns students into leaders within their community," said Kathleen Tullie, founder and executive director, BOKS. "Our team is incredibly proud of the Quincy Public Schools and the work they have done to provide its students with this opportunity. We are also incredibly grateful to our partner Blue Cross, without whom we would not be able to bring the transformative power of BOKS to as many children as we do."

BOKS (www.bokskids.org) is a physical activity program that empowers school communities to improve their children physically, mentally and socially through the power of movement. Backed by science, BOKS provides each school community with a robust curriculum, training and on-going support to establish and maintain impactful programs serving the whole child. In an effort to close the fitness inequality gap, the BOKS program is 100 percent free to schools so that children have access to the extensive health and wellness benefits of sport and fitness no matter their income level.

PUBLIC NOTICE

PUBLIC NOTICE
2018 - 108

Presently pending in the Ordinance Committee of the Quincy City Council to be passed at a later date:

BE IT ORDAINED by the City Council of the City of Quincy that of the Quincy Municipal Code be further amended as follows:

By adding Chapter 5.39 – Regulation of Short-Term Residential Rentals:
Section 5.39.010 Definitions

The following words and phrases when used in this code shall, for the purposes of this code, have the following respective meanings:

(a) Hotel. Any public or private hotel, inn, apartment hotel, hostelry, tourist home or house, motel, rooming house, short-term residential rental as defined in section 5.39.020, or other lodging place within the city offering lodging to any transient as hereinafter defined for compensation.

(b) Lodging. Any space or room furnished for habitation by any transient.

(c) Person. Any individual, firm, partnership, association, corporation, person acting in a representative capacity or any group of individuals acting as a unit.

(d) Room Rental. The total charge, exclusive of any tax imposed on such charge, made by any hotel for lodging furnished for habitation by any transient. If the charge made by any hotel to a transient includes any charge for services or accommodations in addition to that of lodging, then that portion of the total charge as represents only lodging rental shall be distinctly set out and billed to the transient by the hotel as a separate item.

(e) Transient. Any person who, for a period of not more than 90 consecutive days or, for short-term residential rentals, for a period of fewer than 30 consecutive days, either at his own expense or at the expense of another obtains lodging in any hotel, as hereinabove defined.

(f) Operator. The proprietor of any dwelling, lodging, or sleeping accommodations offered as a short-term residential rental, whether in the capacity of owner, lessee, sub lessee, mortgagee in possession, licensee, or any other possessory capacity.

(g) Short-term Residential Rental. The provision of a room or space that is suitable or intended for occupancy for dwelling, sleeping, or lodging purposes, for a period of fewer than 30 consecutive days, in exchange for a charge for the occupancy.

Section 5.39.020 Section 1 Short-Term Residential Rental Registry

(a) There is hereby established a short-term residential rental registry. Upon offering any short-term residential rentals, all operators shall register with the Inspectional Services Department. This shall be an annual registration for each property offered for short-term residential rental and shall require the operator to provide the complete name of the operator and the address of each property in the city offered for short-term residential rental by the operator.

(b) Penalties. Failure to register a property within 30 days of being offered for short-term residential rental shall result in a penalty to be paid by the operator in the amount of five hundred dollars ($500). The director may waive such penalty if the failure to register was due to no fault of the operator. Until such time as the operator pays the penalty and registers such property, the operator may not continue to offer such property for short-term residential rental. Each rental occurring while the property is not registered shall be cause for separate $500 fines. Upon repeated violation of the registration requirement as it relates to a specific property, and upon notice, the operator shall be prohibited from registering said property and from offering that property for short-term residential rental. Such prohibition may, for good cause, be appealed to the director.

(c) Multiple violations of other laws. An operator required to register a property may be prohibited by the city from offering a specific property for short-term residential rental within the city, upon multiple violations on more than three occasions of applicable state and local laws, ordinances, and regulations.

(d) Non-contravention. Except as provided in this section, nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit, limit, or otherwise supersede existing local authority to regulate the short-term residential rental of property through general land use and zoning authority. Nothing in this section shall be construed to supersede or limit contracts or agreements between or among individuals or private entities related to the use of real property, including recorded declarations and covenants; the provisions of condominium instruments of a condominium created pursuant to the Massachusetts Condominium Act.

(e) Administration. Notwithstanding any other provision of this code, the Mayor may enter into agreements, subject to local law, with computer platform hosts of short-term residential rentals, and with data-analytic vendors for short-term residential rentals, to facilitate the efficient collection of any applicable taxes, including but not limited to the Quincy Hotel/Motel Tax.

(f) Hotel/Motel Tax. Operators of short-term residential rentals shall collect from transients the appropriate local option tax and cause to be transmitted the same to the City of Quincy on a quarterly basis.

That this ordinance shall become effective upon December 31, 2018.

A copy of this order may be examined at the Office of the City Clerk, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy, MA Monday through Friday during regular working hours 8:30 A.M. to 4:30 P.M.

Houghs Neck Congregational

The bell will ring to call you to church. The Sunday worship service begins at 10 a.m. at Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave.

This Sunday the Children's Day service will be performed by the Sunday School children. It will be a service of thankfulness for the teachers, students and the church experience.

Immediately following the service the Annual Church Meeting will be held in the sanctuary.

A Barbeque will be enjoyed by all after the church business is concluded.

It will be outside if possible with lots of good food, games for kids and fellowship.

Happy Days Fair June 16 At St. Chrysostom's Church

The Happy Days Fair will be held Saturday, June 16 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at St. Chrysostom's Church, corner of Hancock Street and Linden Street, Wollaston.

The fair will feature a book bonanza with many books for summer reading as well as vendors who will present their wares from homemade crafts to specialty vendors.

The Quincy Animal Shelter will be present, and the church Mite Box Thrift shop will be open all day. Come by to see all of the special offers and discounts.

A pancake breakfast will be served at 9 a.m., and lunch will be available after 11:30 a.m. Some special entertainment will also be on hand during the day.

Beach Service Returns Sunday

The public is invited to attend Beach Church Sunday, June 10th, and also June 17, 24 and July 1st at 8 a.m. between the Squantum and Wollaston Yacht Clubs on Wollaston Beach.

This brief service of song, scripture and prayer is led by Rev. John and Rev. Martha Swanson.

RELIGION

Quincy Point Congregational

A Children and Youth Sunday celebration will take place Sunday, June 10th at the 10 a.m. worship at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St.

The children lead worship and the Children's Choir and Pointer Youth Band will perform during worship.

After worship fellowship hour takes place in the social hall with refreshments and conversation. While there sign our birthday and thinking of you cards.

The Second Sunday Series Adult Education class also takes place after worship. Those interested in attending are encouraged to grab a refreshment from the social hall and make your way to the parlor (located behind the library on the main floor).

The speaker will be James Ikeda, the advisor of Quincy High School's Spectrum Gay/Straight Alliance and some members of Spectrum. They will talk about their challenges and accomplishments to help us understand all members of God's family. Youth Group also takes place at 11:30 a.m.

An indoor yard sale will be held Saturday, June 16 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Social Hall on the bottom floor of the church building. Complimentary coffee and tea will be served. Proceeds will go to benefit the QPCC Sanctuary Piano Fund.

Save the date: Rev. Kim Murphy officiates her first worship service as the new Pastor of QPCC. More details to come.

Bethany Congregational Church

Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Center will have a Worship Service at 9:30 a.m. This is Children's Sunday, David Wang will conduct the service and Manoach Bonhomme preach the sermon entitled "Let The Children Come." Fellowship with light refreshments will follow the worship service.

Kids' Summer Clothing Drive At Beth Shalom Blue Hills

As part of its "Third Thursday Community Service Mitzvah Program," Congregation Beth Shalom of the Blue Hills will join with Interfaith Social Services of Quincy to conduct a Children's Summer Clothing Drive from June 18 to the "Third Thursday," June 21, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day.

New and gently used children's summer clothes can be brought to Beth Shalom of the Blue Hills at 18 Shoolman Way (off Lodge Street) in Milton between 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on June 18th to the 21st. All types of summer clothing for children ages 1-12 are needed: tops, bottoms, shoes, sandals, swimsuits, etc., and all donations are greatly appreciated.

Bring donations in plastic bags and, if possible, sort the clothing before packing. Clothing will be delivered to Interfaith Social Services in Quincy, a multiservice center helping South Shore families and individuals in need since 1947.

The synagogue's Mitzvah Program, operating under the Jewish tenet that "performing good deeds is an obligation," offers an opportunity for service to the community to both congregants and community members, including schools, houses of worship and organizations.

For more information about the Children's Summer Clothing Drive or the synagogue's "Third Thursday Community Service Mitzvah Program," call 617-698-3394, email office@BethShalomBlueHills.org, or visit www.BethShalomBlueHills.org.

The church office is open from 8:30 a.m. to noon-1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. Please: www.bethanyconchurch.org for updates and activities. The Sunday Service is broadcast on QATV at 6 p.m. on Thursdays and 10:00 a.m. on Sundays on Channel 8.

The church is wheelchair accessible.

Carol B. Gallery, 75

A funeral Mass for Carole B. (LaFauci) Gallery, age 75, of Quincy, formerly of Dorchester, was celebrated Wednesday in St. Mary's Church, Quincy.

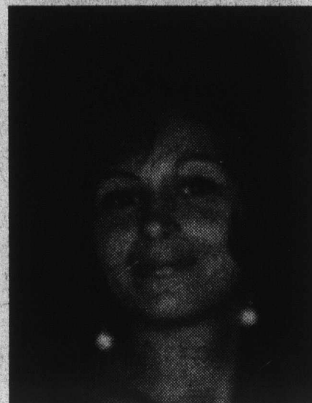

Mrs. Gallery died peacefully May 31 at home, surrounded by her loving family.

She was born in Dorchester to the late John and Stella (Terelak) LaFauci. She was raised in Dorchester and was a graduate of the former Cardinal Cushing High School, Class of 1960. She had lived in Quincy for over forty-five years and previously in Dorchester.

Mrs. Gallery was the former co-owner, with her late husband James, of the J.W. Gallery Deliveries Company and had also worked for the Massachusetts State Lottery for several years. During her working career, she was involved in many ventures, including the entertainment, restaurant and insurance industries.

As a young woman, Mrs. Gallery enjoyed dancing, warm weather, yard work and ceramics with family and friends. She was an amazing cook, very artistically creative, especially when it came to decorating for the holidays.

Most of all, she was devoted to her family, especially to her best friend and husband, Jimmy.

CAROL B. GALLERY

Devoted mother of Lynne A. DeLuca and her husband Mark of Whitman, Christine Callahan and her husband Brian of Quincy, Jaime Gallery and her fiancé Tim Galligan of Quincy and the late Susan T. McDermott. Loving grandmother of Mark, Matthew, Zack, Rachel, Allie, Danielle, Casey, Seamus, Christian and Lindsay. Cherished great grandmother of Mason, Stella and Christian. Dear sister of Paula Murphy of Quincy and sister-in-law of Joanne Romano of Weymouth. She is also survived by many nieces and nephews.

Mary P. Manley

A Mass of Christian Burial for Mary Patricia Manley was celebrated June 1 in St. Joseph's Church, Quincy.

Mrs. Manley died May 28.

Born and raised in South Boston, where she lived for fifty years, she was also a resident of Quincy for many years. She is survived by her beloved family, Peggy Tracy of Rockland, Jay Manley and his longtime companion Helena Medeiros of the Azores, Patrick Manley of Hull, Bessie Manley Szum and her husband John Szum of Charlestown, and Maryann Polito and her husband Jay Polito of Hull. She is also survived by her four grandchildren, Jayson Tracy, Luke Manley, James and Maria Polito, and one great-grandchild, Ailise Tracy. Mrs. Manley had many cousins, nieces and nephews, all of whom she held in very fond regard.

Among those whom she cherished were her old and new friends with whom she shared the different segments of her life.

She was an over thirty-year duration employee of the U.S. Postal Service as a regular part-time employee and a proud member of the Clerks and Mail Handlers Unions.

After her husband's retirement, Mrs. Manley and he traveled extensively to places including Canada, Europe, Australia as well as a wonderful trip to Israel with her daughter. When her youngest daughter went off to college, Mrs. Manley returned to school part-time attending the University of Massachusetts/Harbor Campus for thirteen years. Many of her courses were taken for the learning and pleasure of them, but she ended up with two Bachelor's Degrees. After the death of her beloved husband, James of fifty-five years, Mrs. Manley moved to 1000 Southern Artery where she enjoyed many activities and companionship for years. May she rest in peace.

Private interment at Massachusetts National Cemetery, Bourne.

Funeral arrangements were made by Hamel Funeral Care & Cremation Service of Massachusetts, 26 Adams St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to Friends of Boston's Homeless, 12 Wise St., Boston, MA 02130 or online at fobh.org.

OBITUARIES

Mary C. DiTullio, 91

A funeral Mass for Mary C. (D'Antonio) DiTullio, age 91, of Weymouth, formerly of Quincy, will be celebrated Friday at 10 a.m. in Saint Francis Xavier Church, 234 Pleasant St., Weymouth.

Mrs. DiTullio died peacefully Sunday, at home, surrounded by her loving family.

Mary was born in Quincy to the late Luigi and Formia (D'Alessandro) D'Antonio. She was raised in Quincy and was a graduate of Quincy High School, Class of 1945. She was also a graduate of the former Quincy City Hospital School of Nursing in 1948.

She had lived in Weymouth for 57 years and previously in Quincy for 34 years.

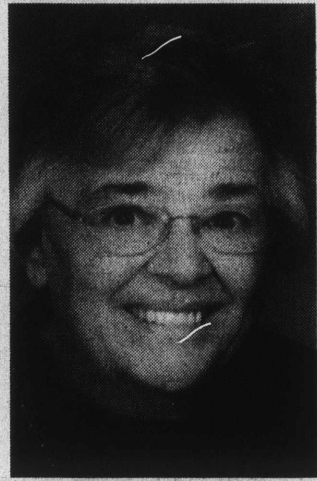

She was employed as a registered nurse and worked several years at the former Quincy City Hospital before becoming a stay at home mom. She loved being a mother and was dedicated to raising and taking care of her family. She enjoyed travelling and the many family summer vacations on Cape Cod.

She was an active member of the Mother of Twins Club, the Nurses Alumni Association and was the resident nurse of her neighborhood.

Mary was a proud to be a cancer survivor and was well known as the "lady with the beautiful smile."

Beloved wife for 66 years of Carl DiTullio

Devoted mother of Do-

MARY C. DiTULLIO

reen Quinones and her husband Jose of Texas, Karen Tlasek and her husband David of Sandwich, twins; Susan Bendott of Hingham and Sandra Litchfield and her husband Brian of California, Patricia Ayers and her husband Mitchell of Whitman, Carl Matthew DiTullio of Quincy, John D'Antonio and his wife Shirley of Maine, Joseph D'Antonio and his wife Wanda of Falmouth..

Mary was the cherished grandmother of 13 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

The last of three siblings, she was pre-deceased by Luigi Mario D'Antonio and Eleanor D'Antonio. Mary was also the dear sister-in-law of the late Mary J. DiTullio.

Visiting hours are 4 to 8 p.m. today (Thursday) at the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Interment will be at Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Memorial donations may be made to the Norwell VNA and Hospice, 120 Longwater Dr., Norwell, MA 02061.

Kyle Morton, 54

Visiting hours for Kyle Morton, 54, of South Boston and formerly Quincy, will be held Friday from 5 to 8 p.m. in Hamel Funeral Care & Cremation Service of Massachusetts, 26 Adams St., Quincy.

Mr. Morton died unexpectedly May 26.

He leaves behind Barbara Cassio of South Boston, his lifelong companion.

He is survived by his siblings Robert Morton Jr. of California, Susan Cattaneo of Plymouth, Christopher Morton of Quincy, Dennis Morton of Quincy, and Brenda McCarthy of Hingham, as well as many nieces, nephews, and numerous cousins.

He was the beloved son of the late Blanche Cattaneo and Bob Morton.

Mary L. McLaughlin, 95

A funeral Mass for Mary Louise (Newcomb) McLaughlin, 95, was celebrated May 31 in Sacred Heart Church, Quincy.

Mrs. McLaughlin died peacefully May 27 surrounded by her loving family.

It is impossible to put into words all the ways she touched family and friends over the years with her selfless giving, always putting the needs of others before her own. Mrs. McLaughlin was a proud alumna class of 1940, of Mount St. Joseph Academy (now St. Joseph Preparatory High School) and attended every reunion until 2015. After graduation from Somerville Hospital School of Nursing in 1944, she began her long career as a registered nurse. Her career included work with young polio victims, night supervisor of an emergency room, night shift staff nurse, and labor and delivery nurse. Regarded as a "nurses' nurse" she received thank you notes on a monthly basis from former patients and family.

Mrs. McLaughlin was predeceased by her parents, Agnes (Carney) Newcomb and John F. Newcomb and her beloved husband of 50 years, Thomas E. McLaughlin. Also predeceased by her loving sister-in-law

MARY L. McLAUGHLIN

Marguerite Newcomb of Hingham and sister-in-law Violet Richmond of Livermore Falls, ME. She is survived by her daughter Carol McLaughlin and her partner Paul Healy of Quincy, and her beloved brother Robert A. Newcomb of Hingham. She is also survived by her loving nieces, nephews, grandnieces and grandnephews and her dear friend Mary LaFlamme of Quincy.

She had many interests including singing in the church choir and travel with Tommy and their dear friends Mary and Gerry LaFlamme.

Interment at Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to St. Joseph Preparatory High School, 617 Cambridge St., Boston, MA 02134.

Judith A. Livingstone, 68

Funeral arrangements for Judith A. (Carlson) Livingstone, age 68, a longtime Quincy resident, were private.

Mrs. Livingstone died unexpectedly June 1.

She was born in Quincy to the late Walter and Grace (Meritt) Carlson and was a graduate of Quincy High School, Class of 1968. She was a homemaker and enjoyed sewing. Mrs. Livingstone was also a talented artist and had taught art.

Beloved wife for forty-five years of Clarence S. Livingstone. Devoted mother of Todd E. Livingstone of Quincy and Adam M. Livingstone of Braintree. She is survived by several siblings, nieces and nephews.

Arrangements under the direction of the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

McCarthy were opposed. Ian Cain was not present for the vote.

DiBona had asked Stephen Durkin, the assistant city solicitor who drafted the ordinance, if the city could expand the buffer zone around school and parks past 500 feet.

Durkin said that buffer zone cannot be reduced. The state Cannabis Control Commission, he said, has issued an advisory saying communities can establish buffer zones of 500 feet or less around schools.

"It was pretty specific," Durkin said. "My opinion is we can't expand it beyond 500 feet."

Some other communities have contemplated reducing the buffer zone, he added.

Massachusetts voters approved the legalization of recreational marijuana in a November 2016 referendum. Statewide, 53.6 percent of voters backed the measure, and 51 percent of voters in Quincy did so as well. Because a majority of Quincy voters approved the 2016 referendum, the mayor and City Council cannot ban marijuana establishments outright.

Durkin said state law also bars communities that supported the 2016 ballot question from prohibiting certain types of marijuana operations - such as growers or cafes where pot could be consumed on premises - from opening. The Cannabis Control Commission has yet to issue regulations for pot cafes and will not take up the matter until at least October, Durkin said.

The proposed ordinance would require anyone looking to open a marijuana establishment to obtain a special permit from the Zoning Board of Appeals. A community meeting would be required prior to the application to the ZBA being filed. Applicants would also need to sign a host agreement with the mayor; those host agreements would include a community impact fee of up to 3 percent of gross sales payable to the city for up to five years.

The consumption of marijuana in public would continue to be prohibited. Violators could face a civil fine of up to $100.

The 2016 ballot measure would have allowed recreational dispensaries to open their doors on Jan. 1, 2018, but lawmakers approved delaying that by six months to July 1. The ballot measure also allows residents 21 and older to grow marijuana in their homes, up to 6 plants per person and 12 per household. Those provisions were unchanged by a July 2017 law approved by state lawmakers.

The July 2017 law also increased the total tax on marijuana from 12 percent as included in the ballot initiative to 20 percent. That includes the state's 6.25 percent sales tax, a 10.75 percent state excise tax and an optional local sales tax of up to 3 percent.

Koch has filed separate legislation, pending before the council, to establish a 3 percent local sales tax.

Covenant Church Seeks Children's Pantry Donations

The Children's Pantry at The Covenant Church of Quincy is in need of donations of gently used or new children's clothing, books, and supplies.

"For more than 15 years our church members, neighbors, and members of other Quincy churches have helped us with donations," said Rev. Karen Palmatier, pastor of the congregation. "This is a very important ministry to our congregation and to the community. We are very grateful for all the help and now we need people to help again. We especially need children's summer clothing sizes infant to 4T."

The Children's Pantry, located at 315 Whitwell St., serves children and their families by providing clothing, books, and supplies, free of charge. Many of the visitors have become good friends of the pantry because they have been coming for years, very often donating clothing their children have outgrown.

Hours for the Children's Pantry are Wednesday and Friday mornings from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Or call the church office at 617-479-5728 to make an appointment for drop off.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Your creative side is enhanced by indulging yourself in as much artistic inspiration (music, art, dance, etc.) as you can fit into your schedule. Bring someone special along.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Take a little restorative time out of your busy life. Go somewhere quiet this weekend. Or just close the door, turn on the answering machine and pretend you're away.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Your advice might be much in demand by family and friends this week. But reserve time for yourself to investigate a project that could have some unexpected potential.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Work-related issues demand your attention in the early part of the week. Family matters dominate Thursday and Friday. But the weekend is yours to spend as you please.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Try to keep your temper in check as you deal with someone who seems to enjoy showing disrespect. Losing your Leonine cool might be just what the goader hopes to see.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A heated confrontation needs some cool-off time before it boils over. Better to step away than to try to win an argument where emotions overrule the facts.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Someone very special in your life finally sends that reassuring message you've been hoping for. You can now devote more time to the tasks you had put aside.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Job pressures begin to ease by week's end, leaving you time to relax and restore your energy levels before you face next week's emerging challenges.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your spiritual strength helps calm a friend who might be facing an unsettling change in their life. An offer to help comes from a surprising source.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) By midweek you could learn some surprising facts about an associate that might cause you to reconsider a long-held view about someone in your past.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) One of those rare-for-you darker moods sets in in the early part of the week. But by Thursday, the clouds lift and you're back doing nice things for people in need.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Use that sharp Piscean perceptiveness to reel in more information about a promising offer so that you have the facts to back up whatever decision you make.

BORN THIS WEEK: Although you prefer the status quo, you easily can adapt to change when it's called for.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD -- If "It" scared you good and you want more ... well, brace yourself, because the 2017 film, which grossed $700 million, will scare you again as "It: Chapter Two." An all-star cast headed by Jessica Chastain, James McAvoy and Bill Hader will portray the tormented kids as adults (with the original kids returning as well). Bill Skarsgard reprises his role as Pennywise. Chastain is currently filming "Woman Walks Ahead," in which she plays a widow who paints a portrait of Chief Sitting Bull (Michael Greyeyes). It opens June 29 and also stars "Three Billboards" Oscar-winner Sam Rockwell.

Get ready for more gender switching. Last year producers recast "Ghostbusters" with an all-female cast and grossed $229 million against a $144 million cost. Now the $70 million "Ocean's 8" opens June 8 with Sandra Bullock, Cate Blanchett, Anne Hathaway, Mindy Kaling, Sarah Paulson and Helena Bonham Carter. Meanwhile, Oscar-winner Hathaway and Rebel Wilson are embodying Steve Martin and Michael Caine's roles in "The Hustle," a female reboot of "Dirty Rotten Scoundrels" (1988).

Now that "Black Panther" is out on DVD, it's doubtful it will still be in theaters. "Panther" has settled into the No. 9 spot of the all-time top-grossing box-office films, passing "Frozen," "The Last Jedi" and "Harry Potter & the Deadly Hallows: Part 2." However, "Avengers:

Infinity War" has sailed past them, as well as "Avengers: The Age of Ultron" (No. 8), "Furious 7" (No. 7), "Marvels: The Avengers" (No. 6) and "Jurassic World" (No. 5), and into the No. 4 berth, moving fast and threatening No. 3 "The Force Awakens" and the big boys, "Titanic" (No. 2) and "Avatar" (No. 1).

It looks like the inmates have taken over the asylum. We used to support films like "Gone With the Wind" (1939), "The Wizard of Oz" (1939) and "Casablanca" (1942), to name three of my favorites, but when you look over the above list, it's all fantasy and superheroes. Is reality so bad that we need to escape it with pure fantasy?

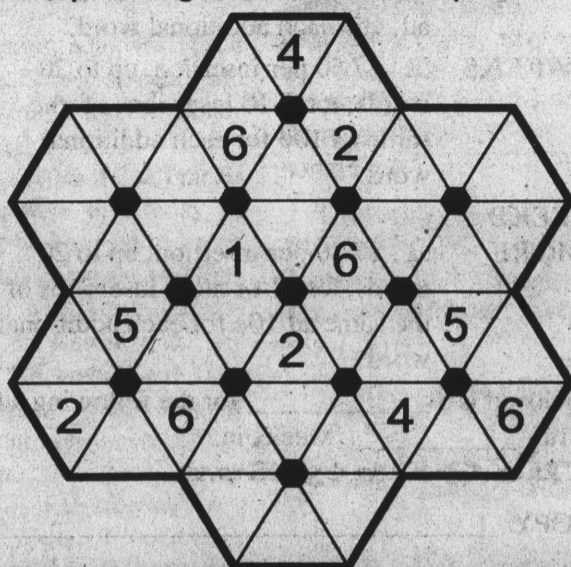

Emily Blunt, on fire with "A Quiet Place" (which has grossed more than $275 million), will hit again at Christmas with "Mary Poppins Returns," and is currently shooting Disney's "Jungle Fantasy," with Dwayne Johnson, Jack Whitehall and Paul Giamatti. Her "Quiet Place" husband and co-star, John Krasinski, also is red hot, landing the title role in the Amazon series "Tom Clancy's Jack Ryan," with Oscar-winner Timothy Hutton and Peter Fonda. Its first eight episodes haven't even begun airing (that happens Aug. 1), but the series already has been renewed for eight episodes of season 2. As busy as Blunt and Krasinski are, you can be sure they'd kill for a Quiet Place!

KOVELS' Antiques & Collecting

By Terry and Kim Kovel

Primitive Drying Rack

Our ancestors were clever and could make many tools, containers and cooking utensils from wood or iron. It was not until the mid-19th century that helpful gadgets like iron apple peelers with gears or other complicated tools were invented. Hundreds of patents were issued for improved household inventions. But during the 17th century and in rural areas, talented wood craftsmen created one-of-a-kind utensils for home use. Bowls, scoops, baskets, ladles and boxes were carved from wood harvested from nearby trees. The shape of the tree sometimes inspired the work.

At a recent Skinner auction, a wooden drying rack was auctioned. It was made from a single large branch with five upright "rods" for holding the drying fabrics. The largest branch had a hole at the top where it could be hung from a nail on the wall. It was primitive, but useful. The drying rack, made in the 1700s, sold for $6,500, because it was such an unusual relic of the early days of do-it-yourself tools.

Q: I have a Cracker Jack AM radio my dad gave me when I was 8 years old. It runs on a 9-volt battery. It's in perfect condition and tunes in clearly. Is it worth anything?

A: Cracker Jack was first made in 1896 by Rueckheim & Brother. The company became Rueckheim Bros. & Eckstein in 1902. Prizes were included in the packages beginning in 1912. Cracker Jack radios like this were made in the 1970s in Hong Kong for Just Products, a New York company. They sell for about $25.

Q: I would like to know what a set of silver teaspoons is worth. The set has been in my family for more than 140 years. My great-great-grandmother received it as a wedding present from family in the Netherlands, and it has been passed on from generation to generation. One teaspoon and the sugar spoon both have "EPNS" on the back.

A: The initials "EPNS" stand for "electroplated nickel silver," and mean your teaspoons are silver-plated, not sterling silver. Your set of teaspoons has great sentimental value, but not much monetary value. Silver-plated flatware is hard to sell, and it is not worth as much as sterling silver.

The average of 4 numbers is X.

If three of the numbers are A, B and C, how do you determine the remaining number in terms of the numbers already known (X, A, B and C)?

©2018 King Features Syndicate

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was the multitasking Brit G.K. Chesterton -- he was a poet, philosopher, dramatist, journalist, orator, lay theologian, biographer, and art critic -- who made the following sage observation: "The men who really believe in themselves are all in lunatic asylums."

* Those who study such things say that the word "daisy" started out as "day's eye" and was shortened over the years. Similarly, "God be with you" became "goodbye" and "whole be thou" became "hello."

* Becoming a sports star is the dream of many young people, so you might think that someone who is signed to a professional baseball contract has it made. You'd be wrong, though: Only 1 out of every 10 athletes who sign such a contract ever becomes a major-league ballplayer.

* The shortest song in the world is "You Suffer," recorded in 1986 by the British band Napalm Death. It lasts precisely 1.316 seconds.

* In France in the 1700s, capital punishment was not uncommon, and criminals thus condemned were decapitated by the country's Chief Executioner. This position was hereditary, which posed a problem when, in 1726, the holder of that title, Charles-Jean-Baptiste Sanson, suffered an early death, leaving his 7-year-old son, Charles, to take up the grisly duties. It was obvious to all that a child could never wield the heavy ax required for the decapitations, so it was deemed acceptable for a helper to actually perform the executions. Only the official office-holder could put the official seal on the act, however, so the poor boy had to witness every one. It wasn't until the ripe old age of 12 that he began to take over the full duties of the office.

Now here's a tip!

by Jo Ann Derson

* Freeze juice boxes to use as ice packs in a lunch box or cooler. No mess, and it makes a lovely slushy treat on a hot day.

* In our beach bag, we include a change of loose-fitting, comfy clothes for each kid. We package them in a gallon-size zipper-top bag, and when they change, the wet suit goes right in the plastic bag. It's better than having a big soggy, sandy mess in our beach bag, which often includes a book or magazine. -- F.C. in Texas

* "When you come home from the grocery store, stack the meats in your freezer according to expected use. For instance, if you are going to have pork chops on Monday and fish on Friday, you'd want to put the pork chops on top of the fish. This way, you need not dig around for what you need to defrost. And make sure you wrap everything well." -- A.R. in Oregon

* Is your tire slowly losing air? Sometimes it can be hard to tell where it's coming from. Use this tire-shop trick to find a puncture fast: Fill the tire with air, then squirt soapy water over the whole tire. Then, just wait; the air coming out of the tire will be trapped and form a nice little bubble!

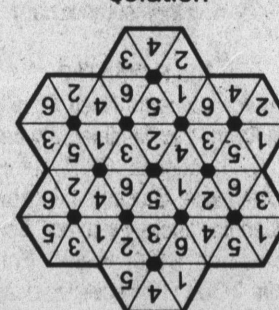

* "Try the mild abrasion of toothpaste (not the gel kind) to remove the hazy film from old headlights. Simply rub on with a soft cloth and buff. Don't press too hard." -- S.T. in Illinois

United States," said MacNeil. "He believed that education should be centered on the whole child. He was against standardization, isolated drills and rote learning. He helped to show that education is was not just about cramming information into students' minds, but about teaching students to think for themselves and become independent people. One hundred years later, we are still following these principles."

Quincy School Supt. Dr. Richard DeCristofaro said that for the past century, the school is "an incredible neighborhood school that continues to offer so much opportunity to learn as well as laugh."

"The Parker School, within its walls of brick and mortar, for 100 years, has embraced the hopes and certainly the dreams of so many students and so many families while ensuring the dedication, the excellence in education, excellence in teaching, the nurturing and the happiness of so many of its students and families," he said. "It dose certainly, since 1917, reflect the ideals of Superintendent Francis W. Parker."

The district's director of special education and elementary programs, Erin Perkins, talked about her father, the late Eugene Creedon, who served as Parker School's principal from 1971 to 1982 before being appointed superintendent. She said that Col. Parker was an inspiration to her father.

"My father spent many hours throughout his career studying the work of our first superintendent who inspired him always to place children at the center of everything that he did," she said. "He (Creedon) was so honored to be the principal of a building named after our first superintendent and a man who did so much for education during his lifetime."

Perkins, who was also a Parker School student, said that Col. Parker's legacy lives on.

"I imagine if Col. Francis Parker were alive today, he would be honored to know, that this beautiful building, named in his honor, has survived the test of time," she said. "He would, I am sure, be inspired by not only the physical appearance of the building, but also to know that his commitment to a child centered education lives on and is embodied, every day, in the lives of the teachers who teach here, the principal who leads, and most importantly, the children who attend."

ERIN PERKINS, the district's director of special education and elementary programs and daughter of the late school Supt. and Parker School principal Eugene Creedon talks about how her father was inspired by Col. F.W. Parker.

Sen. John Keenan and Representatives Bruce Ayers and Tackey Chan along with Koch presented proclamations to the school for its 100th anniversary.

Following the ceremony, parents and former students looked over artifacts and memorabilia from the school's past. They also enjoyed a birthday cake that featured a picture of the school.

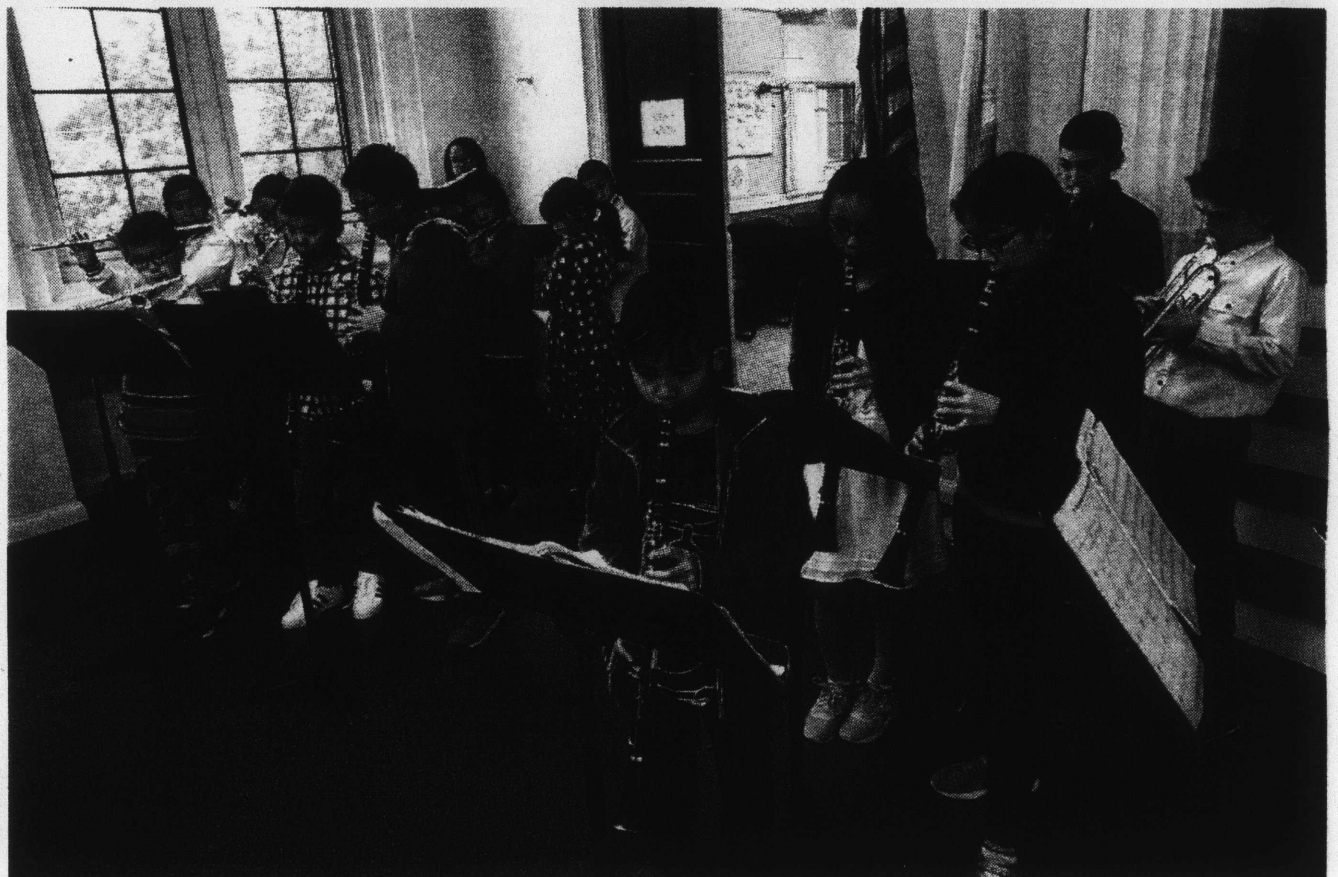

MacNeil thanked the school's staff, parents, the PTO, administrators and city officials for their support of Parker School.

"Parker will embark on our next century because of so many people who care deeply about children and support our dreams and hopes for Parker School and its students," she said.

PARKER SCHOOL assistant principal, Scott Perfetuo, introduces guests to the celebration.

THE PARKER SCHOOL BAND entertains during the school's 100th anniversary celebration.

THE PARKER SCHOOL recently celebrated its 100th anniversary. The school is named after Quincy's first superintendent, Col. Francis W. Parker.

Board Wants More Time For Long Island Bridge Review

By SCOTT JACKSON

The Quincy Conservation Commission will take additional time to review Boston's proposal to rebuild the Long Island Bridge, and continued its hearing on the matter to Aug. 1 after representatives from both neighboring cities testified for and against the plan.

Boston officials and engineers who spoke at the June 6 commission hearing said the plan to rebuild the bridge between Moon Island and Long Island using existing piers would have minimal environmental impacts. Quincy officials and consultants, however, said more work on those piers could be needed, increasing the environmental impact of the project.

Gender Identity Added To Anti-Discrimination Ordinance

By SCOTT JACKSON

The City Council approved legislation amending Quincy's anti-discrimination ordinance to prohibit discrimination on the basis of gender identity.

The measure, sponsored by Councillors Brian Palmucci and Nina Liang, was approved by an 8-0 margin on June 4; Ward 5 Councilor Kirsten Hughes – who was elsewhere in the chamber during the roll call vote and not seated with her colleagues – did not vote on the item. Mayor Thomas Koch planned to sign the amendment into law, his spokesman, Chris Walker, said following the meeting.

The ordinance adds gender identity to the 15 other bases – including age, an-

Asian Art At Josiah Quincy House, Public Tours June 23

Historic New England will offer special tours of its collection of art and objects from Asia on Saturday, June 23 from 10 a.m. until noon and again from 1 until 3 p.m. The tours will take place at the Josiah Quincy House located at 20 Muirhead St. in Wollaston.

Asian art and culture has long captured the western imagination. Beginning with the China Trade in the late eighteenth century and continuing through the nineteenth century Victorian fascination, the Quincy family amassed an impressive collection of Asian and Asian-inspired artwork and luxury goods.

City Packing 28,000 Meals for Haiti Saturday

This Saturday, June 16th at 10 a.m., volunteers from Quincy will gather at 20 Greenleaf St at 10 a.m. to pack meals for hungry children in Haiti.

The goal is to pack 28,000 meals, which is one-and-a-half times the hourly capacity of a Red Line train at rush hour.

These shelf-stable meals provide temporary security and relief to children and families in need of nutritious meals. In just two hours, 100 volunteers from all over Quincy will come together to fulfill a great need.

The public is welcome to volunteer two hours of time packing the meals Saturday beginning at 10 a.m.

School Program Readies Students For Careers

By TOM GORMAN

Quincy public school vocational and technical education students receive on-the-job experience in addition to classroom work in preparation for a career.

During a recent school committee meeting, Career and Vocational Technical Education Executive Director Keith Segalla and Quincy High School department Chairwoman Rebecca McInnis presented an overview of the 22 vocational and technical education career pathways programs offered by the district. In conjunction with the district's business partners comprised of local businesses and organizations, the program provides hands-on and real-world experiences that students will need for their anticipated career.

"These opportunities prepare our students for their post-secondary journey, whether they're off to college, entering the military or moving into the world of work," Segalla said. "Our community business partners play a vital part in this journey."

The district's career and vocational/technical program offers courses such as business technology, legal and protective services, early education and care, electrical, carpentry, plumbing, health care and engineering. According to Segalla, several new programs have been added at North Quincy High School over the past two years including information technology, visual design, information support services, networking and film/television production.

Six programs — automotive, culinary arts, engineering, information support services, visual design/communications and metal fabrication/welding have national certifications and also meet or exceed industry standards that support the state Department of Elementary and Secondary Education's vocational/technical frameworks.

"This provides additional rigor to our programs," said McInnis.

She pointed out that two programs, engineering technology and project lead the way are college level courses.

es.

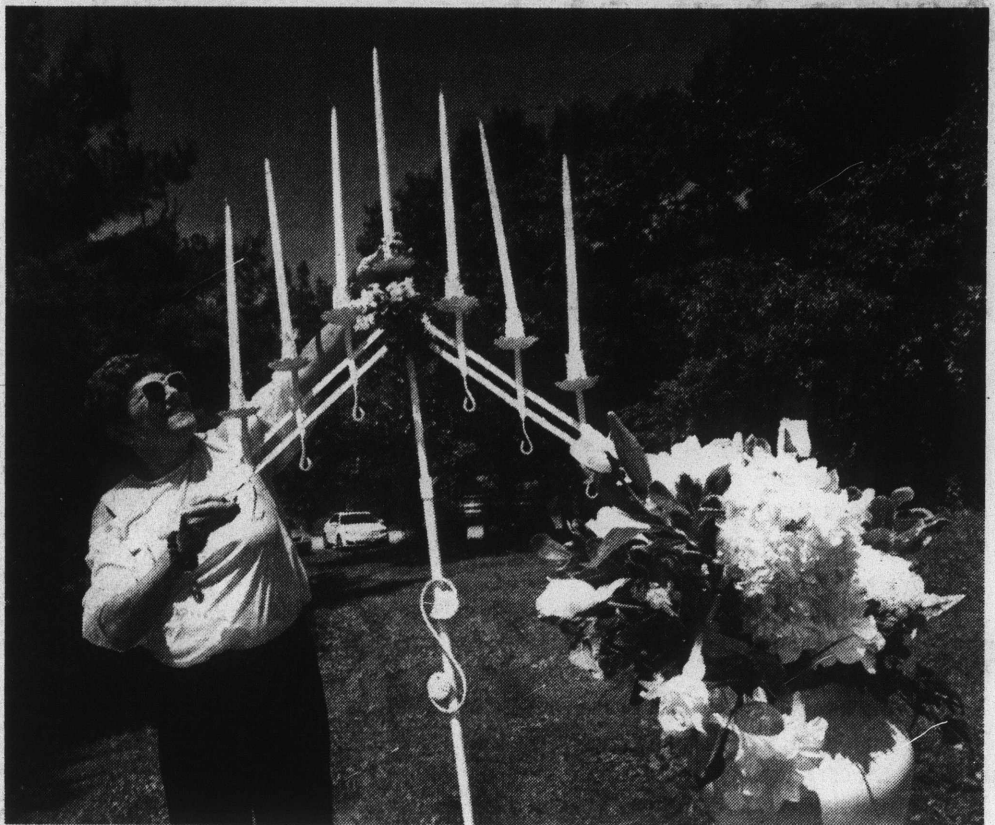

"Students that complete the program receive college credits if they go to Rochester Institute of Technology or Worcester Polytechnic Institute," said McInnis.

Additionally, McInnis explained that the Adobe visual design communications is a national certification program.

"Those are outstanding opportunities for our students and are far and beyond our state frameworks," she said.

Students can earn local, state, federal and private certifications such as OSHA

Poetry Reading, Wildflower Walk June 23

The Park Department's Environmental Treasures program will host a free poetry reading and wildflower walk at Nut Island on Saturday, June 23.

Entitled "Poetry by the Sea," the program will feature Quincy poet Molly Bennett reading her poetry for 20 minutes in the Nut Island Community Room with lovely views of the sea.

Following the reading, Lois Murphy of the Nut Island Advisory Committee will take participants on a walk around the island to view wildflowers and spectacular ocean views.

The tour will begin at 7 p.m. at the building entrance (near the flagpoles), 147 Sea Ave.

Parking is available in front of the building, at the pier and along the right side of the road as you exit.

WELL-TURNED ANKLES

Given women's predilection for fashion footwear, pedicures, and shapely tanned legs, it's hardly a surprise that anklets are making a strong comeback this summer. Ranging from delicate chains to larger, beaded designs, these ankle adornments are showing up at beaches, dinner parties and everywhere in between. As the anklet trend of the 90s goes through an updated revival, anklets are displaying a new sophistication. While the traditional gold-chain anklet can look seriously chic and understated, current styles feature charms, gemstones, pearls, seashells, and flora and fauna motifs. The boldest and most eye-catching designs reveal anklets attached to toe rings via a matching chain that stretches down the top of the foot. Anklets now draw as much attention as necklaces and bracelets.

At Rogers Jewelry, you'll find we are specialists in the fine art of fine jewelry no matter where you wear it. We're proud of our vast and their eagerness to please our customers. You'll see it the minute you walk through our doors at 1402 Hancock St. in Quincy Center. We're knowledgeable, friendly, and always interested in helping you with your selections. Tim & Nicole Ross: 'Quincy Has Felt Like Home'

It's been six years since Captains Tim and Nicole Ross first arrived here to lead the Salvation Army Quincy Corps.

Time that has gone by quickly and will soon end for the husband-and-wife corps officers. Their next assignment in Lowell will officially begin June 27th – a few days after their final Sunday service at the Baxter Street chapel and headquarters June 24.

Anyone and everyone who has become friends and shared time with the Rosses know they will be missed here.

Quincy's loss is certainly Lowell's gain.

The Rosses know they are blessed to have served here. And will take with them fond memories of a community that welcomed them with open arms.

Changing assignments is part of the Salvation Army life. They are taking the relocation to Lowell in stride as an opportunity to serve another community.

"You trust that the Lord is above all of it and even though man is making those decisions (reassignment) you trust that you are where you are needed most," Nicole said during an interview joined by her husband in the quiet chapel on a recent spring-like afternoon.

"Our time here has come to an end and we are needed somewhere else. We will go and be faithful to that appointment and those who will come in our stead will be who you will need for the next chapter," she says.

The Rosses have served longer as Quincy corps officers than the last two leaders. The Salvation Army, Tim says, is trying to keep assignments for at least four years.

"I think the Salvation Army knows that longevity is key and sometimes there are factors beyond people's control that cause appointment changes. Being here six years has been very good for us and we would have liked to have stayed longer but we knew when we left training school that the Salvation Army decides when and where and we've come to accept that," Tim said.

The Rosses served four years in Plymouth before starting in Quincy on July 2, 2012. They enjoyed their time in Shiretown and admit the call to the City of Presidents was a bit of a shock to them. But their time here has been wonderful from the get-go.

"The Salvation of Army of Quincy has always been highly respected," Tim says. "We were lieutenants and to go from a small community like Plymouth to Quincy which is highly respected was kind of a shock at first. But since that first day we walked in here we've been loved and appreciated and it felt like home.

"It's hard to believe six years has passed. Once we got into the nitty-gritty of everyday life in Quincy it was easy to come to work everyday and help those who need help."

Nicole added:

"We really enjoyed Plymouth. It's a beautiful place. It was hard to leave and had that hometown type feel. But when you come up to Quincy, it was the best of both worlds. You're a hop, skip and a jump to the city but it's also a hometown feel. You have the ocean and a sense of community.

"It's just one of those hubs that people sink their feet into and make a life here. One of the things we wanted was to make sure the people of Quincy know how great the Salvation Army here is. It was easy because the community received us so well."

While they have spent the last 10 years on the South Shore, the Rosses' roots stretch to the North Shore.

Tim, age 40, was born in Salem and raised in Peabody. Nicole, age 38, was also born in Salem and raised in Lynn.

They met in Lynn at the Salvation Army where they both worshipped. They have been together for 24 years and will celebrate their 15th wedding anniversary next January.

The Rosses begin their 11th year in the Salvation Army today (June 14th). They will become eligible for the next rank – major – after 15 years.

They are the parents of three biological children – Cadence, 9, Naomi, 6 and Addy, 2 – and one foster child, 13-year-old Cheyanne. The Rosses will become Cheyanne's legal guardians later this month.

"As much as it's been stabilizing and helpful for Cheyanne we've gotten a whole lot out of it too – having her as a part of our life and part of our family," said Nicole.

For Tim, the Salvation Army was a natural calling. He is a fifth generation Salvationist.

"It's a calling and you fulfill that calling each day. We can touch other people's lives especially in moments of crisis and moments of need as well as see their lives change for the better. That's really the driving force for me and why I continue to do what I do," Tim said.

Nicole said she recognized that God wanted her to be in the Salvation Army full time at a very young age but she was initially hesitant "because I don't think I quite understood it and I was probably more afraid than anything else."

The Salvation Army became a second home to her providing stability during uncertain times.

"It was a place that was predictable and normal and it didn't matter who I was or what I was," Nicole said. "The people of the Salvation Army saw things in me that I may not have recognized myself. Through various leaders in the Salvation Army it was exactly what I needed. The next step in my calling was to be a full-time Salvation Army officer and each officer gave me an opportunity to act on the gifts that they saw in me and those things were realized.

"Of course, meeting Tim confirmed that. We complement each other very naturally," Nicole adds.

Reflecting on their time in Quincy, the Rosses say it's been a period of growth and service.

"For me," Nicole says, "it's been a time of growth for us both professionally and personally. We came here with two children. We leave here with four. Our family has certainly grown.

"Professionally we've been able to meet so many different people who have challenged us to be better. You take pieces of each place with you and you use them to impact the next position you have so for me it's been challenging but also very fruitful.

"I think you thrive in life when you are challenged. I like that about this place," Nicole continues. "There's always something to do. There's always another project that needs to be completed and for us that was good for us. Each year we could reflect on the coming year and say 'ok, these are the things we want to get done and accomplish.'

"And we were able to get the support from our local church board and the advisory board."

Helping the community has also been a hallmark of the Rosses' tenure in Quincy.

"When I think about it here has always been about helping the community," Tim says. "It's our church that has come together as a community and really pushed us to be where we really should grow professionally. The Advisory Board really came together and helped us do things that we've never done before like the Civic Dinner and marching in the Christmas Parade.

"It's the community of donors and learning more about how to invest their money to do what's best with their money to help others. Professionally, it's been the community that has really helped us grow and push outside the walls of the Salvation Army."

Under the Rosses' tutelage, the Quincy Salvation Army has honored local leaders at an annual civic dinner. Four dinners have been held in as many years raising thousands of dollars towards the Salvation Army's mission of helping and aiding the less fortunate.

The dinner stands out among many moments they will cherish from their days in Quincy.

"For me, it's been every year we've done a civic dinner," Tim says. "Seeing all of the Salvation Army together for that one night – the brass ensemble, the kids singing – that's the community coming together to support the Salvation Army. Each dinner has been unique. Each one has had its challenges but I think in the end it's been a great evening.

"We came together as a board and a community to get the message out about the Salvation Army and to thank those who support us year-round."

The civic dinner was developed to help raise money to complement the red kettle campaign during the Christmas season. The kettles have faced increasing challenges in recent years including a decrease in foot traffic at local malls due to the rise of online shopping.

Locating kettles and staffing them are also recurring issues every season.

"Kettles are a wonderful fundraising opportunity but it's one of those things that for the time that it lasts it's a lot of man hours," Nicole notes. "It's a lot of nuts and bolts and becoming more of a bureaucracy as far as where you can stand and where you can't stand and finding people to man kettles certain hours.

"That is becoming a more difficult fundraiser for the Salvation Army when we depend so heavily on that money," she continues. "We need to reinvent how we're going to raise the same funds that are still needed to keep meeting the needs.

"The dinner was just a natural to have as a fundraiser. At the dinner we would tell the story of the Salvation Army and we would get another board member and that would infuse more life into the Advisory Board and out of that comes more opportunities like sponsorships.

"For me," Nicole continued, "seeing how that worked inspires me to realize it can be done and be replicated. Ultimately it's caring and it's spawned connections for those who need the Salvation Army."

The Red Kettle campaign in Quincy is a 35-day fundraising drive from roughly Thanksgiving to Christmas Eve. Some 12 to 18 kettles are set up at area stores and the Braintree Mall. They are staffed Monday through Saturday generally from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. but sometimes go longer as Christmas Day approaches.

The Salvation Army seeks volunteers every year to man the kettles but also hires seasonal helpers to take care of

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1930 postcard reproduction showing one of the fleet of prized horse-drawn milk wagons of the White Brothers Milk Company on French Street in Norfolk Downs. Adam and Edwin White who grew up in Atlantic founded the company in 1914. They built this modern milk processing and bottling factory in 1928. They were widely known for their high quality "Creamy Milk" and they sold it in cream-top milk bottles as shown on the wagon. The company was also very proud of their carefully selected horses. Shown here is Sandy, probably their best known Clydesdale, who was an undefeated

New England horse show champion. In 1940, the company was forced to abandon its horse-drawn wagons in favor of faster motorized trucks and Sandy and their other blue ribbon horses were retired to Edwin's farm in Marshfield. The company was sold to the Whittings Milk Company in 1961 and this building was demolished in 1967 to make way for the Quincy Commons apartment complex now on the site. 42-Hour Work Week For Quincy Firefighters Mayor James R. McIntyre signed a new 42-hour workweek for Quincy firefighters.

The new contract reduces the workweek from 48 hours to 42 hours. Present at the signing were Fire Chief Edward F. Barry, Councillor at-Large John J. Quinn and John Menz, Jr., president of Quincy Firefighters Local 792.

Mayor McIntyre also signed contracts for registered nurses at the hospital, giving them a 6 percent salary hike.

Public Works, L.P.N.s and nurses' aides will receive a 6 percent raise effective July 1.

2,200 TO MARCH FOR OLD GLORY

Some 2,200 youngsters and adults will join forces in a demonstration in Quincy Saturday. They are getting together simply to boost their country and flag.

The occasion will be a 2 p.m. Flag Day parade and ceremonies sponsored by the Koch Club, a non-profit recreational-civic organization.

There will be Stars and Stripes by the thousands.

An estimated 1,200 boys and girls, five to 14, will march through the Quincy Center area, each proudly carrying Old Glory.

The flag bearers, all members of the Koch Club, will be joined in the march by another 1,000 youngsters and adults including veterans' units, bands and drum and bugle corps. "All kids love a parade," noted Richard J. Koch, Sr., club founder and executive director.

The American Community Survey: Is It A Scam?

By LT. DAN MINTON
Quincy Police

The American Community Survey: is it a scam?

No, it is legitimate however you should always be on the alert for similar requests for information. This multi-page pamphlet, produced by the U.S. Department of Commerce Economics and Statistics Administration U.S. Census Bureau, consists of 48 questions and is mailed out randomly across the country.

According to the pamphlet, the information collected in the survey will help decide where new schools, hospitals and fire stations are needed. The information also is used to develop programs to reduce traffic congestion, provide job training, and plan for the health care needs of the elderly. In a letter sent to a local resident, who brought this to my attention, it reads:

"The Census Bureau chose your address, not you personally as part of a randomly selected sample. You are required by the U.S. law to respond to this survey. The U.S. Census Bureau is required by law to keep your information confidential. The Census Bureau is not permitted to publicly release your responses in a way that could identify you."

The pamphlet actually reads, to the resident of... listing the address but no name.

What is the penalty for failure to comply? It appears that there is a fine of $500 to $5,000 for falsely answering the questions and $100 for refusing to complete and submit the survey.

In my research, it appears that the U.S. Census Bureau is not a prosecuting agency and although no one has been charged since 1970, they will send you follow up letters and it is reported that in some cases, they will call you.

The survey seeks information about all residents of the address. The only question that I can see that concerns me is the box for date of birth. It is not so much that the federal government does not already have that; it is more that misplaced mail could lead to identity fraud.

There is a telephone number on the front page (1-800-354-7271) to assist with any questions, but I called numerous different times and it just rang busy. I checked with the Better Business Bureau and they confirmed my findings.

As always, if you need assistance or have questions, call me, Quincy Police Lt. Dan Minton at 617-745-5719 or at dminton@quincyma.gov.

Quincy Needs Coherent Development Plan

Preserving and improving the walkable character of Quincy's neighborhoods and commercial centers is key to maintaining Quincy's quality of life and desirability as a place to live and work.

When a walkable Quincy neighborhood morphs toward drive-everywhere suburbia, the city and its residents are the losers. Traffic congestion and dangerous conditions for pedestrians and bicyclists are the inevitable result. The residents lose because their town becomes less attractive, less unique, less walkable and bike-able, less safe for people not in cars, and because the land-use becomes less financially productive as measured by taxes per acre.

In this light, the drive-thru bank may be the new indicator-species for local development failure; and Wollaston and North Quincy have three new drive-thru banks this year, each within a mile of each other along Hancock Street. How strange that while the MBTA North Quincy parking area adds apartment housing catering to people without cars, the rest of Hancock Street morphs increasingly toward automobile-dependent suburbia!

Quincy needs a coherent development plan. Many options are available to help reverse recent declines: establish development zones around Quincy's neighborhood commercial districts; encourage active street frontage by requiring that new commercial buildings meet the sidewalk, with parking in the rear; reduce or eliminate parking minimums for housing construction near MBTA stations; improve crosswalks; establish bike lanes; add metered street parking including dynamic pricing to ensure that parking is always available; establish a land-value based tax to encourage development in neighborhood commercial districts.

Quincy Salvation Army Honors Two At Civic Dinner

QUINCY SALVATION ARMY honored two community leaders at its recent Civic Dinner held at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy. Peter Tsaffaras received The Others Award on behalf of Quincy College for its philanthropic support of The Salvation Army during his tenure as president of the college. Recreation Director Barry Welch received the Bruce E. Wood Community Partner Award in recognition of his dedicated support to The Salvation Army. Here Capt. Timothy Ross (left) presents The Others Award to Peter Tsaffaras.

QUINCY SALVATION ARMY award recipients Barry Welch (left) and Peter Tsaffaras (right) received Senate Proclamations from state Sen. John Keenan (center) at the fourth annual Civic Dinner held recently at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy. The dinner raised more than $20,000 to help the Salvation Army's mission of serving the less fortunate and needy in the community.

MEMBERS OF THE Quincy Salvation Army Advisory gather with Capt. Tim and Nicole Ross at the fourth annual Civic Dinner. The Rosses are being reassigned to Lowell after spending the last six years leading the Quincy Corps. The board presented the Rosses several gifts in appreciation of their leadership here including a photobook, flowers and a framed photo of a pretty snow scene taken in Quincy Center several years ago by Quincy Sun Publisher Robert Bosworth. Quincy Homestead Open For Tours Saturday

The Quincy Homestead, the beautiful, yellow Georgian mansion backing on Furnace Brook still sits on the original 1635 land grant accorded to Edmund Quincy I.

The land and the evolving architecture of the Homestead tell the story of a family who, over five generations, played a significant role in Colonial and American history.

The public is invited for a free tour and to learn more about this fascinating family and enjoy the best month for the garden on Saturday, June 16. The homestead will be open to the public from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

June is the month that the garden springs to life with pleasant scents and dazzling color. The Quincy Homestead garden has been designed and planted to reflect the early eighteenth century garden of Edmund Quincy IV, who wrote about horticulture while living on the homestead. The display of flowers on the perimeter of the house is matched by the splendor of dozens of varieties of aromatic herbs that served practical purposes for the family.

The tour begins in the gardens, preparing you to step back in time before you enter the childhood home of Dorothy Quincy-Hancock, the last generation of Quincys to reside on Quincy Homestead.

As an added attraction, the Quincy Art Association's Plein Air Artists have been invited to the June 16th historic tour date to set up their easels and capture their favorite images of the house and gardens in springtime. We hope you will take a moment to enjoy and encourage them in their work.

Located at 34 Butler Rd. on the corner of Hancock Street, the Homestead is situated just south of Furnace Brook Parkway and the Armory. Visitors will be welcomed to the Homestead by an all-volunteer staff eager to share the history of Quincy Homestead.

Historic home tours will be held throughout the summer on the following Saturdays: June 16, July 7 and July 21, Aug. 4 and Aug. 18; and Sept. 1, 15 and 29.

Hours are 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tours take about 45 minutes - the last tour begins at 2:30 p.m.

There is no admission charge or fee for the tours, but as Quincy Homestead is a non-profit 501(c)(3) organization, donations are always welcome.

Private tours may be requested by calling 617-742-3190 or by emailing dames@nscdama.org. For more information visit www.nscdama.org and on Facebook under Quincy Homestead 1686.

QHS Class Of 1968 Reunion Saturday

The Quincy High School Class of 1968 will hold its 50th reunion Saturday, June 16 from 6 to 11 p.m. at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

Organizers ask any classmate who is on Facebook to join the Quincy High School Class of 1968 Facebook page and add any photos you may have archived from their high school days.

Classmates who have not sent a check are welcome to attend the reunion. The ticket price at the door will be $68.

CBS EVENING NEWS anchor and former WHDH reporter Jeff Glor recently hosted a classical music night to remember in New York City. Nineteen-year-old New Yorker and classical piano prodigy Thomas Nickell dazzled a sold out crowd at Zankel Hall at Carnegie Hall and performed Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 2 with the Oistrakh Symphony of Chicago and conductor Mina Zikri presented by the Alexander & Buono Foundation. The festivities continued with Liszt's Totentanz and Beethoven's Symphony No. 3, as well an original composition by Nickell. The performance honored local New York City organization, Sing for Hope, and their mission to uplift lives through the arts. Jeff's wife, fitness personality and longtime Regan Communications publicist, Nicole Glor, and Quincy resident George Regan were in attendance. Sun Safety/Skin Cancer Prevention Program Aug. 17

The Dana-Farber Sun Safety/Skin Cancer Prevention Program will make a visit to Quincy this summer.

The program's mobile van will set up at Wollaston Beach on Friday, Aug. 17 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The Sun Safety program works to reduce the incidence of skin cancer in Massachusetts by offering free prevention education and free skin cancer screenings to the public in the Blum Family Resource Center Van.

The program uses the mobile Van to bring these free resources to various communities around Boston. This initiative especially targets populations in Massachusetts with a high prevalence and/or incidence of skin cancer, including beachgoers as well as those with higher mortality rates—individuals of color.

The mobile van is a 39-foot custom-designed vehicle that has a 15-seat classroom and a fully equipped exam room for free skin cancer screenings. All screenings are performed by a board-certified Brigham and Women's Hospital dermatologist on board the van.

"The majority of melanomas can be attributed to exposure to the sun's ultraviolet (UV) radiation. Therefore, it is important that people learn the potentially life-saving prevention and detection strategies that are taught in the mobile Van," said Blum Van's medical director, Margaret W. Cavanaugh-Hussey, MD, MPH.

Copycat Tater Tots (Zucchini Tots)

By MARIE

Today's recipe is actually a copycat recipe of Tater Tots, but made with zucchini and are called Zucchini Tots. These are so easy to make and very healthy.

1 ½ cups zucchini, grated (squeeze out excess water)
(pat zucchini dry with a paper towel)
1 large egg
½ cup grated parmesan cheese
½ cup panko bread crumbs
1/2 teaspoon black of pepper

Preheat oven to 400 degrees.
Coat a baking sheet with either cooking spray or parchment paper.
Mix the shredded zucchini with the egg, parmesan cheese, bread crumbs and pepper until well blended.
Use a small cookie scoop or a tablespoon to drop mixture onto the prepared baking sheet, and then shape each one like a small log or you can keep the shape as they are.
Bake, turning the tots half way through until golden brown 20 to 22 minutes.

Green Tropical Smoothie

By SUSIE

Craving something cool, sweet and healthy?

How about this delicious and nutritious Green Tropical Smoothie adapted from "Mama Naturals"?

Mangoes are one of the richest sources of vitamins A, C and E, as well as minerals including potassium, magnesium, copper, calcium and phosphorus. They are also packed with pre-biotic dietary fiber and poly-phenolic flavonoid antioxidant compounds.

Spirulina (a blue green algae from the sea) contains essential amino acids, iron, protein, B vitamins, and vitamins C, D and E. Make sure you are getting spirulina from a reputable company, since it comes from the sea, contamination is possible. Do not give to children.

You are also getting the healthy and important fats from the coconut milk as well as the avocado. Avocados are an excellent source of glutathione, an important antioxidant that researchers say is important in preventing aging, cancer, and heart disease, as well as folate and vitamin E.

Most don't realize that avocados are high in fiber as well. More than a bowl of oatmeal. Adding the collagen from Vital Proteins insures a nice dose of important and easy to digest (tasteless too) protein that is good for your joints, hair, skin, nails, and connective tissue.

Cucumber is an excellent source of silica, which is known to help promote joint health by strengthening the connective tis-ues. They are also rich in vitamin A, B1, B6, C & D, folate, calcium, magnesium, and potassium.

- 2 cups of frozen mango
- 1 frozen banana
- ½ cucumber, sliced
- 1 c. coconut milk (I use the canned full fat organic by Native Forest)
- 1/2 avocado
- 1 teaspoon of spirulina powder (Source Naturals is a trusted brand)* optional
- 1 or 2 scoops Vital Proteins collagen peptides or their Marine Collagen.

Simply blend in a high speed blender and serve.

Dependable Cleaners Opens Store At Hingham Shipyard

Dependable Cleaners has opened a new store at 170C Shipyard Dr. in Hingham.

Store hours are 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday. The store features a 24/7 kiosk where customers can drop off and pick up clothing when the store is closed.

Dependable Cleaners also operates a store at 298 Main St., Hingham.

"We're very excited to open our new location at Hingham Shipyard," says Dependable Cleaners President and CEO Christa Hagearty. "We're looking forward to serving customers in this area of town, particularly working people who take the daily ferry to Boston, who are seeking the expert dry cleaning and laundry services we have been providing for decades, in this convenient location."

Dependable Cleaners, a family-owned and operated business was founded in 1944 as a shirt laundry facility and has grown into one of the leading dry cleaning companies in the Greater Boston Metro area with 16 locations.

The trained staff includes master dry cleaners and expert tailors with decades of experience in quality garment care. The company is committed to the most advanced environmental practices and technologies, using high quality, natural solutions and soaps that break down naturally in the environment. Besides dry cleaning, Dependable offers free business and residential delivery, wash-dry-fold service, wedding gown care, shirt laundry, VIP Rewards and in some locations, Laundromats.

'Evening With Howard Johnson' June 21 At Historical Society

Through a generous grant from Howard B. Johnson, Quincy Historical Society's Annual Meeting will premiere "Howard Johnson's and Twentieth Century America," an exhibit celebrating the Quincy-born company's growth and remarkable and enduring influence on American life.

The event and annual meeting will be held Thursday, June 21 at 7 p.m. at the Quincy Historical Society, Adams Academy building, 8 Adams St., Quincy.

The presentation will follow Howard D. Johnson's progress from a debt-mired Wollaston store to creating the famous 28 flavors of ice cream to building the largest restaurant chain in the world. Exhibits will feature a wide array of memorabilia and images, a number publicly displayed for the first time, drawn from the Historical Society's Howard Johnson's collection, probably the most extensive existing historical archive of the Howard Johnson's Company.

Everyone is welcome. There is no charge for admission. Ice cream will be served.

Officers and trustees of the Quincy Historical Society for the coming year will be elected at the annual meeting.

Bunker Hill Quarry Tour Saturday

The Bunker Hill Monument which stands 221 feet tall in Charlestown to commemorate one of the first battles of the American Revolution in 1775, had its humble beginnings in the rocky hills of the Blue Hills Reservation.

Solomon Willard, the architect and superintendent, roamed the countryside looking for suitable stone for the monument and found it in West Quincy.

Join members of the Quincy Quarry and Granite Workers Museum and a DCR park interpreter to explore Bunker Hill Quarry, and learn about the amazing engineering feats behind the building of the Bunker Hill Monument and the Granite Railway, first commercial railroad in America that transported granite from the quarries of West Quincy to the Neponset River for shipment to Charlestown.

Must be able to walk 1 mile on moderately rocky, uneven terrain.

The walk will be held Saturday, June 16 at 10 a.m. Meet at the Quincy Quarries parking lot at 10 a.m. located on Ricciuti Drive in West Quincy. Look for the large paved parking lot on the right at the top the first hill.

United Methodist Church Closing Thrift Shop

Quincy Community United Methodist Church announces its Thrift Shop located on the second floor will close Saturday, June 23rd.

For the past several years, a small group of women from the church community has answered a plea for a fundraising event. Inspired by Yvonne Duncanson, who at the inception of Thrift Shop was the church Lay Leader, people from the church community worked together and converted several Sunday School rooms into a Thrift Shop.

Over the last several years, the Thrift Shop has evolved into something much more than a Thrift Shop. While many items have come and gone, this space has also served as a place of respite, conversation, and fellowship.

As the needs of the church change from year to year, church leaders said they realize that it is time for QCUMC to close the doors of the Thrift Shop. The shop will hold its final sale Saturday, June 23.

The closing day coincides with the church's annual summer yard sale and will be open from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. The church thanks the community for supporting the shop the past few years.

Disaster Preparedness - Plan Ahead - Be Ready

A Message From Ruth Jones, Director Of Nursing, Quincy Health Department

By RUTH JONES
BSN, RN, BC, CP-FS

Knowing which threats are most common in your area is essential, but some preparedness tips apply to any disaster you might face, whether it's fire, flood, hurricane, earthquake, or something else.

When foreseeable disasters like hurricanes are stirring off American coastlines, there's no lack of news about it. But what about disasters like tornadoes or a terrorist attack, which might occur with only a few minutes of warning? If you watch network television or listen to live radio, you will probably hear Emergency Alert System (EAS) messages. But if you are someone who does not tune in often, you may want to make an emergency plan.

Evacuations are more common than many people realize. Each year, fires, floods, and chemical spills force tens of thousands of Americans to flee their homes. If you've lived in your community for any length of time, chances are you know your way around. But you may not be aware of where your evacuation routes and emergency shelters are.

- Learn the escape routes from your home.

- Make note of the hospitals in and around your community.

- Familiarize yourself with your specific evacuation route. Don't try to take shortcuts in an evacuation emergency. They may be blocked.

- Try to keep your car's gas tank at least half full at all times. You might not be able to fill up if something happens suddenly.

Staying in an emergency shelter should be your last resort. They are often crowded and many do not accept pets. If you have other options, it is usually best to utilize them.

- Identify several places you could go in a crisis, such as a motel or a family member's home in another city or town. Choose destinations in various directions so you have options during an emergency.

- If needed, identify a place that will accept pets.

- During a disaster, the Red Cross keeps a list of open emergency shelters.

- You can also search for open shelters by texting the word SHELTER and your 5-digit Zip Code to 43362 (4FEMA).

Emergencies can happen any time, including in the middle of the day when family members are at school and work.

- If you have children, talk to them about who could pick them up in an emergency.

- Designate safe meeting places where your family should go in an emergency - in your home (for instance the basement or interior room), in your neighborhood (by a tree or mailbox), outside of your neighborhood (a church or friend's home), and outside of your town.

- Choose someone who lives outside of your area to be your family's designated contact person. This will be the person your family members should contact if they are separated from you. (Make sure all family members know the contact's phone number by memory, have it programmed in their phone or have it written on a small emergency contact card that they carry with them.)

Do you have a "go bag" or disaster preparedness kit? This is one of the single most important things you can do to keep your family safe. Sometimes, help doesn't arrive until several days after a crisis occurs. Whether you decide to shelter in place or evacuate, you want to be able to meet your family's immediate needs for at least three days. If you live in a disaster-prone area, it's a good idea to keep your emergency items in a few easy-to-carry plastic tubs or duffel bags. These should be kept in a place where you can access them quickly.

Hurricanes can be terrifying, deadly, and catastrophically destructive. But in comparison with other natural disasters, they are probably the simplest to prepare for because in general, you have several days of advanced warning before they make landfall. The same is sometimes true for flooding, except in the case of flash flooding. The biggest danger in a hurricane is a storm surge, which is a rise of water generated by the wind from the storm. Storm tide, a similar dilemma, occurs when the water level rises during a storm due to the tide and the storm surge. Both can cause tremendous flooding. Additionally, wind is another danger, but the flooding is where the biggest problems lie because it can create catastrophic conditions long after the wind has ceased.

Here are some pointers to help protect you from disaster during a hurricane:

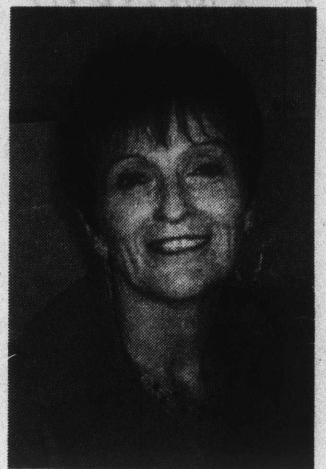

- Remove all items from our yard that could blow around during the storm.

- Cover windows and doors from the outside using plywood or storm shutters.

- Know how to turn off power, and do so if flooding or downed power lines are a problem. If you have to evacuate, turn off the power to be proactive.

- Fill several containers with clean drinking water. Fill the sink and bathtub with water to be used for washing. Plan for at least three days' worth of water.

- Set the freezer and fridge to the lowest possible temperature so your food will stay protected as long as possible if the power goes out. Refrain from opening the doors too frequently.

- Fill your car's gas tank so you can move out of the storm's path in an evacuation.

- Bring vehicles into the garage or under some cover during the storm. Move vehicles to higher ground if flooding is a problem in your area.

- Practice flood evacuation if you live in a high-risk area.

If a storm or other disaster is imminent, don't panic. You'll need to stay calm and orderly to put your plans into action. Prepare your home by securing items outside, boarding up windows and turning off utilities, if needed. Gather your emergency supplies. Review your communication strategy with family members. Fill your car with gas and tune in to television and radio weather stations to get updates from local authorities. If you're ordered to evacuate, do so. And above everything, value human life over belongings, because only one of them can be replaced.

Beth Israel Deaconess Hospital - Milton Opens New Operating Room

Beth Israel Deaconess Hospital - Milton (BID-Milton) recently opened a new operating room as part of a major facilities expansion project.

The new operating room (OR) will enable BID-Milton to perform robotic surgery five days a week in a dedicated OR. The hospital now has seven full-service operating rooms and a minor procedure room within its Surgical Services Department.

"BID-Milton has one of the fastest growing surgery programs in the state and is a community-based surgical center of excellence for the Beth Israel Deaconess system," said Rich Fernandez, president and CEO of the hospital. "This new OR will allow us to further expand our robotic surgery program and accommodate the growing number of surgeons who are joining the hospital due to our excellent healthcare quality and patient safety results along with our lower cost of providing care."

BID-Milton launched a new robotic surgery program a year ago. There are seven surgeons performing robotic surgery at the hospital, including five who are on staff at Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center and Harvard Medical School. Robotic surgery is being currently performed in the specialties of urology, gynecology, urogynecology, gynecologic oncology and colorectal surgery. Hospital officials plan to expand the robotic surgery program into bariatric (weight loss) surgery this summer.

The opening of the new operating room marks the completion of phase two of a major facilities expansion project which started approximately 18 months ago.

Phase one was completed last December with the opening of a new outpatient Rehabilitation Services Center on the hospital's ground floor.

Phase-three is the renovation of an existing wing in the hospital into a new medical surgical unit called 2East. The unit will feature 12 private patient rooms and is expected to be completed this summer.

"This is the hospital's first major expansion project in five years. Funds were raised at the hospital's Annual Gala in early May for the project."

"As BID-Milton has grown into a leading regional community hospital, more patients are choosing to come to the hospital for their healthcare," Fernandez said. "This growth made it necessary to undertake these projects which will provide our patients, physicians and staff with modern treatment and healing environments."

"We are grateful to the community for its support of the hospital and this facilities expansion project."

(Occupational Safety and Health Act) construction and occupational proficiency. Also, students can earn program specific certifications such as the state Department of Transportation bridge certificate in the metal fabrication/welding program that allows the bearer to work on any state bridge or overpass project.

McInnis noted that the district has articulation agreements with several local colleges and universities including Quincy College that require the district to adhere to stringent curriculum standards. If Quincy vocational/technical graduates go to the institution that has the agreement with the district, those students do not have to take the particular courses in the agreement. Last year, 17 Quincy students took advantage of the agreement.

The district also has the "College on my Campus" dual enrollment program with Quincy College. This program offers grade 11 and 12 vocational/technical students to earn three college credits if they take one of seven specific high school courses.

"When they graduate, they will have an actual transcript with Quincy College for these courses," said McInnis.

In addition to classroom work, students can work as interns or apprenticeships as part of co-ops with local businesses in health care, construction, manufacturing and financial services. Students also participate in mock interviews, job shadowing, safety training and site visitations. Representatives from local companies come to the school to discuss career opportunities with students.

Segalla said the local business partners are an integral part of the career vocational/technical program.

"We are grateful to their commitment, their generosity and their support," he said.

In a video shown during the presentation, several students, instructors and representatives of business partners explained the benefits of the program. One student who interned at Arbella Insurance described the valuable experience he received while a company executive praised his willingness to learn.

Electrical students Dan Riley and Rick Carter work as co-ops for a local electrician. They study in school in the morning and then head out to work with the contractor for the afternoon.

"We go on actual job sites where we perform tasks as pulling wire and putting up lights," said Carter.

Both students received the IBEW Local 103 scholarships that are presented to the top two electrical program students.

Addressing the school committee, Quincy High vocational/technical health care student Thomas Feeney credits the career program for providing an internship at a local nursing facility that allowed him to gain experience and confidence. He earned a nursing assistant license and will attend a nursing program at Rhode Island's Salve Regina University in the fall.

"The clinical and shadowing experience I had the last two years have prepared me for nursing school," he said. "My career as a health care professional is just beginning, but I am thankful for my experience at Quincy High as I move ahead toward my goal as a registered nurse and eventually a nurse anesthetist."

The career vocational/technical program was praised by committee Vice Chairwoman Emily Lebo and Mayor Thomas Koch. They also acknowledged the business partners being the key to the success of both the students and the program.

Petition Would Extend Disability Retirement Benefits

By SCOTT JACKSON

A home rule petition introduced by Mayor Thomas Koch and unanimously approved by the City Council would make Quincy firefighters and police officers who responded to two fires involving chemicals at a Home Depot and a sewage facility eligible for extended disability retirement benefits.

The council approved the home rule petition in a 9-0 vote June 4. It requires approval from the state Legislature and governor before it can be enacted.

Under current law, firefighters and police officers are covered for full disability benefits for up to five years following their retirement, mayoral spokesman Chris Walker told the council. The home rule petition would modify that, allowing coverage for anyone who responded to the two fires to receive full disability benefits until the age of 70.

Koch feels the community owes its first responders those benefits for their response to the two incidents, Walker said.

"These are dangerous jobs," Walker said. "Police and firefighters go into places that are not safe for us to go."

The fire at the West Quincy Home Depot in May 1995 started in an area where pool chemicals, fertilizers and pesticides were stored, Walker said; a chemical reaction involving those products led to the blaze.

The January 2016 fire at the MWRA treatment facility on Nut Island started in a chemical scrubber seven stories underground, Walker said. Firefighters had to carry equipment down smoke-filled stairways to reach the scene of the fire. It took more than 27 hours for it to be fully extinguished.

Social Security Matters

Social Security For Retired Trooper In Second Career

By RUSSELL GLOOR

AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor
Association Of Mature American Citizens

Dear Rusty: I am a retired Indiana State Trooper but I'm working at a second career at the present time. What information would you need to let me know about what percentage of my Social Security I will lose out on because of the WEP? Right now, I'm 57 years old and don't plan to retire all together until I'm at least 62. Signed: Retired Trooper

Dear Trooper: First of all, thank you for your police service. As a retired employee of the State of Indiana, WEP (Social Security's "Windfall Elimination Provision") will apply to you if you have at least 40 Social Security quarter-credits (about 10 years of SS-covered work) and are therefore eligible to collect a Social Security retirement benefit. WEP affects retirees of employers who did not participate in the Social Security system but funded their own retirement plan in lieu of Social Security.

The amount of WEP reduction to your Social Security benefit will be factored from your "Average Indexed Monthly Earnings" (AIME). Your AIME is your monthly average earnings for the highest 35 years of your Social Security employment and, if you don't have the full 35 years, zeroes are plugged into the formula for years you didn't contribute to Social Security (via FICA taxes). So, to use an example, let's say the AIME from your Social Security covered work is $1500; your normal SS benefit at age 67 would be about $1000. But because of WEP, your Social Security benefit would, instead, be about $552.

This is because of the way they compute (from AIME) your primary insurance amount (PIA), which is what you're entitled to at your full retirement age. The normal PIA computation takes 90% of the first $895 of your AIME, but when WEP applies they instead take 40% of the first $895 of your AIME (these are 2018 numbers; they change annually). So, in this example, the normal SS benefit amount was reduced by about 45% (that percentage may change somewhat depending upon your actual AIME). I'd note that finding out your AIME requires taking all your years of SS-covered employment, adjusting each year for inflation, finding the 35 highest and totaling those years and dividing by 420 (the number of months in 35 years). And unfortunately, you can't get your actual AIME from Social Security (though you can get an Earnings Statement which will show all your years of SS-covered employment). If you have more than 20 years of "substantial" employment that contributed to Social Security, the WEP reduction is mitigated by 5% for each year over 20, and WEP goes away with over 30 years of SS-covered employment. There is also a maximum WEP reduction, which may apply. And remember too that if you claim Social Security before your full retirement age, your benefit will be further reduced because you are claiming the benefit early.

Gender Identity Added To Anti-Discrimination Ordinance

cestry, citizenship, gender, race, and sexual orientation, among others – upon which discrimination in matters of housing, employment, education, contracts, purchasing or public accommodations are prohibited.

Palmucci said the council's vote was a symbolic one meant to show discrimination on the basis of gender identity would not be allowed.

"The purpose of this is really, I think, more symbolic than anything else...this would put in place the policy perspective of this body that gender identity is something that the City Council feels as though should be codified as unlawful to discriminate against somebody on the basis of," Palmucci said.

"I don't think it changes the way in which the city does business one iota. I don't think it means any type of facilities are open or closed to anyone gender identity-wise or for any reason."

"I think it's important that as we continue to work to be inclusive here in the city that we show gestures that show we want everyone to be included," Liang added.

Councillor Anne Mahoney said the School Committee had previously voted to add similar language to the school system's anti-discrimination policy.

"I'm happy to support this tonight and I think it's long overdue," she said. "It's not a matter of whether it's a problem or not, it's a matter of acceptance."

A 2012 state law prohibits discrimination in employment, housing, lending, credit and mortgage services based on an individual's gender identity. That same law expanded the definition of a hate crime to include criminal acts motivated by prejudice towards transgender individuals and prohibited discrimination based on gender identity in public schools.

City Council Approves Used-Car Lots Ordinance

By SCOTT JACKSON

City councillors unanimously approved an ordinance that includes new regulations for used-car lots.

The City Council voted 9-0 in favor of the ordinance, sponsored by Ward 4 Councillor Brian Palmucci, at its June 4 meeting. Mayor Thomas intended to sign the ordinance into law, said Chris Walker, his spokesman.

Palmucci introduced the measure earlier this year, saying some used-car lots within his district had come to look like junkyards, which are not allowed within Quincy. The ordinance requires the Board of License Commissioners to specify how many vehicles each motor II licensee – a category that includes used-car dealers and auto-repair shops – could have on its lot.

The Board of Licensing Commissioners has in recent years assigned a number of cars to a lot when issuing new licenses, but holders of decades-old licenses have no such restriction. There are 65 motor II licensees in Quincy.

The council's oversight committee, which Palmucci chairs, held a hearing on the matter in February. Following the hearing, he made several changes to the ordinance to address concerns raised at that meeting.

"It addresses those concerns councillors expressed and the public expressed at the oversight meeting," Palmucci said of his amended ordinances.

The original ordinance would have required each parking space on a lot to be 10 feet by 20 feet. It also would have required all spaces be clearly lined and designated, in paint, for use as a storage/display space or an employee/customer spot.

Both requirements were removed from the amended ordinance.

Instead, the licensing board would use a formula set forth in the ordinance to determine how many vehicles would be allowed on the lot. The formula calls for dividing the total square footage of the parcel in half and allowing one car space for every 300 square feet of the remaining square footage. That could be lowered to as few as 200 square feet per vehicle space if a licensee appealed the initial determination by the board. Vehicles stored indoors overnight would not be included in the total.

Three customer/employee spaces would be required, with one additional customer/employee spot needed for every 20 spaces permitted for storage or display.

Those with found with too many vehicles on their lot could be subject to a $300 fine for a first-time offense, a $500 fine for a second-time and subsequent offenses, and the Board of License Commissioners could revoke the license for failure to comply with the ordinance or other applicable regulations.

Conservation Commission Wants More Time For Long Island Bridge Review

plans to rebuild the bridge, which was demolished using explosives in 2015, and place a long-term recovery facility on Long Island. Boston officials have said the bridge will cost $92 million to reconstruct and hope to start the three-year rebuild project next year.

The plan has been met with opposition from Quincy Mayor Thomas Koch, other local elected officials and Squantum residents, because of concerns over vehicular traffic in Squantum. The only vehicular access to the bridge would be through Squantum and Moon Island.

Moon Island is owned by Boston but within Quincy's city limits, giving the Quincy Conservation Commission a role in the permitting process. Boston has already received a permit from its conservation commission, and the bridge is subject to other federal and state permits.

Chris Osgood, Walsh's chief of streets and transportation, began the nearly two-hour hearing on the bridge by saying it would be rebuilt in a fashion designed to minimize environmental impacts.

"We have taken great lengths in our plans around the means and methods of construction to minimize the environmental impacts," he said.

Mark Ennis, a project manager with engineering firm STV, said the new bridge would be floated into place by barge and placed atop the existing piers, which were built in 1950. The same process was used to install the central span of the Fore River Bridge, he added.

The span between Moon Island and the first pier would be put into place using cranes, Ennis said. The cranes could be located on the shore or on a barge offshore. As part of that work, a temporary piling would be installed about midway between the first pier and the approach to the bridge. That steel piling would be removed once the span was installed.

Each pier holding up the bridge has a concrete core with granite blocks on its facade, Ennis said. Boston plans to re-enforce each pier by removing the granite cap on top of the concrete core and installing a tensioning bar. A new concrete cap would be poured on top of the pier – two feet thicker than the granite cap, to give the bridge additional clearance over the water – and the bar would be tensioned.

"By just using the bars, we do not impact the seabed," Ennis said.

Two piers – those closest to the shore off each island – would not be re-used, according to Sam Moffett, a principal at engineering firm TRC Solutions.

All told, Boston officials said the project would impact 1,310 square feet of land under the Quincy Conservation Commission's purview. That would include 80 square feet of coastal beach and land containing shellfish, 512 square feet of coastal bank, and 592 square feet of land subject to coastal storm flowage, all temporarily, plus 126 square feet of buffer zone permanently.

Quincy officials and consultants, however, said the impact could be much greater.

Tracy Adamski, a planner with engineering firm Tighe & Bond, requested a structural analysis of the piers to identify all repairs needed.

"Anything under water is likely to require that work be done in the dry, which would mean cofferdams, which would mean additional impact to land under water around each and every one of the piers within the city of Quincy's jurisdiction," she said.

Use of those cofferdams, she added, could impact more than 5,400 square feet of seafloor within Quincy's boundaries.

Dave Murphy, a principal at Tighe & Bond, said his firm used divers to inspect the underwater portion of the piers and they found concrete deteriorating behind the granite blocks, missing granite pieces, and significant loss of lead grout.

"We found significant quantities of lead on the ocean floor as a result of that lead coming out," Murphy said. "We're talking pure lead – pounds slash tons of lead – in and around those piers. It's a significant quantity of lead that needs to be addressed."

City engineer Paul Costello held up several pieces of lead, some up to six inches long, he said were taken from the ocean floor earlier that day.

Ennis, in response to those concerns, said all deficient grout – lead based or not – would be removed during the construction project, as would lead on the seafloor. Such work would not require the use of cofferdams, he said. Ennis highlighted several similar projects his firm was involved with where cofferdams were not used, including repairs to the Longfellow Bridge.

Jeffrey Graeber, the commission's chairman, said a continuance to Aug. 1 was needed so board members could receive additional information on the project and to give Boston officials time to respond to concerns from Quincy officials about the piers.

"We can appreciate the applicant wanting to minimize impact by using existing structures, but if those existing structures were built in the '50s there are issues with them," he said.

Quincy officials have long pushed for the use of ferries to provide access to Long Island in lieu of rebuilding the bridge and did so again at the commission hearing.

John Shea, an attorney with Boston law firm Mackie Shea, noted a 2002 report commissioned by then Boston Mayor Thomas Menino supported the use of ferries to provide access to the island and found Squantum's roadways were inadequate to handle traffic associated with public use of the island.

"Water access was publicly studied and endorsed the late Mayor Tom Menino, but Mayor Walsh apparently has a different agenda," Shea said.

Ward 6 Councillor William Harris, whose district includes Squantum, also spoke in favor of ferry service.

"Boston continues to undertake this project without explaining why it will not invest in the less expensive, more environmentally friendly alternative of ferry service," he said. "Our engineers have raised a number of serious concerns, all of which go away if Boston will simply tap the existing ferry capabilities, which can easily be expanded to serve Long Island."

Rep. Bruce Ayers, a former Ward 6 councillor, said the rebuilding of the bridge would have long-lasting effects on the environment.

"Boston's plan to rebuild Long Island Bridge is environmentally and fiscally irresponsible," he said. "An alternative means of transportation, such as a ferry, would alleviate all of these environmental concerns that we have been discussing tonight."

PorchFest June 23 Features Music, Beer, Food Trucks

By SCOTT JACKSON

This year's PorchFest Quincy – featuring more than 100 bands playing on porches and yards in three city neighborhoods – will include two beer trucks and a food truck.

The third annual PorchFest Quincy is set for Saturday, June 23. The event will run from 3 to 7 p.m. in the Wollaston Hill area and from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m. in Merrymount and Squantum.

The Board of License Commissioners on June 5 unanimously granted one-day wine and malt beverage licenses for the event. The licenses are good from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. that day.

The beer trucks will be located at 45 Bayside Rd. in Squantum and 196 Samoset Ave. in Merrymount, according to Kerry Byrne, a hospitality consultant for the city. The food truck will set up shop at 61 Wedgewood St. in Squantum, near the Bayside Road beer truck.

Avi Shemtov, owner of The Chubby Chickpea food truck, will operate the beer trucks this year. The food truck for this year's event had yet to be determined, Byrne said.

Last year's PorchFest Quincy also featured a beer truck, run by Shemtov, at 45 Bayside Rd. Two licensing board members – Health Commissioner Drew Scheele and Fire Chief Joseph Barron – had voted against the beer truck at last year's event. Both supported it this time, saying there were no problems last year.

"I didn't receive a single complaint," said Scheele, the board's chairman. "Everybody raved on it, so I'm going to be in complete, full support of it this year."

"I was in Squantum and watched that operation and it was done very well," Barron added.

The board on June 5 also approved wine and malt licenses for a pair of events the Merrymount Association will host at Merrymount Beach in the coming weeks.

The association will host a beer garden from noon to 9 p.m. on Saturday, June 30. Salem-based Notch Brewing will bring its mobile beer garden to the beach that day.

The event is free and Notch Brewing will be selling half-liter glasses of beer. The beer garden includes authentic German furniture, umbrellas, cornhole and KanJam.

"We're looking for other outdoor spaces to create a European-style, family-friendly experience," said John Thompson, who works for the brewery.

"This isn't a beer festival where everybody shows up at noon and tries to get as many samples in as possible and then goes home at 6. It's open hours, so you can come in at noon, have a beer, put your feet in the ocean and go home."

Byrne said Notch Brewing has a long track record of hosting family-friendly events.

"Notch Brewing Company is a highly reputable Bay State brewery," he said. "It's a session brewery – they sell low-alcohol beers that's kind of their brand. They have a proven track record of a great family-friendly experience."

Mark Sauter, president of the Merrymount Association, said the group's snack shop on the beach would be open that day for the event, selling hamburgers, hot dogs, chips, ice cream and soft drinks.

The second Merrymount Association event is on Tuesday, July 3, from 5 to 10 p.m.

Yard Sale, Book Boutique June 23 At United Methodist Church

Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston, will hold a giant yard sale with a bake-book-boutique Saturday, June 23 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Weather permitting, the sale will be set up on the front and side lawns.

Besides the yard sale, the Sauter said two food trucks will be at the event to provide food, and association members will be selling wine and beer. Games for children will be provided, and a DJ will be there to play music. Sauter expects 400 to 500 people at the beach that night.

"It will be the same event as always and it is always a good time for everyone," Sauter said. "Very family friendly."

The Merrymount Association will host its annual Independence Day parade the following day, July 4.

In other business, the board:

Approved a special-use permit for the Houghs Neck Community Council's July 3 Family Fun Day. The event, held on Edgewater Drive, will run from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and includes a beach games, a water slide and bouncy house. Hot dogs, chips and soft drinks will be available.

Approved a one-day wine and malt license for the Houghs Neck Community Council's ChowdaFest on Saturday, Sept. 8. Amateur chefs and local restaurants compete in the annual event to see who makes the best clam chowder.

Approved one-day wine and malt licenses for a summer concert series – Bands by the Bay on the Boardwalk – that will take place at Meriel Marina Bay, 552 Victory Rd. Concerts will be held this year on Saturday, June 30; Sunday, July 29; and Saturday, Aug. 25. Victory Point restaurant will host a beer garden for the concerts.

women of Sigma Phi will also hold their Bake-Book-Boutique.

A hot dog luncheon will be available; weather permitting, the hot dogs will be grilled on the front lawn.

Saturday, June 23 is also the final day for the church Thrift Shop. The church is handicap accessible.

'The Decisive Day Is Come' Abigail Adams And The Battle Of Bunker Hill Sunday

"The Day; perhaps the decisive Day is come on which the fate of America depends."

Abigail Adams's "bursting Heart" could not contain what she had seen when she brought her 8-year-old son John Quincy Adams up to the top of Penn's Hill to watch the Battle of Bunker Hill unfold on June 17, 1775. The two watched the beginning of the Revolutionary War unfold right in front of their eyes, a few miles from home.

On Sunday, June 17, join Abigail Adams (portrayed by a Park ranger) for a special Bunker Hill Day tour. Tour goers will leave the Visitor Center at 1250 Hancock St., by trolley, and go to the John Quincy Adams Birthplace, and then up to the top of Penn's Hill to hear Abigail recount that day and what it meant for the colonies. This tour starts at the Visitor Center at 10 a.m., 11:30 a.m., 1 p.m., and 2:30 p.m. and will last an hour.

This program is free, but as trolley space is limited, calling ahead is strongly recommended (617) 770-1175. This tour is separate from the regular Adams National Historical Park guided tour and does not include the John Adams Birthplace or the Old House at Peace field.

Adams National Historical Park includes the birthplaces of the second and sixth presidents of the United States, John Adams and John Quincy Adams, along with the Old House at Peace field, home to both presidents and four generations of their distinguished family. During the open season, April 19 through Nov. 10, tickets to the historic homes can be purchased at the Visitor Center located at 1250 Hancock St., Quincy.

A free park trolley transports visitors from the Visitor Center to the Birthplaces and the "Old House at Peace field" for a two and a half hour tour. The first tour leaves at 9:15 a.m. and the last tour leaves at 3:15 p.m., seven days a week including federal holidays.

Tickets are $10 for adults (children 15 and under are free) and sold on a first-come, first-served basis.

For a complete listing of tours and events visit the park website at www.np.gov/adam, or call (617) 770-1175.

Gas Stations Get Chance To Sell Food

By SCOTT JACKSON

Gas stations in the city will now have the chance to sell food and dairy products provided they receive the proper licenses to do so.

The City Council on June 4 approved Councillor Nina Liang's ordinance to end a decades-old regulation barring gas stations from selling food in an 8-1 vote. Councillor Anne Mahoney cast the lone dissenting vote.

Mayor Thomas Koch planned to OK the measure, according to his spokesman, Chris Walker.

Liang's ordinance grants the Board of License Commissioners the ability to approve food and dairy licenses for gasoline filling stations following a public hearing. Gas stations applying for one of those licenses will be required to provide all property owners within 300 feet notice of the pending hearing 14 days in advance. The licensing board can impose conditions on those licenses – including hours of operation – to ensure the safety of the general public.

Three gas station owners had spoken in favor of the proposal during a council hearing on the item April. They said supermarket chains offering gas – like Stop & Shop and BJ's Wholesale Club – had taken a bite out of their profits, and would-be customers did not like to use vending machines to purchase food, which the city had allowed.

One owner of a convenience store spoke against the ordinance at that meeting.

The prohibition on food sales at gas stations dated to the 1970s, Health Commissioner Drew Scheele told the council in April. He said it was likely passed after owners of stores in the city lobbied for the rule as combination convenience stores and gas stations grew in popularity nationwide.

Scheele said it would be possible for gas stations to sell food items, provided proper measures are in place to prevent contamination.

The council rejected a similar ordinance allowing gas stations to sell food introduced by then councillor Michael McFarland in a 6-3 vote in December 2013.

MountainOne Bank Offers Assistance To Homebuyers Through Federal Home Loan Bank Program

MountainOne Bank has been selected to participate in the Federal Home Loan Bank of Boston's Equity Builder Program (EBP), which assists local homebuyers with down-payment and closing costs, as well as homebuyer counseling and rehabilitation assistance.

The $3.1 million program provides grants to financial institutions to assist households at or below 80 percent of the area median income. Borrowers are eligible to receive up to $5,500 in assistance on a first come, first served basis. Buyers must also complete a homebuyer counseling program.

"We are pleased to be able to offer this assistance to help ease some of the challenges associated with a home purchase. Homeownership is key to building wealth and creating financial stability, and programs that assist homebuyers are a critical component in ensuring that our communities continue to thrive," said Melissa Weber, MountainOne Bank Vice President.

MountainOne Bank is eligible to receive up to $110,000 in 2018 through the Equity Builder Program depending on availability of funds.

Since 2003, the Equity Builder Program has awarded more than $35 million in EBP funds assisting 3,150 income-eligible households to purchase a home.

Those interested in learning more about how they may qualify for EBP funds can contact MountainOne Bank via the www.mountainone.com website or via phone at 855.444.6861.

MountainOne is a mutual holding company headquartered in North Adams. Founded in 1848, MountainOne Bank has assets of approximately $875 million, and provides a complete array of personal and business banking and electronic services. MountainOne Insurance provides personal and business insurance, bonding services and group benefits solutions. Products and services are offered at full service offices in the Berkshires (Pittsfield, North Adams, Williamstown) and on Boston's South Shore (Quincy, Rockland, Scituate).

Quincy Environmental Network Hosts Public Meeting June 20 To Protect Open Space

At The Thomas Crane Library Conference Room

By STEVE PERDIOS

The past seven years of a growing economy has led to a building boom in Quincy.

This is good for our economy but not so good for Quincy's natural spaces. Pockets of open space continue to disappear around the city. According to the Quincy Environmental Network (QEN), an effort to save them needs to be at least as robust as our commitment to housing development.

With this goal in mind the QEN applied for and received a grant from the City of Quincy in January 2017. The $30,000 grant, through the Community Preservation Act (CPA), to perform a land study in Quincy, was approved by the city council in June, 2017.

The goal of the study is to identify sites that could be preserved as open space for future generations to appreciate in its natural state. Development pressures on every neighborhood in the city makes this a timely effort.

The QEN hired planners from JM Goldson, Community Preservation and Planning firm from Boston to provide the expertise for this project. Using computer geographic information systems, JM Goldson was able to list all undeveloped properties and screen them by property owner. Sites already owned by the state or the city were set to a lower risk of development (existing parks) and those privately owned flagged for concern.

Steve Perdios of the QEN said:

"We need the public's help to locate sites that may have been overlooked through the years. I'm sure everyone knows of an interesting site in their neighborhood that would enhance the community if it were preserved."

This meeting, which will take place on Wednesday, June 20th at 7 p.m., will present the findings to date and ask Quincy citizens to weigh in on the sites identified. The meeting will include interactive stations with maps of each neighborhood of the city. Attendees will be able to review the maps and point out sites they may know about that could have potential conservation benefits.

The meeting will take place in the Quincy Center branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library in the first-floor conference room. Refreshments will be provided.

THE 67TH ANNUAL Quincy Flag Day celebration will culminate with the raising of a 30-foot by 60-foot American flag at Pageant Field and fireworks display.

Tom Galvin, Peter Thompson To Be Honored At Saturday's Flag Day Parade, Celebration

Quincy. Galvin has been involved in virtually every civic group and activity in Quincy for the last several decades, including serving as President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce and a founding member of the Quincy Partnership.

He is perhaps best known to generations of Quincy residents for his love of the City's rich history. His collection of historic photographs and postcards have appeared in The Quincy Sun for many years and he has led thousands of local citizens and tourists on guided tours of the City's historic cemeteries and other landmarks. Mayor Koch named Galvin the City's official historian.

"Few people love this City and its history and care about its future more than Tom Galvin," said Mayor Koch. "You name almost anything that's had a positive impact on this City's civic life over the last generation, and I guarantee you Tom's been involved with it. That's a great testament to his passion for our community."

At Saturday's ceremony, the Flag Day Committee will also present the annual Richard J. Koch Memorial Youth Service Award to Peter Thompson, who has led efforts in both Quincy and Braintree to educate young people about the dangers of substance abuse. He has contributed tens of thousands of dollars and countless hours working with school and government officials and local community group on prevention programs.

"Peter's contributions have touched the lives of so many of our young people, making a positive and lasting impression that is the essence of this award," said Mayor Koch, whose father started the Flag Day Parade and is the award's namesake. "Our collective fight against substance abuse is the defining issue of our time, and Peter's work has been nothing short of extraordinary."

The Parade consists of specialty units ranging from fire units, Army National Guard vehicles, and community organizations. Some of the best marching bands throughout the state march the parade route playing everyone's favorite patriot songs as impressive floats carrying very special guests follow the sound of music.

The Quincy Flag Day Parade has devoted itself to instilling patriotism and pride in our youth. Each year, more than 1,500 flag-waving youngsters highlight the event as they march down Hancock Street side by side with their youth organization.

The 1.5 mile parade steps-off at 7 p.m. at the intersection of Coddington and Hancock Streets and proceeds north on Hancock Street to Merrymount Parkway, disbanding at Pageant Field.

The celebration portion of the evening held at Pageant Field following the parade consists of the flag raising of an impressive 30' x 60' version of Old Glory, a patriotic medley, and presentation of awards to the parade grand marshal and the recipient of the Richard J. Koch Youth Service award. The evening is capped by one of the largest fireworks displays anywhere outside of Boston.

On Wednesday, June 6, at approximately 6:35 p.m., detectives of the Quincy Police Drug Control Unit conducted surveillance in the South Quincy Area.

During this time, Detective Bossart observed a black Honda with three people inside stopped in front of a house on Trescott Street. This particular address was known to the police for illegal drug activity.

Detective Bossart watched the vehicle and observed a male exit the house and get into the Honda, which then drove off. The detective relayed his observations over the radio to other detectives so they could assist in following the vehicle. Detective Bossart observed all the occupants leaning towards the center of the vehicle as if they were looking at something. Members of the DCU have seen this action numerous times and is often associated with drug crimes.

The vehicle drove onto Furnace Brook Parkway where it turned right onto Dayton Street, went around the block and ended back on Furnace Brook Parkway. The detectives believed the operator of the Honda was conducting counter surveillance. The suspect vehicle drove to a Chapman Street address and stopped, so the detectives decided to encounter the occupants.

Detective O'Brien exited his vehicle, walked towards the suspect vehicle and encountered the right rear passenger as he exited the suspect vehicle. This suspect recognized the detective from past encounters and immediately turned around, put his head down and began to walk briskly away. Detective O'Brien closed within 7-8 feet of the suspect when the left rear passenger, a female, yelled for the suspect to run!

The suspect began to run so Detective O'Brien pursued him while Detective Glennon joined in. The female passenger got out of the vehicle and stepped in front of Detective Glennon to block him. Detective Glennon had to push the left rear passenger/suspect out of the way to assist in the apprehension. The fleeing suspect stumbled and fell down in the driveway, where both detectives caught him. The fleeing suspect hit the ground so hard he scraped the right side of his face while popping the earrings out of both his ears.

A search of this suspect uncovered a crack pipe in his pants pocket and a butterfly style knife. The fleeing suspect also had the left rear passenger's license, marijuana medical card, and D.T.A. card in his pants pocket.

The fleeing suspect, a 29-year-old Quincy resident, was placed under arrest for possession class B, resisting arrest, and multiple warrants. Detective Glennon then read the female suspect who blocked him her Miranda rights to which she stated she understood. She stated that the fleeing suspect was her boyfriend and she knew he had warrants. She told him to run because she didn't want him to get caught. This suspect, a 30-year-old Quincy resident, was placed under arrest for obstruction of justice.

A Job Well Done

Meanwhile, Detective Bossart spoke with the driver, who consented to a search of his person and vehicle. No contraband was located and the driver was sent on his way. The front seated passenger walked away from the scene while detectives were chasing the fleeing suspect. He was subsequently caught but there were no warrants on him.

Nice Work!

SCAM VICTIM: Detective Jason MacIsaac recently investigated an incident where the victim was conned into buying software online, which led to a follow up by the scammer telling the victim that he was owed a $60 rebate. The victim gave his account information and access to his computer to complete the rebate transfer. Days later, there were two withdrawals for $500 and $2000 to a person named McArdle (not the victim). The victim was advised to contact all his credit accounts.

Detective MacIsaac was able to follow up by tracking the email where the money was sent and contacted the McArdle party. He told the detective that he too bought software from a scammer and was also told he was due a rebate. Soon after, he received a $500 and a $2,000 deposit into his bank account. The scammer contacted him and told him there was a mistake and to send $2,200 back by purchasing gift cards.

Recognizing the scam, Mr. McArdle then closed all his accounts and contacted the Pennsylvania State Police, who determined the scam originated in India, so nothing could be done.

The best part of the story: Mr. McArdle wrote out a check to the Quincy victim and mailed it to the Quincy Police so that the money could be returned to the rightful owner. Nice Work!

THE AMERICAN COMMUNITY SURVEY — IS IT A SCAM?

No, it is legitimate however you should always be on the alert for similar requests for information. This multi-page pamphlet, produced by the United State Department of Commerce Economics and Statistics Administration U.S. Census Bureau, consists of 48 questions and is mailed out randomly across the country. According to the pamphlet, the information collected in the survey will help decide where new schools, hospitals and fire stations are needed. The information also is used to develop programs to reduce traffic congestion, provide job training, and plan for the health care needs of the elderly. In a letter sent to a local resident, who brought this to my attention, it reads,

"The Census Bureau chose your address, not you personally as part of a randomly selected sample. You are required by the U.S. law to respond to this survey. The U.S. Census Bureau is required by law to keep your information confidential. The Census Bureau is not permitted to publicly release your responses in a way that could identify you." The pamphlet actually reads, To the resident of . . . listing the address but no name.

What is the penalty for failure to comply? It appears that there is a fine of $500.00 to $5000.00 for falsely answering the questions and $100 for refusing to complete and submit the survey. In my research, it appears that the U.S. Census Bureau is not a prosecuting agency and although no one has been charged since 1970, they will send you follow up letters and it is reported that in some cases, they will call you.

The survey seeks information about all residents of the address. The only question that I can see that concerns me is the box for date of birth. It is not so much that the federal government does not already have that; it is more that misplaced mail could lead to identity fraud. There is a telephone number on the front page (1-800-354-7271) to assist with any questions, but I called numerous different times and it just rang busy. I checked with the Better Business Bureau and they confirmed my findings. As always, if you need assistance or have questions, call me, Lieutenant Dan Minton at 617 745 5719 or at dminton@quincyma.gov some of the shifts. Many of these temporary workers have come to rely on the income to help their own households.

"Many people that we pay are seasonal workers who come to us every year to help with their own Christmas and their own financial situations," Nicole points out. "They count on those couple of weeks as an asset to help them be better. It's just another way that we can meet the needs of the community."

Tim adds: "We have seen people who have done this job (kettle worker) and gone on to full-time work somewhere else. If we can be a stepping stone for them then we are pleased to help."

Money raised by the Salvation Army goes to a myriad of needs. They include sending kids to camp, rental and utility assistance as well as a food pantry that serves more than 130 families a month.

The Army also responds to disasters — natural and man-made — providing emergency services like food and water. Such was the case back in March when a strong nor'easter struck the city forcing the evacuation of dozens of residents from the coastal areas including hard-hit Houghs Neck.

"We were getting ready to celebrate Nicole's birthday and the phone call came in that an emergency shelter was being set up at the Atherton Hough School," Tim recalled. "The Salvation Army response vehicle went there and we also got some food and took the truck to a shelter in Weymouth."

"We also made meals. Often we don't have the funds up front but you use what you have and hopefully God will provide as you move forward to recoup some of those funds."

In many instances, The Salvation Army reacts and responds to folks who are experiencing severe hardship. They provide more than comfort and basic needs. Sometimes, it's a listening ear that matters most.

"People in social service situations or people who provide emergency service think that ultimately we just have to have an answer for everything," Nicole says. "We have a fix for everything. Over the years, I've learned that often times it's the story that people just want to be able to tell."

"So I spend a lot of time listening to stories and they want to know it because they want you to know to still give them dignity as a person because it's difficult for people to ask for help. It's difficult to not be where you want to be in life so sometimes I can't give them exactly what they need to fix their problems but often they leave here with what they thought that they didn't need which becomes what they did need which is someone who just sat with them and listened."

"It becomes a bit of relief for them and often the little help you give becomes exactly what they need to springboard into action on their own instead of being dismissed or pushed to the side."

"It's certainly a calling that's bigger than I am," Nicole said. "I certainly couldn't do on my own strength, I need the Lord's strength."

Tim added:

"I think it's your faith that keeps you level-headed through it all. Just going back through those weeks after the floods some days you're just exhausted from serving and making meals. Our staff is also able to help, sit and listen to their problems that really helps the Salvation Army continue to serve."

THE ROSS FAMILY is all smiles at home on a recent Saturday afternoon. They will be relocating to Lowell as Captains Tim and Nicole have been reassigned after serving the past six years in Quincy. Front row: Cadence, 9 and Naomi, 6. Back row: Tim, Nicole, Addy, age 2 and Cheyanne, 13.

Succeeding Tim and Nicole at the Quincy Corps will be Kyle and Amber Maynor. They have four children and they are coming from Ohio after overseeing the Salvation Army headquarters in Cleveland.

"We have spoken to them on the phone and told them they are coming to a wonderful city," Nicole says.

Besides packing up their belongings and gearing up for their move to Lowell, the Rosses have spent the last month or so also saying goodbye to those friends they've met here.

They want to express their sincere gratefulness and appreciation to everyone who has supported them and the Salvation Army during their stay in Quincy.

"Thank you for your support and trust in the Salvation Army and allowing us to venture into new areas whether it was Christmas in July (kettle stand-out in the summer), the civic dinner, or being here to hand out donuts to veterans on their fishing trip in Houghs Neck," Tim says.

Nicole adds:

"Thank you for the community members and everyone who has invested their lives in the city who became our friends. They exposed us to areas not only where we could make an impact and make people's lives a little better but also told us where the best restaurants were in town and places to send our kids for the summer. When you enter a community as a family you have to live here and you want to invest in it.

"Being a community that values faith and is open to that has been a wonderful thing," she continues. "I think of the mayor's prayer breakfast every year and that was a nice highlight getting to meet folks from different faith communities in the city and know that we can all come together and be about others."

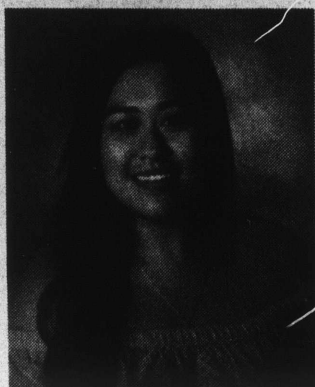

"It is a diverse group but it also has a common goal just to live the best we can live."

Quincy Retired Teachers Award $81,000 In Scholarships

The Quincy Retired Teachers Scholarship Board announces the 36 winners of its 2018 scholarships.

The organization awards scholarships to graduating seniors at Quincy and North Quincy High Schools.

"We love to see the excellence of the Quincy Public Schools mirrored in the achievements of these wonderful students," said Linda Lew Hanson, president of the QRTA Scholarship Board.

The QRTA Scholarship Board was established in 1978 when the Quincy Retired Teachers Association received a contribution from the estate of Warren Findlay, math teacher at Quincy High School, for the purpose of awarding scholarships.

The fund has grown substantially over time through contributions from the estates of retired teachers and from donations made in honor or in memory of retired teachers and their friends and family. The fund now exceeds $2 million and it is notable that this year's awards total $81,000.

"This contribution to the youth of Quincy from its retired teachers is unique in the Commonwealth," said Kathleen Mitchell, president of the Retired Teachers Association.

Since its inception, over 1000 scholarships totaling over $1 million have been awarded to graduating Quincy High School and North Quincy High School seniors.

"Quincy is very, very lucky to have an organization like the QRTA. Their generosity to our students is truly wonderful," said Quincy School Supt. Richard DeCristofaro, who attended the May 15h ceremony. "Tonight showed once again that Quincy's educators give unselfishly to our children while they work, when they retire and even after they pass away. I am proud to be part of this group."

Quincy Elks Meat Raffle Benefits Scholarships Program

The Elks Scholarship Committee recently hosted a special Meat Raffle with the Lodge to raise money for this year's scholarship program.

The event was a huge success, raising over $5,500 for the committee's 2018 class of scholarship recipients.

The committee thanks the following sponsors for their financial assistance in helping offset the cost of the meat:

Mayor Tom Koch; Sen. John Keenan; Sen. Walter F. Timilty; Rep. Tackey Chan; Sheriff Mike Bellotti; Dist. Atty. Mike Morrissey; Commissioner Joe Shea; Quincy City Council President Brad Croall; Councillor Noel Di-

Bona; Councillor Dave McCarthy; Councillor Brian Palmucci; Councillor Bill Harris; School Committee member Paul Bregoli; and School Committee member Doug Gutro.

Thanks also to the raffle-prize sponsors: Ayers Collision, Curry Hardware, American Cleaning, Harding Botanicals, Joe Brill, Kathie Dalton, Loretta Dittrich, Dan Coughlin, Maureen Ayers, and Ralph Minsky.

"The Quincy Elks' members give so much back to the community for the betterment of others," said Elks Scholarship Chairman Bruce Ayers. Ayers also gave a special thanks to Trustee Linda Perchard and her team for coordinating a great raffle.

Quincy Credit Union Awards Scholarships

Quincy Credit Union announces four local student members have been selected as recipients of the 2018 Scholarship Lottery Award.

Ben Parrish, Jeffrey Sullivan Jr., Katherine Weitbrecht and Ryan Patten were each awarded a $1,000 QCU scholarship for secondary education expenses.

Ben is a Quincy High School graduate who plans to study engineering and Japanese at UMass Amherst in the fall. He participates in the Hyper Robotics Club, National Honors Society, Skills USA and the TCG Club.

Jeffery is a North Quincy High School graduate who will be attending the Massachusetts Maritime Academy to study facilities engineering. Jeffery is an active member of S.A.D.D., the UNICEF Club and Charitas Club and enjoys playing football.

Katherine, a Braintree High School graduate, will be studying both elementary education and psychology at Stonehill College. At BHS, Katherine played in both band and jazz band and is a member of both the National Honor Society, and Spanish National Honor Society.

Ryan is a graduate of Pembroke High School. Because of the amount of time spent near the water during his childhood, Ryan plans to study marine biology at the University of New England.

QCU Scholarships are available to high school seniors of the current year's graduating class and for enrolled college students for each of the years they are enrolled in a two or four-year accredited college or university.

Applicants must be Members of QCU. Non-selected applicants are encouraged to apply each year they meet the scholarship criteria. Applications are available online at www.qcu.org or at any QCU location starting in January of each year.

Quincy Residents Meet With Lt. Gov. For Neurofibromatosis Awareness

Massachusetts Governor Charlie Baker and Lieutenant Governor Karyn Polito signed a proclamation officially declaring May Neurofibromatosis Awareness Month and the month culminated with a meeting May 23 between Massachusetts residents affected by the genetic disorder neurofibromatosis and the lieutenant governor at the State House.

Among those attending were Quincy residents Loretta DeGrazia, Catherine Doherty, Miguel Doherty DeGrazia and Elaine Powers.

Lt. Gov. Polito spent 30 minutes with the group of neurofibromatosis patients and their families to learn how neurofibromatosis has affected them or their loved one.

Karen Peluso, executive director of Neurofibromatosis Northeast, was on hand to thank the Lieutenant Governor for her support saying, "Creating awareness of neurofibromatosis is the greatest challenge we face. Neurofibromatosis affects three times as many people as cystic fibrosis and muscular dystrophy combined, yet most people have never heard of it. We are so grateful to the lieutenant governor for meeting with our families and giving us this opportunity to spread the word."

The meeting concluded with a photo with the lieutenant governor and her participation in a video for Neurofibromatosis Northeast's #TheWordIs campaign all part of an overall goal to spread the word neuro-fibromatosis across social media so that it is known in every household.

Neurofibromatosis is a neurological genetic disorder that can cause tumors to form on the nerves anywhere in or on the body at any time. Only 50 percent of those affected have a prior family history of neurofibromatosis, and 50 percent of the cases occur as a spontaneous mutation. At this time scientists have identified 3 types of neurofibromatosis: NF1, NF2 and Schwannomatosis.

Neurofibromatosis affects all races and sexes equally and may be associated with deafness, vision impairment, epilepsy, learning disabilities and cancer. Neurofibromatosis has no effective treatment or cure.

The mission of Neurofibromatosis Northeast is to find a cure and treatment for neurofibromatosis by promoting scientific research, creating awareness, and providing hope and support to those who are affected by neurofibromatosis.

To learn more about neurofibromatosis or to make a donation, visit the Neurofibromatosis Northeast website at www.nfnortheast.org.

Q-NQ Boys Lacrosse Rose Up This Season Co-Op Squad Earned First Tourney Berth

By TOM JOYCE

This may have only been the fourth season of the Quincy/North Quincy High boys lacrosse co-op, but they just wrapped up a successful season.

The QNQ co-op had some struggles in its first three years of existence. This year, however, was much better. They finished their regular season with a .500 record, earning a spot in the MIAA Division 1 South playoffs. Ultimately, they lost their first-round road playoff game to Plymouth South, 15-7, on June 5. As a result, QNQ finished their season at 9-10, their best record to date.

Although QNQ was able to earn a playoff spot this season, it did not look like that would be the case early in the year. They started their season off at 1-6 before they really took off. It required some strong late season momentum for the team to even qualify for the postseason; they went 8-3 in their final 11 regular season games and clinched their playoff spot with a 13-5 win over Cambridge Rindge and Latin on May 31, their final game of the regular season.

"It was pretty special," head coach Matt Gibbons said of making the postseason. "We knew the first half was going to be really tough for us, the grind of playing a Patriot League schedule with teams like Duxbury and Hingham. Early on, we had some good games we played against Plymouth South, Pembroke and Hanover.

"I was really proud of the way we picked it up in the second half in the season," Gibbons continued. "The guys did a great job of staying on the course. They didn't get too up or too down. They always came to practice, worked hard and it paid off."

Part of that early season adjustment period had to do with getting re-adjusted to the game of lacrosse. After all, the team had a handful of players come back to the sport this spring after taking last year off.

"It took a couple of guys a couple teams and we had some tough teams early," Gibbons said. "Hingham and Duxbury are two of the best teams in the state so you know it's going to be extremely difficult. If anything, you take away what they're doing to you and it's almost like you watch film of them when you're playing them to take stuff away from their playing style. I think we needed those tough challenges early to finish strong the way we did."

This season, the team had a particularly large senior class which featured 13 players including: Marc Ghossoub, Connor Donaghey, John Norton, Thomas Feeney, Kevin Finn, Ben Guadiano, Chris Donaghey, Austin Devane, Brian Nguyen, John Kamb, Ben Nutting, Jason Lam and Sonny Cugini. That said, they will be losing quite a bit of talented players now that they graduated.

"It's going to be tough to replace a lot of those guys," Gibbons said. "There were some guys on this list who jumped in their senior years like John Kamb, Jason Lam, Marc Ghossoub, Sonny Cugini and Tom Feeney. All of those guys came in and contributed in their own way. Tom was a beast on defense, Sonny was great offensively as well as well as John was a huge part of our second half. The crappy part of that was only having them for one year. I'm glad they came up. They were all huge contributors."

In terms of their more experienced players who shined, Ben Nutting, who served as a captain, faceoff man Brian Nguyen, goaltender Kevin Finn who never came out of a game, attackers Austin Devane and John Norton as well as Connor Donaghey and Chris Donaghey, were standouts for the co-op.

As for the talent that will be back next year, the attack should be a strong suit. After all, that's where sophomore Brendan Bailey and junior Daniel O'Leary stood out for the team this spring.

The team will likely look quite a bit different next spring and while they are losing many players, there are a couple of positives to take from it.

"The best part is that these kids coming back next year have something to look forward to and to build off of," Gibbons said. "It probably does give us a little more credibility which is good. Our goal moving forward can be to make the tournament. These guys tasted it a little bit. There's something to be said about that."

Gibbons also credited much of the team's success to his assistant coaches including Justin Lawless, Brian Grant and Jake Hallisey. He said they did a great job of buying into the program, believing in the team and working hard to help the players get better each day.

Speaking of teamwork, Gibbons also noted that the co-op between Quincy and North Quincy has gone particularly well, even if they are rivals in other sports.

"It's pretty cool to see the two schools come together," he said. "You wouldn't know the difference. There's no sense of Quincy versus North Quincy. They've come together knowing this is the only way they're going to win—if they stayed together as a group. They were just one team and it was pretty cool."

Red Raiders Reach Semifinals In Div. 1 South Sectional Tournament

Seniors Propel NQ Boys Volleyball Season Success

By TOM JOYCE

The North Quincy High boys volleyball team might not have brought home a state title this season but led by a strong senior class, they still enjoyed a plethora of success and outperformed their bracket seeding during the postseason this spring.

The No. 6 Red Raiders' season ultimately came to an end in the MIAA Division 1 South semifinal when they fell to Needham, who had only lost one game all season. Still, the Red Raiders won a pair of playoff games — including a 3-0 road bout against No. 3 seed B.C. High. Ultimately, the Red Raiders went 15-5 on the season thanks to their strong regular season and postseason showing.

"We have a lot of seniors and when the tournament came around, we were able to play a lot harder," Red Raiders head coach Jason Cai said. "Timmy Chiu, our outside hitter, was something else for us. A couple of our guys were nervous and started a little slow, but he was on point the whole time because he had played such high level club volleyball before. That made it easier to adjust for him and the guys around him."

Chiu was one of the team's five seniors this spring, four of which were captains. Outside hitter Chris Nguyen, libero Kenny Zhou and setter Alex Pham were the team's other senior captains; outside hitter Ben Chen was also one of the team's seniors.

Cai said although there are some strong players in younger classes, this year's senior class will definitely be missed for their abilities on and off the court.

"They meant a lot to the team," he said. "They started together as freshmen, got better and better together and it helped with the rapport of the court. They knew who was getting what and what their responsibilities were. That helped a lot."

Having that experience was certainly key for them, especially since they made it to the quarterfinal in the playoffs last season. That said, they knew what to expect coming into the bracket this time around.

"It definitely helped that we had so many seniors," Cai said. "We had a lot of talented seniors and some juniors who were up for the task. Ian Valencius, our middle hitter, was a junior and he was our key blocker. He was pretty good at offense. We had a good balance going."

As for his job of coaching the players, Cai said having the experienced squad made it easier. This was not only the case in practice where the elder players were familiar with the routine, but in games as well.

"Right in between plays, they'd always help out the underclassmen, pointing things out to them," Cai said. "They'd let them know what they should do, where they should be, and that made it easier as a coach because I didn't have to be on them as much. It's like we had four coaches out there."

Although they are losing quite a bit of talent, do not expect the Red Raiders to be in a rebuild mode next spring. After all, it won't be an all new lineup and they have several months to continue growing and developing as players.

"Next year should be pretty decent as well," Cai said. "We have three or four juniors who got regular playing time, now we just need to get them some more experience by the time they're seniors. If we can get them playing more in the off season, we should be in good shape."

4 Shine At States; Laptiste Competes At NE Track

By JOE REARDON

Warm weather generally favors the explosive events, most notably sprinters and jumpers, in track. But the stifling conditions June 2nd at the All-State track championships at Fitchburg State University wore on even the best athletes in the Bay State.

Three North Quincy students and one from Quincy High made their state final debuts in the 90-degree plus conditions. It was Dominic Laptiste from QHS who shone brightest on the huge stage.

The Husson University-bound senior persevered through the beating sun to leap to a seventh-place finish at 22 feet, 2-1/2 inches against a deep, talented field. Laptiste qualified for the New England championships June 9th at the University of New Hampshire and finished 12th with a jump of 21 feet, 7 inches.

"The sun was really beating down so it made it kind of hard jumping," said Laptiste at the state finals. "My take off felt good, but going down the runway was hard because of the heat. When I stepped off the (takeoff) board it felt really good."

Devin Hiltunen was looking for a new personal best in the 200 after a career meet in Div. 1 where she posted a PR of 25.79.

Hiltunen took no time at all to loosen up in the heat, but the temperature began to take its toll when she planted herself in the starting blocks. Hiltunen recovered enough from a tough start to finish a very respectable 15th in 25.99.

Still, Hiltunen was disappointed she wasn't able to better her time from the Div. 1 championships. "It (heat) helped a little bit but then it got to be too much," she said. "I really wasn't ready for it. My start was bad. I stood up right away and that hurts you from driving. I tried to recover, but it wasn't enough to get back into it."

Hiltunen, who has a personal best of 59.9 in the 400, is already looking forward to the fall and the cross country season at Brandeis University where she'll also compete on the indoor and outdoor track squads.

Nathan Sleiman came off a scintillating second-place showing in the triple jump in Div. 1 to finish a solid eighth with a 44-3-1/2 effort. Sophomore Sarah Pillone had a strong day on the runway as well with her 35-1, 20th-place leap.

Quincy-North Quincy track head coach Geoff Hennessey said the combination of hot conditions after a season of cold, rainy weather, coupled with All-State debuts made the meet an even more daunting challenge for his tracksters.

"They were good considering it was their first All-State meet," said Hennessey. "It's as good as it gets. Normally, the first time you get to a big meet you don't do that well but when you get there again you do really well." You're sitting there for a long time and you're trying to handle the elements. There's no way to prepare for that. You have to fall back on your big meet experience they haven't had any yet."

NQ Softball Downs Milton, Bows To 2-Seed Taunton

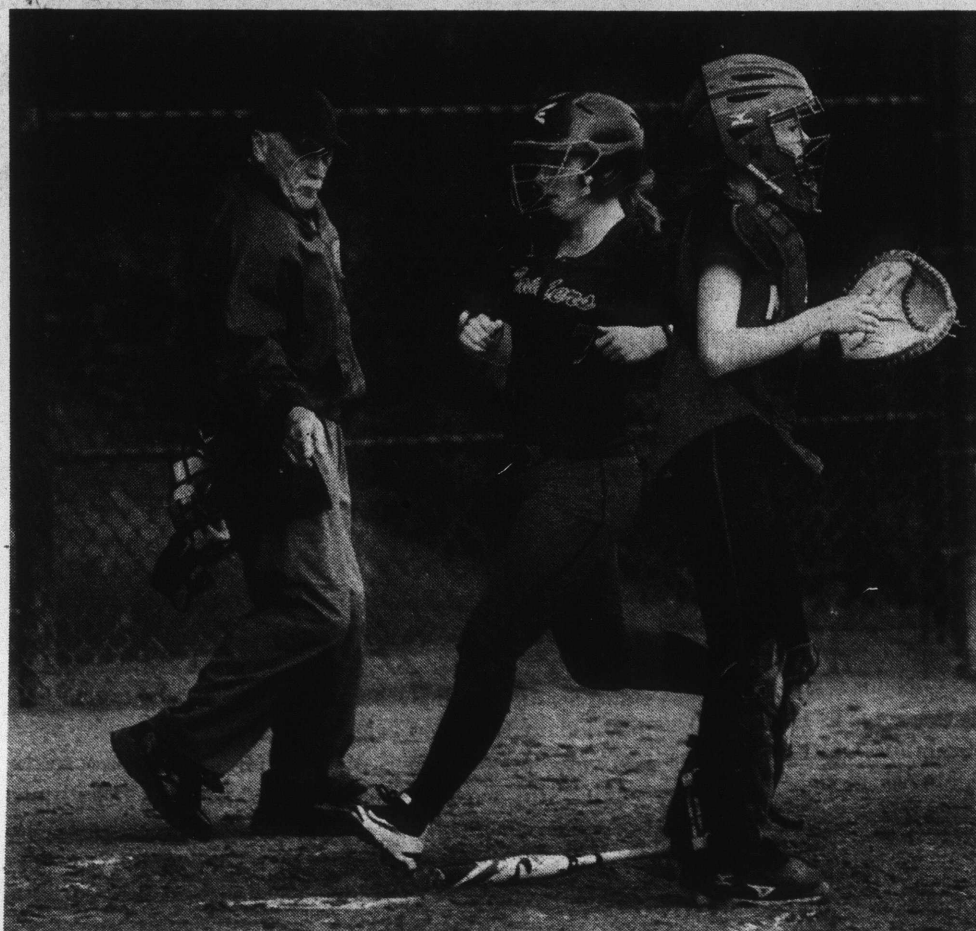

By TOM JOYCE

After an impressive victory over Milton in the preliminary round of the Div. 1 South Sectionals last Thursday, the tournament road ended Saturday for the North Quincy girls softball team as the Red Raiders bowed to number 2-seed, Taunton, 3-0.

Their season may be over but North Quincy has plenty of highlights to look back on this season most notably their win over Milton. It is hard to imagine a better performance in a playoff game than the Raider softball team had June 7th.

North Quincy, seeded #15, hosted the No. 18 Milton Wildcats in an MIAA Division 1 South preliminary round game that was a bit one-sided. The Red Raiders' bats clicked, their defense was clean and their pitching was nearly flawless. All of those factors added up to a 12-0 home win for the Raiders in a game that was called after five innings thanks to the slaughter rule. It was the Red Raiders' first playoff win in more than three decades and they improved to 13-8 on the season because of it.

"Today this team did everything we're always trying to do," Red Raiders head coach Jim Connor said. "Our defense was excellent with just one error. Shannon O'Brien's pitching was superb. We were aggressive with the bats and smart running the bases. As a coach this was everything you want to see and a game where I think we reached the full potential we've been trying to reach all season. They were patient at the plate when they didn't have anything to hit and yet, we rapped out some nice hits too."

Albeit it was a great day for the bats, no one shined brighter than Red Raiders starting pitcher Shannon O'Brien. The senior fired a no-hitter against the Milton Wildcats.

In the process, she pitched five shutout innings and did not allow a walk or a hit as she struck out four batters. She cruised from the start of the game, setting down the first eight Milton batters without a problem. With two outs in the top of the third, however, the road team did have a batter reach base. Milton had a batter reach on an infield error, but O'Brien remained poised as she cleanly fielded a grounder back to her and threw it to first for the final out of the inning.

Even if the Red Raiders did not get a masterful outing from their starter, they still would have been able to come out on top because their offense was just as effective. In all, the Raiders drew 11 walks and collected 10 hits with the majority of their damage coming in the later frames.

Second baseman Johanna Douglas was one of many contributors to the Red Raiders in the win. She collected a team-high four hits in four at-bats and drove in a pair of runs with her third inning single. She also led off in the fourth and fifth innings, giving the Red Raiders a base runner early to help get them some momentum.

Like Douglas, Samantha Smith and Camryn Burgio each knocked in a pair of runs for the Red Raiders. Smith and Burgio showed excellent plate discipline in the contest, drawing a pair of walks and the same could be said for Mia Sapienza and Shauna Grehan, who did the same. Ashley Caldwell also saw the ball well, collecting a pair of hits.

The win helped the Red Raiders snap a bit of a cold streak heading into postseason. They had dropped three of their last four games before their match-up with Milton. However, even with a few recent losses, it should be no surprise that the Red Raiders were able to play a dominant game against a playoff caliber program. North Quincy also defeated them 7-0 on May 25 this season.

Father's Day Worship Sunday
At United Methodist Church

If one were to investigate the origins of honoring and celebrating Father's Day, he or she would discover there are almost as many stories and assumptions as there are fathers.

Have some fun and take time to do a search regarding the origins of this celebration.

"The Book of Worship" for the United Methodist Church suggests this celebration began in Spokane, WA in 1910. Wikipedia supports the idea that Father's Day began in the Middle Ages in recognition of St. Joseph's Day on March 19th.

Regardless of the origins of this special day, Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston, will be honor and celebrate fathers during the 10:30 a.m. worship Sunday.

Following a reading of the names and a brief history of a variety of Biblical Fathers, the church will create a special worship center bringing forward to the altar items that represent fathers or those who have been as fathers to church members.

The public is invited to attend the worship and to help honor and celebrate fathers.

Bethany Congregational

Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Center will have a Worship Service at 9:30 a.m. The Rev. Martha Swanson will conduct the service and preach the sermon entitled "The Parable of the Loving Father." Fellowship with light refreshments will follow the worship service.

All are welcome to attend Bethany Church Worship Services and its numerous group activities, including an active Missions and Growth Committee doing various charity works.

The church office is open from 8:30 a.m. to noon-1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. Please visit: www.bethanyconchurch.org for updates and activities. Thanks to the Video Ministry, the Church Service is broadcast on QATVat 6 p.m. on Thursdays and 10:00 a.m. on Sundays on Channel 8.

The church is wheelchair accessible.

RELIGION

Quincy Point Congregational

Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St., Quincy, will welcome new settled pastor Rev. Kimberly Murphy Sunday, June 17 and bid thank-you's and good-byes to interim pastor Rev. Dr. Stan Duncan at the 10 a.m. worship.

The celebration will include a liturgy of Endings and Beginnings of Ministry. After worship fellowship hour takes place in the social hall. There will be refreshments and conversation. While there sign the birthday and thinking of you cards.

Remember to support the food pantry at Interfaith Social Services by bringing along some non-perishable food items. The donations will be delivered to the food pantry from the church.

On June 24th, the church will celebrate Music Sunday and host the Ordination of Peter Johnston.

A yard sale will be held Saturday, June 16 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St., in the social hall on the lower floor. Proceeds will benefit the QPCC Sanctuary Piano Fund.

Complimentary coffee and tea will be served.

Beach Service Sunday

Union Congregational Church, Wollaston, will host its second of four Beach Church Services Sunday, Father's Day, at 8 a.m. on Wollaston Beach between the Squantum and Wollaston Yacht Clubs.

The public is welcome to attend.

The service offers singing Gospel songs, scripture, prayer and a brief message and is led by Rev. Jack and Rev. Martha Swanson.

'Christianity & 12 Steps'
At United Methodist Church

Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston, daily opens its doors for recovery groups to meet.

A minimum of 12 separate groups meet in the church building. The recovery groups meeting at QCUMC include: AA, Al-Anon, GA, AWOL groups as well as men's groups and women's groups.

As in many churches offering space for these important gatherings soon discover, the parishioners are often not be fully aware of the history of 12-Steps nor its principles and traditions. Many who attend these meetings are not fully aware of the history and activities of the church in which they meet.

There is a strong intersection between Christianity and 12-Step programs. Persons of all faith backgrounds as well as the agnostic are fully embraced and honored within the recovery programs.

A new church sermon series will look at each of the 12-steps while also equating relevant scriptural passages from the Bible for each of the 12-Steps. Church leaders said they are holding this series to support recovery in the local community and to inform all who come to worship.

An introduction to this series will be held on Sunday, June 24th. The public is invited to join in on this journey of understanding. Weekly, for twelve weeks, the church will respectively look at each subsequent step. The culmination of the series will be held on Sept. 23rd with the annual recovery weekend and worship service.

OBITUARIES

Theresa A. Kerfien, 66

A funeral Mass for Theresa A. "Terry" (Mucci) Kerfien, age 66, of Brockton, formerly of Quincy, was celebrated June 9 in St. John the Baptist Church, Quincy.

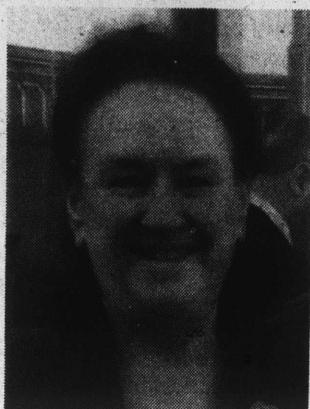

Mrs. Kerfien died peacefully June 5 at Seasons Hospice Milton Inpatient Center, surrounded by her loving family.

She was born in Dorchester and was raised and educated in Quincy schools. She was a graduate of North Quincy High School, Class of 1969. She had lived in Brockton for the past two years, previously in Quincy for over thirty years.

Mrs. Kerfien had been employed as an administrative assistant at the former St. Mary's Elementary School in West Quincy for many years where she made many friends.

She enjoyed sewing for family and friends but her passion was her devotion to her family and especially her cherished grandchildren. She actively supported all their many activities and accomplishments.

Beloved wife for forty-five years of Darren W. Kerfien. Devoted mother of Darren C. Kerfien and his wife Sandy of Taunton, and Audra L. Bardsley of Brockton. Loving grandmother and "Daba" of Kylee, Adam,

Theresa A. Kerfien

Christine, Brian, James, Emily, and Samantha. Cherished daughter of Salvatore and Grace M. (Walsh) Mucci of Scituate.

Dear sister of Regina Kerfien of Quincy, Nancy Blauss of Stoughton, Joanne Penwarden of Quincy, Victoria Bifano of Dedham, and Sandra Mucci of Quincy. She is also survived by many nieces, nephews, aunts, uncles, and cousins. Private interment.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to Seasons Hospice and Palliative Care, 20 Burlington Mall Rd., Suite 450, Burlington, MA 01803 or the American Cancer Society, 30 Speen St., Framingham, MA 01701.

Katlyn E. Clifford, 32

Funeral services for Katlyn E. "Katie" Clifford, age 32, a longtime resident of Hull, were held Sunday in the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Ms. Clifford died suddenly April 30.

She was born in Boston and raised in Hull. She was a graduate of Hull High School, Class of 2004. Ms. Clifford had lived in California for the past year, previously in Hull for all of her life.

She was employed as a waitress in the restaurant industry. Ms. Clifford loved music and enjoyed attending music festivals.

Beloved daughter of Susan M. Clifford of Quincy and the late William Sutherland. She is also survived by many loving aunts, uncles, cousins, and friends.

Memorial donations may be made to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, 501 St. Jude Place, Memphis, TN 38105 or by visiting stjude.org/donate.

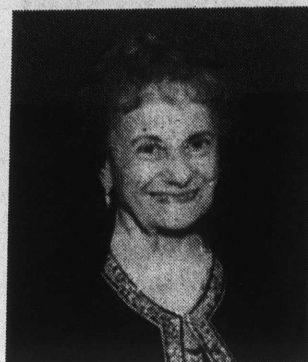

Angelina R. Tresca

A funeral Mass for Angelina R. "Angie" (Palermo) Tresca of Quincy was celebrated Monday in Sacred Heart Church, Quincy.

Mrs. Tresca died June 7.

Beloved wife of 55 years to the late Thomas Tresca, Sr. Loving mother of Maryann Anders and her husband Carl of Quincy, Thomas Tresca, Jr. of Milford and Stephen Tresca and his wife Laura of Braintree. Devoted Nana of Christina Verney, Sean Tresca, Austin Tresca, Justin Tresca and late Jaime Tresca. Cherished great-grandmother, affectionately known as other Nana of Wesley Verney. Caring sister of Julia Curran, Anna Greenwood and the late John Palermo. Also survived by many nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Tresca was a devout Catholic and a dedicated parishioner at Sacred Heart Church in Quincy. She enjoyed crochet, playing bingo, trips to Foxwoods and spending time with family and friends.

Angelina R. Tresca

Her largest pleasure in life was her family, especially her grandchildren. She will be remembered for her delicious ability to cook and her loving and caring heart. Mrs. Tresca will be sadly missed by all those who had the pleasure of knowing her.

Interment at Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to American Lung Assoc. in MA, 1661 Worcester Rd., Suite 301, Framingham, MA 01701.

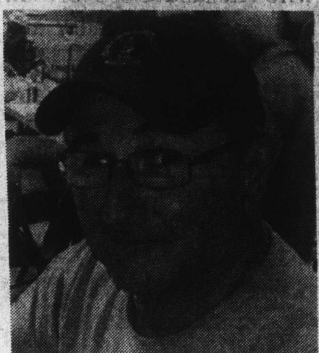

Donald R. Kusser, Sr., 68

A funeral service for Donald R. Kusser, Sr., 68, lifelong resident of Quincy, was held Wednesday in Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Mr. Kusser died June 8 surrounded by his family.

Son of the late Edward and Mildred (Tobin) Kusser. Beloved husband of Christine (Lemay) Kusser. Devoted father of Kristen Salvo and her husband Mike of Windham, NH, and Donald R. Kusser Jr. and his wife Stephanie of Mission Viejo, CA. Loving grandfather of Robert Thornton Jr., Meghan Straw, and Abigail Kusser. Great-grandfather of Alexander and Victoria Escobar, and Colton Straw. Brother of Geraldine Kelley of Kileen, TX, Edward Kusser (Ret. Lt. Quincy PD) and his wife Susan of Kingston, and Janet Kusser of Pflugerville, TX. Uncle of Adam Kusser, Army Capt., currently serving in Kuwait, Brandon Kusser of Kingston, and Amy Kelley of TX.

Mr. Kusser was a 1968 graduate of North Quincy High School, and went on to serve in the United States Air Force. He worked for 30 years for the City of Quincy as a maintenance engineer. He was a member of the G.A.R., SAR, I.O.O.F., NRA, and was vice president of the Braintree Rifle and Pistol Club. He enjoyed competition shooting, and was an avid American history and Civil War buff. His hero was Benjamin Franklin. Mr. Kusser was the star of his own show on Quincy TV, The Constitution: Then and Now.

Private interment.

Memorial donations may be made to the G.A.R. with checks made payable to the Hartsuff Memorial Association, 34 School St., Rockland, MA 02370.

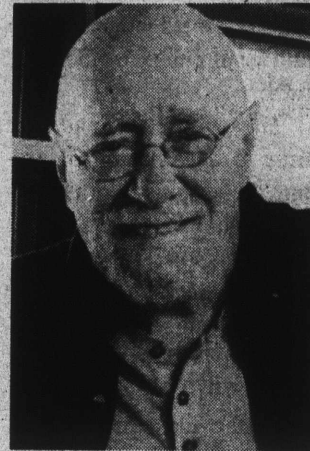

Raymond J. Palleschi, Jr., 68

A funeral Mass for Raymond J. Palleschi, Jr., 68, of East Bridgewater, formerly of Quincy, was celebrated Monday in Holy Ghost Church, Whitman.

Mr. Palleschi died June 5.

He is survived by his wife Carol (Sacchetti) Palleschi and his sons Christopher Palleschi and his girlfriend Alison of San Diego and Michael Palleschi and his wife Kelly of Denver. Brother of Antonette Cingolani and her husband Daniel of Abington, and Jeanette Palleschi of Rockland. Also survived by many nieces and nephews.

Mr. Palleschi was a U.S. Navy veteran. He loved life. He cherished his whole family, his friends, and dog friends. He was the life of the party. We all love you and you will be in our hearts and prayers always.

Interment at Knollwood Memorial Park, Canton.

Funeral arrangements were made by MacKinnon Funeral Home, Whitman.

Memorial donations may be made to Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, P.O. Box 849168, Boston, MA 02284-9168.

Joseph J. Galasso, 85

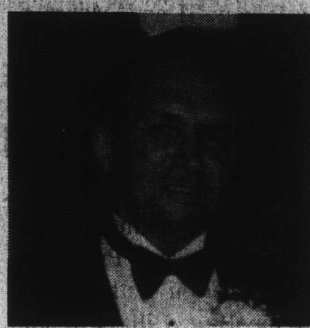

Funeral services for Joseph J. Galasso, 85, of Milton and formerly of Quincy, were privately held.

Mr. Galasso died June 6.

Son of the late Angelo and Florence (Connolly). Beloved husband of the late Helen E. (Hurley). Devoted father of Paul Galasso and his wife Regina of NH, Pamela Galasso of Washington, DC, Joan Walsh and her husband Bill of Milton, Kim Adams and her husband Gil of Medfield, and Carol Hooks and her husband David of PA. Loving grandfather of Peter Jude Galasso; Joseph, William, and Kathleen Walsh; Gil, Paul, Dean, Meryl, and Ben Adams; and Colleen (Page), Kristina, N. and Quinn Junco. Brother of the late John Galasso.

Mr. Galasso attended Charlestown High School and served in the United States Air Force. He was a truck driver for many years for Yellow Freight and The Boston Globe. Mr. and Mrs. Galasso were longtime residents of North Quincy and members of the Sacred Heart Church community.

Mr. Galasso was patient, kind, and always willing to help others. He dedicated his life to his family and adored his 13 grandchildren. A quiet man, keeping to himself about himself, he was surprisingly possessed of a keen sense of humor, ready to subtly interject hilarity into any situation, yet never at anyone else's expense. A great chef, rarely seen without a spatula on weekends, he regularly served up breakfast and Sunday dinner. Most memorable though, and most cherished now, were the family nights of making pizza, bread, and his legacy lasagna and tomato sauce.

Along with his Boston scally cap, his sense of style was a point of pride. Mr. Galasso enjoyed bright colors, khaki pants, and polished wingtips - in hindsight making sense to his children of all the nights he spent polishing their shoes for school.

We are grateful for the unique relationships he shared with his children and grandchildren. He will be greatly missed.

My Dad

If I could write a story
It would be the greatest ever told
Of a kind and loving father
Who had a heart of gold
If I could write a million pages
But still be unable to say, just how Much I love and miss him

Every single day
I will remember all he taught me
I'm hurt but won't be sad
Because he'll send me down the answers
And he'll always be MY DAD

Kids' Summer Clothing Drive At Beth Shalom Blue Hills

As part of its "Third Thursday Community Service Mitzvah Program," Congregation Beth Shalom of the Blue Hills will join with Interfaith Social Services of Quincy to conduct a Children's Summer Clothing Drive from June 18 to the "Third Thursday," June 21, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day.

New and gently used children's summer clothes can be brought to Beth Shalom of the Blue Hills at 18 Shoolman Way (off Lodge Street) in Milton between 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on June 18th to the 21st. All types of summer clothing for children ages 1-12 are needed: tops, bottoms, shoes, sandals, swimsuits, etc., and all donations are greatly appreciated.

Bring donations in plastic bags and, if possible, sort the clothing before packing. Clothing will be delivered to Interfaith Social Services in Quincy, a multiservice center helping South Shore families and individuals in need since 1947.

The synagogue's Mitzvah Program, operating under the Jewish tenet that "performing good deeds is an obligation," offers an opportunity for service to the community to both congregants and community members, including schools, houses of worship and organizations.

For more information about the Children's Summer Clothing Drive or the synagogue's "Third Thursday Community Service Mitzvah Program," call 617-698-3394, email office@BethShalomBlueHills.org, or visit www.BethShalomBlueHills.org.

Forum Looks At Impact of Public Programs On Poverty In Quincy, South Shore

Effective programs that help families to make ends meet, like the Earned Income Tax Credit, SNAP, fuel assistance, school lunches, Head Start, and Social Security cut the number of people in Massachusetts living in poverty by almost half and reduce the number of children living in poverty by more than half, according to a new report on poverty called "Obstacles on the Road to Opportunity: Finding a Way Forward Together," which was discussed at a Tuesday forum at the Quincy Chamber of Commerce.

The report was commissioned by the Massachusetts Association for Community Action (MASSCAP) and written by Nancy Wagman, Kids Count director of the Massachusetts Budget and Policy Center (MassBudget).

"There are myths out there about whether or not public programs reduce the number of people living in poverty - this report shows that the programs that community action agencies administer help vulnerable residents of Massachusetts stay out of poverty," said Joe Diamond, MASSCAP's executive director. "But it also provides valuable data on the obstacles we see towards helping move others out of poverty."

The study notes that while the incomes of the highest income households have grown considerably over the past several decades, the same cannot be said for low-wage workers. According to the study, "national economic policies stopped emphasizing wage growth, Congress allowed the real value of the minimum wage to decline, and labor law enforcement agencies weakened protections for workers." The positive news is that well-resourced communities in Massachusetts can help to counteract these national trends by lowering the barriers to opportunity. Still, communities with fewer resources and higher concentrations of poverty are challenged to help residents living in poverty.

"In the past several decades, Quincy - and the surrounding region - has seen a marked increase in income inequality, with both increasing wealth and increasing poverty," said Beth Ann Strollo, CEO of Quincy Community Action Programs. "We work every day on the front lines and we see the impact of such changes on children, families, seniors, people living with disabilities, and others who face the challenges of not having enough money to pay basic living expenses. A family earning a minimum wage cannot afford the high cost of housing and child care in our community. We are hopeful that this study will help us continue to promote economic stability and have a better understanding of the challenges low-income residents face."

The report was discussed at a forum in Quincy co-sponsored by QCAP and the United Way of Massachusetts Bay and Merrimack Valley along with MASSCAP, who commissioned the study as an update of findings that the agency released in 2014. MASSCAP is the statewide association of 23 Community actions agencies operating in Massachusetts.

"Policies that help make work pay—such as the minimum wage and the earned income tax credit—and those that help people balance the demands of work and family—such as paid family and medical leave, earned paid sick days, and affordable child care—help working families find a way forward," Wagman said in the report. "Policies that help families make ends meet—such as those that help put food on the table or provide other income supports—can help families through hard times. Policies that help communities thrive—such as those that support safe, healthy, and affordable housing, and that support high quality local education from the earliest days and into young adulthood—help give every child the best chance at a bright future."

Chazy Dowaliby, the former editor in chief of the Patriot Ledger, moderated a panel discussion at the event, which took place at the Quincy Chamber of Commerce. In addition to highlighting the findings in the report, participants focused on the advocacy strategies that those working to end poverty should pursue.

Panelists included Quincy Chamber of Commerce President Tim Cahill; Michelle Elias Bloomer, dean of professional studies and workforce development, Bunker Hill Community College; Beth Israel Deaconess Hospital Milton President and CEO Richard Fernandez; Gail Sokoloff, senior director for community impact, United Way of Massachusetts Bay and Merrimack Valley; and Strollo.

"United Way believes in creating positive, lasting change for people in need," said Michael K. Durkin, president and CEO of the United Way of Massachusetts Bay and Merrimack Valley. "The report and today's event allow us to better understand the barriers that create income inequality so that we can focus awareness and resources on the most effective strategies and solutions. Together, we can fight to ensure individuals and families have access to safe, affordable housing, earn a wage that allows them to support themselves, help them manage their finances and build a future."

This landmark report is underwritten by United Way of Massachusetts Bay and Merrimack Valley along with The Boston Foundation, Cambridge Community Foundation, Greater Worcester Community Foundation, Community Foundation of Western Massachusetts, Eastern Bank, Essex County Community Foundation, Lowell Community Foundation, United Way of Pioneer Valley, and Worcester Community Action Council.

The report was released in May at an event in Boston. Subsequent forums will take place in Worcester and Western Massachusetts this fall.

Registry Of Deeds 225th Anniversary Celebration June 20

The public is invited to the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds' 225th anniversary celebration Wednesday, June 20.

The event, which is free to the public, will be held from 4 to 6:30 p.m. at the Registry of Deeds located at 649 High St. in Dedham Center.

"It was on June 20, 1793 that Norfolk County and the Registry of Deeds came into existence thanks to a bill signed into law by then Governor John Hancock," noted Register of Deeds William O'Donnell. "As some residents of Norfolk County will proudly tell you, next to his being the lead signer of the Declaration of Independence, this was probably the second most important signature in John Hancock's life."

O'Donnell continued: "This celebration as John Adams would say will be filled with 'pomp and parade.' We will have patriotic music sung by retired state trooper Dan Clark. Special appearance will be made by John Adams, John Hancock and his lovely wife Dorothy Quincy. The Norfolk County Sheriff's Office will present an honor guard and there will be food and refreshments."

The event will celebrate the history of Norfolk County with the exhibits of 45 notable land records, including those of the four U.S. Presidents born here: John Adams, John Quincy Adams, John F. Kennedy and George H.W. Bush. Additionally, the evening will also focus on the land record of an individual from each one of the county's twenty-eight communities.

"This is an eclectic group of people that have made significant contributions in the areas of science, the arts, politics, environment, law, military and medicine. Additionally, there will be exhibits listing Nobel Prize winners and Governors who were Norfolk County residents," O'Donnell said. A booklet of the notable land exhibits will be given to each person attending the event. Anyone with questions about this event can emailksirois@norfolkdeeds.org or call the Registry of Deeds at 781-461-6117.

Night Work At Quincy Center, Wollaston Stations

By SCOTT JACKSON

Overnight work at the Wollaston and Quincy Center MBTA stations is set to resume on this coming Sunday, requiring the Red Line be shutdown during that time.

Twelve weeks of nighttime work will take place at the Wollaston station, T officials said, and there will be three weeks worth of nighttime work at Quincy Center. Nighttime work will occur Sunday through Thursday each week between 9 p.m. and 5 a.m.

Shuttle bus service will be in place when night work is underway.

Nighttime work is required when construction activities are on or near the railroad right-of-way. Crews are currently working on the platform at the Wollaston station, and the work there can only be safely accomplished when there are no trains on either the northbound or southbound track.

At the Quincy Center station, Atlantic Dismantling will erect a protective canopy at the Burgin Parkway and Hancock Street pedestrian entrances to the station during the overnight hours. Once installed, the protective canopy will allow the station to remain open and to keep passengers safe during demolition.

Additionally, work on the elevator requires a work zone be set-up on a portion of the platform; this is temporary and will be removed as soon as possible.

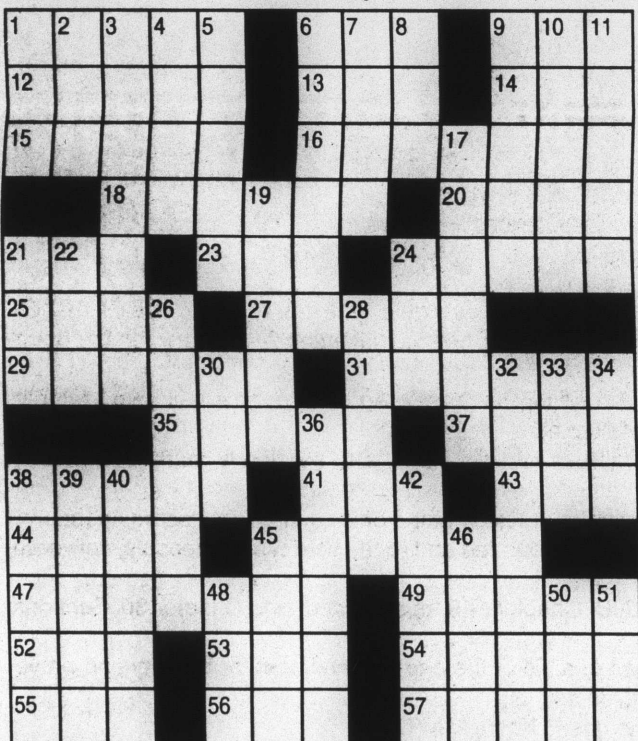

As part of the ongoing work at the two stations, single-track operations will be in place again Sunday. Weekend single-track operations begins at the start of service and continues through to the end of service each day.

The next meeting of the Wollaston Citizens Advisory Committee is set for June 20 at 6:30 p.m. inside City Hall. Committee meetings are open to the public.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Count to 10 if you must, but don't lose your temper, despite that person's (you know who!) efforts to goad you into reacting. Your restraint will pay off in a big way.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) This week finds you in a sociable mood, ready and eager to enjoy the company of family and friends. It's also a good time to seek out and renew old friendships.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Patience is called for as you await a decision about that project you're eager to launch. Meanwhile, try to set aside more time to share with that special person in your life.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Avoid becoming involved in a workplace dispute early in the week by insisting both sides submit their stands to a neutral arbitrator. Things begin to cool off by Thursday.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) It promises to be a busy but productive week for the Big Cat. The pace slows by Friday, allowing you to catch up on matters you put aside but that now need your attention.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A suddenly disruptive family situation is best handled with a cool, calm and collected response. Wait until things settle to let off all that pent-up emotional steam.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Your practical side dominates the week as you reassess your finances to make some sensible adjustments in what you plan to spend and what you expect to save.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) An unexpected meeting with a former colleague opens some interesting possibilities. But you need to press for full disclosure before making a decision.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A recent flurry of activity eases by midweek, giving you time to readjust your disrupted schedule and make new plans for a weekend getaway.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You're usually the one who gives advice. But now it's time to open yourself up to counsel from friends who have your best interests at heart.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You might find resistance to your call for a full inquiry into a workplace problem. But by week's end even the most rigid naysayers begin to come around.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A recurring problem surfaces once again. Maybe it's time you used your creative talents to help you find a new approach to resolving it once and for all.

BORN THIS WEEK: You are guided in what you do both by your intelligence and your emotions. An acting career would suit you quite well.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD -- Ryan

Reynolds didn't fare well with "Life" (2017), co-starring Jake Gyllenhaal, but had better luck with "The Hitman's Bodyguard" (2017), with Samuel L. Jackson, Oscar-winner Gary Oldman and Selma Hayek ($30 million cost/$176 million gross). He has struck gold by co-writing, producing and starring as "Deadpool" (2017), which grossed $731 million, and its sequel, "Deadpool 2," which is approaching the $500 million mark.

Next up is his production of "The Little Stranger," with Domhnall Gleason and Will Poulter, for an Aug. 31 release. That's followed by the Netflix film "Six Underground," with director Michael Bay and written by his "Deadpool" co-writers Paul Wernick and Rhett Reese. With a $150 million budget, it's set for a 2019 release.

"Monster" Oscar-winner (2004) Charlize Theron -- who produced and starred in "Gringo," which grossed $9.8 million earlier this year, and "Tully" (which she also produced), released in May, with a $9.3 million gross -- will try producing again when she portrays Megyn Kelly in a film about the women of Fox News and Roger Ailes.

Richard Gere, whose last film was "The Dinner" (2017) with Laura Linney, is awaiting the release of "Three Christs," with Julianna Margulies, Peter Dinklage and Bradley Whitfield, which began filming in August 2016. He's now turning to television, which he's rarely done, to star in the eight-part BBC Two mini-series "MotherFatherSon," written by "American Crime Story's" Tom Rob Smith, shooting this summer in London and Spain.

We'll be seeing lots of Sylvester Stallone. He has two films with Dave Bautista and Curtis "50 Cent" Jackson: "Escape Plan 2: Hades" (due June 29) and its sequel, "Plan 3: Devils Station" (already completed), as well as "Creed II," with Michael B. Jordan (out Nov. 21); "Backtrace," with Matthew Modine; and "The Expendables 4" (no cast announced yet). Stallone again has written and is producing "Creed II," and you can be sure this time around he'll muscle his way into enough big scenes to win the Oscar he was denied the last time out. Rocky's back, can Rambo V be far behind?

GO FIGURE!

by Linda Thistle

KOVELS' Antiques & Collecting

By Terry and Kim Kovel

Cabinet of Curiosities --

"Cabinet of curiosities" was the name of an important room in the 1600s and, years later, a "cabinet of curiosities" meant just a cabinet. The room often had displays of skeletons, minerals, horns and plants, and some man-made fantasies like a mermaid or piece of the "True Cross." Collections of medals, silverware, stamps, minerals and other unusual things were popular in later cabinets. The early elaborate rooms with unusual displays were a sign of social importance. The simpler cabinet suggested the owner was a scientist or researcher with less status. A recent James Julia auction sold a Victorian bird's eye maple specimen cabinet with carved trim, columns, cases, drawers of various sizes, locks, keys and a mirror. It had been refinished, so the 63-inch high cabinet sold for $1,936. The cabinets sell quickly, no doubt to be used by a 21st-century collector.

Q: I have a Pairpoint pickle castor, but I don't have the glass insert for it. Will this drastically reduce the price? Should I try to find a suitable piece of glassware and marry the piece or sell it as it is?

A: Pickle castors were popular in about 1890. A silver or other metal frame held a glass jar, which usually had a silver or silver-plated top. The holder had a handle and a hook that held a pair of tongs. Replacement frames and glass jars have been made. You may be able to find a replacement glass jar online, or at antiques shows and shops. A replacement glass insert won't add enough to the price to cover the cost of the glass and your time. Original pickle castors with colored glass insets sell from $100-$250.

Q: I have an Edison GEM lightbulb from about 1905 with the sticker still on it. Can you tell me its approximate value and who would be interested in this?

A: The letters GEM stand for General Electric Metalized. The GEM filament was invented by Willis Rodney Whitney, the director of the General Electric research lab in Schenectady, New York. GEM lightbulbs were made from 1905 to 1918, when production stopped to conserve fuel during World War I. There are collectors who want any unusual lightbulbs. Look for sources online that sell vintage lightbulbs. Most also will buy them. GEM bulbs sell online for $10 to $15.

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was French author, philosopher and journalist Albert Camus who made the following sage observation: "Nobody realizes that some people expend tremendous energy merely to be normal."

* Famously flamboyant country singer and songwriter Dolly Parton once entered a Dolly Parton look-alike contest -- and she lost.

* If you're a sailor you're probably familiar with the hazards of being out on the water: high seas, storms, hidden reefs. You probably wouldn't count whales among the dangers, but you'd be wrong. In 2010, on a day sail out of Table Bay Harbor in South Africa, a couple on a 30-foot sailboat were whale-watching when one got too close for comfort. A 40-ton whale they had been viewing breached right next to the boat and landed on the deck, breaking off the mast and then thrashing around before sliding back into the water. The whale lost some skin and blubber, but was otherwise unharmed; the couple were lucky to still have a seaworthy craft and made it safely back to the harbor.

* Married women aren't likely to be surprised by the following tidbit of information: Studies show that women with husbands typically do 30 percent more housework than single women do.

* If you're heading to the state of Washington with mischief on your mind, you'll need to keep in mind this state law: "A motorist with criminal intentions [must] stop at the city limits and telephone the chief of police as he [or she] is entering the town." I bet that one has been really effective in stopping crime.

* It's been reported that singer Sting doesn't use deodorant. In fact, after interviewing him for a concert once, the journalists nicknamed him "Stink."

Thought for the Day: "It's far better to be unhappy alone than unhappy with someone." -- Marilyn Monroe

Now here's a tip!

by Jo Ann Derson

* "Restore the shine on dull buttons by painting them with a coat of clear nail polish. I've renewed the buttons on my cardigan several times this way. I think it also strengthens the threads holding the buttons on." -- R.H. in Maine

* "Turn a regular bra into a racerback strap with a simple paperclip. Just tuck both arm straps into the paperclip and adjust the point on your back where they come together. This has saved me when I had a nice tank top under a light jacket but then wanted to remove the jacket without my straps showing." -- A.J. in California

* A paintbrush makes it really easy to clean out the crevices in your car. You can tape it to a ruler to get a longer reach and use it between the chairs and the center console, where there are a lot of crumbs but it's hard to reach.

* "I found an all-plastic mattress cover, meant to be a protection against spills or wetting the bed. I use it instead to protect my outside picnic table when the kids are doing messy crafts, like painting or working with glue or dyes. Because it's a fitted sheet, it grips the table in any amount of wind, so it never flies up. I can hose it off to clean up, and when it's dry I just store it until next time." -- M.W. in Minnesota

* "For fun pancake shapes, use a turkey baster. Fill it with pancake batter, then spell or draw on a heated and oiled pan. Just make sure your letters are backward to start with; they look better when flipped!" -- E.L. in Washington

Proposed work activities for the week of: June 10th, 2018

- Work continues at the intersection of Revere/McGrath and Dennis Ryan Parkway to improve and upgrade the aging sewer infrastructure. The work will take place on the weekends (Sat. & Sun.) from 6am to 6pm. This work will continue for approximately 5 to 7 weekends.

There will be traffic delays between Burgin Parkway and Southern Artery. To avoid these delays, take alternate routes to get to your destination.

- Tiles for the Tidal Fountain will begin to be set with lighting and jets, the brick walkway at the south end of the Common will continued to be installed, electrical and irrigation work will take place at the south end, lighting to begin at the spigot fountains, mud mats being poured for the future pavers in the south end of the Common and workers continue to install granite curbing at the north statue staircase.
- Sewer and drainage work continues in the south end of the Ross Lot, Cliveden Place and on Parkway. This work will be taking place between 8pm and 5am Monday thru Friday evenings. There will be lane closures and detours in this area.
- Demolition work continues at the MBTA Station in Quincy Center.
- In approximately 4 weeks the middle section of the Hancock Lot, which is currently accessible from Revere Road, is scheduled to be closed (Monday, July 9, 2018).

(The photo's above show a before and after of the Sullivan Buildings at the corner of Dennis Ryan Parkway and Cottage Avenue down to Cottage Street. With the buildings now down, the new sewer infrastructure and other utilities can be installed. Cottage Avenue will be widened to accommodate traffic in both directions on Cottage Avenue from the former Cottage Street to Chestnut Street for the new garage which construction will start in July.)

QUINCY HISTORY MUSEUM

8 Adams Street | 617-773-1144 | QuincyHistory.org
Open Mon-Fri, 9 am - 4 pm, Saturdays, mid-April-October, noon - 3 pm.

The Adams Academy, built of Quincy granite, is an early and important example of Gothic revival architecture in America. Endowed by John Adams as a preparatory school for boys, it was built on the site where the legendary patriot John Hancock was born. Now home to the Quincy Historical Society whose museum showcases the city's history from Native American times up through the early 21st century.

CITY HALL

1305 Hancock Street

Built in 1844, old City Hall is one of the oldest functioning seats of government in the country. Its academic Greek Revival architecture has been described as one of the outstanding examples of mid-century classical American design. Unusual in both its monumentality and in the severity of its granite detail, these features may be attributed to its architect Solomon Willard, who was instrumental in the development of the granite industry in Quincy. Historic preservation work has recently been completed and visitors are welcome to tour the Great Hall and exhibit.

HANCOCK CEMETERY

1307 Hancock Street

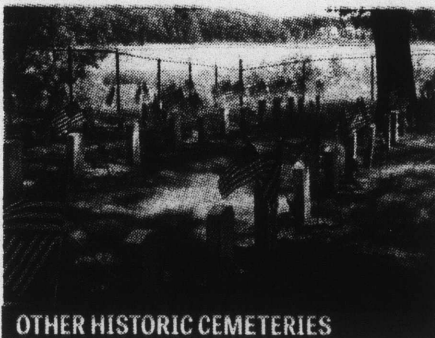

From 1630 to 1854, Quincy's most illustrious residents and civic leaders were buried here; Henry Adams, the first Adams to live in Quincy and ancestor of John Adams; Colonel John Quincy, for whom the city is named; and the patriot Josiah Quincy, Veterans of the Revolution, the War of 1812, and the Civil War. The memorials offer a chronicle of gravestone art from colonial winged skulls and cherubim, to Federalist classical motifs, to Quincy's 19th century role as the national center for granite quarrying and carving.

MOUNT WOLLASTON CEMETERY

20 Sea Street

One of America's earliest garden cemeteries, the first two plots were ceremoniously purchased on May 5, 1856 by Charles Francis Adams, Sr. A two and one half mile long stone wall, erected for the perimeter in 1934-35 by the Works Progress Administration, is dedicated to the memory of Thomas Morton who in 1625 led the settlement here after the arrival of Captain Richard Wollaston. The variety of ornate gravestones and granite monuments beautify this outdoor museum honoring three Adams descendants whose lives were lost in service to our country, veterans, former Mayors and prominent granite industry leaders.

MERRYMOUNT PARK

One Merrymount Parkway | QuincyMa.gov

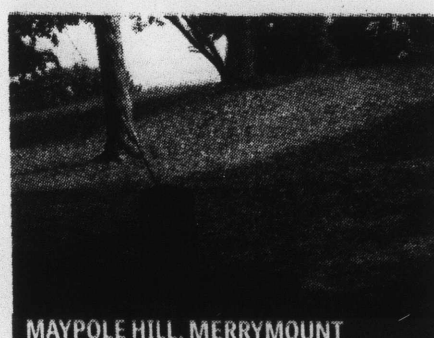

Quincy's most utilized park, donated by descendants of Presidents John and John Quincy Adams and originally developed by Frederick Law Olmsted, Merrymount Park now includes Adams Field, the finest amateur baseball field in New England, Collins Rest-a-While playground, Fenno Street basketball and tennis courts, Mitchell McCoy softball field, Ruth Gordon Amphitheater, running track at Faxon Field, Ryan Boathouse and Veteran's Memorial Stadium.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN

340 Franklin Street, Corner of Viden Road

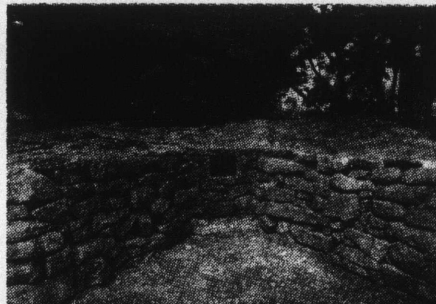

On June 17, 1775, Abigail Adams and her seven year old son John Quincy walked the short distance from their farm to the top of Penn's Hill, where they observed the smoke and fire of the Battle of Bunker Hill. The cairn, an ancient form of commemoration, was erected by the Daughters of the Revolution in 1896. The cairn's stones came from private properties and historic sites. During historic preservation work in 2008, a time capsule was discovered.

MAYPOLE HILL, MERRYMOUNT

Samoset Ave

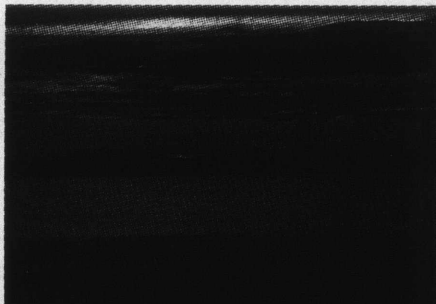

Thomas Morton, the first English person to build a plantation, known as Mar-e-Mount, on Massachusetts Bay in 1624, operated a successful trading post. On May Day, 1627, he erected a Maypole. The site is commemorated on the City's Seal. Shown with a large tree on it, a historical marker notes the location, and its remains can be seen at the Quincy History Museum.

JOHN WINTHROP, JR. BLAST FURNACE

61 Crescent Street

The son of Massachusetts' governor and one of the principal founders of Connecticut, John Winthrop, Jr. operated the first iron smelting furnace in the British colonies, one of the earliest industrial ventures in America (1645). You can view the excavated remains of the furnace, read about its history, and see artist's renderings of the furnace in full operation.

NUT ISLAND

147 Sea Ave

Part of the Boston Harbor Islands National Recreation Area, and one of the few accessible by land, this property offers stellar vistas of the Boston skyline and other Harbor Islands. A great place to watch the sunset, this location is popular for walking, picnicking, or fishing from the pier.

QUINCY SHORES RESERVATION/WOLLASTON BEACH

Quincy Shore Drive | WollastonBeach.org
Moswetuset Hummock, 435 East Squantum Street
Caddy Park, 1244 Quincy Shore Drive

Quincy's largest beach offers 2.5 miles of clean sand, swimming, lifeguards, free parking, a bathhouse, scenic views of the Boston Harbor Islands National Park and a continuous walkway for biking, walking & jogging. Some of the best fried clams in the area can be found at a variety of eateries, as well as hot dogs, hamburgers, ice cream and more. There are also two children's playgrounds with picnic areas.

Moswetuset Hummock (1617) was the seat of the Massachusetts Native American sachem, Chickatabot, where he negotiated with the early English settlers. The William R. Caddy Memorial Park and Black's Creek Salt Marsh were used by Native Americans for fishing, shell fishing, and hunting. Colonists harvested salt hay from the marsh and established several tide grist mills around the estuary. Significant for its beauty and for rare Native American artifacts, including 256 stone tools, discovered on site, the park also has informational signage and children's playground equipment.

THOMAS CRANE PUBLIC LIBRARY

40 Washington Street | 617-376-1301
ThomasCraneLibrary.org | Hours: M-Th, 9 am-9 pm
Friday & Saturday, 9 am-5 pm. Sunday, 1-5 pm

Built in 1881 by noted architect Henry Hobson Richardson, who also designed Boston's famed Trinity Church, the Thomas Crane Public Library's original building is a masterpiece of 19th century Romanesque architecture. Its ornate woodwork and LaFarge stained glass windows are truly works of art. Since the library opened in 1882, several additions have been constructed, including a multimillion dollar addition in 2001 that combines the architectural spirit of the original Richardson building with the technological capabilities of a 21st century library. Through memberships and sales at their bookstore at the Main Library (open Thursdays from 6-8 and Saturday from 10-4), the Friends of TCPL are able to fund the museum pass program and special events while supporting the library's vital role in the educational and cultural life of Quincy.

U.S.S. SALEM
739 Washington Street | 617-479-7900
uss-salem.org | Open weekends 10am - 4pm.

Quincy's proud shipbuilding history comes to life aboard this Cold War-era heavy cruiser. Imagine a small city placed in mothballs, stored for 35 years and then reopened for tours and restored to its former glory. Berthed at her home port, the former Fore River Shipyard, the USS Salem also serves as home to the Kilroy Was Here catchphrase and the United States Naval Shipbuilding Museum.

Quincy and Beyond

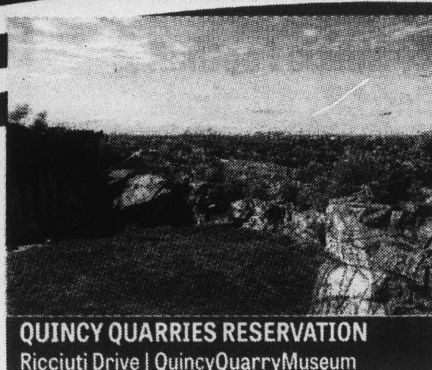

BLUE HILLS RESERVATION
FriendsOfTheBlueHills.org

Stretching over 7,000 acres from Quincy to Dedham, Milton to Randolph, the Blue Hills Reservation provides a green oasis in an urban environment. With its scenic views, varied terrain and 125 miles of trails, it offers year-round enjoyment for the outdoor enthusiast. Sixteen historic structures listed on the National Register tell the fascinating tales of Native Americans, explorers, farmers, quarry workers and inventors. Additionally the Blue Hills Weather Observatory, a National Historic Landmark, sits atop Great Blue Hill, as a crowning feature. The Trilside Museum is a popular location for families.

BLUE HILL OBSERVATORY & SCIENCE CENTER
1 Observatory Service Road, Milton
10 a.m. - 4 p.m. Sat. and Sun. | BlueHill.org

Founded in 1885 as a private scientific center for the study and measurement of the atmosphere, it was the site of many pioneering weather experiments and discoveries. Today, this National Historic Landmark remains committed to continuing its extensive, uninterrupted climate record with traditional methods and instruments. The recently established Science Center expands this mission by enhancing public understanding of atmospheric science.

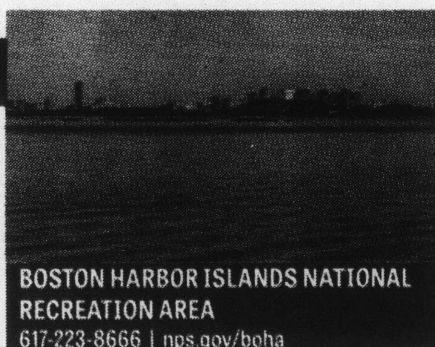

QUINCY QUARRIES RESERVATION
Ricciuti Drive | QuincyQuarryMuseum

America's large scale granite quarrying industry was born here in 1825 when, after an exhaustive search throughout New England, Solomon Willard selected the area as the source of stone for the Bunker Hill Monument. View the remains of America's first commercial railway, walk through the quarries, many of which have been filled in, rock climb, hike, golf, have a picnic or just take in the gorgeous scenery of the largest open space within 35 miles of Boston.

Boston Harbor

Boston Harbor connects coastal communities from Winthrop to Hull. The waterfront is both a lively destination for cultural and recreational offerings and a robust center of maritime economic activities. Boston Harbor Now, a non-profit organization, is collaborating efforts to knit the mainland and islands together to better shape the future of the harbor for generations. Extensive schedule of free events online at BostonHarborIslands.org.

BOSTON HARBOR ISLANDS NATIONAL RECREATION AREA
617-223-8666 | nps.gov/boba

Comprised of 34 islands situated along the Greater Boston shoreline, many can be viewed from Quincy's coastal roads. This amazing natural resource offers visitors the opportunity to explore tide pools, walk through a Civil War era fort, climb a lighthouse, hike through salt marshes, camp under the stars or just relax while fishing, picnicking or swimming. With easy access to the islands, Quincy is the ideal launching point for boaters.

The 73-passenger "Valkyrie," owned and operated seasonally by the Town of Winthrop, will make stops at Squantum Point Park, Boston and Winthrop. Visit website for schedule.

Braintree

Once combined with Quincy and neighboring towns, Braintree was established as a separate town by a land grant from the Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1640 and celebrates its 375th Anniversary this year. The theme of Celebrating 375 Years of Revolutionary People, Places & Events will be interpreted throughout the year with exhibits and programs highlighting the many ways in which Braintree, its people and happenings have been revolutionary since the town's incorporation.

GILBERT L. BEAN BARN, MARY BEAN CUNNINGHAM RESOURCE CENTER
31 Tenney Road, Braintree | 781-848-1640
BraintreeHistorical.org
Open Tues. & Weds. 9:30 a.m. - noon and by appt.

Operated by the Braintree Historical Society, the Bean Barn & Resource Center is part replica dairy barn and part state of the art. Enjoy the permanent exhibits, shop for local ephemera in the gift shop, or dedicate some time to studying local and military history or investigate your family history in the extensive archive of genealogical records.

SYLVANUS THAYER HOUSE
17 Washington Street, Braintree | 781-848-1640
BraintreeHistorical.org

Tours on Tues. & Thurs. by appointment. Adjacent to the Gilbert Bean Museum and also operated by the Braintree Historical Society, a visit to the Thayer House Museum is an intimate look at the late 18th century farming family's life. General Sylvanus Thayer, the Father of West Point, was born in the house in 1785, which is now furnished to illustrate the years of his childhood spent here.

Weymouth

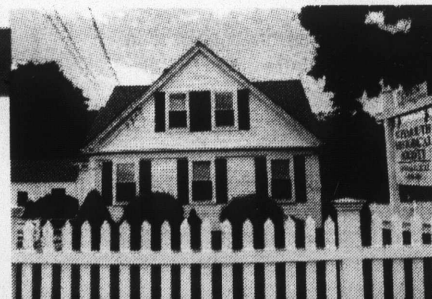

Weymouth is the second oldest town in the Commonwealth, developed as a trading post not long after the Pilgrims landed in Plymouth. Weymouth is also the site of the very first town meeting. The recorded history of Weymouth begins in 1622, and our graveyards and genealogical records are rich with early American history!

ABIGAIL ADAMS BIRTHPLACE
180 Norton Street, Weymouth | 781-277-4271
AbigailAdamsBirthplace.com | Open 2nd Sun.
April-November 1:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m.

As First Lady to the 2

President of the United States and mother of the 6th President, Abigail is one of the most respected and influential women of the early revolutionary period of American history. Built in 1685, the Abigail Adams Birthplace was home to this exceptional woman for the first twenty years of her life until she married John Adams in 1764. It has survived two relocations

JASON HOLBROOK HOMESTEAD
238 Parke Ave, Weymouth | 781-340-1022

Operated by the Weymouth Historical Society, the Holbrook Homestead houses a genealogical library with Weymouth records from the 1600's, a shoe shop original to the homestead, military memorabilia from the Revolutionary War through World War I, and a carriage house with antique sleighs, farming and ice harvesting tools.

Milton

Milton has been home to five Massachusetts governors, and is the birthplace of George H. W. Bush, 41st President of the United States. It's also home to the Suffolk Resolves, which became the colonies' first collective statement against the British government, a precursor to the Declaration of Independence. In its earliest days, Milton was a capital industrial center.

FORBES HOUSE MUSEUM
215 Adams Street, Milton | 617-696-1815
ForbesHouseMuseum.org
Tours: Thursdays & Saturdays, 11am and 2 pm.
Advance Reservations Recommended.

Explore America's birth as a global economic power in the 19th century through the prism of one family's inspiring stories of adventure, innovation, entrepreneurial spirit and civic leadership. Long considered the jewel of Milton, this majestic Greek revival mansion was built in 1833 and contains the treasures of four generations of the Forbes family including China trade heirlooms and Abraham Lincoln memorabilia.

Council Passes Bridge Ordinance

By SCOTT JACKSON

The City Council on Monday approved an amendment to Quincy's zoning code that will require the Planning Board grant a special permit before any new bridge can be built in the city.

Ward 6 Councillor William Harris had introduced the ordinance earlier this year, in response to Boston Mayor Marty Walsh's announcement that he would seek to rebuild the Long Island Bridge. The bridge

Officials Propose Southwest Middle New School Name

Library Would Be Dedicated To Late Principal Reay Sterling

By TOM GORMAN
School officials are proposing to rename the new Reay A. Sterling Middle School that is under construction to Southwest Middle School.

During the June 13 school committee meeting, member Paul Bregoli told his colleagues that the policy subcommittee, that he chairs, discussed the consideration of the name change during its May 30 meeting. Superintendent of Schools Dr. Richard DeCristofaro explained that Mayor Thomas Koch has floated the idea of renaming the new school to keep it line with the names of other neighborhood schools such as Central Middle and Atlantic Middle schools.

"The new name will re-connect the school to the neighborhood," DeCristofaro said.

Sterling Middle School, located on Granite Street, was originally named South Junior High School when it opened in 1924. When longtime teacher and principal Reay A. Sterling passed away in 1963, the school committee voted to rename the school in his memory.

Bregoli said the new school's library would be named after Sterling if the name change is approved.

Cemetery Board: Remove Items From Gravesites Planted Flowers Exception

The Quincy Cemetery Board of Managers requests the removal of all items from gravesites at the City of Quincy cemeteries by June 30.

The only exception will be planted flowers. This will ensure that city cemeteries will be properly maintained and safe for municipal employees and visitors.

SOLITARY REFLECTION

When selecting the setting for a diamond solitaire, bear in mind that the metal chosen can affect the perception of the color of the gemstone. For instance, a very white diamond lends itself best to being held in place by white metals such as white gold, platinum, and palladium. If yellow gold is preferred, reserve only that portion of the ring encircling the diamond for white metal. An all-yellow setting may be reflected into the diamond. If the diamond tends toward a yellowish hue, the choice of a yellow-gold setting may make it appear to be whiter by contrast.

As the foremost name in fine jewelry in Quincy, you can trust Rogers Jewelry concerning any jewelry question. We will be happy to help you in choosing a setting for a stunning diamond, the resetting of outdated jewelry, or custom designing original, one-of-a-kind pieces. THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On July 7, 1797, for the first time in U.S. history, the House of Representatives votes to impeach a federal officer. Sen. William Blount of Tennessee was charged with "a high misdemeanor" for entering into a conspiracy with British officers to enlist frontiersmen and Cherokee Indians to aid the British.

• On July 3, 1863, on the third day of the Battle of Gettysburg, Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee's last attempt at breaking the Union line ends in disastrous failure, bringing the most decisive battle of the American Civil War to an end. The tally: 23,000 killed, wounded or missing Union soldiers. The Confederates suffered some 25,000 casualties.

• On July 4, 1919, challenger Jack Dempsey defeats heavyweight champion Jess Willard in searing 110-degree heat in Toledo, Ohio, to win the heavyweight championship of the world. "The Manassa Mauler" bested Willard in 10 minutes.

• On July 6, 1933, Major League Baseball's first All-Star Game takes place at Chicago's Comiskey Park. The event was designed to bolster the sport and improve its reputation during the darkest days of the Great Depression.

• On July 8, 1950, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the hero of the war against Japan, is appointed head of the United Nations Command by President Harry Truman. Truman fired MacArthur nine months later after he defied the president and threatened to escalate hostilities with China.

• On July 5, 1975, although seemingly past his prime, Arthur Ashe defeats a heavily favored Jimmy Connors to become the first black man ever to win Wimbledon, the most coveted championship in tennis.

• On July 2, 1992, the 1 millionth Corvette, a white LT1 roadster with a red interior and a black roof -- the same colors as the original 1953 model -- rolls off the assembly line in Bowling Green, Kentucky.

Officials Propose Southwest Middle New School Name; Library For Sterling

"This (naming the library) would keep Reay Sterling's legacy alive," he said.

Sterling's widow and two of his three children are deceased. DeCristofaro had spoken to Glen Sterling, a grandson, about the proposal and, according to DeCristofaro, he was in favor of naming the new school's library in memory of his grandfather.

The new middle school is being built next to the existing school and is expected to open in the fall of 2019.

According to the minutes of the policy subcommittee May 30th meeting when the school renaming proposal was discussed, school committee member Douglas Gutro agreed with the importance of the geographic name, but noted that not all elementary schools are named in accordance to their location. He suggested reviewing schools that are named after people for the possibility of renaming those buildings.

Gutro suggested that the family and students be polled about renaming Sterling Middle School. Koch noted during the May 30 policy subcommittee discussion that the Clifford Marshall School, built next to the old Pollard School, was named without neighborhood input.

During the May 30 subcommittee meeting, school committee Vice Chairwoman Emily Lebo favored the idea of renaming Sterling Middle to Southwest Middle, but noted that former students may not embrace the new name. She pointed to Bernazzani Elementary School that many still refer to as the Furnace Brook Elementary School.

DeCristofaro told the committee on June 13 that he will be meeting with the Sterling Junior Building Committee as well as teachers and the new school's design team, the Lincoln-Hancock School and Sterling Middle School PTOs about the proposed name change.

"We want to get a feeling of the constituents to see what they thought of the name change," he said.

The superintendent said he would share their opinions and thoughts with the committee when the proposal is discussed again in the fall.

Committee member Anthony Andronico was pleased the community will have a voice on the matter.

"I would like more community input on this, particularly the areas that will be affected and for those who have a stake in the renaming of the school," he said.

Lebo said the school committee would take up the proposal during its first meeting in September.

In other business, the school committee unanimously approved the 2018-19 $110.1 million school budget. The spending plan is $4.2 million more than this year and will fund contractual salary increases and several new support positions including English Language Learner and special education teachers and instructors for digital literacy, occupational education, carpentry and broadcast programs.

No additional classroom teachers are needed for the upcoming year, according to school officials, since class sizes are at reasonable levels. In instances where class sizes are deemed high, teachers would be shifted as needed.

Let's Just Finish What We've Started

By: IAN CAIN and NINA LIANG
Quincy City Councillors

Quincy is undergoing a dramatic transformation emanating from the heart of the downtown and permeating the entire city. Change is good, but it is also difficult. On one hand, homes and businesses are being created by and for the next generation and for the future of the city; on the other, those who have helped the city get to this point feel out of place.

Along with these changes come necessary improvements to the city's infrastructure, buildings, and services. Improvements include repairs to schools and libraries, to roads and sidewalks, and to playgrounds and parks, just to name a few. Most of these projects are introduced through a Capital Improvement Plan, or CIP, which is a financial mechanism typically used for long-term capital spending.

Since joining the City Council in 2016, over $70 million has been approved for such improvements. We've converted our streetlights to LED lights, generating a cost savings and improving the quality of our public lighting. We've upgraded the technology in our schools, ensuring that our students get the quality education they deserve. We've supplied our first responders with vehicles necessary to effectively respond to emergencies. We've made positive strides toward a long-term goal of improving the quality of life for all residents, in all neighborhoods.

Unfortunately, we are only part of the way there. Over the last two years, only 54% of the proposed and approved funding has been spent. Therefore, our public buildings that need upgrades have not yet been rehabilitated. Our public spaces such as parks and playgrounds have not yet been renovated. Our citywide traffic study meant to generate a clear path toward fixing our traffic and parking issues, is still pending.

Third Annual PorchFest Quincy Saturday

By SCOTT JACKSON

A hundred musical acts are set to perform on porches, yards and driveways in three Quincy neighborhoods this Saturday as part of the third annual PorchFest Quincy celebration.

PorchFest Quincy will take place from 3 to 9 p.m. in the Merrymount, Squantum and Wollaston Hill neighborhoods. A list of musical acts who have signed up for this year's event is available online at porchfestquincy.org, and a schedule of performers and locations will be posted online today (Thursday). Yard signs are also being posted at each participating house this week.

The first PorchFest event took place in 2007 in Ithaca, New York, and it has since spread nationwide. Walter Hubley and Ward 3 Councillor Ian Cain began PorchFest Quincy in 2016.

The event is meant to bring local musicians and neighborhoods together to celebrate and grow a sense of community, and allows musicians to showcase their

OP ED

And that's not all. There remains $32 million unspent in approved, interest-accruing, project-related funds.

With all of the projects and funding already slated for approval, it is difficult, as stewards of your tax dollars, to approve additional borrowing for more projects today before the ones we have already committed are finished. Just as you would take out another credit card, or an additional loan, the more money you borrow, the more debt you have, and the more money you owe.

Approving tens of millions of dollars in additional funds and new projects with no comprehensive timelines or definitive completion dates prior to the completion of those projects already approved breeds overspending, recklessness, and the likelihood of further underdelivering. As residents, you deserve to live in a city that reflects the amount of investments it has made. We have continued to increase spending while minimal returns have been realized in and around our neighborhoods. It is time to slow down, properly and deliberately assess our progress, and move forward only when presented with a practical and feasible plan to completion.

No one wants substandard libraries, schools or public services. As managers and as effective leaders, difficult decisions need to be made in order to maintain fiscal discipline and responsibility. Sometimes it is important to say no in order to aid in growth. In this case, let's just finish what we've started.

talents. A wide variety of music -- which can include blues, classical, country, jazz, Latino, R&B, reggae, rock and more -- is featured in the festival.

The first annual PorchFest Quincy had 74 bands playing at 43 locations and an estimated attendance of 6,000. The festival grew to 110 bands playing at 70 locations last year, and this year's event is set to include even more performers.

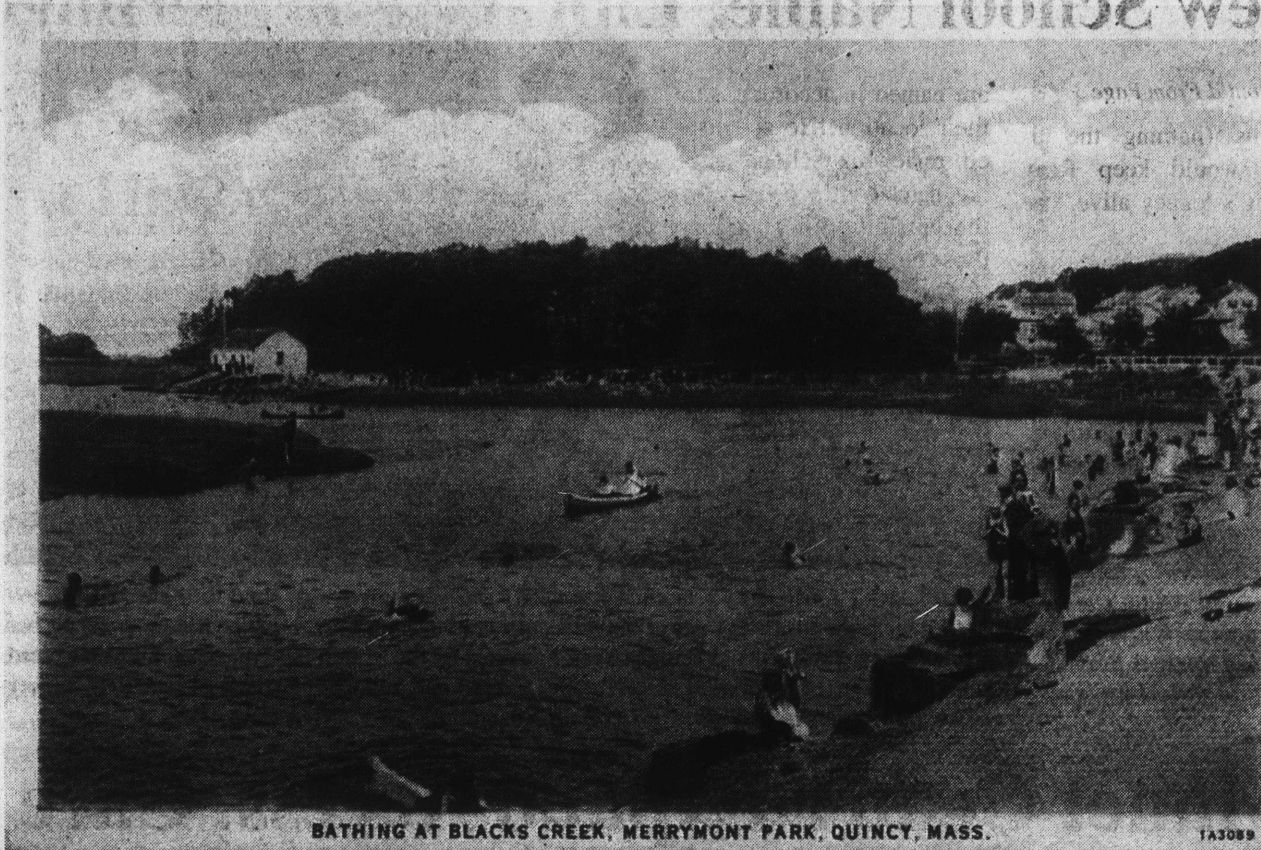

Also featured as part of this year's PorchFest Quincy will be a two beer trucks and a food truck.

The beer trucks will be located at 45 Bayside Rd. in Squantum and 196 Samoset Ave. in Merrymount. The food truck will set up shop at 61 Wedgewood St. in Squantum, near the Bayside Road beer truck.

Avi Shemtov, owner of The Chubby Chickpea food truck, will operate the beer trucks this year. Shemtov also operated a beer truck at the Bayside Road location in 2017.

Scenes From Yesterday

BATHING AT BLACKS CREEK, MERRYMONT PARK, QUINCY, MASS.

THIS IS A 1934 postcard view of Black's Creek looking northeast from Merrymont Parkway. Originally known as the Wollaston River, this estuary was included in Edmund Quincy's colonial land grant in the 1630s. The name Black's Creek came later from Moses Black, one of Quincy's first Irishmen who lived in what is known now as the Dorothy Quincy House. He owned most of the old Quincy family property when Quincy became a town in 1792. At the time of this postcard the creek was known by some as Sandburg's bathtub. Edward Sandburg, a Quincy city councillor and state legislator, had a dam built at the Boulevard end of Black's Creek to keep tidewater in here for swimming when the tide was low on Wollaston Beach. His dam is long gone now and nobody has been seen swimming here for years. The canoes and other small boats were rented from the boathouse in the distant left. The boathouse was closed in the 1950s and the building was destroyed by fire in 1978. The granite blocks on the right are said to be part of a small dam for Edmund Quincy's tidal gristmill that was on this site in Colonial times. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

RMV Low Number Plate Lottery Applications Online

The Massachusetts Registry of Motor Vehicles on Monday announced that applications for the 2018 Low Number Plate Lottery are now being accepted online at mass.gov/plate-lottery or by mail.

Applicants must apply by Aug. 27 and, if selected for a low number plate, will be notified after the drawing takes place in September.

"We are pleased to once again offer low plate vehicle numbers through a lottery system," said Registrar Erin Deveney. "We always have a high level of demand for license plates with very few numbers or very few letters. We encourage our customers to visit mass.gov/plate-lottery where they can apply online or print out the lottery form if needed."

Applications for the 2018 Low Plate Lottery must be received online or postmarked by Aug. 28, in order for the applicant to be eligible.

This year, there are 201 plates that are available through the low plate lottery. Some of this year's low plate characters are 1400, 2558, 4J, Y4, 55Z, 77V, and Z81.

In 2017, the Registry received over 11,000 applications, for 162 plates, an increase of 3,000 applications from the prior year.

Applicants should note that there is no fee to apply. However, should the applicant be selected as a winner, there is a fee that will be required, as the fee is required of all new license plates, as well as a standard registration fee.

Customers are encouraged to visit the RMV's website or follow the RMV on Twitter @MassRMV for upcoming details on the drawing, including the date, time, and location of the event. By law, winners must be announced by Sept. 15, and the names of winners will be posted on the RMV website.

Development And Keeping City Neighborhoods Livable

I am responding to an excellent letter written by Peter Forbes in The Quincy Sun June 14th, 2018 edition "Quincy Needs Coherent Development Plan."

Forbes' article addressed the development plan, particularly around the transit lines called Smart Plan, by reducing vehicular traffic and using public transportation. Yet, the drive thru banking is expanding, according to the writer. It seems to be an antithesis for smart growth and sustainable cities development scheme.

On a similar issue which addresses the Ward 4 and the South West Quincy Neighborhood where the single family, older homes are being torn down or expanded by several additional units stretching far into the backyards.

Much of West Quincy is Residential B zoned. It is fairly lenient in development matters, and extremely lucrative for inventors to swoop these houses up as they become available for sale. They are being replaced with multi-unit apartments buildings, naturally for economic reasons. The Zoning Board of Appeals frequently grants the waivers for the developers, if they can show there is a "hardship."

This has prompted Ward 4 City Councillor Brian Palmucci, for example, to bring about a proposal for a moratorium in areas zoned for residential B, mainly to give the City and the Planning Department time to look the affect this type of development has on the old neighborhoods. New development is evident, but it has to also complement the old neighborhoods and take under consideration the added traffic, old narrow street, flooding, green space and density to mention these.

We hope this Council will bring this issue back to their agenda, and help keep our City neighborhoods livable also for the old core residents.

Garfield Street, for example, is going to get 13 new town houses in place of our neighborhood West Quincy Motors. This family business has served our neighborhood car repair needs for two generations of the Luoma Family, fine and highly respected family business. We are sorry to see this establishment come to end.

The developer is now asking the Zoning Board of Appeal to waive the required parking requirements for Garfield Street development town houses. This development is not close to a transit line, such as the T-stations developments. One must have a car, and likely, more than two cars are going to be there per dwelling unit plus visitors to get to anyplace.

We hope that Zoning Board will visit the site again, and go by the rules of the zoning and not grant the waivers, or reduce the number of units allowed.

$25,975 Grant For Houghs Neck Open Space Program

A grant of $25,975 to Quincy for an "Open Space Land Program" in Houghs Neck near Rock Island Cove has been awarded by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

It has been proposed that this marshland off Rockland Street be protected as a wild life source for nearby Quincy Bay. Announcement of the grant was made by Congressman James Burke and Sen. Edward Kennedy.

MURIEL GOUDEY RETIRES AS QHS TEACHER

Miss Muriel Goudey, head of the Quincy High School English Department for the past 10 years, retires next week after 43 years as a school teacher. The next day she will be taking out nomination papers for the Quincy School Committee.

And Miss Goudey, who says "I have never applied for a job in my life," will have to ask a lot of citizens "will you vote for me for School Committee?" Miss Goudey, a Quincy High School graduate, received her bachelor's and master's degrees from Boston University and did practice teaching in Quincy. This qualified her for her first teaching job at Central Junior High at $1,300 per year.

The School Committee election is considered wide open as all three incumbents, whose terms expire this year, are retiring.

(Editor's note: Voters elected three new school committee members in the November election: political newcomers Harold Davis and Daniel Raymondi, and former city councillor Francis McCauley.

Howard Johnson Program Thursday At Historical Society

Through a generous grant from Howard B. Johnson, Quincy Historical Society's Annual Meeting will premiere "Howard Johnson's and Twentieth Century America," an exhibit celebrating the Quincy-born company's growth and remarkable and enduring influence on American life.

The event and annual meeting will be held Thursday, June 21 at 7 p.m. at the Quincy Historical Society, Adams Academy building, 8 Adams St., Quincy.

The presentation will follow Howard D. Johnson's progress from a debt-mired Wollaston store to creating the famous 28 flavors of ice cream to building the largest restaurant chain in the world. Exhibits will feature a wide array of memorabilia and images, a number publicly displayed for the first time, drawn from the Historical Society's Howard Johnson's collection, probably the most extensive existing historical archive of the Howard Johnson's Company.

Everyone is welcome. There is no charge for admission. Ice cream will be served.

Officers and trustees of the Quincy Historical Society for the coming year will be elected at the annual meeting.

Poetry Reading, Wildflower Walk Saturday At Nut Island

The Park Department's Environmental Treasures program will host a free poetry reading and wildflower walk at Nut Island on Saturday, June 23.

Entitled "Poetry by the Sea," the program will feature Quincy poet Molly Bennett reading her poetry for 20 minutes in the Nut Island Community Room with lovely views of the sea. Following the reading, Lois Murphy of the Nut Island Advisory Committee will take participants on a walk around the island to view wildflowers and spectacular ocean views.

The tour will begin at 7 p.m. at the building entrance (near the flagpoles), 147 Sea Ave.

Parking is available in front of the building, at the pier and along the right side of the road as you exit.

For more information and rain date rescheduling, call 617-472-0799.

Asian Art, Tours Saturday At Josiah Quincy House

Historic New England will offer special tours of its collection of art and objects from Asia on Saturday, June 23 from 10 a.m. until noon and again from 1 until 3 p.m. The tours will take place at the Josiah Quincy House located at 20 Muirhead St. in Wollaston.

Asian art and culture has long captured the western imagination. Beginning with the China Trade in the late eighteenth century and continuing through the nineteenth century Victorian fascination, the Quincy family amassed an impressive collection of Asian and Asian-inspired artwork and luxury goods.

Join Historic New England Senior Curator of Collections Nancy Carlisle and Objects Conservator Michaela Neiro for an in-depth look at these objects on view at Quincy House.

Part-tour, part-lecture, Asian Art at Quincy House explores the recently reinstalled collection in context and reveals the challenges of working with materials and techniques like lacquer and japaanng.

Space is limited and registration is required. The cost is $10 for Historic New England members and Quincy residents and $20 for nonmembers. For information or to register call 617-994-5930 or visit www.HistoricNewEngland.org.

Ninety-Nine Restaurant Raises Money For Quincy School Community Partnership

The Ninety Nine Restaurant & Pub in Quincy celebrated its 20th anniversary with team members, guests and members of the community on June 6th, with an event that generated over $1,000 for the Quincy School Community Partnership which is a collaboration between Quincy Public Schools and the Quincy business community.

During the anniversary event, guests enjoyed a spirited game of trivia and participated in a commemorative ceremony that honored the restaurant's team members. A percentage of the restaurant's total net sales that entire day were donated to the Quincy School Community Partnership. Frank Rampino, General Managing Partner of the Quincy Ninety Nine Restaurant & Pub, proudly presented the check to the Quincy School Community Partnership.

"We are proud to celebrate 20 years of serving great food and drinks to our guests and are passionate about giving back to the community in whatever way we can," said Frank

Rampino, general managing Partner of the Quincy Ninety Nine Restaurant & Pub. "We fully support the Quincy School Community Partnership and look forward to continuing that relationship for years to come."

Caramel Apple Dip

By MARIE

If you like caramel (and I love it) today's recipe will delight you.

I haven't made these for ages but recently had to bring an appetizer to a get together. They were a big hit!

Recipe for Caramel Apple Dip:

2 8-ounce packages of cream cheese
½ cup of sour cream
½ cup of granulated sugar
2 cups of sliced apples (coated with cinnamon and nutmeg to taste) or canned apple pie filling, (set aside)
1 teaspoon of vanilla

For the Streusel:

¼ cup brown sugar

½ cup of flour
3 tablespoons of melted butter
¼ walnuts (optional)
Caramel sauce, about 6 ounces, sold in most markets (and you can also use Butterscotch sauce instead)

Mix cream cheese, sour cream, sugar and vanilla with a mixer or hand-mixer and spread in a 9 inch pie plate or shallow baking dish.

Top with the apples.

Then mix together thoroughly the flour, brown sugar and butter.

Spread on top of the apple pie filling and add the ¼ cup of walnuts to the top.

Then drizzle with caramel sauce.

Bake in 350 degree oven for 25 minutes.

Serve with vanilla wafers.

Pineapple Mufa Shake

By SUSIE

By now you all hopefully know that low fat diets are not all they were cracked up to be.

MUFA (medium chained fatty acids) are fats (such as the ones found in flax oil and avocados...among others) that are well documented for keeping the heart healthy, are anti-inflammatory in nature, lowered risk of AFIB in some studies, helped children and adults combat high cholesterol, improves insulin sensitivity, and assist in weight loss.

This is an easy and yummy tropical tasting recipe:

1 cup unsweetened nut milk (I like Calafia, Milkadamia, or New Barn)
4 ounces of organic canned pineapple, in juice.. (I like Native Forest brand)

Handful of ice
1 tablespoon organic flax oil MUFA (I like Barleans)

Summer Camps: How To Make The Right Choice

A Message From Ruth Jones, Director Of Nursing, Quincy Health Department

By RUTH JONES

BSN, RN, BC, CP-FS

Summer camp is a time for kids to make lifelong friends and countless memories. If you're a pro-camp family you can discover a few good camps that meet your child's needs and your budget, but how do you know how to choose the best out of all of the options? Before you even begin sorting through the seemingly endless possibilities in your area, take a good look at your camper and the camp to determine if it is safe and appropriate.

A recreational camp for children is a day or overnight sports, travel, or wilderness program that offers recreational activities and instruction to campers. These camps typically operate anytime between June 1 and Sept. 30, and not more than 15 business days the rest of the year, and serve five or more children enrolled.

In Massachusetts, recreational camps for children must be inspected and licensed by the local board of health in the city or town where the camp is located. In order to be licensed, the camp must meet all regulatory standards established by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health (MDPH) and any additional local requirements, which were all updated this year.

There are certain regulatory requirements that a camp program must meet to be licensed as a recreational camp for children. Programs that do not meet the legal definition of a recreational camp for children are not subject to MDPH's regulatory provisions and consequently may not follow the mandatory requirements that apply to licensed recreational camps for children including:

- completing criminal record background checks on each staff person and volunteer prior to employment
- requiring proof of camper and staff immunizations and physical exams
- requiring proof of appropriate training certification, or experience for staff.

In addition, neither MDPH nor a local board of health conducts on-site inspections of facilities that are not deemed recreational camps for children. The regulations establish minimum health, safety, sanitary, and housing standards to protect the well-being of children who are in the care of recreational camps for children in Massachusetts. The local health department in the community where the camp is located can confirm if the camp is a licensed recreational camp for children, confirm the status of the camp's license, and provide a copy of the camp's most recent inspection report.

The primary intent of the inspection is to ensure that the camp provides an appropriate environment to protect the health, safety, and well-being of the campers. Inspectors observe the camp for: safe structures and equipment; adequate sanitary facilities; sufficient supervision of the campers; appropriate plans in case of medical emergencies, natural, and other physical disasters; sufficient health care coverage; and injury and fire prevention plans.

All staff must attend an orientation that now includes concussion awareness training as well as training on all emergency and healthcare policies. The recreational camp for children must conduct a background check for all camp staff and volunteers including obtaining and reviewing their previous work history and confirming references. The camp must also acquire a Criminal Offender Record Information (CORI) history/juvenile record history from the Massachusetts Department of Criminal Justice Information and a Sex Offender Registry Information (SORI) report from the Massachusetts Sex Offender Registry Board (SORB) Services to determine any past criminal history that would prevent the applicant from being with campers. The local health department verifies that CORI and SORI checks have been conducted during their annual licensing inspection. The camp is required to hire staff and volunteers whose backgrounds are free of conduct that reflects adversely upon their ability to provide for the safety and well-being of the campers.

There are also various age requirements depending on the type of camp. A counselor working at a licensed overnight, sports, travel, trip, or special needs camp must be 18 years of age or have graduated from high school. Counselors working at a day or non-sport camp must be at least 16 years of age. All counselors at licensed camps in Massachusetts are required to be at least three years older than the campers they supervise. All licensed camps are required to have a healthcare supervisor who remains at the camp at all times and is currently certified in first aid and CPR. The camp must provide backup for the health care supervisor from a Massachusetts licensed physician, physician assistant, or nurse practitioner who serves as a health care consultant.

Licensed camps are required to keep all medications in their original containers and to store all prescription medications in a locked cabinet. The only individual authorized to give your child their medication is a licensed health care professional or the camp health supervisor with oversight and training by the camp health care consultant.

Camps are required to also retain a written disciplinary policy that explains their methods of acceptable discipline. Under no circumstances can a camper be subjected to corporal punishment, such as spanking, or be punished by withholding food or subjecting a camper to verbal abuse or humiliation.

Be cautious; do not rely on glossy pictures and fancy brochures when considering a recreational camp. Contact the camp director to schedule an appointment for an informational meeting and tour of the facility prior to registering your child. Inquire about the camps policies regarding staff background checks, as well as health care and disciplinary procedures. Call the local health department in the city or town where the camp is located for information regarding inspections of the camp and to inquire about the camp's license status. Obtain names of other families who have sent their children to the camp, and contact them for an independent reference.

Knowing your options, as well as your child's personality, will help you identify programs from which your child will benefit most.

Gov. Highlights CARE Act To Address Opioid Epidemic

During a visit to A New Way Recovery Center hosted by Bay State Community Services in Quincy June 14th, Gov. Charlie Baker highlighted efforts to combat the opioid epidemic and the administration's second major bill, known as the CARE Act, that is currently before the Legislature.

The CARE Act will increase access to treatment and recovery services, including the use of recovery coaching to maintain long-term recovery, and will strengthen the state's opioid education and prevention strategies.

"Our administration's comprehensive approach to address the opioid crisis has helped us make some progress to reduce overdose deaths, but there is much more work to be done," Baker said. "Building on our first bill, the CARE Act will allow for the Commonwealth to continue combatting the opioid epidemic by expanding access to treatment and employing effective strategies like the use of more recovery coaches."

Since the 2015 STEP Act legislation was passed, Massachusetts has achieved steady results in addressing the opioid crisis, including the first reduction in opioid-related overdose deaths in five years. The landmark legislation enacted first in the nation limits on opioid prescriptions, required more stringent prescription monitoring, broadened core competencies in substance use training and treatment in graduate programs and expanded access to overdose reversal medication and substance use treatment.

Currently, the Department of Public Health (DPH) funds recovery coaches in 11 hospital Emergency Departments to make referrals and connections to treatment and recovery support services in the community. Between January 2017 and April 2018, 4,295 sessions with recovery coaches occurred with 3,840 resulting in a referral to community services. In July 2018, MassHealth will introduce recovery coaches for its members and anticipates spending over $38 million on these support services over the next five years.

A New Way Recovery Center, a DPH-funded program, provides recovery coaching, including the HEART Program (Hospital Emergency Action Recovery Team). The HEART Program has been offering recovery coaching services since 2016 and deploys coaches on a 24/7 basis to South Shore Hospital in Weymouth, Quincy Medical Center and Carney Hospital in Boston, to serve individuals with substance use disorder (SUD) in emergency departments. Currently, the program's 10 recovery coaches at the 3 hospitals are averaging 150 requests a month. Some 95 percent of the individuals who received coaching received a referral to recovery centers, substance use treatment facilities and other community-based resources.

The Baker-Polito Administration has doubled spending to address the opioid crisis and added more than 1,200 treatment beds, including 768 adult substance use treatment beds at different treatment levels, and certified more than 168 Sober Homes accounting for an additional 2,242 beds. Just last month, Massachusetts received an $11.7 million federal grant to continue its public health response to the opioid epidemic and bolster community overdose prevention, outpatient opioid treatment, and recovery services across the Commonwealth. It is the second consecutive year the state has received the funding, bringing the two-year total to $23.8 million.

In response to the landmark Chapter 55 report which identified several populations that are at higher risk for SUDs, the Administration dedicated a portion of the federal funding to specifically target these groups. Investments include:

- Making Medication-Assisted Treatment (MAT) and recovery services available to incarcerated individuals in six Massachusetts Houses of Correction;
- Creating a new statewide Dashboard of key metrics monitoring the care and development of families impacted by perinatal substance use; and
- Launching the Journey Project, an interactive web-based resource for pregnant and parenting women seeking help with substance use disorder, designed to increase access to treatment and provide support, guidance, and encouragement to women in recovery.

Additional programmatic accomplishments include:

- The Overdose Education and Naloxone Distribution (OEND) initiative has trained more than 70,000 individuals on how to administer naloxone since the program began in 2007. Since 2007, over 15,000 overdose rescues have been reported. There have been more than 11,000 rescues since 2015 and 4,688 rescues in 2017 alone. In addition to the OEND initiative, over 7,000 overdose rescues have been reported by the 32 First Responder Naloxone Grant agencies since 2015.

• Over 3,800 professionals from 320 school districts have been trained by DPH to administer Screening, Brief Intervention and Referral to Treatment (SBIRT) in the required six-hour Introductory Course. Over 1,200 professionals from trained districts attended an additional three-hour 'SBIRT Essentials' session.

• Between August 2016 and March 2018, Opioid Urgent Care Centers served more than 19,000 individuals over the course of more than 23,000 visits.

• Since FY11, the BSAS Recovery Coach Academy has trained 1,038 people in 34 trainings. Since FY17, 211 people have received Recovery Coach Supervision through 10 trainings.

• Successfully launched the Massachusetts Prescription Awareness Tool (MassPAT), an online prescription awareness and monitoring tool in August 2016.

Nearly 11.2 million searches of MassPAT have taken place since the creation of MassPAT

On average, approximately 22,500 searches have been conducted per weekday in MassPAT since new search requirements went into effect on October 15, 2016.

More than 6 million searches have been conducted in MassPAT in 2017 alone.

Massachusetts has connected with 32 states and the District of Columbia to share patient prescription data, including NH, VT, NY, CT and RI.

Additionally, through administrative action, the Baker-Polito Administration will invest up to $219 million over five years from the state's 1115 Medicaid waiver, which began in fiscal year 2018, to meet the needs of individuals with addictions and/or co-occurring disorders. These funds will expand residential recovery services, increase access to medication-assisted treatment, add new recovery coaches and navigators, and implement a consistent clinical assessment tool throughout the treatment system.

For more information on the Commonwealth's response to the opioid epidemic as well as links to the latest data, visit www.mass.gov/opioidresponse. To get help for a substance use disorder, visit www.helpline.org or call the Massachusetts Substance Use Helpline at (800) 327-5050.

John Adams, Abigail Adams And Thomas Jefferson:

'Independence Forever' July 4 At Adams National Historical Park

The Founding Fathers had the radical idea that a government should be for the people. Today, America's 400 plus National Parks represent this exact idea.

Join Adams National Historical Park at the "Continental Congress" as the meaning of independence is debated, defended, compromised and considered July 4.

Experience history through the performing arts as we salute two of our nation's most celebrated Founding Fathers, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson and Founding Mother, Abigail Adams, in the stage play: Jefferson and Adams, by Howard Ginsberg.

Lend your voice to liberty as the Declaration of Independence is read, right outside and below the room that John Adams took his last breath on July 4, 1826, the Jubilee Anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence.

Celebrate the 242nd anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence at the home of one of the men who helped to write it. This annual tradition has brought thousands to take part in the celebration.

The July 4 activities include:

Independence Forever: The Continental Congress
2 to 3:30 p.m.

The Carriage House, 135 Adams St., Quincy
Become a delegate to the Second Continental Congress and re-enact the passage of the Declaration of Independence in the Adams Carriage House. This interactive and engaging event is an invitation to adults and children to take part in the debate about whether to remain loyal to the British crown, or to create a new nation!

The Reading of the Declaration of Independence
3:30 to 4 p.m.

Join the delegates at John Adams's Old House at Peace field and lend your voice to the ceremonial reading of the Declaration of Independence!

Jefferson & Adams: A Stage Play
4 to 6 p.m.

The Beale House, 181 Adams St., Quincy

Witness a compelling dramatization of the friendship between John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, and Abigail Adams. Colonial Williamsburg reenactors Bill Barker and Abigail Schumann join actor Sam Goodyear in bringing to life the fifty-year relationship – often contentious, sometimes turbulent, and ultimately enduring – of this dynamic trio who hold forth on life, love, and loss in their now famous correspondence. The play will take place under the tent at the neighboring Beale House.

The day's events are free and open to the public.

There is limited street parking. A free trolley from the Adams National Historical Park Visitor Center (Presidents Place Galleria, 1250 Hancock St.) will be available. Validated parking is located on the 4th and 5th floors in the Galleria Parking Garage.

Adams National Historical Park includes the birthplaces of the second and sixth presidents of the United States, John Adams and John Quincy Adams, along with the Old House at Peace field, home to both presidents and four generations of their distinguished family. During the open season, April 19 through Nov. 10, tickets to the historic homes can be purchased at the Visitor Center located at 1250 Hancock St., Quincy.

A free park trolley transports visitors from the Visitor Center to the Birthplaces and the Old House at Peace field for a two and a half hour tour. The first tour leaves at 9:15 a.m. and the last tour leaves at 3:15 p.m., seven days a week including federal holidays.

Tickets are $10.00 for adults (children 15 and under are free) and sold on a first-come, first-served basis.

Social Security Matters

Ask Rusty: Overpayment Notice Due To Ex-Spouse Benefits

By RUSSELL GLOOR

AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor
Association Of Mature American Citizens

Dear Rusty: My husband got an overpayment notice from Social Security telling us that his former wife had collected $32,640.34 in benefits she wasn't entitled to and they want us to repay the overpayment. We knew that his ex-wife had been married another 3 times, but she was single at 62 when she filed for ex-spouse benefits from my husband. When her current husband went to retire, he asked if he could collect benefits from his wife who had just died; Social Security told him "no" as she was collecting benefits from an ex-husband. He asked, "which husband?", which triggered the overpayment letter to us.

If Social Security had an "adverse letter" system like they do for children, we could have answered the letter by stating that she had been married three times. Social Security should have run her SS number and saw how many times she changed her name on the card. End of story. The sum of $32,640.34 is hard to swallow when you are 80 and 85 and we now must repay this amount. Signed: Upset and Angry

Dear Upset: Social Security's rules say that you must be unmarried when you apply for ex-spouse benefits, not that you cannot have remarried and subsequently again divorced, been widowed or had the later marriage annulled. If an ex-spouse collecting benefits from a former husband remarries, they are obligated to inform Social Security that they are no longer eligible to collect ex-spouse benefits because they have remarried. It sounds as if your husband's ex-wife neglected to inform Social Security of her several remarriages, each of which made her ineligible to collect from your husband while she was married to another.

I suggest that you appeal this Social Security ruling on the basis that the former wife negligently continued to collect ex-spouse benefits from your husband after she had remarried. This was clearly something that your husband had no control over since his Social Security benefit wasn't affected in any way by his ex-wife collecting benefits on his record. Although there are time limits specified to contest an adverse ruling, you are hopefully within the "3 years, 3 months and 15 days after the year the adjustment relates." Your right to re-appeal continues even if you have been initially and subsequently denied, even taking your appeal to an Administrative Law Judge if need be.

Considering the amount of money involved here, and the clarity of the ex-wife's neglecting to inform Social Security of her remarriage(s), I encourage you to immediately appeal Social Security's ruling.

So that you know, there is precedent within Social Security for situations where benefits were overpaid to one person without the knowledge of or benefit to another – for example, your husband's ex-wife collecting benefits she wasn't entitled to because she was remarried. This precedent information can be found at the following Social Security link, which deals with a ruling that is "against equity and good conscience": https://www.ssa.gov/OP_Home/cfr20/404/404-0509.htm.

For your convenience, here is what the Federal Code says about this (please print this and take it with you when you meet with Social Security): "Recovery of an overpayment is against equity and good conscience.....if an individual... was living in a separate household from the overpaid person at the time of the overpayment and did not receive the overpayment."

I believe your husband's situation regarding his ex-wife getting benefits she wasn't entitled to, and that he had no knowledge of, clearly qualifies as "against equity and good conscience." Please make an appointment at your local Social Security office as soon as possible and file an appeal on this ruling, and don't simply accept it if they initially reject your appeal. Your right to appeal continues up to and including consideration by an independent Administrative Law Judge and I encourage you to use the appeal process to its fullest.

Council OKs Buying 2 Homes For Maritime Project

8-0 Vote To Buy 1303 Sea St. House For $500K; 6-2 Vote For 128 Bayview Ave. House For $450K

By SCOTT JACKSON

City councillors on Monday approved the purchase of two homes that will be razed to make way for a new Houghs Neck Maritime Center, but balked at purchasing the parking lot owned by a nearby restaurant.

Councillors voted 8-0 to approve Mayor Thomas Koch's request to purchase the home at 1303 Sea St. for $500,000 and 6-2 in favor of buying the house at 128 Bayview Ave. for $450,000. Councillors Noel DiBona and Anne Mahoney voted against the latter, and Ward 3 Councillor Ian Cain was not present Monday.

No vote was taken on Koch's request to purchase the parking lot at 1260 and 1266 Sea St., which is owned by Louis Café, for $400,000. No councillor seconded a motion to vote on the acquisition, meaning the item died, City Council President Brad Croall said.

The $950,000 to purchase the two homes comes from the $27 million park improvement bond the City Council approved in May 2017. The park bond will be used using revenue the city collects through the hotel tax – the tax charged to guests staying at a hotel or motel in Quincy. Eighty-five percent of hotel tax funds are dedicated to open space projects, including parks, with the remaining 15 percent used to promote tourism.

The May 2017 bond included $2.75 million to purchase five Houghs Neck properties – three homes and Louis' parking lot as part of the Maritime Center project, plus a parking lot at LaBrecque Field owned by the Archdiocese of Boston. Ward 4 Councillor Brian Palmucci introduced an amendment at that time, unanimously approved by his colleagues, requiring a confirmatory vote to approve any land purchase made through the park improvement bond.

City Solicitor Jim Timmins negotiated with the three homeowners and the owners of Louis Café following the council's approval of the $27 million bond. The owner of the third home, Timmins said Monday, was happy where he lives now and said he would not sell for less than $750,000. The city stopped negotiations at that point. City officials have said eminent domain would not be used for the Maritime Center project.

The two-family home at 1303 Sea St. has an assessed value of $378,000 and was appraised for $485,000 in November 2017, Timmins said. The single-family home at 128 Bayview Ave. is assessed for $232,900 and has an appraised value of $290,000. The parking lot owned by Louis Café has an assessed value of $386,000 and the land was appraised at $400,000.

DiBona cited the difference in the appraised value of 128 Bayview Ave. and the $450,000 purchase price before voting against that acquisition.

"There is a difference of $160,000," he said. "I'm sorry, but I can't be in favor of that, so I'm going to be voting 'no' on this one."

Timmins had previously said the appraisal undervalued that lot because it is not developable, but is important to the city's plan for the Maritime Center.

"It wasn't terribly reliable because there aren't a lot of properties like this particular one that aren't really developable...yet it's a very advantageous lot from our perspective because it greatly enhances what can be done for the Maritime Center," he said.

Ward 1 Councillor David McCarthy said the purchase of the two homes would allow the team designing the new Maritime Center to finalize those plans.

"No decision has been made on the size and scope, or the parking design, in regards to the Maritime Center," he said. "There have been no decisions made. We're kind of back to the drawing board in a way to take a look at what we have now since we only have two out of the three houses."

The Massachusetts Seaport Economic Council earlier this year awarded the city $1 million for design and construction of the new facility, McCarthy said additional funding for the work would be needed, either throughout the Seaport Economic Council or other grants.

The city plans to install a new boat ramp at the site of the present Maritime Center, which would include the demolition of the existing building, McCarthy said the permitting for that work is nearly done and construction of the new boat ramp could commence this year. The new boat ramp will be wider and at a steeper angle, allowing it to be used on a more frequent basis.

New Fire Ladder Truck, Turnout Gear Approved

By SCOTT JACKSON

The City Council on Monday approved a $2.48 million bond to purchase a new ladder truck and turnout gear for the Quincy Fire Department.

The council approved Mayor Thomas Koch's bond request in an 8-0 vote, with Ward 3 Councillor Ian Cain absent. More than two dozen firefighters attended Monday's meeting, and they applauded the council's vote.

More than half the bond – $1.5 million total – will go towards the purchase of the new ladder truck, which will replace the ladder truck currently at the Wollaston firehouse. The city plans to purchase a tiller truck, which features a second steering wheel in the rear of the vehicle, allowing the back to move independently of the front. It could take up to a year for the tiller truck to be delivered, Koch previously said.

The remaining money will go towards the purchase of a second set of turnout gear for all firefighters along with industrial clothes washers and dryers for each firehouse. Those items were sought to help reduce firefighters' exposure to carcinogens and other hazardous materials that can be present at the scene of a fire, by allowing them to change into clean gear once they return to the station.

Councillors said it was important to protect firefighters from carcinogens as much as possible.

"The incidence of cancer among firefighters is on the rise, the use of plastics and carcinogens in building materials are on the rise, and our funding for protective gear and equipment must also be on the rise," said Ward 4 Councillor Brian Palmucci, who chairs the council's public safety committee.

"The cancer rates are so high among firefighters, that eventually if we don't do everything we can to protect these guys, there is going to be no one that follows them – there is going to be no one who enters the fire service."

Ward 6 Councillor William Harris said firefighters are there when called upon to serve the city's residents.

"Now the bell is ringing to all of us – it's our time to be with them," he said.

QUINCY FIREFIGHTERS attended Monday's City Council meeting in the Great Hall. The council approved a $2.48 million bond to purchase for a new ladder truck and turnout gear.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

PLANE FACTS

To prevent the mild form of gum disease known as "gingivitis," patients should be diligent about brushing and flossing at home and scheduling professional cleanings that can effectively remove the sticky film of bacteria-laden "plaque" that can cause inflammation. As gums become inflamed, they pull away from teeth to form pockets. Plaque that then becomes trapped in these pockets cannot be removed with regular brushing. Instead, the accumulated plaque hardens into "tartar," which can only be removed with "scaling and root planing." This deep-cleaning procedure involves the use of a sharp, hook-shaped instrument that scrapes away plaque and tartar from the sides of each tooth, all the way down below the gum line to the bottom of the pockets. Some studies estimate that more than half of all people over age 18 have at least the early stage of gum disease. After age 35, about three out of four adults are affected. Avoid the need for gum scaling and root planing, and protect yourself and your family—practice conscientious home care, have regular checkups, and eat a healthy diet. We'll help too, because we care almost as much as you do about the health of your teeth and gums. Call us at 617 479-6220 for an appointment at 44 Greenleaf Street. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist.

P.S. According to a July 2015 study in the Journal of the American Dental Association, scaling and root planing are beneficial to patients with chronic periodontitis, which affects 47.2% of adults over age 30 in the United States..

$39.75M For Roads, Water Mains OK'd

Councillor At-Large Liang Votes No; Ward 3's Cain Not Present

the repair and reconstruction of streets and sidewalks city-wide, an $8.5 million bond for the replacement and repair of water mains, and $14.25 million in financing for water system improvements through a Massachusetts Water Resources Authority program that offers interest-free, ten-year loans for eligible projects.

Public Works Commissioner Al Grazioso, in a memo provided to the council, said the $17 million bond for roads and sidewalks would be combined with $9 million in other funds — including state Chapter 90 money and federal Community Development Block Grants — to reconstruct 22 miles of roadway citywide over the next five years. The roadwork will be coordinated with the replacement of water mains.

City engineer Paul Costello on Monday said up to $70 million would be needed fully fix all city roads, not including sidewalk work.

Grazioso said about $3 million would be spent this summer to micro surface several main roads. Micro surfacing entails placing a thin overlay over the existing pavement, which can make the roads appear freshly paved.

Grazioso said the city is looking replace water mains on more than a dozen streets next year, including Garfield Street, Kidder Street, Kittredge Street, Narragansett Road, North Payne Street, Payne Street, Ruggles Street, Samoset Avenue, South Street, Station Street, Taylor Street, Winslow Road, Greystone Street, Hill Street, McDonald Street and Westford Street. Eight of those streets will also see their gas replaced by National Grid, Grazioso said.

After the water and gas mains are replaced, the city has to wait for the trench to settle before repaving the road. Settling can take up to year.

Liang opened the discussion on the $17 million bond by saying she believed it was time to pump the brakes on capital spending. The bond would pay for important work, she said, but the council had already authorized about $70 million in capital work in recent years.

"At the end of the day, when the requests come in front of us we have to be the ones that are managing that spending," Liang said. "We have to be the ones that are approving that spending and saying 'is this the right time? Is this the most fiscally responsible decision we can make?'"

Councillor Noel DiBona proposed cutting $10 million from the $17 million bond. He said the city could use the remaining $7 million for street projects over the next two years and come back to the council for additional funding.

"For me right now, I feel comfortable with giving you a two-year period, get the work done and come back to us," DiBona said. "I'm not trying to push this off. I'm just saying I want it kind of diced up here."

Several ward councillors who spoke Monday said they supported the entire $17 million because the condition of streets and sidewalks is a frequent concern of their constituents.

"To reject money for something everyone in the city agrees is an enormous problem and one that is an impediment to real progress — not only for the downtown but for our neighborhoods — I completely don't understand it," Ward 5 Councillor Kirsten Hughes said. "Perhaps someone who doesn't deal with ward issues day in and day out doesn't understand that."

"If I didn't support this tonight, I wouldn't vote for me in the next election and I think the voters of Ward 4 feel the same way," Ward 4 Councillor Brian Palmucci said. "Not taking action to fix what is one of the biggest problems that we have in the city...I think that is city councillor negligence. It's malpractice."

In lieu of DiBona's proposed cut, Palmucci suggested a different amendment to the bond order requiring the public works commissioner to provide an annual update on upcoming roadwork and a recap of the past year's projects. DiBona agreed to withdraw his proposed cut after Palmucci put forward his amendment. Palmucci's amendment was unanimously approved.

Council Passes Bridge Ordinance

would connect Moon Island, which is within Quincy's city limits, to Long Island, and would only be accessible through Squantum.

Harris said he was grateful for his colleagues' support Monday.

"I appreciate everybody's support through the process we're going through," he said. "My ward and my communities thank you."

The council approved the item in a 7-0. Ward 3 Councillor Ian Cain was not in attendance Monday, and Ward 5 Councillor Kirsten Hughes was not in the chamber for the vote.

The Planning Board gave a positive recommendation to the ordinance at its meeting on June 13. While the ordinance is applicable to all new bridges, City Solicitor Jim Timmins told the Planning Board the Long Island Bridge would likely be the only proposal of its kind to come before the board in the near future.

Prior to the introduction of Harris' ordinance, the only Quincy board that had a role in the permitting process for the new bridge was the Conservation Commission. Boston and Quincy officials went before the commission earlier this month to state their cases for and against the bridge, respectively, and the matter will be back up for consideration on Aug. 1.

Walsh in January announced his plan to rebuild the bridge, which was razed in 2015, and open a long-term recovery campus on Long Island. His office has said the new bridge will cost $92 million to build and hope to begin the three-year construction process in 2019.

Earlier this month, the council approved an ordinance banning non-passenger vehicles from part of the roadway in Squantum leading to the Long Island Bridge. Vehicles servicing nearby homes and Boston Fire and Police Department vehicles headed to facilities on Moon Island are exempt from the ban. Harris and Mayor Thomas Koch co-sponsored that ordinance.

What Are My Ceremony Options if I Choose Cremation?

Many! While both cremation and burial are forms of disposition, cremation allows for more options when planning a funeral service or ceremony. Many families are unaware of all that is available to them.

Families Have Choices

Most families choose to have ceremonies before cremation including visitation with an open casket and a funeral ceremony in a church or in our facilities. Ceremonial caskets are available to allow one's body to be present prior to cremation.

Many families choose to have cremation first so that the deceased is present in an urn for visitation and a funeral ceremony. While this does not allow for open casket viewing, there are families who may prefer this.

Some people choose more limited options, which may reflect the size of the family or their traditions. These may include a memorial service without visitation, a graveside service, or cremation without any public services at all.

Regardless of a family's choice of ceremonies, there are many ways we can help create truly personal and meaningful experiences. We assist families in making a collage of photos; creating a video; using a loved one's favorite flower or favorite color and other personalized touches.

Whether you choose cremation before or after the ceremonies, our funeral directors are cremation experts who will guide you through the entire process. He or she will discuss the various choices available to balance your family's needs with your loved one's wishes so that everyone may benefit.

Final Disposition is an Important Consideration

Cremation offers many choices for final disposition. Most people are buried in a cemetery or placed in an above ground or indoor columbarium niche so that family members may have a place to visit. Many families choose to scatter the person at sea or another favorite place. Some families may choose several small urns so that each family member may have a keepsake. We even offer a full line of keepsake jewelry to complement the selection of urns.

Cremation is a wonderful choice for many families. Our funeral directors are cremation experts who can help you and your family determine which options are best for your individual needs. No matter what options you choose, our team will help you design personal, creative and meaningful ceremonies that will honor the person who has died and provide comfort to those left behind.

tendance, such as Squantum residents Penny and Earl Rudkin and their three-month old daughter Samantha (Sammi). Penny, a native of Columbia, received her prenatal and postpartum care from Mary Ann Dakkak, MD, who specializes in family medicine and obstetrics and came to Manet as a joint hire with BMC. The fact that Dr. Dakkak speaks fluent Spanish put Penny at ease, as did Dr. Dakkak's assurance that many staff at BMC did as well. Sammi was born at BMC on March 2, 2018 (coincidentally, the same day that Winter Storm Riley hit). "We could not have had a better experience," said Earl. "As first time parents, they taught us everything we needed to know."

A highlight of the evening was the presentation of the Elizabeth A. Swanton Community Service Award to Margaret Laforest, Helen Shiner, Mike Berry, Jr., Merideth Earnest and Jill Hockney, all of Quincy, for their efforts to help their fellow citizens and neighbors during and after the March nor'easter. The Manet Board of Directors presented the award in memory of Elizabeth A. "Betty" Swanton, a former member of the board, who dedicated 30 years of service advancing the Manet mission to provide accessible, quality health care for all. The award recognizes an individual or group living or working in a community served by Manet who, like Betty Swanton, has demonstrated a significant commitment to volunteerism and community service. Speaking on behalf of the Manet Board and the Manet Community Health Foundation, Joe Reardon detailed the heroic exploits of each of the recipients and explained how their selfless acts emulated Betty Swanton's legacy of service. Several members of the Swanton family attended to congratulate the honorees as did past recipient Robert Noble, who re-

RE Report: Inventory Down; Average Sales Price, Volume Up

Mirroring trends seen across the United States, Norfolk County experienced reduced real estate sales for the month of May. Additionally, the reduced number of available housing stock inventory caused buyers to bid up real estate prices for both residential and commercial properties.

"During the month of May, Norfolk County real estate sales totaled 1,631 compared to 1,706 in May 2017," said Register of Deeds William O'Donnell. "These reduced real estate sales figures tell us there is a spirited competition for a limited number of properties. The result is an increase in both average sale price and total sales volume. It's good news for property sellers, but bad news for those trying to buy, especially for first-time homeowners."

The average sales price for May, combining both residential and commercial sales, was $837,777, a 9 percent increase compared to the previous year. Total dollar real estate sales volume increased by 6 percent for the month, coming in at $902 million.

"If we continue to see low real estate inventory levels, there is no reason to believe that higher price increases will not continue," O'Donnell said.

Regarding lending activity, a total of 2,348 mortgages were recorded during May, a 3% decrease from the previous year. However, total mortgage financing for the month was $1.7 billion, a whopping 55% increase year over year. This figure was impacted by a $325 million commercial mortgage taken out against a Holbrook property.

O'Donnell noted another new trend that can be an obstacle for potential homeowners. "We have seen a recent uptick in mortgage rates. It will be interesting to see the impact that it has on the overall lending market, especially if mortgage rates rise above 5 percent."

During May, Norfolk County homeowners continued to take advantage of the Homestead Act. A total of 1,106 Homesteads were filed during the month, a 4 percent decrease compared to the previous May.

"The Homestead Act," O'Donnell noted, "provides limited protection against the forced sale of a homeowner's primary residence to satisfy unsecured debt up to $500,000."

Foreclosure activity for the month of May was a mixed bag. The good news was the number of foreclosure deeds recorded in Norfolk County was 16, a 27% decrease year over year. However, the total number of Notice to Foreclose Mortgage recordings, the first step in the foreclosure process was 67, an increase of 11%.

O'Donnell noted the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds continues to work with Quincy Community Action Programs, 617-479-

8181 x376, and NeighborWorks Southern Mass, 508-587-0950 to help homeowners who have received a Notice to Foreclose Mortgage document. A third option is to contact the Massachusetts Attorney General's Consumer Advocacy and Response Division (CARD) at 617-727-8400.

"We are once again seeing the impact that low inventory has on the overall real estate market. Without an influx of available housing stock, these trends will likely continue," the register said.

The Norfolk County

Registry of Deeds is located at 649 High St. in Dedham. The Registry is a resource for homeowners, title examiners, mortgage lenders, municipalities and others with a need for secure, accurate, accessible land record information. All land record

Residents Express Opposition To QC Condo Proposal

By SCOTT JACKSON

A proposal to build a six-story building with 46 condominiums inside at the corner of McGrath Highway and Spear Street drew the ire of area residents at a public hearing on the plan.

George Lang has proposed constructing the building at 70 Spear St. and 66 McGrath Hwy. The site is zoned Business C and contains 27,740 square feet of land. Lang's plan went before the Planning Board June 13, and the matter will be up for discussion again on Sept. 12.

The one- and two-bedroom units inside the building would range in size from 977 to 1,300 square feet, according to Lang's attorney, Bob Harnais. The project includes a total of 72 parking spaces - 65 in a two-level garage below the condos and six outside.

"The units would be condominiums, not apartments, and the developer expects them to sell quickly.

"Being in planning, one thing we do want is people investing in properties," said Harnais, who is the chairman of the Braintree Planning Board. "We believe they are going to invest in this."

The proposal is a natural extension of the city's effort to redevelop Quincy Center, said Harnais, who expects similar projects in the future for McGrath Highway.

"That's what this whole downtown zoning is about - having the cluster in Quincy Center and slowly drifting out," he said. "That's part of the planning process, and I believe you're probably going to see more going down McGrath Highway."

Residents, however, were concerned at the prospect of such a building coming to their neighborhood. Six people raised concerns about the proposal during the Planning Board hearing.

Bob Lapenna of Spear Street said the traffic and parking in the neighborhood is already bad enough.

"It doesn't make sense to me," he said. "We have enough problems with the street now as it is."

Stephen Holochuck, a Francis Avenue resident, said the project should be scaled down because the neighborhood is at risk of becoming overdeveloped.

"The ordinances were thoughtfully developed over years by the city of Quincy and over and over to keep giving waivers and special permits kind of defeats the purpose and it's really working against the neighborhood," Holochuck said. "I think we have a lot of resentment and concern about it."

Jeff Hynes, an Elm Street resident, spoke against the project for nearly 15 minutes during the public hearing. He said the neighborhood has seen enough development.

"We just want to be left in our houses and live alone. This is our neighborhood... this is our Marina Bay. This is our Adams Street," Hynes said. "Ten years ago we welcomed some development, but enough is enough. Traffic is just crazy."

The residents also said they were concerned no neighborhood meeting had been held prior to the Planning Board hearing. Harnais said the decision not to hold a meeting was not a call his client made.

"It was not our decision to have one or not have one," he said. "It's important for the neighborhood to know we're not trying to sneak this in or anything like that."

Board members said they were concerned about the safety of pedestrians who use a crosswalk on McGrath Highway.

Coleman Barry, the vice chairman of the board, said Lang's proposal would add to the problem no matter how large it winds up being.

"There is a lack of consistency about how drivers respond to people waiting for the crosswalk or being in the crosswalk, and it's scary," Barry said. "Putting aside where this project ends up size-wise, density-wise, no matter what it's going to exacerbate a problem that is at the tipping point for pedestrian safety."

"No one knows how to handle when someone is in the crosswalk and in the center island," board member Maureen Glynn added. "If you're not on your game and paying attention, a tragedy could happen."

Harnais said Lang would work to revise the project to address concerns raised during the meeting before the board considers the project again in September. The developer would be willing to work with city officials to find a solution to the pedestrian safety issue, Harnais said, but the project should not be held up while that process is underway.

"We are limited to what we can address in regard to the traffic," Harnais said. "As this board knows, a developer can't put up a street sign, can't put up a flashing light, can't do anything without the city agreeing."

Quincy High Grads 'Prepared . . . To Better The World'

Highlights From Class Of 2018 Graduations

By TOM GORMAN

Quincy High School Valedictorian Rachel Shen told her classmates of future artists, carpenters, writers, scientists, and teachers that they are ready to take on the world.

"Our class's range of unique perspectives makes our abilities to think, to solve problems, to contribute to each other's lives so much more interesting and allows us to come up with solutions no single mind-set could devise," she said. "There are, however, many things we do have in common. One is that we're all at an important point in our lives, about to or just having entered adulthood, with all of its freedoms and responsibilities. Another is that we are prepared. We will use the skills we learned here to

Shen urged her fellow graduating seniors she uses a "life calendar" – a "simple piece of paper with a grid of boxes, 52 rows by 90 columns" – to serve as a reminder of the limited amount of time to achieve one's goals.

"Each box represents a week in a slightly above average human lifespan," she said. "Every week, a box is checked off. This might sound somewhat unnerving, but it's meant to be inspirational."

"What can you fill the box with this week?" Shen

NQHS Graduates Are 'Beginning The Beginnings'

By TOM GORMAN

As he was giving his address, North Quincy High School Class President Alexander Pham paused and put on his sunglasses.

"Our future is so bright, that I have to put my shades on," he said, looking out to his fellow graduating seniors.

Pham was among the 305 seniors of the Class of 2018 receiving their diplomas during the school's 85th commencement on Tuesday, June 12 at Veterans Stadium. He likened the students' school years to a book.

"Today, we close the book that we have been writing for four years," said Pham. "At first, when we entered the halls of North Quincy High School, the pages of that book were blank. Graduation seemed so far away and we were so much younger and less experienced than we are today. Since that very first day of freshman year, we have filled the pages of our book with so many wonderful memories to reflect on and so many well-deserved accomplishments to celebrate."

Pham noted that the class performed more than 30,000 hours of community service and excelled in athletics and academics.

He paid tribute to his six classmates who are joining the Armed Forces — noting that two seniors, Dylan Malcolm and Casey Maynard, could not attend graduation since they had already reported for basic training in the Marine Corps and Air Force respectively.

Pham said the class has the foundation to head out into the world.

"It's time to put our book away," he said. "It's time to take on the world; because, today is truly the beginning of beginnings. It's time for a second chance. Twelve years ago we started an educational journey that would lead us to where we are today. We learned our golden rules: to treat others the way we would like to be treated.

asked. "What possibilities can you paint in 126 hours? Think of time not as a restriction, but, as an exciting opportunity to learn new things and apply that knowledge to create. As we become adults, there is more and more to do and it feels like there is less time to do it. We accumulate responsibilities to others; jobs, college, caring for our siblings. We also gain opportunities to do things we couldn't before. Sometimes it feels like there are not enough hours in the day, and other times it feels like the day will never end."

While looking to the future, Shen also told the class to take time to reflect on their high school years.

"It can be easy to forget what we've accomplished, our eyes too focused on the future and what we have to do to look back at what we've done," she said. "At times, this can be rather discouraging. But let's look back and realize how much we've done in the last four years. Think about the moments that led you here, those hundreds of hours of hard work that not only earned you this diploma but made you into the person you are today. Four years have gone by so quickly at Quincy High School. And in those four years, we did a lot."

SOON-TO-BE Quincy High School graduates line up for the graduation procession at Veterans Memorial Stadium June 11.

Shen said the future holds unlimited possibilities,

"If we can accomplish so much in only four years, think about what you can do in the next set of four years," she said. "Consider what amazing things we can do over the next ten, the next twenty, the next fifty. Class of 2018, I know you will go forth to do great things."

Added Shen, "All things must come to an end. Our four years here are over, but the impact of these years will last far longer. I look at this crowd and I know that you will be using what we've learned here to create something to share with the world."

Class President Alani Meng said graduation day is filled with mixed emotions.

"Today is for some of us one of the happiest days of our lives and for others the saddest," she said. "I know we have all been counting the days since senior year began. Each milestone of high school has made the journey even more memorable. These years have taught me so much, four years of my life which flew by. It is bittersweet to know that this day is the day we are finally ending our final chapter. We have been students at Quincy High school for 693 days and today is our very last one. We entered the stadium as seniors but we will leave as graduates."

Meng paid tribute to parents, teachers and administrators that carried her through high school.

"My experience at Quincy High was of a fun and safe place, where no matter where you came from, there would always be room for you," she said. "I'm sure you all had teachers like mine, who made high school unforgettable and friends who had your back. On behalf of the senior class, I would like to thank every individual teacher for all you do and for motivating us to do better even if we thought we couldn't."

Meng also gave a nod to the friendships that were made.

"For many of us, we wouldn't have survived high school without our closest friends," she said. "I know for myself that I am so grateful to have many friendships that became extended family during these past few years. These relationships are based off of our success, the road of memories that we will carry with us for the rest of our lives."

Meng told her classmates to be proud of their accomplishments.

"I am so excited about the accomplishments and so proud of the students who are sitting in front of me today," she said. "This graduation ceremony marks the first of many accomplishments of our lives. The diploma we will be receiving today not only symbolizes hard work in the classroom but the overall experience that each and every one of us has made. This diploma is your start to a grateful filling life. Be happy with yourself because this is truly an impressive accomplishment."

Meng said her class will be successful.

"As we go our separate ways, I want to wish you all the best of luck," she said. "Don't ever give up on what you believe in, I am sure you will all succeed in anything you do. If you're willing to stand for what you believe in, you won't need advice from anyone else because you will be able to handle whatever comes."

Principal Lawrence Taglieri said the class bested itself in the arts, athletics and in the classroom, the latter, where students were "shown the way" by teachers.

"Anyone can be shown the way, it's another thing to put mentoring to use," he said.

Taglieri also said that the students viewed challenges as "opportunities for growth."

He noted that the class will be heading off in different directions - college, the military, and the workforce.

"The time has come for your next adventure," Taglieri said.

Mayor Thomas Koch expressed appreciation to parents, faculty, and staff for their support of the students that culminated in graduation night. He told the seniors that graduation night is his favorite to "celebrate your accomplishments."

City Council President and Ward 2 Councilor Brad Croall offered two pieces of advice - "be true to yourself" and work to "overcome adversity."

"Open your minds and hearts to possibilities of not what is, but what can be," he said.

School committee Vice Chairwoman Emily Lebo said that the road to graduation night may have seemed that "it took forever, but you did it, one step at a time."

School Supt. Dr. Richard DeCristofaro told the students that the Class of 2018 has "given the city so much to be proud of."

New Q-NQ Color Guard Debuts At Flag Day Parade

For the first time in twenty-five years Flag Day Parade viewers were treated to a showing of Quincy's brand new combined QHS/NQHS Color Guard.

They marched in front of the combined QHS/NQHS Marching Band, bearing flags in red, white, and blue. Though the Flag Day festivities mark their first appearance, the new color guard will continue to be a feature in the city's future parades.

The QHS/NQHS Color Guard will also be performing next fall at Veterans Memorial Stadium alongside the combined high school marching band in their half-time marching show, which will be themed on the classical work "Pictures at an Exhibition."

We have been equipped with the mental fortitude and the will to succeed."

Pham said there will be roadblocks and hurdles that may seem impossible to overcome.

"But, fear not, because after all, our book tells the story of our past and fore-shadows the promise that our future holds," he said. "No matter what you want to be or what you want to do, I, your commander in chief, want you to do your absolute best in whatever you do. Don't stop until your good is better and your better is best."

Pham said the Class of 2018 is ready for its new chapter.

"Today is our day," he said. "In fact, today is the best day in the world. And, tomorrow will be even better. We are entering the best times of our lives. This is not a final goodbye, but this is the first of many hellos. Hello to new friends, hello to new memories, and hello to new challenges. This is an entrance to a new chapter in our lives, where you guys are the authors - so pick up your pens and pencils to write a story worth living."

Salutatorian Gigi Wong said the class is about to begin an "exciting journey."

"From the beginning of our education, we have been told how influential high school years can be on us," she said. "It creates bonds between many people in ways you can't imagine and motivates us to work our hardest even in the most stressful times. It's a period of immense growth in our lives. There is so much to look forward to and so much to celebrate. The times we've spent at this high school, preparing for this moment, are so bittersweet. I believe that each and every one of us is on the path to achieving great things in life. But this is the last step before we can take off into our new journeys, so I want us to reflect."

Wong urged her classmates to think about how high school has helped "shape you as the individual that you've become today."

"Appreciate those who have been an inspiration to you," she said. "Cherish these memories with the people you value the most, as they have supported you so much along the way. Everything that you've done has led up to this moment. It pains and elates me to say that we are accomplishing a goal that most of us have been waiting for a long time: our high school graduation."

For Co-Valedictorian Aymen Sadaka, graduation means a "ceremonious goodbye to our old selves" and to "reflect on the friendships that were made and the lesson learned" that helped shaped the class as individuals.

"When we entered high school, however long ago, we were anxious about what was to come, and when the last day came, a majority was relieved," he said. "We are all different people from when we started, and today is a recognition of that fact."

Sadaka said graduation marks a unique moment.

"Although this is a goodbye to what we have grown to know, it is also a time to rejoice in the fact of how far we have come and be excited for what is to come," he said. "Right now is a special moment. This is one of the few moments when our past, present, and future intersect. This is a goodbye to our past through the recognition of our present and the welcoming of our future. So even though this is goodbye, it is certainly a time to rejoice."

Co-Valedictorian Frances Papandile offered some advice for her classmates.

"First, think for yourself," she said. "Have your own thoughts and opinions, and don't let others influence you to go against what you really believe, or not to follow through on what you really want to do. Maybe you want to pursue a certain major or have a certain job that your family disapproves of or that your friends disagree with. But, it's better to try and fail than to not try at all. You shouldn't be afraid of whether or not you'll succeed. Worry about never failing. If you don't fail, you won't learn. The things you will regret most in life are the things you didn't do, not the things you did. Take risks and learn from your mistakes. If you cruise through life and you're never uncomfortable, you're not challenging yourself and you're probably missing out on opportunities."

Papandile told the class not to compare themselves to others.

"Focus on your own goals, and compete with yourself," she said. "Strive to better yourself and remember that other people's successes are not your failures."

She also said one's insecurities should not be the driving force to others' expectations.

"Use your inexperience to pave your own path, a path where you don't do things how you think they should be done, but how you want them to be done," she said.

Principal Robert Shaw told the graduates to be "ready for your challenges."

"Your world is about to get a lot bigger," he said. Ward 2 Councillor and City Council President Brad Croall said the students to "not be afraid to fail."

School Committee Vice Chairwoman Emily Lebo said the graduation is about celebrating the students' achievements.

"This graduation is one small step," she said.

Mayor Thomas Koch, a 1981 North Quincy High graduate, urged the seniors to use their talents wisely.

"It's not what you do, it's how you do it, it's not how you live, it's how you love," he said.

Quincy School Supt. Dr. Richard DeCristofaro told the graduates to always be kind and to "believe in your dreams and believe in yourself."

Four NQHS Graduates Receive NQ Alumni Scholarships

Four North Quincy High seniors each received $2,000 NQ Alumni scholarships at the school's annual scholarship awards ceremony Friday, June 8, at the high school.

Twin brothers Christopher and Connor Donaghey were recipients of the NQHS Alumni Football Scholarships, and Jennifer Butka and Jillian Hallisey were recipients of the NQHS Alumni Student Athlete Scholarships. These awards are funded by sponsors and participants in an annual NQHS Football Alumni Golf Tournament. Now celebrating its 24th year, the scholarship program began with a modest $500 scholarship for one college-bound student athlete and has grown to the four $2,000 awards this year.

Christopher Donaghey played football all four years and was elected Co-Captain this year. He also played hockey and lacrosse, and was elected Co-Captain of the hockey team. As a junior, he participated in the Sportsmanship Leadership Summit at Gillette Stadium and is a member of the National Honor Society. He will attend Massachusetts Maritime Academy and plans to major in civil engineering.

Connor Donaghey also played football for four years and was elected co-captain this year. With his twin he also played hockey and lacrosse, and was co-captain of the hockey team. Along with his brother, Connor participated in the Sportsmanship Leadership Summit at Gillette Stadium his junior year and is a member of the National Honor Society. He, too, will attend Massachusetts Maritime Academy and also plans to major in Civil Engineering.

Jen Butka is a National Honor Society member and a three-sport athlete playing basketball, volleyball and Spring track. She is a trained mediator and is a member of SADD. She also volunteers as a youth basketball coach and referee. Butka will be attending Bentley University and plans to major in Business.

Jillian Hallisey is an honor roll student and three-sport athlete playing soccer, basketball and lacrosse. She served as Captain for all three sports. Hallisey also is a dedicated member of SADD, Student Council and Allies. She volunteers her time coaching youth sports and has worked for Quincy Recreation. She will attend Bowling Green State University where she plans on majoring in communications or public relations.

John Magnarelli, tri-captain of the 1966 undefeated and co-state champion NQHS Football team, presented the students with their scholarships. Magnarelli, who refereed high school football for 46 years—retiring after the 2017 North Quincy-Quincy Thanksgiving Day game—is the 2018 honoree of the

Free Youth Football Camp June 23

At Creedon Field, North Quincy High School • No Contact Clinic

Football factions from all corners of the city of Quincy will unite, this Saturday, for a City-wide, Free Youth Football Clinic.

The event will be hosted by the Quincy Youth Football and Cheerleading Association (formerly QYFL) and will unite coaching staffs from the North Quincy Apaches AYF, Quincy Jr. Presidents AYF, North Quincy High School Red Raiders, Quincy High School Presidents and Quincy Militia.

The Free Youth Football Skills Clinic will be held this Saturday, June 23th at the new Creedon Field at North Quincy High School. The clinic will be open to all residents of Quincy, ages 6 to 14 entering grade 1st thru 8th in the fall 2018.

The camp will be double sessions. Check-in will begin at 9 a.m. The morning session will be from 10 a.m. to noon. The afternoon session will be from 1 to 2 p.m.

The camp will be led by newly appointed high school head coaches, Ryan Craig (North Quincy HS) and Kevin Carey (Quincy HS) and their staffs. They will oversee camp staff made up of Quincy Militia, Minor League Football players as well as QYFCA coaches from the North Quincy Apaches and Quincy Jr. Presidents.

The camp will be non-contact and no-pads. All current players are invited to attend and "bring a friend." The QYFCA Board also encourages families that are unsure about football to attend the camp and give it a try without any obligation to join.

Walk-in registrations are welcome but, players are encouraged to pre-register online. Registration Links can be found on the website at www.QYFCA.com.

Teams will also be accepting 2018 Flag Football walk-in registrations as well as information about tackle football and cheerleading registration with American Youth Football and Cheer (AYF/AYC).

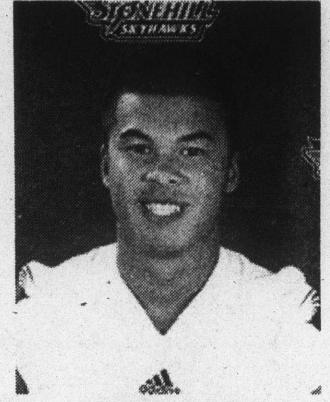

For more information on the clinic or sign-ups, email Sean Halpin at NQApaches@gmail.com.

James Lam Captain Stonehill Football Team

Former Quincy High School student/athlete James Lam was recently named as a captain for the 2018 Stonehill College football team.

Lam, QHS Class of 2015, was an honor-roll student and three-sport athlete at QHS while earning Patriot League MVP honors in both football and basketball. In his senior year, he set a new school record with 35 career touchdown passes for the Presidents.

Lam is slated to be the Proposed Residential Building On Newport Ave. Concerns Neighbors

By SCOTT JACKSON

Area residents voiced their unhappiness with a proposed a four-story, 10-unit residential building on Newport Avenue in Wollaston, saying it is out of character with the surrounding neighborhood.

Developer George Lang's proposal for the building at 365 Newport Ave., near the road's intersection with Beale Street, went before the Planning Board June 13. The proposal is slated to be back before the board Aug. 1.

The building would be located on a 14,800-square-foot parcel of land in a Residential B zoning district. Nine of its 10 units would have two bedrooms while the remaining unit would have one. The project would include seven parking spaces in a garage under the building, and 14 spaces in a parking area behind it.

Bob Harnais, Lang's attorney, said the developer had agreed to reduce the size of the building – from a five-story, 14-unit building to the four-story, 10-unit proposal – following a previous meeting with neighborhood residents. Nine parking spaces were also added after that meeting. In addition, Harnais said a den area proposed for two of the units would be eliminated to allay concerns about those being converted into a third bedroom.

"We're proposing this because we think this is a good project," Harnais said. "We understand the community might have some concerns. We've done our best through neighborhood meetings to address every major concern."

Harnais noted the proposal includes six more spaces than the 15 required under the city's zoning code, and the site is a short distance from Wollaston MBTA station. A four-story apartment building is located next to 365 Newport Ave., he added.

Three residents living near the project site raised concerns about the project during the meeting, citing traffic and parking in the area, as well as the size of the proposed building.

One of those residents, Anita Kutasz of Grandview Avenue, said Harnais had tried to work with the neighborhood, but there was not much he could do to make the project work.

"The area is very, very, very overcrowded," Kutasz said. "I do feel very strongly that Attorney Harnais has tried to work with the neighbors, but with this piece of land there isn't too much you can do to make it work into the neighborhood and still have some kind of semblance of order in the neighborhood."

Peter Waszkiewicz, a Newport Terrace resident, said the proposed building would impact the quality of life for residents on his street and does not fit in with the rest of the neighborhood.

"We love Quincy and we love our neighborhood. We're not opposed to future development that co-exists in harmony with the surrounding neighborhood," Waszkiewicz said. "The proposed building does not fit."

Marsha Roos of Park Street said she agreed with the concerns Kutasz and Waszkiewicz expressed.

"I'm not against development, but I think it should be smart," Roos said.

Coleman Barry, the Planning Board's vice chairman, said he appreciated feedback from the residents. Barry said he felt the building was too big and too boxy, and suggested the developer go back to the drawing board.

"That big box is – to me – not where we want to move on one of the most traveled streets in Quincy – one of the most important corridors in Quincy. I want to be very creative in whatever goes there," Barry said. "I think it needs to be smaller and I think it needs to be more creative in the way it minimizes how big it is when people look at it."

Richard Meade, the board's chairman, concurred with Barry's statement about the look of the building.

"You've got to do something with it, because it's an eyesore," Meade said.

Harnais said he understood the concerns identified at the meeting, and said they would be addressed.

"I understand the concerns," he said. "They are going to address this."

13 Townhouses Proposed For Automotive Repair Shop Site On Garfield Street

By SCOTT JACKSON

A developer has proposed building 13 townhouse units at what is now an automotive repair shop on Garfield Street.

Derrick Fitzgerald has proposed building eight townhouse units at 51 Garfield St., a 16,600-foot-parcel of land, and five units across the road 64 Garfield St., a 14,300-square-foot parcel. West Quincy Motors has called both addresses home for more than 50 years.

The townhouse plan – filed as two separate cases – went before the Planning Board June 13 and will be taken up again at the board's July meeting.

Fitzgerald's attorney, Edward Fleming, said the new townhouses would fit in with the surrounding residential neighborhood. Though West Quincy Motors has operated on site for more than a half century, the parcels are both zoned Residential B.

"This residential use will forever eliminate the non-conforming commercial use in the neighborhood," Fleming said.

Brian Donahue, the project's architect, said each of the 13 townhouse units would have a garage on the ground floor with two floors of living space above. Each has two bedrooms, two-and-a-half bathrooms and between 1,600 and 1,800 square feet of living space.

Space for two cars would be provided in each garage. An additional three guest spots would be located at 51 Garfield St., and two guest spaces would be located at 64 Garfield St.

The parcel of land at 64 Garfield St. includes an undeveloped piece of space with rock outcroppings and trees. Karlis Skulte, the project engineer, said that area of land would remain largely untouched – the developer will clean the area up, add vegetation to delineate the property line and install stairs to provide access to the space.

Residents had a chance to weigh in on the proposal during the Planning Board hearing.

Michael Dlott, who lives next to 51 Garfield St., said he was concerned about the location of a privacy fence the developer plans to install close to the property line. Dlott asked that it be set further back from the line so he could access air-conditioning units on the side of his house.

"That's pretty much my only concern. If this is addressed, I would much rather live next to a residential area than a mechanic shop, as nice as my neighbors are," he said. "I will miss them, but I would like to live next to houses."

Quincy Buddy Ball Finishes Successful Second Season

It's 2 p.m. and a hush falls over the field. Athletes, buddies, and coaches stand in attention as the National Anthem plays at Mitchell/McCoy field in Quincy.

The last note ends and the special athletes shout, "play ball!" Each Sunday in May and June the Red and Blue teams of Bambino Buddy Ball take the field.

In its second successful year, Quincy Bambino Buddy Ball is a program that offers physically and developmentally challenged youth with the opportunity to play the game of baseball. Athletes aged 5 to 16 are paired up with volunteer buddies from Quincy Youth baseball and softball teams to play 3 innings of baseball.

Buddies warm up with the amazing athletes, assist them at bat if needed, run the bases together, shadow them in the field and chat on the bench. Athletes are cheered on by the spectators as they enthusiastically run the bases and make plays in the field.

The quote for this week was from 6-year-old Ronan McGuinness: "I did it Dad, I hit a home run!"

Every game ends with high fives and "nice game!" Then the athletes, all winners, "fly the W" by running around the bases while holding the flag together.

The season runs to June 24th.

Bambino Buddy Ball is sponsored by Quincy Youth Baseball & Softball. To register a player, volunteer or for more information, email QuincyBuddyBall@gmail.com

Squantum Wins Middle School Rec. Basketball Title

Squantum defeated Central in the Middle School Division Championship of the Quincy Recreation Department All-City Basketball Tournament.

In the final game of the single elimination tournament, a meeting of the two highest scoring teams in the field of eight, the balanced Squantum offense overcame a strong Central defense to claim the title of 2018 champion.

Leading the scoring for Squantum was Danny Bellotti, who started the game strong by driving to the hoop and hitting 2 three pointers, finished the game with 11 points total. Not far behind was Brendan Glynn, who finished with 10 points, most coming from second-chance baskets around the hoop. Carson Douglas chipped in with 9 points with a clutch three pointer towards the end of the game.

Paul Glynn, Mike Steele and Cam Douglas showed heart and hustle and contributed to the win with getting loose balls and a number of tough defensive plays throughout the game. Coach and veteran recreation leader Pat Dooley, who was assisted by leader Tim Layden, praised the team's consistent effort and teamwork over the course of the tournament.

For Central, Joe Bates capped off an impressive tournament performance by leading his team in scoring with 12 points to go along with his strong presence on defense. Kofi Fordjour scored 6 points and was going after every loose ball. Patrick Webber was a leader on the court and helped get the offense going. Dylan Clifford and Grant Murphy were both doing great on the rebounding, grabbing every miss shot whenever it was near them.

Coach Emily Rooney was proud of her players for their enthusiasm and sportsmanship throughout the tournament and congratulated Squantum for a well-played championship game.

The All-City Basketball Tournament is a Quincy Recreation tradition that is conducted annually at the conclusion of the winter recreation programs and has been held for more than 50 years. Teams are created from participants in the neighborhood recreation programs from all parts of the city.

Recreation leaders, who were assigned their respective gyms when the program started in November, coach all teams. Participants regularly attend the gyms in their home neighborhoods and are from both public and private schools.

Both teams faced a long road on their way to the championship. In the semi-finals, Squantum, won against a tough Point Webster team 53-27 to advance to the championship behind strong performances by Danny Bellotti and Brendan Glynn, who finished with 17 and 12 points, respectively. For Point Webster, Drew Boretti put on an impressive shooting display, leading his team with 12 points and hitting 4 three pointers.

Eric Lomano showed off his inside game finishing with 9 points, while Shawn Kozlowki, Matt Najjar, Oscar Li and Timmy Phipps each showed leadership and strong defense to help their team. Rookie coach Mallory DeVoe was pleased with her team's attempt and noted that they never gave up.

On the other side of the bracket, Central capitalized on a dominant effort inside by Nate Caldwell, who finished with 19 points, to defeat Atlantic 43-39 and move on to the finals. Atlantic used their strength and size as an advantage, continuously driving to the basket and getting to the line.

Leading scorer Ethan Gao controlled the offense for Atlantic while finishing with 12 points. Eric Guan was everywhere on the court, finishing the game with 10 points. Wilson Huang and Shane Faherty each played strong defensively and made it hard for their opponents to score. Jack Fehan and Issac Li both showed great court vision and passing, while Brian Lee, Matthew Lowe and Sebastian Liang also played tough on the defensive end of the court.

Han Zheng and Oscar Wong helped the cause by showing their rebounding abilities. Coach Joe MacRitchie expressed his pleasure with his player's effort, and is excited about next year's tournament.

In prior tournament action, Central held off a young Snug Harbor team to prevail, 64-33. Central was lead in that game by Dillon Clifford, who was dominant inside and set the pace for his team scoring 12 points. Patrick Webber also showed a lot of energy for his team, contributing 11 points for his team.

Atherton Hough played tough and showed a lot of heart during the game and never gave up. Oscar Castro finished the game as the leading scorer with 18 points. Karief Grant had 2 three pointers of his own and finished the game with 8 points. Thomas May, Taylen Marquez, and Daymain Robinson gave the team energy by their play on the fastbreak.

Raymond Marcial and Kalib Grant helped out on defense and both went after every loose ball near them. First year coach Robbie Hill was very impressed with his team's performance and how positive they were despite the outcome.

In the other first round match-up, Atlantic defeated Sterling in an entertaining game. Wilson Huang put on a show, finishing the game as the leading scorer with 18 points. Ethan Gao hit three long-range baskets of his own and finished with 13 points. Throughout the game, Sterling always played as a team and showed great sportsmanship to their opponents. Taylen led his team in scoring and made 2 three pointers while Joselvis added a three himself. Daymain, Jonoel, and Raymond each contributed solid defensive play and hustle.

In a fun game, Point Webster advanced by beating Merrymount 38-25. Jaycee Ham used his athleticism throughout the game and drove to the hoop and hit his layups leading his team to the win. For Merrymount, Jack Duhn was the team's leading scorer and helped the offense get going for his teammates. Sam Suahn showed energy and made it hard for his opponents to score all game. Chase Gillespie found his teammates on cuts and helped his teammates make baskets with ease. Also, eventual champions Squantum beat Atherton Hough in the first round of the tournament.

Recreation Director Barry Welch presented certificates of achievement to all finalists and trophies to the members of the champion Squantum team. The game was video taped for rebroadcast by the Recreation Department and can be seen on Q.A.T.V.

The department extends its congratulations to all who participated and its gratitude to all staff members who coached, officiated, or otherwise contributed to another successful tournament.

On Friday, June 8, at approximately 12:50 p.m., Officers Timothy Duggan, Paul Matthews and Kent Yee were dispatched to the area of Palmer Street for a male and female involved in a physical altercation.

Quincy Communications stated they received a call from a citizen reporting that a female in a red shirt was being assaulted by a male wearing a gray tank top and white pants. The citizen added the male was pulling the female victim's hair in a violent manner while yelling at her. She said that they were walking in the direction of Germantown.

Upon arrival at the intersection of Palmer Street and Forbush Avenue, the officers located and separated the male and female which resulted in the male instantly becoming agitated, screaming at the female victim. Immediately, the male began professing his innocence, stating he just got out of court for a prior assault case involving the same female victim which occurred on June 18th.

Officer Matthews contacted Quincy Communications via police radio to verify that the citizen actually witnessed the assault on the female victim. Once confirmed, Officer Matthews informed the male that he was going to be placed under arrest for domestic assault and battery. The victim was asked if she needed any medical treatment and/or a restraining order and she declined on both offers.

As the male was led to an awaiting cruiser, he began complaining about chest pains and having a history of medical problems. He then started to faint, and rapidly fell to the ground sustaining a minor cut to his right eye. As a result of the fall, Brewster Ambulance was beckoned to the scene to evaluate the male. Once examined and medically cleared, the male was transported to Quincy Police headquarters for booking.

After being booked and brought to a cell, the male began to physically resist being placed in the cell by Officers Peter Curley and Michael O'Brien. Officers Duggan and Matthews responded to the cell block to get the male into his cell. Once in his cell, the male again began complaining of chest pains and seizures. Brewster Ambulance responded again to evaluate the male and decided to transport him to Quincy Medical Center. A stretcher was brought out and when told to get on the stretcher, the male went into a fighting stance in his cell by lowering his center of gravity and flexing his muscles.

The male warned the officers, "I'm gonna kill you, you punk b@#$%". As a result of all the aggression shown by the male and his refusal to be handcuffed and put on a stretcher, Officer O'Brien deployed pepper spray on the male which quickly changed the situation from adversarial to cooperative. He was then transported to Quincy Medical Center for medical evaluation.

The male, a 31-year-old Quincy resident, was charged with assault and battery on a family member, assault and threats to commit a crime to wit to kill.

MAKING A DONATION TO A NON-PROFIT ORGANIZATION?

Often times, good hearted people make donations to groups, organizations and/or causes, but they are unsure as to which one to give to. Sometimes people elect to give to long standing well known charities while others are pressured into donating by scammers.

A non-profit organization called Charity Navigator (charitynavigator.org) can help you research a charity in many ways. They have lists of charities by cause, such as cancer research or for veterans groups and they will provide online information and ratings of each group. An example of a 4 star rating (top rating) is Alzheimer's Foundation of America while Alzheimer's Association has a 3 star rating and Alzheimer's Services of East Bay has a one star rating. What does this mean? It relates to how much of the monies collected actually go to services versus salaries and associated costs. Charity Navigator also rates their category of "Accountability and Transparency" for each charity, which gives the donor a better idea of where he/she would like to give their money to.

If you do not have access to a computer and wish to make a donation to a charity or cause, you can call me (Lieutenant Dan Minton 617-745-5719) and I will assist you in the review of the particular organization you are considering.

Oil Changes, Fuel Saving Shut-Off, ABS Sensor

Ask John Paul: AAA New England's Car Doctor

I bought a new Chrysler Pacifica hybrid and I really like it. It runs well, gets great mileage and I have to admit with two dogs, I love the built-in shop vacuum. I have owned this vehicle for about a year. My question is about oil changes. The first time the oil light came on the car had about 3,000 miles on it. The second time it came on it had about 9,000 miles on it. What causes the inconsistencies between oil changes?

The oil change intervals are based on engine operating conditions. If the engine is driven on short trips or during very cold or hot weather it is possible the reminder light could come on at 3,000 miles. This would be possible if the car was road tested by many potential customers before you purchased it. Now that you are the sole driver, the oil change reminders are more in line with typical maintenance schedule. One thing that you should never do is go more than 10,000 miles or 12 months between oil changes.

What do you think of the Buick Regal TourX? I saw one at a local dealership and was quite impressed. Do you think this new car is enough to change the stodgy image of Buick and lure in younger buyers?

The new Buick has a classy-contemporary look but also returns somewhat to station wagon look of years gone by. I really like the idea of this car, with its sedan handling/ride and the usefulness of an SUV. I have driven a TourX but have yet to fully evaluate this model, but on paper it looks like a interesting/versatile vehicle.

Summer heat should be here soon, and I have a '32 Ford hotrod and it has had problems with overheating. I know the cooling system is operating as well as it can, and the coolant is mixed at a 50/50 ratio. Is there anything else I can do?

I would go over the cooling system one more time, just to make sure you are getting enough air flow through the radiator and if you haven't, perhaps, add an electric fan. In my opinion the ideal engine temperature would be 195-200 degrees, so it is important to have an accurate engine temperature gauge. A 50/50 mix of engine coolant to water and a 13-15-pound radiator cap should protect the engine from overheating to 250 degrees. I have had many people tell me that they have had good luck with a coolant additive call Purple Ice. Purple Ice is from the Royal Purple oil folks and it is a wetting agent that enhances the cooling properties of coolant mix and even just straight water.

I have a problem with the transmission in my vehicle and now I think there is a problem with the anti-lock brakes and traction control. Occasionally, the transmission shudders a bit. Now I'm getting these other lights coming on. This is an older Trailblazer, so I don't want to put too much money into it. Any thoughts?

At this point a technician with a scan tool needs to spend some time diagnosing the vehicle. My suspicion is all the problems may be related. The most common problem that I have seen (ruling out wiring and rust issues) is a worn wheel bearing. As the wheel bearing wears the ABS sensor doesn't read properly, when that happened the traction control shuts down.

I have a new Ford F150 and I love the truck except for one feature. The truck has a "fuel" saving auto shut-off feature. The shutting off and restarting ruins the overall driving experience. When I went to the dealer and asked about turning this feature off, I was told I couldn't. Is this true?

Unlike many other vehicles Ford doesn't have an override switch for this feature. I did a bit of looking on line and did find a "cheat" to override the idle stop feature. You can purchase a trailing wiring test plug and plug it in to the factory trailer plug. The tester fools the truck's computer into thinking you are towing a trailer which disables the auto-stop feature.

I was changing the oil in my Honda CR-V and noticed the axle boot was ripped open. I went to my local repair shop and they suggested replacing the entire axle. The vehicle seems to operate normally and there is no clicking noises that worn axles make. Do I really need to replace the entire axle?

The constant velocity joint boot protects the constant velocity joint which is the flexible portion of the front axle that connects from the transmission to the wheel. As a general rule, driving a vehicle when the boot has been leaking grease will certainly damage and shorten the life of the C/V joint. There was a time that boot kits were much cheaper than the axle, but over time the cost of complete axles has come way down in price. On my own car I replaced the complete axle rather than just replacing the boot and hoping the joint wasn't damaged. Even though I have been accused of being cheap, but to me it made financial sense to replace the axle.

I recently brought my 2012 Subaru in to the dealer for what I thought was a transmission problem. I went to the dealer because I was told this was a sealed transmission and only the dealer could check it. Come to find out the transmission was fine, and it turned out to be a faulty spark plug. Why does Subaru have a transmission that can't be checked?

Many vehicles today have transmissions without traditional dipsticks, but that doesn't mean that they can't be checked. Checking a transmission without a dipstick just requires more work. In many cases there is a plug on the side of the transmission that needs to be removed to check fluid level. Interesting on your Subaru there actually is a traditional dipstick.

I have a 2012 Buick Lacrosse e-assist with anti-lock brakes (ABS). One of the four ABS sensors have failed and so I get all sorts of warning lights on my dashboard now. The dealer quoted me what sounds like a very high cost to repair the one defective ABS sensor, but I'm wondering if I need to get this work done. The car has 85,000 miles and otherwise my brakes operate fine in day-to-day traffic. Isn't an ABS sensor only going to come into play when I stomp on the brakes? What's the harm if my anti-lock braking system is malfunctioning, given that it is utilized so infrequently, if ever? I'd rather just ignore it and avoid the costly repair. What would you do, if this were your car?

You are correct that the ABS system only works to prevent wheel lock up and skidding. Regarding this safety feature in Massachusetts you can get a vehicle inspected with an ABS light on, in Rhode Island if the ABS light is on the car will fail the state vehicle inspection. If this were my car I would have it repaired. You might find an independent shop using aftermarket parts, helps with the overall cost of the repairs.

I recently took my 2003 Honda to the dealer for a recall service and while I was there the advisor suggested that I replace the timing belt at a cost of $700. Then I took my car to my local shop and they said my car has a timing chain not a belt, now what?

If your Honda has the four-cylinder engine it uses a timing chain and that chain should last the life of the car. If your Honda has a six-cylinder engine it uses a timing belt that should be replaced at 105,000 miles. If your car's engine does use a timing belt, failing to replace it could result in catastrophic engine damage.

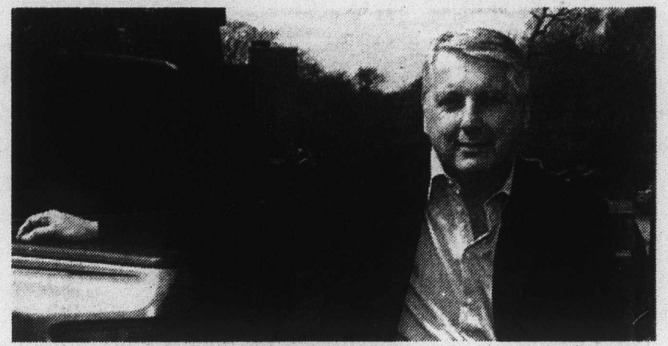

I have been experiencing a vibration on my 2012 Honda Pilot since I purchased it used about 2 years ago. The vibration has started to get just a bit worse and now there is a slight low noise that changes when I take a turn. The tires were replaced about a year ago and the vibration seemed a bit better it never went away. I just recently went to the dealer for the maintenance check up as indicated by the electronic display in the car. During the service the tires were rotated and now the vibration is worse than ever. Do you know of any problems with the 2012 model that I can address with my dealer?

I checked AllData, the technical database that I use and didn't find any bulletins that would address a vibration. Since the vibration changed when the tires were rotated, I would suspect the problem is still related to the tires/wheels. The issue may be lateral runout of the wheels when they are mounted on the vehicle. At this point I would want to see a technician with a dial indicator measure the runout of the tires and wheels. A wheel with a slight amount of runout mounted on a hub with a slight amount of runout could be the cause of the vibration. As little as two-millimeters of lateral runout can cause a vibration, so it is not something that is easily identified by just looking at the vehicle. The noise could be attributed to tire wear or the start of a worn wheel bearing.

I have a 2012 Hyundai Santa Fe that is making a rattling sound that seems to be coming from under the car of the driver's side. It has been in service two times in the past month and both times the shop jacked up the car and looked around but didn't see anything. The vibration and overall feel is getting worse to the point I don't feel comfortable driving this car anymore. Any idea what I should do?

The first place to start is to road test the car with the technician or service advisor so you both hear and feel the same noise. There are plenty of parts that can wear on your vehicle from the coil spring insulators, sway bar links, steering gear intermediate shaft and the lower ball-joints. Some of these parts are easy to check, but I'm wondering if the technician checked the ball joints. If the vehicle was jacked up incorrectly it could mask a badly worn ball-joint.

My wife and I are beginning the car buying process.

JOHN PAUL
AAA's Car Doctor

Our kids are grown, and we have a medium size dog. We would like a small/midsize SUV. Our past car buying experiences include new cars and used cars. Since new cars depreciate so fast we are thinking of an almost new used car that is certified by the manufacturer. What do you think of this idea and what about some of the extras that dealers want the add in like, wheel and tire insurance, GAP insurance and key insurance?

Buying a certified pre-owned car can make sense depending on what is included. I also recently replaced an older car and was looking at CPO vehicles. In my budget the CPO cars did offer some savings but there was little done in the way of checking the car over. Like you I was looking for a small AWD SUV and on this one vehicle one tire was new and the other three were half worn. This vehicle manufacturer recommends replacing all four tires or at least two tires but never just one tire or you risk damaging the all-wheel-drive transfer case. Regarding the add-ons, my suggestion is to shop around. In many cases the dealer makes more profit in the extra insurance than they do with the car. My suggestion is even when buy a late model used car have it inspected by a profession, prior to purchase.

I recently took my car in for a state vehicle inspection here in Massachusetts where I live, and the station removed my Celtics' license plate frame. I have had this frame on my car for the past five years and always got my car's inspection sticker without any issues. When I asked the inspector about this they told me the rules had changed with the new inspection program that started this year. Why didn't we hear about this?

The inspection shop is half right. There is a new inspection system that come into place this year, but the vehicle inspection criteria have not changed. In Massachusetts you can't cover any portion of the words or numbers on the plate. You can use a frame, but it can't obscure any part of the plate including the words Massachusetts and Spirit of America. What has changed is now the inspection facilities are being monitored with cameras and could be fined for performing less than thorough inspections.

I am trying to sell my car - it's a 2011 Honda Civic with only 60,000 miles on it. Overall the car is in good condition and looking online and have the car priced right. Several people have looked at the car, but no one has made a reasonable offer yet-although I am firm on the price. The only thing that anyone can question is there is a little paint damage on the rear bumper. Any suggestions for making this sale happen.

Depending on where you are financially with the car you might want to repair the paint damage to the bumper and then have the car thoroughly detailed. Shiny paint and a clean fresh smelling interior can make a substantial difference. To the best of your ability list any repairs you did to the car. If you have maintenance records for oil changes, this will help show you maintained the car on a regular basis. Although you may be firm on the price, keep in mind that there are costs for keeping the car. Each month the car depreciates due to age and you need to factor in the cost of ongoing insurance. These costs should be considered before you turn down a decent offer.

I have a 2013 Buick Regal and it is burning oil. The car only has 80,000 miles on it. I took it to the dealer and my local repair shop and no one could really find anything wrong. The car is using about 3 quarts of oil every 7,000 miles-the normal rate I change the oil. What do you think I should do? My local garage told me to just add oil, which I have been doing, but is there a better solution?

Adding oil is the cheapest alternative. The problem is most likely the pistons and rings need to be replaced. This was fairly common on my GM products between 2010 to 2013. General Motors did issue a technical service bulletin numbered 13-06-01-003H: titled excessive oil consumption, this is a technical bulletin only and not an extension of the warranty. Since your car is outside of the warranty it would be unlikely that GM would do anything to help with the cost of repairs. Still it couldn't hurt to ask Buick's customer service number is -800-521-7300. I would explain the problem and reference the technical bulletin.

OBITUARIES

Russell F. Steen Leary, 82

A funeral Mass for Russell F. Steen Leary, age 82, of Weymouth, formerly of Quincy, will be celebrated Tuesday, June 26 at 10 a.m. in Holy Trinity Parish at the Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, 227 Sea St., Quincy.

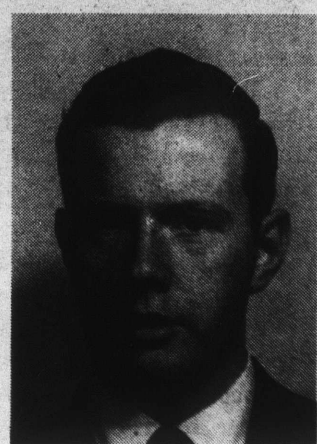

Russell's brother, Rev. Raymond A. Steen will be the celebrant.

Mr. Leary died peacefully June 14 at CareOne of Weymouth, in the comfort of his loving family.

Russell was born in Quincy to the late Raymond F. and Catherine R. (Foley) Steen. He was raised in Charlestown and was a graduate of Saint Francis de Sales Elementary School and Archbishop Williams High School in Braintree. He was also a graduate of Stonehill College. He had lived in Weymouth for fifteen years, previously in Quincy for many years.

He was employed for many years in the security industry. He served as a security consultant for the Honeywell Corporation over twenty years and previously worked for the National Elevator Union in Boston. As a young man, he began his career working for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Russell was a gun collector and a member of the Holbrook Gun Club. He enjoyed music, especially jazz and country western. Most of all, Russell was devoted to his family and friends.

RUSSELL F. STEEN LEARY

Beloved husband for twenty-one years of Ann F. (Duffy) Stark-Leary and twenty-six years of the late Patricia Ann (Fowler) Leary.

Devoted father of Russell F. Leary, Jr. and his wife Karen of Arnold, Missouri, James M. Leary and his wife Lisa of St. Louis, Missouri. Step-father of Laurie Adams and her husband Mark of Weymouth, Linda Abby of Falmouth, Kenneth Stark and his fiancée Janice McAuliffe of Quincy.

Loving grandfather of Evan, Samantha, Alexander, Mark, Amanda, Amy, Christopher, James and Kyle.

Dear brother of Rev.

Quincy Community United Methodist Church Thrift Shop Closing Saturday

Quincy Community United Methodist Church announces its Thrift Shop located on the second floor will close Saturday, June 23rd.

For the past several years, a small group of women from the church community has answered a plea for a fundraising event. Inspired by Yvonne Duncanson, who at the inception of Thrift Shop was the church Lay Leader, people from the church community worked together and converted several Sunday School rooms into a Thrift Shop.

Over the last several years, the Thrift Shop has evolved into something much more than a Thrift Shop. While many items have come and gone, this space has also served as a place of respite, conversation, and fellowship.

As the needs of the church change from year to year, church leaders said they realize that it is time for QCUMC to close the doors of the Thrift Shop. The shop will hold its final sale Saturday, June 23.

The closing day coincides with the church's annual summer yard sale and will be open from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. The church thanks the community for supporting the shop the past few years.

Yard Sale, Book Boutique

Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston, will hold a giant yard sale with a bake-book-boutique Saturday, June 23 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Weather permitting, the sale will be set up on the front and side lawns.

Besides the yard sale, the women of Sigma Phi will also hold their Bake-Book-Boutique.

A hot dog luncheon will be available; weather permitting, the hot dogs will be grilled on the front lawn.

Saturday, June 23 is also the final day for the church Thrift Shop.

The church is handicap accessible.

Peter Johnston To Be Ordained Sunday At Quincy Point Church

On Sunday, June 24, at 3 p.m. Peter Johnston will be ordained into the United Church of Christ at his home church, Quincy Point Congregational Church at 444 Washington St. Quincy.

Peter has served the Quincy Point Church in several capacities over the last several years while earning his Masters in Divinity from Boston University. His theme for this service is "Go Ye Into the World and make disciples of all nations," which is exactly what he has been doing for over 30 years as he worked in Christian ministry in many different capacities. He recently accepted a call to the First Church of Monson, Monson, Massachusetts to serve as their senior pastor.

All are welcome to attend his ordination.

At the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday, the music ministry will be highlighted for all they have given to enhance the worship services throughout the year. The Chancel Choir, Point Hand Bells, and Crossroads, the Praise Band, will all participate in worship.

The Rev. Dr. Stan Duncan, who recently retired as interim pastor from Quincy Point, will offer piano selections.

In a special ceremony, Rachel Hallenbeck will become the minister of Music at Quincy Point during this Music Sunday service. Rachel has been director of Music at Quincy Point for two years.

Houghs Neck Congregational Church

The Sunday morning worship service at Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave. starts at 10 a.m.

Liturgist Nancy Jacobs will welcome and call to worship. Pastor Stephen Vandergrift will lead the service and preach his sermon. Maureen and Joseph Flores will serve for the Diaconate. Steve Reed, minister of Music, will lead the congregation in a hymn sing.

A fellowship coffee hour follows the service hosted by Nancy Jacobs.

Breakfast Dinner Saturday At Sacred Heart Parish

The monthly dinner committee of the Quincy Catholic Collaborative of St. Mary-Sacred Heart-St. Ann Parishes will sponsor a Sunset Breakfast Dinner Saturday, June 23 at 5:30 p.m. in the parish cafeteria at Sacred Heart Parish, 386 Hancock St., North Quincy.

The menu includes pancakes, French toast sticks, mini quiches, hash browns, dessert and more.

The cost is $10 per person, or $25 per family with children 12 and younger. Dinner tickets are necessary and may be obtained by calling Sacred Heart rectory.

Deadline to purchase is Friday, June 22.

For more information contact the parish at 617-328-8666 or visit the collaborative website at www.qcc14.org/dinners.

Beach Service Correction

A story in the June 14th issue of The Quincy Sun erroneously reported that Beach Service Sunday is hosted by Union Congregational Church in Wollaston.

Union Congregational Church is not associated with any beach service led by the Rev. Jack and Rev. Martha Swanson.

The Sun regrets the error.

OBITUARIES

Bartholomew Caggiano, 98

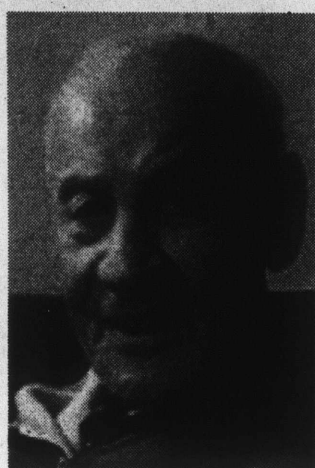

A funeral Mass for Bartholomew "Barney" Caggiano was celebrated June 15 in St. Joseph's Church, Quincy.

Mr. Caggiano died June 8 at the great age of 98.

He was the father of Maryann Francischelli of CT and Philip Caggiano of Quincy, and the proud grandpa of Nicole and Michael Francischelli. Devoted husband to the late Marie (Nota) and brother to the late Louise Serino of Dedham, he was loved by his many nieces, nephews and numerous friends, many of whom have passed.

Mr. Caggiano was the owner of Savin Hill Moving Company of Boston and Quincy. Upon his retirement from the moving business he went to work for the city of Quincy in the Water Department. Mr. Caggiano was always involved in making things better, politics especially. He never ran for office but always helped the other guys win. His opinion was valued by many. He served and helped start the Ward II Civic Association in Quincy. He also was a faithful congregant of St. Joseph's Church for over 70 years and was involved in the Holy Name Society.

He was most proud of

his time in the U.S. Army during WWII serving in Europe. Mr. Caggiano got called up before receiving his high school diploma but earned his GED in 1993 and then again was awarded his high school diploma by the city of Boston in 1999 at nearly 80 years of age.

Interment with Military Honors at New Calvary Cemetery, Boston.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Dennis Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., Quincy

Memorial donations may be made to the Strong House, 546 Durham Rd., Madison, CT 06443, where Mr. Caggiano got to socialize with his peers for the last six months of his living in Connecticut.

Dorothy F. Marini, 91

A funeral Mass for Dorothy F. (Dowd) Marini, age 91, a longtime resident of Quincy, was celebrated June 15 in St. John the Baptist Church, Quincy.

Dianne DeVanna In Memory

January 12, 1967 – September 23, 1978

In the fall of 1978, the Greater South Shore Community was shocked and outraged to learn about the death of Dianne DeVanna, an innocent 11-year-old girl, who was a victim of family violence.

Dianne's kind and gentle ways live on through the hard work and dedication of the Dianne DeVanna Center, a program of Bay State Community Services.

It will be forty years, this fall, that the DeVanna Center has been committed to combating child abuse through prevention, education, and clinical services. Thousands of children and families have been assisted by the DeVanna staff.

We invite you to be part of Dianne's legacy and support the 40th anniversary of the Dianne DeVanna Center's opening as we recognize all of our accomplishments and the work that must continue to keep our children healthy and safe.

Date: Thursday, September 27, 2018

PUBLIC NOTICE

IMPORTANT NOTICE ANNOUNCING THE AVAILABILITY OF AN ADDITIONAL QUINCY HOUSING AUTHORITY SITE BASED SECTION 8 PROJECT BASED VOUCHER PROGRAM (PBV) WAITING LIST OPPORTUNITY.

The Quincy Housing Authority has entered into a contract with Fenno House for 60 units of Project Based Assistance. Fenno House contains 0 and 1 bedroom units, including assisted living units.

The Quincy Housing Authority will now have five (5) developments which have Project-Based Voucher Assistance tied to specific units. These developments offer zero, one and two bedroom units, along with assisted living units. Since the subsidy is tied to the unit and not the family, moves are not permitted during the initial term of the lease.

To be eligible for Project Based Voucher Assistance, applicants must be at least 60 years of age or disabled. The QHA shall give preference to eligible in-place tenants who reside in a Project-Based unit at the time of initial designation.

The Quincy Housing Authority maintains a separate waiting list for the Project Based Voucher Assistance Program. This waiting list is open and will remain open until further notice. You may submit an application to the Quincy Housing Authority's main office at any time. Further, if you have an active application with the Quincy Housing Authority you may apply to this additional PBV list and/or update your preferences at the Quincy Housing Authority's main office.

You may obtain an application by visiting the office of the Authority, 80 Clay Street, Quincy, Massachusetts, you may call 617-847-4350 ext 900 to have an application mailed to you, or you may visit our website at <http://quincyha.phanetwork.com/Home.aspx> to download an application or obtain further information. Brush Fire Torches Pine Island

By SCOTT JACKSON

Fireworks did not cause a brush fire on Pine Island, but the cause of the Saturday night fire remains undetermined.

The large brush fire on the island, which is located inside Black's Creek, was reported around 9:30 p.m. Saturday. The fire was first reported about 30 minutes after the Flag Day fireworks display over Black's Creek began.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Before you adventurous Arians charge right into those new projects, take a little time to learn where you'll be going so you can avoid getting lost before you get there.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Your time is devoted to career demands through much of the week. But Venus, who rules your sign, might be planning how (and with whom) you'll spend your weekend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Don't be put off by the surprising turn in the way your project is developing. You've invested enough time in it to know how to make all the necessary adjustments.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) The work week goes smoothly for the most part. But a weekend visit to a place in your past could hold surprises for your future, especially where romance is involved.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) A sudden attack of shyness for the usually loquacious Lion could be a sign that deep down you're not sure enough about what (or whom) you had planned to talk up in public.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Deal with that job-related problem on-site -- that is, at the workplace. Avoid taking it home, where it can spoil those important personal plans you've made.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) It's a good time to let those favorable comments about your business dealings be known to those in a position to be helpful. Don't hide your light; let it shine.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Avoid added pressure to finish a project on deadline by steering clear of distractions. To put it somewhat poetically: Time for fun -- when your tasks are done.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You might be uneasy about an offer from a longtime colleague. But before you reject it, study it. You might be surprised at what it actually contains.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Deal firmly with a difficult family matter. It's your strength they need right now. You can show your emotions when the situation begins to ease up.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A recent dispute with some co-workers might not have been completely resolved. But other colleagues will be only too happy to offer support of your actions.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Let go of that Piscean pride long enough to allow someone to help you with a surprising development. That could make it easier for you to adjust to the change.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your willingness to open up to possibilities is why people like you are often among our most popular political leaders.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD -- Can it really be that Sesame Street is suing The Muppets? Has the world gone crazy? Sesame Street is suing STX films because of "The Happy Time Murders," which stars Melissa McCarthy, Maya Rudolf and Joel McHale and was directed by Muppets owner Brian Henson, son of Jim Henson (creator of The Muppets). The film follows the murders of 1980s Muppet Show characters being bumped off one by one. STX says, "We loved the idea of working closely with Brian Henson and the Jim Henson Company to tell the story of the active lives of Henson puppets when they're not performing in front of children!" (WHAT?!). They further added, "While we're disappointed Sesame Street doesn't share in the fun, we're confident in our legal position."

Need further proof that the world's gone mad? Roseanne Barr's big mouth has put hundreds of people out of work because of her unnecessary remarks that caused ABC to cancel "Roseanne." Mario Batali's charges of sexual misconduct got him axed from "The Chew," which has been canceled in turn. Batali also was removed from his many eateries in NYC, Los Angeles, Chicago and Boston, including Babbo, Del Posto, Eataly, Esca, Lupa and Osteria Mozza, and all his products have been removed from their shelves. We're talking a small fortune. Now his three restaurants in Las Vegas (two in The Venetian Hotel and one in The Palazzo Hotel) are being closed July 27. This means hundreds of more people have lost their jobs because of celebrity misconduct.

Producers Craig Zadan and Neil Meron, who gave us "The Sound of Music Live" (2013), "Peter Pan Live" (2014), "The Wiz Live" (2015), "Hairspray Live" (2016) and "Jesus Christ Superstar Live in Concert" (2018), are preparing three shows for 2019, "A Few Good Men Live," "Bye, Bye Birdie Live" and the 1968 avant-garde groundbreaking musical "Hair" (Live). The film version of "Hair" (1979) failed because the nude scene, which caused the Broadway show to be raided several times, was omitted. Is TV ready for a nude scene?

"Game of Thrones" star Natalie Dormer will produce and star in a mini-series as Oscar-winner Vivian Leigh, who won for "Gone with the Wind" (1939) and "A Streetcar Named Desire" (1951). Each episode revolves around her films and marriage to legendary actor Laurence Olivier. Dormer soon will be seen in "Patient Zero," with "Doctor Who" star Matt Smith, and in "The Professor and the Madman," with Mel Gibson and Sean Penn. Finally, Disney is disappointed in the early grosses for "Solo," which proves even if you're in "Star Wars," you may not be able to fly "Solo!"

KOVELS' Antiques & Collecting

By Terry and Kim Kovel

Shell-Shaped Watch Holder --- Shell-shaped decorative objects were very popular during the 19th century. There were trinket boxes covered in tiny shells, counter bells made with several mother-of-pearl shells put together into a container, or nautilus shells used as part of cleverly shaped lamps that held a special light bulb. Some large conch shells were kept whole as decorations, often with the addition of a cameo carved into part of the shell. Glassmakers adapted the shell shape to their medium, and during the late 1800s, many "shells" were made of colored glass that was decorated with enamel paint or held in elaborate metal frames.

A shell-shaped cranberry glass watch holder with enameled decorations was auctioned recently. The almost egg-shaped glass was held in a gilt metal frame with leaves, flowers and a bird finial. The unusual piece, probably American, sold for $708 at a Conestoga auction in Pennsylvania. It was lined with padded fabric to protect the watch. A pocket watch kept in a holder on a table near the bed served as a bedroom clock.

Q: My mother gave me a small box, 6 1/2 by 3 3/4 by 1 1/4 inches, with five small dolls inside. Each doll is 3 1/2 inches tall. It says on the top of the box "Best Maid Quintuplets," "No. 63077" and "Made in Japan." Is this of any value?

A: The Dionne quintuplets, Yvonne, Annette, Cecile, Emilie and Marie, were born in Canada on May 28, 1934. They were the first quintuplets to survive infancy. When they were four months old, they became wards of the Canadian government and were put under the guardianship of Dr. Dafoe, the doctor who delivered them. The girls lived in the Dafoe nursery, where they became a major tourist attraction. They returned to live with their family in 1943. Thousands of special dolls and souvenirs were made picturing the quintts at different ages. Annette and Cecile are still alive. The value of your dolls is about $20.

CURRENT PRICES

Calendar, 1941, Bensing Bros. and Denney, pin-up girl, bathing beauty, brunette in black swimsuit, cardboard litho, Earl Moran, 10 x 5 inches, $15.

Serving dish, dachshund dog shape, 2 hot dog trays with "mustard and relish" condiment sections, 1950s, 7 x 10 inches, set of 3, $60. Eye exam chart, wooden plaque, two-sided, black metal frame, E.B. Meyrowitz Surgical Instruments Co., 1935, 8 x 6 inches, $375.

Patio chair, flying saucer-shaped, rattan sphere on iron frame, flared legs, vinyl seat cushions, Ritts Tropitan, c. 1945, 30 x 28 inches, pair, $1,350.

TIP: Decorators say you should think in threes. Accessories on a table look best when grouped in odd numbers.

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was noted 20th-century American novelist, short story writer and journalist Ernest Hemingway who made the following sage observation: "When you stop doing things for fun you might as well be dead."

* You might be surprised to learn that the largest irrigated crop in the United States isn't soybeans, wheat or even corn; it's grass -- mostly in lawns, parks and golf courses.

* The next time you see a shampoo commercial and note how creamy and frothy the lather seems to be, keep this in mind: The model in the advertisement probably has either laundry detergent or frothed egg whites on her hair.

* You may be among those people who think good deeds and selfless acts are on the decline. If so, consider this story: In 2010, an employee at a recycling company came across 23 U.S. savings bonds while sorting through a bin of discarded papers. Instead of trying to cash the $22,000 worth of bonds himself, Mike Rodgers decided to track down the owner. It turned out that the woman who had bought the bonds, Martha Dobbins, had been dead for almost two decades. Rodgers didn't give up, though; he began a search for Robert Roberts, who was also named on the bonds. Though the name is common and Rodgers hit many dead ends, he eventually located the correct Robert Roberts, the son of Martha Dobbins. Roberts hadn't even been aware of the bonds' existence. Rodgers, his good deed finally being done, refused a reward.

* Ever wonder what the opposite of reverse is? It's obverse -- the front or principal part of an object. On a coin, for instance, the obverse is "heads" and the reverse is "tails."

Thought for the Day: "The secret of life is to appreciate the pleasure of being terribly, terribly deceived." -- Oscar Wilde

Now here's a tip!

by Jo Ann Derson

* Use a tie hanger to organize tank tops in your closet.

* "Use a brightly colored nail polish to make a mark or your initials on the bottom of play cars so that you can tell which ones are your child's and which are not. Trust me when I say that this will save your child many arguments." -- W.L. in Montana

* If indigestion strikes while you are out, it's mustard to the rescue. You usually can find a convenience store, deli or restaurant with a mustard packet. It helps to calm the heartburn well -- you just eat it.

* "I had an old tablecloth that started getting tatty on the edges. It was a nice vinyl one with a flannel back. I ended up cutting it into two aprons for myself and my grandbaby. We love to do messy crafts together, and now we have matching aprons to keep our clothes clean." -- T.K. in Georgia

* Speaking of tablecloths, here's a great picnic tip: If the wind is kicking up, send the kids out to find four smallish rocks or fill four sandwich baggies partway with dirt. Set one at each corner and wrap the tablecloth around it, securing with an elastic hair tie. When these weighted corners dangle off the edges of the table, it keeps the tablecloth in place in all but the stiffest of winds.

* "Birthday candles can be held in place with Lifesaver candies. They are the perfect size for your standard candles, and kids really like them. Also, for adults, they will catch any excess wax that drips. Especially if you have a lot of candles on your cake, like mine!" -- U.D. in Tennessee

Council Passes $310.71M Budget

FY Spending Plan Includes More Funding For Schools, Hiring Of Full-Time Emergency Management Director

By SCOTT JACKSON

The City Council approved a $310.71 million budget for the fiscal year that starts July 1. The spending plan provides a $3.2 increase in money towards Quincy Public Schools and allows for the hiring of several new positions, including a full-time director of emergency management.

The council approved the budget, and several other spending measures, on June 18, the body's final meeting before recessing for the summer. The council will reconvene on Sept. 17, barring any emergency meetings.

Memorial Square Dedicated To Marine Wednesday

By SCOTT JACKSON

A square in Wollaston was dedicated Wednesday to a Marine Corps aviator who was killed in a training exercise more than 60 years ago.

The square, at the corner of Fenno Street and Estabrook Road, was dedicated at 11 a.m. in memory of Henry Roy Worth Jr., a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps. Worth grew up near that square, according to George Nicholson, Quincy's director of veterans services.

Nicholson said Worth had planned on making a career out of being an aviator in the Marine Corps. Worth, however, was killed in a training exercise in Hawaii in April 1955.

Worth's sister Judy O'Connor, a resident of Fort Myers, Fla., was expected to attend the dedication Wednesday, along with several of his nieces and nephews.

Chuck Phelan Retiring July 31

Chief Information Officer Ending 24 Years Of Service With City

By SCOTT JACKSON

Chuck Phelan, Quincy's chief information officer and a former Ward 5 city councillor, will retire July 31, ending his 24 years of service with the city.

Phelan, who turns 61 on July 20, represented Ward 5 on the City Council from 1988 to 1996, including two years as council president. He has served two stints as Quincy's chief information officer, the first from 1997 to 2002 and the second beginning in 2008. He also held similar positions with the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office and the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds.

"I went to work for the city in 1988, I'm in my 60s and I'm just in good health. It's something I've thought about for a long time," Phelan said recently of his upcoming retirement. "My father retired in his 50s and my uncles all retired in their 50s and they went on to long lives afterwards."

"It's a good time in my life."

As Quincy's chief information officer, Phelan oversees 15 employees in the Information Technology Department. The department manages communications systems citywide as well as the city and schools' wide-area and local-area networks, and provides help desk support to 2,000 municipal employees.

"We do all the communications. Everything today is networking. Even to the police radios there is a network that we maintain," Phelan said.

"We have fiber going to every school building. We run the wide area network - we get the internet for the schools and for the city. They have their own IT department that does their own nuts and bolts in the classroom, but we do the wide area network for them and we do the web filtering and all that."

"We also do the city. Any software or hardware has to go through us. All the internet, emails has to go through us. We maintain two data centers for the city - one is a public safety one and one is the city."

Phelan is also involved in building projects, such as the ongoing construction of the new Sterling Middle School and the planning for a public safety headquarters.

"One of the things in my job is I oversee the building to make sure the proper wiring, wireless, is in the building," he said. "Whenever we do new buildings - like, for example, the new police headquarters or Sterling Middle School - we're very much involved with those, because what you do when you're building means a lot when the building is up. If you put the right stuff in, you won't have as much problems."

Technology has changed rapidly over the last decade,

Phelan said. His department is now working to finalize switching all city buildings to a voice over internet protocol system, and the department is also implementing a new email system citywide.

Phelan said the biggest change he's seen has been the use of smartphones and tablets by various city employees when they are out in the field.

"There have been a lot of changes. When I came here in '08, everyone was using BlackBerries. Now it's all

Janet Loftus New Beechwood School Principal

Janet Loftus has been appointed the new principal of the Beechwood Knoll Elementary School, announces Supt. Richard DeCristofaro.

Loftus succeeds Diane O'Keeffe who has retired as principal at Beechwood after serving for 14 years.

In a letter announcing the appointment to school staff and families, DeCristofaro said:

"Janet brings 14 years of Quincy Public Schools experience to this new position, most recently as assistant principal of the Lincoln Hancock Community School for the last five years. In addition, Janet was the coordinator for Extended Education programs for all elementary schools this past school year.

"Prior to becoming assistant principal, Janet taught English language arts, science, social studies and reading at Point Webster Middle School for nine years, as well as coordinating after school programming there for many of those years. Janet has a bachelor of arts from Assumption College, a master's in education from the University of Massachusetts at Boston, and a certificate of graduate studies in school administration from American International College.

"Janet's collaboration with Principal Ruth Witmar and the Lincoln Hancock staff on the school-wide Reset initiative led to impressive gains in student achievement and I look forward to Janet's collaboration with the Beechwood Knoll staff in sustaining and expanding student achievement there.

"Janet will assume her new role as principal of Beechwood Knoll on July 1, and will be there to coordinate the custodial staff summer maintenance and the MSBA window and door replacement project to ensure that Beechwood Knoll will be ready for staff and students to return in September," DeCristofaro said.

School officials expect to appoint a new assistant principal at the Lincoln Hancock School prior to the start of school in September.

Sunrise Scavenger Suing City, New Trash Collector

For Breach Of Contract After City Terminated Sunrise Pact

By SCOTT JACKSON

Sunrise Scavenger is hauling Quincy into court for breach of contract after the city terminated its trash and recycling removal contract with the company halfway through a ten-year deal.

Sunrise Scavenger is also suing Quincy's new contractor, Capitol Waste Services, for tortious interference and a violation of the Massachusetts consumer protection law.

Mayor Thomas Koch on May 30 had notified Sunrise Scavenger the city would terminate its 10-year pact with the company, which had five years remaining on it, June 30. The cost Quincy pays for trash removal will increase under the new deal with Capitol. Quincy paid Sunrise $3.9 million in the

A BEAUTY IN ITS OWN RIGHT

It may interest those born in the month of July to know that their birthstone, the ruby, is identical in chemical composition to sapphire. While both are varieties of the mineral corundum, ruby is differentiated by its red color. Sapphire comes in a variety of colors, including the preferred "cornflower blue." However, ruby (red sapphire) is never identified as a form of sapphire. Instead, it has always been classified as an individual gemstone. Aside from its fabled red color, ruby is second only to diamond in terms of hardness, and transparent rubies in larger sizes are rarer than diamonds. These stellar characteristics and attributes contribute to making ruby among the most valuable gemstones in the world.

Who could dispute the allure of the mesmerizing ruby? Once thought to ensure a peaceful life, ruby could protect any place that housed it from theft, and home and garden would be unharmed by storms. While we make no guarantees for the mystical properties of ruby, we do believe it has the ability to captivate. Come see Rogers Jewelry selection of this gemstone that was once reserved only for wearing by kings. You'll make that special person in your life feel like royalty when you shop or custom design jewelry with us at 1402 Hancock St. in Quincy Center. PH: 617-773-3636. Should you go back to a 30-year mortgage?

People are thinking about mortgages differently. Right now we're seeing borrowers who went with shorter terms going back to a 30-year loan. Some are tapping their equity for home improvements, college tuition or to consolidate other debt at a locked-in guaranteed low rate. Others just want a more comfortable monthly payment, less stress and more cash flow. It works because mortgage rates are still so low. And if you want, you can always pay the new 30-year loan off more aggressively, but you don't have to. Would a new 30-year mortgage make sense for you? Come see us or call VP/Retail Lending Angela Blanchard at 617-471-0750 or apply online at colonialfed.com. Colonial Federal, a bank with ideas.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On July 15, 1606, Dutch master Rembrandt van Rijn is born in Leiden, the son of a miller. His humble origins may help account for the uncommon depth of compassion given to the human subjects of his art.

• On July 11, 1916, President Woodrow Wilson signs the Federal Aid Road Act. Since the mid-19th century, the building and maintenance of roads had been seen as a state and local responsibility.

• On July 13, 1930, France defeats Mexico 4-1 and the United States defeats Belgium 3-0 in the first-ever World Cup soccer matches, played simultaneously in host city Montevideo, Uruguay. The World Cup has since become the world's most watched sporting event.

• On July 9, 1947, in a ceremony at the Pentagon, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower appoints Florence Blanchfield a lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army, making her the first woman in U.S. history to hold permanent military rank.

• On July 14, 1968, Atlanta Braves slugger Henry "Hank" Aaron hits the 500th home run of his career. Aaron retired in 1976 as the all-time leader in runs batted in, extra base hits and total bases. He was named to the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1982.

• On July 12, 1984, Walter Mondale, Democratic presidential candidate, announces his choice of Rep. Geraldine Ferraro of New York as his running mate, the first woman nominated by a major party for the vice presidency.

• On July 10, 1992, the Alaska court of appeals overturns the conviction of Joseph Hazelwood, the former captain of the oil tanker Exxon Valdez. Hazelwood, who was found guilty of negligence for the massive oil spill in Prince William Sound in 1989, argued that he was entitled to immunity because he had reported the oil spill 20 minutes after the ship ran aground.

Cemetery Board: Remove Items From Gravesites

Planted Flowers Exception

The Quincy Cemetery Board of Managers requests the removal of all items from gravesites at the City of Quincy cemeteries by June 30.

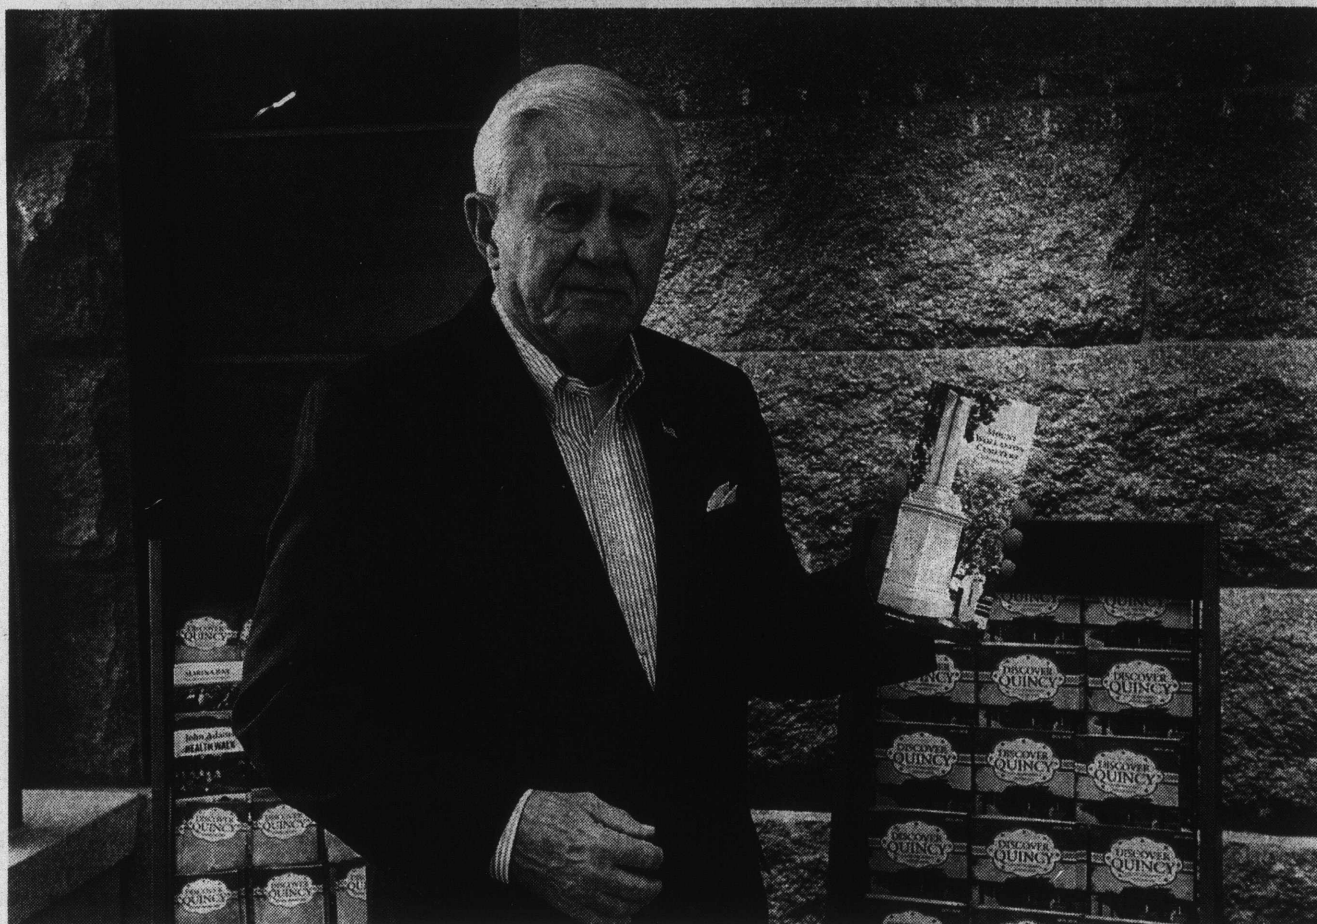

The only exception will be planted flowers. This will ensure that city cemeteries will be properly maintained and safe for municipal employees and visitors.

Remembering Tom Galvin

TOM GALVIN holds a new Mount Wollaston Cemetery walking tour pamphlet published in 2016 inside the foyer of the James R. McIntyre Government Center (old City Hall.) Mr. Galvin researched and compiled the information for the pamphlet that highlights more than 30 monuments and gravesites at the cemetery that he often called "an outdoor museum." For more than a dozen years Mr. Galvin, the city's historian, also led walking tours of the cemetery. He is well-known by Quincy Sun readers for his "Scenes from Yesterday" postcard series that debuted more than 24 years ago on Jan. 27, 1994 and quickly became one of the newspaper's most popular features. Mr. Galvin died June 22. He was 79.

Tom Galvin was more than Quincy's historian.

He was an ambassador for the city's rich heritage.

From the heydays at the once bustling granite quarries to the business, civic and political leaders buried at Mount Wollaston Cemetery, Tom knew the city like no one else.

And, for more than 24 years, Tom shared his local knowledge with Quincy Sun readers with his pictorial feature, "Scenes from Yesterday." The feature showcased his extensive collection of postcards depicting city and neighborhood landmarks from years gone by. It quickly became one of the newspaper's most popular features.

We were saddened by Tom's passing June 22. He was a kind man and dedicated contributor who shared his postcard collection with Sun readers for some 1,270 weeks, according to our calculations.

That's a lot of postcards – and research to explain the background and significance of each scene. We are very appreciative that he kept the feature going all these years.

His first postcard appeared in the Jan. 27, 1994 issue of The Quincy Sun. It was a scene of Quincy Center in 1923. We are running his debut postcard again this week (Page 1) – along with some others – in tribute to Tom. Most of his postcards appeared in black and white over the years but some were printed in color. The postcards we are running this week are all in color – as they originally appeared when created many years ago – with the exception of one that became a tradition: the giant Christmas tree in Quincy Center from 1934.

With that first postcard ran a small story explaining this new feature. Readers were informed that Tom's postcards dated back to 1898 to the 1930s. He had more than 600 Quincy postcards in his collection back then. And being an avid collector the number must have increased since the mid 1990s.

At the height of their popularity, Tom said postcards could be mailed for a penny each. "And in those days there were two mail deliveries a day. You could mail one in Quincy in the morning and it would be delivered by afternoon," he recalled.

Some of the cards – though scenes of Quincy – were printed in Germany from 1900 up to the start of World War I.

"Postcards were at their popularity peak from the turn of the century to the 1930s," Tom said in the debut feature. "But then came the affordable camera and the automobile and people could take their own photos wherever they go."

"Scenes from Yesterday" gave older, grass-roots residents a trip down memory lane every week. For new and younger residents it offered a glimpse of what Quincy was like in "the good old days."

For Tom, his postcard feature was a labor of love. A walking encyclopedia of local history, Tom spent hours researching the subject of his postcards before submitting them to The Quincy Sun for publication. The process for submitting the postcards was like clockwork: every 10 weeks he stopped by the front counter at The Sun office with a fresh batch of postcards. He would retrieve the ones that had run in the previous weeks while dropping off that new set of 10 – each encased in plastic to protect them.

In every issue since Jan. 27, 1994, one of Tom's postcards took its familiar spot at the top of Page 5. Some of his postcards also appeared in our annual Historic Quincy supplement. And not one postcard was ever misplaced – all found their way back safely to Tom and his collection.

How do we know his postcards were so popular?

Back in the day before email, readers would frequently call us for Tom's contact information. They wanted to know more about the scene in that week's issue or in some cases wanted a copy of his postcard. In subsequent years the calls faded when Tom included his email address in the caption information. He also received numerous letters addressed to him but mailed to the Sun office.

One of his most popular postcards was the scene showing an 85-foot Christmas Tree in front of the Granite Trust Building in Quincy Center in 1934. It appeared on a regular basis in the Sun's holiday issue in late December.

Tom Galvin was synonymous with more than just postcards. He was also well known for his walking tours at Mount Wollaston Cemetery that he conducted in the spring and fall for more than a dozen years. During these tours, Tom shared his knowledge of the city's granite industry while spotlighting the monuments of some of Quincy's business, community and political leaders interred there.

Tom considered Mount Wollaston Cemetery an outdoor museum. He focused on Quincy's granite industry because it was one of his favorite subjects.

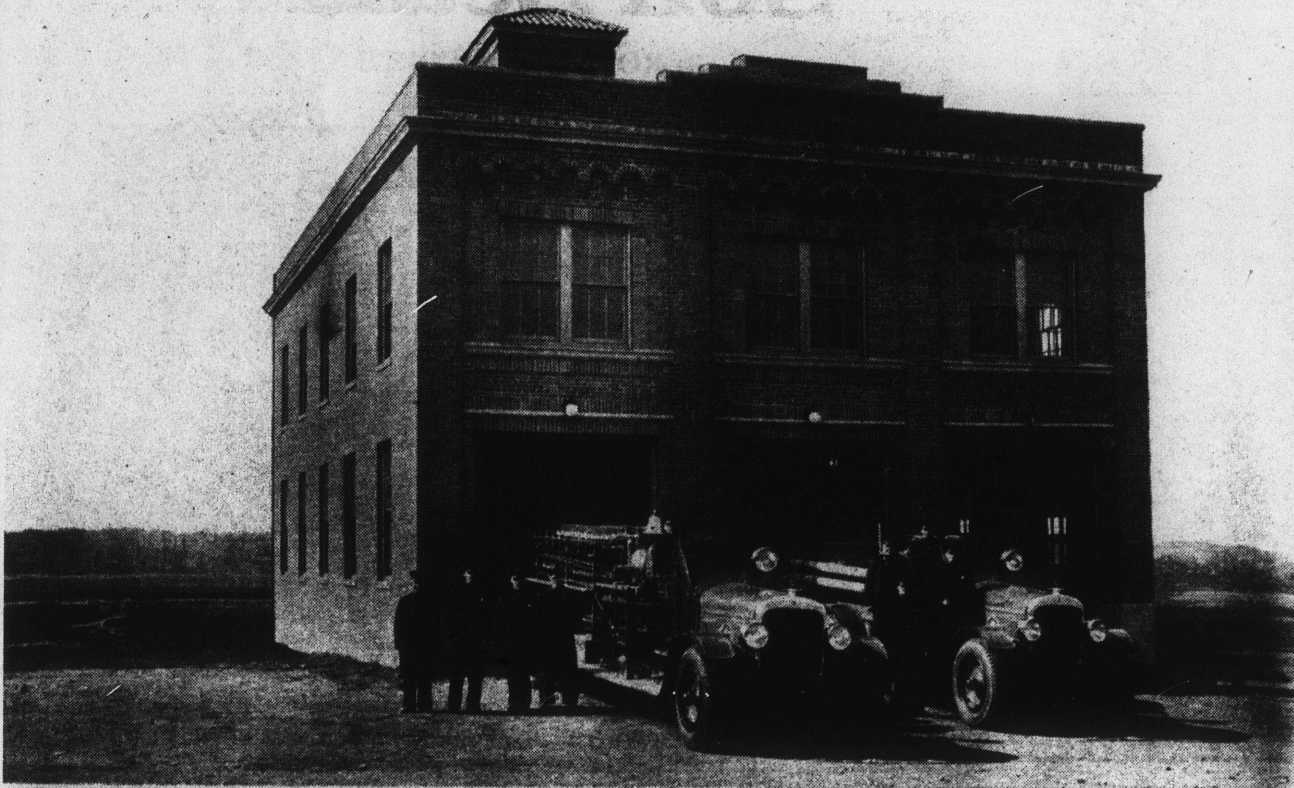

"I love the Quincy granite. You watch the Red Sox – I love Quincy granite," he told me in an interview after I took part in one of his tours in May of 2013. "It's just one of those things. I have lots of samples and a lot of Quincy granite at home."

The tours, he explained, were his contribution as the city historian.

"People have offered me money after taking the tour but I refuse. I don't do this for the money. I do it for the fun."

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1927 postcard view of the old Atlantic fire station when it was first built at 311 Hancock Street across from North Quincy High School. This modern fully-equipped building was set upon pilings driven into the edge of what was known then as the Montclair marshes seen in the background. This was the second Atlantic station; the first was on Newbury Avenue and is now used by the Caddy Marine Corps League. Because of the rapid growth of this part of the city at the time, the City Council had approved 10 additional firemen, two new fire engines and a new firehouse for this district. Shown here on opening day were the new Seagrave ladder truck on the left and a new Seagrave pumping engine on the right, along with the men who were stationed here. Over time, unnoticed by anyone, the building's pilings had shifted in the marshes' peat. In 1961, after a routine inspection, it was unexpectedly determined that the building was in danger of immediate collapse. It was quickly abandoned and later demolished. The present station was built on the same site in 1963.

Tot Time Tuesday DCR Playground At Wollaston Beach

A cooperative program with Discover Quincy, QCAP Family Network, the Thomas Crane Library and the Quincy Recreation Staff will host "Tot Time Tuesday."

"Tot Time Tuesday" is for children in pre-kindergarten and their parents at the DCR playground on the corner of Quincy Shore Drive and Sachem Street adjacent to the Wollaston Beach Bath House.

The program will feature free play, story time and simple games and arts and crafts and special events.

The first two weeks will have a professional story teller and the Crane Library staff will read the rest of the summer. Parent socialization and networking is also a goal of the program.

This free program will run Tuesdays through July

31st from 10 a.m. to noon. The weekly reading activity will take place at 10:30 a.m. There will be no program in the event of inclement weather. The story telling will be held at one of the city libraries.

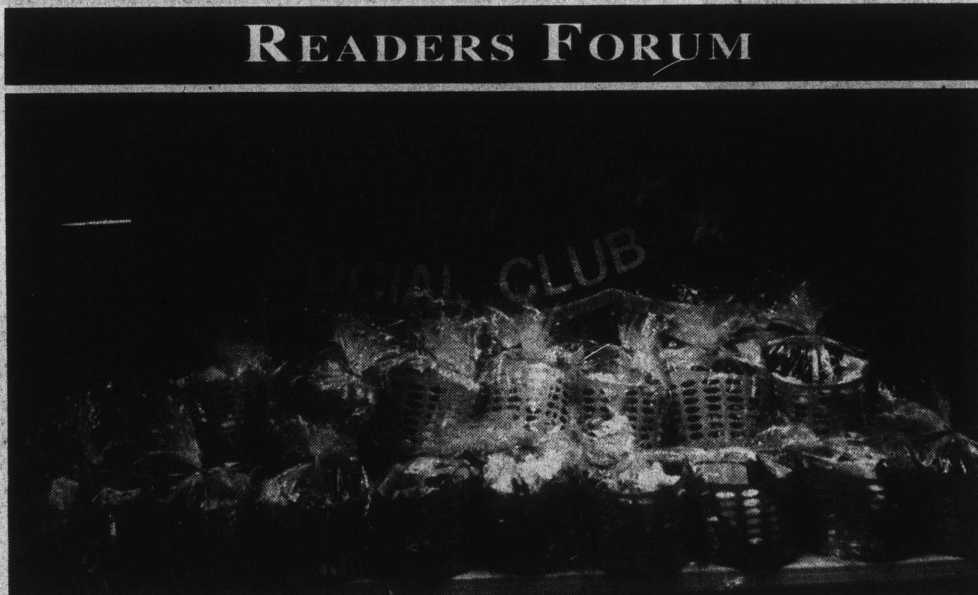

Thank You From South Quincy Social Club

On behalf of the South Quincy Social Club, I would like to thank everyone that donated and helped with our toiletry drive for homeless teens at Quincy Public Schools.

Thanks to the generosity of the local community and businesses, we were able to collect enough toiletries to create 52 baskets of shampoos, soaps, toothpastes, and other items needed by these teens - over twice as many as last year - and even had enough left over after creating the baskets to donate an additional 14 boxes of toiletries to the program.

According to Leslie Bridson, coordinator for the Quincy Public Schools program, the need for supplies was substantial during this past school year, more so than in previous years, with a number of homeless, unaccompanied, and at-risk high school students being identified. These students may be living in shelters or on their own without the support of a parent or guardian. If you have any additional donations or would like to help, contact Leslie at 617-376-1197 or at lesliebridson@quincypublicschools.com.

Additionally, we would like to thank the Quincy Sun for helping to publicize our drive and accepting dropped-off donations. Thanks to Cagney's Restaurant & Pub for accepting donations as well.

American Forces Ordered To Aid Of South Korea

President Harry Truman today ordered United States planes and warships to the aid of South Korean forces. He laid down a policy of standing firm against Communist aggression in the far Pacific.

As part of the broader policy, Truman directed that the U.S. Seventh Fleet be prepared to prevent any Communist attack on Formosa, the island refuge of the Chinese Nationalistic government.

It was learned that President Truman's historic decisions were reached at a high policy meeting at the White House.

AIRPLANE CRASH OFF OKINAWA KILLS LT. WALTER DELLA CHIESA

First Lt. Walter A. Della Chiesa, only son of City Councillor Amelio Della Chiesa and Mrs. Della Chiesa, was killed Sunday, June 25 off the Pacific island of Okinawa when his aircraft crashed into the sea.

Lt. Della Chiesa's death occurred on the day that North Korea forces invaded South Korea. Lt. Della Chiesa was married to the former Jane H. Buckner of Braintree. The couple was married in June 1948 shortly after his graduation from West Point as the 12th highest graduate in his class.

Quincy Lions Club Evening For Sight Fundraiser

The Quincy Lions Club hosted its annual Evening for Sight event June 12 at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy. Over 100 guests attended the club's annual fundraiser.

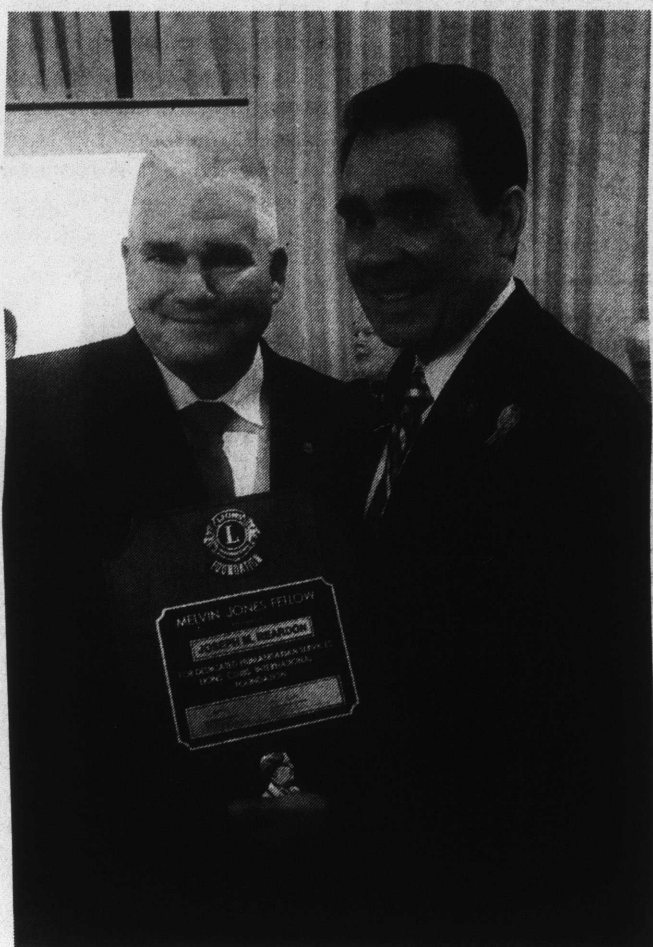

The Francis X McCauley Community Service Award, named in honor of the former Quincy Mayor and 58-year member of the Quincy Lions Club, was presented to Mark, Isobel and Jeff Bertman in recognition of their many years of outstanding commitment to the Quincy Community. Owners of Rogers Jewelry since 1960, Mark and Isobel have tirelessly supported Quincy through their volunteerism and philanthropic endeavors.

The Evening for Sight celebrated the club's 77th anniversary of service to the community of Quincy and afforded the club the opportunity to present Stop & Shop the Community Champion Award in recognition of their volunteerism and support of the Quincy Lions Club.

Former Club president Joseph Reardon was recognized as a Melvin Jones Fellow for his exemplary service and dedication to the Quincy Lions Club, community and to Lions overall. This Fellowship Award is the highest form of recognition a club may bestow to a member, and embodies humanitarian ideas consistent with the nature and purpose of Lionism.

Club President Joseph Doyle presented Immediate Past President Amy Huber with the club's Lion of the Year award.

Sponsors for this year's event include Eastern Bank, Rural Lodge of Masons A.F. & A.M., Tiles by Perfection, Rotary Club of Quincy, Rogers Jewelry, The Honorable Mayor Thomas P. Koch, Equitable Bank, NorthEast

Local Organizations Receive $13,000 In Beach Program Grants

Save the Harbor/Save the Bay and the Department of Conservation and Recreation (DCR) recently awarded $13,000 in small grants to Quincy community organizations that will support free summer beach events throughout Quincy as part of Save the Harbor's annual Better Beaches Program.

Grantees include Quincycles, Discover Quincy/Quincy Chamber of Commerce and the Friends of Wollaston Beach who will host events such as Ride the Beaches of Quincy, the 12th Annual Kids' Fest, Movie Mondays, Tot Lot Tuesdays, Wolly Beach Wednesdays, and Harbor Tours.

This year's Better Beaches Program grants will support free concerts and kayaking, family beach festivals and movie nights, youth beach parties, songs and stories by the sea, and art on the shore in the region's beachfront communities of Lynn, Nahant, Revere, Winthrop, East Boston, South Boston, Dorchester, Quincy and Hull, bringing more than 1 million people back to the beach.

"One of the best ways to 'Save the Harbor' is to 'Share the Harbor' with the region's kids and families," said Bruce Berman, Director of Strategy & Communications at Save the Harbor/

Save the Bay. "These events create excitement and new stewards for our region's public beaches, who understand the value of these extraordinary urban natural resources to all of us and our communities."

Life's A Beach Festivals:

- Saturday June 30 - Discover Quincy and Friends of Wollaston Beach 12th Annual Kids Festival at Wollaston Beach

- July 14 - Winthrop Chamber of Commerce Family Fun Day at Yirrell Beach

Children's Events, Activities At Crane Library

By JULIE RINES
Thomas Crane
Public Library

The Thomas Crane Public Library announces the following events and activities for children.

Online Summer Reading Challenge

This summer from July 1st through Aug. 31st track your reading on your computer, phone or other mobile device with our new summer reading program. Sign up, log books, and complete activities. As you add books and complete activities you will earn online badges and points toward our end of summer raffle.

We'll have a drawing for the raffle prizes the first week in September. We have two programs one for babies and young children up to age 6 and the other for ages 7-13. Teens are invited to join our teen summer reading program.

Looking for some good books to read? When you sign up for the online summer reading program you will begin receiving weekly emails with book suggestions. Parents of younger children will also receive an early literacy tip to extend your reading experience for older children these suggestions are a great way to find new books and authors to try.

The following are Children's Library programs for July 1-July 6.

Summer Library Quests

All month long beginning July 1st

All ages, little ones will need an adult's help

This summer, turn a walk around the library into a scavenger hunt. In the Children's room at the Main Library or at the North Quincy Branch, children can follow directions to hunt for letter clues to spell out a mystery phrase.

Younger children can search just in the Children's Room; older kids age 10 and up can try their luck with a puzzle that allows them to explore all the floors of the library. This is aimed at children who are able to read, but can be enjoyed by younger ones with the help of a parent.

Art-to-go is a 9 week series of drop in art activities that travel throughout Quincy. Projects are open ended to accommodate a wide age range. They are easy enough for toddlers and preschoolers to do with an adult's help and free form enough for school age children to add their own personal touch. Children up to age 8 are invited to drop in any time between 2 to 4 p.m. to make this week's craft.

Mon., Main Library; Tues., Adams Shore; Wed., Wollaston; Thurs., North Quincy

Drop in from 2 - 4 p.m. up to age 8 Craft for the week Week of July 2nd - Rainsticks

Sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Library.

Children's Movie @ North Quincy - Coco Monday, July 2nd at 2 pm - Rated PG

Despite his family's baffling generations-old ban on music, Miguel dreams of becoming an accomplished musician like his idol, Ernesto de la Cruz. Desperate to prove his talent, Miguel finds himself in the stunning and colorful Land of the Dead following a mysterious chain of events. Along the way, he meets charming trickster Hector, and together, they set off on an extraordinary journey to unlock the real story behind Miguel's family history.

Rated PG Runtime 105 minutes.

Sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library

Storytelling at the Wollaston Playground (the Tot Lot)

Tuesday, July 3rd at 10:30 a.m. - All ages

Join us at the Wollaston Beach Playground Park on the corner of Sachem St. next to the Clam Box across from Wollaston Beach each Tuesday in July for stories, songs and more.

Stop by to hear a story or two and pick up a calendar listing all of the summer events. If it is raining we will hold storytime at the Main Library on 40 Washington St.

Cosponsored by Discover Quincy

Craft: Create a Summer Journal Thursday, July 5th 10 a.m. to noon Children's Room

Stop by the Children's Room and create your own blank book. Use your book as a journal to record the fun things you do this summer. Need some ideas, pick up a copy of our Summer Fun Activities sheet to get you started.

Sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Family Board Games Friday, July 6th 10 a.m. - noon Ages 5+

Come drop by to play some family board games. We'll have some old favorites and some you might not have played before. Try some word association with Codenames, press your luck with Tem-Purr-A, make some wild guesses with Concept and more!

For children ages 5 and old accompanied by an adult.

Squantum Road Race Saturday

The annual Squantum Road Race, which is part of the annual 4th of July festivities in Squantum, will be held Saturday, June 30th.

The race is sponsored by state Rep. Bruce Ayers. Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. at the Squantum Community Center located at 50 Huckins Ave, North Quincy.

The race will kick off at 10 a.m.

Registration is $20 for adults, and kids age 10 and under run for free.

Trophies, medals, and t-shirts will be provided. All proceeds go to the Squantum 4th of July Parade.

For additional information, Rep. Ayers at brucej.ayers@yahoo.com.

Quincy Art Association Summer Classes

The Quincy Art Association is offering adult and children's summer classes starting Saturday, July 14.

Many different one and two day workshops are being offered including Oriental Brush painting, drawing perspective, working in clay and multi week children classes. All levels welcome.

Come learn the Japanese Sumi-e, painting method-simultaneously meditative, deliberate, fun, and fast. Learn the basics of brush stroke techniques and create paintings with contrast and balance.

For artists who want to expand their talents or learn new ones the QAA is also offering a Building Perspective drawing class. Whether working outdoors or drawing an interior, knowledge of perspective is crucial. Come learn with Tamara about this fun and interesting workshop. Take it once or twice this summer.

For a full schedule of classes and a registration form visit the Quincy Art Association website at www.quincyartma.org.

Peanut Butter & Jelly Cup Cakes

By MARIE

I think most kids like peanut butter and jelly sandwiches. I know I do!

I have actually printed today's recipe for peanut butter and jelly cupcakes before, but when I baked them recently, all of the kids loved them so much that I decided to share it again for those of you who may have missed it.

These cupcakes really are a favorite each time I bake them so I hope you enjoy them as well.

Pre-heat oven to 350 degrees; prepare cupcake tins with liners.

RECIPE

- 2 ½ cups flour
- 3 teaspoons of baking powder
- 1 teaspoon of salt
- 1 stick unsalted butter (room temperature)
- 1 ½ cups light brown sugar
- ¾ cup of chunky peanut butter
- 1 teaspoon of vanilla
- 3 eggs
- 1 cup of half and half cream
- 4 ounces of any favorite jelly or about 6 heaping tablespoons

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Cream butter and sugar together.

Add peanut butter and vanilla and continue beating until well blended.

Add eggs one at a time, mixing well after each addition. Then alternately add the half and half with the flour, baking powder and salt.

Dollop the jelly over the cup cake batter and swirl it over the top of the batter with a long knife or spatula. Do not over mix.

Spoon batter into cupcake liners filling each one 2/3 full.

Bake for 25 to 30 minutes or until toothpick comes out clean.

Let cool and frost with Peanut Butter Frosting. (Frosting recipe below).

PEANUT BUTTER FROSTING

- ½ stick unsalted butter, room temperature
- ½ cup smooth peanut butter
- 2 cups of powdered sugar
- 2 tablespoons of milk

Cream the butter, peanut butter and sugar together. Gradually add the milk and beat until creamy, add more milk if needed.

Frost cupcakes add swirl of jelly to the top and sprinkle with chopped peanuts.

Suzie's Grain-Free Turkey Meatballs

By SUSIE

These meatballs are really, really good. I have a couple of secret ingredients for these. I learned them from two different chefs.

One is the addition of Dijon mustard, which seems odd for Italian style meatballs, but really add an important enhanced flavor. (They will not taste like mustard, don't worry!).

The second is baking soda! Yes, just 1/4 teaspoon per pound of ground meat makes the meatballs lighter, and more tender. Really!

Another is coconut flour instead of breadcrumbs. This along with the egg is the binder for the meatballs. Coconut flour is very versatile, is tasteless in this recipe (Your meatballs won't taste like mustard or coconut!). I hope you like them!

RECIPE

- 1 pound ground turkey

- 1 large egg
- 1 shallot, minced
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 tablespoons tomato paste
- 1 tablespoon Dijon mustard (secret ingredient)
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1 tablespoon coconut flour
- 1 teaspoon sea salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda (secret ingredient)
- 2 tablespoons grated Romano cheese
- 1/2 teaspoon dried basil
- 1/2 teaspoon dried oregano

Combine all ingredients well. Form into balls (I like to use an ice cream scoop as of late) bake at 375 degrees on a parchment paper lined cookie sheet for about 20 minutes or so, depending on size.

Serve with your favorite tomato sauce.

Quincy Choral Society To Perform In Canada

Performances In Montreal, Quebec City

Under the direction of Joshua Rohde, Quincy Choral Society will be touring Canada in late June.

The tour will include performances in some of Canada's most notable worship sites, including participation in a sacred service at the Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul, home to one of the largest organs in Canada. Other venues include St. Joseph's Oratory of Mount Royal, known for its 100 steps which pilgrims climb on their knees, and Christ Church Cathedral, the seat for Montreal's Anglican diocese.

In Quebec City, the chorus will perform at Eglise de Saint-Michel de Sillery (St. Michel de Sillery Church), built in 1644. The chorus will perform a variety of sacred and secular pieces including Herbert Howells' "Like as the hart," John Rutter's "For the Beauty of the Earth," William Dawson's "Ain't a That Good News," Leonard Cohen's "Hallelujah," and selections from Carl Orff's Carmina Burana.

Joshua Rohde was appointed music director of Quincy Choral Society in September 2016. Dr. Rohde is director of Choral Activities at Worcester Polytechnic Institute. He conducts all four of the university's choral ensembles - Men's Glee Club, Women's Alden Voices, Festival Chorus, and the Chamber Choir. In 2017 Dr. Rohde completed a Doctor of Musical Arts degree in Choral Conducting at Boston University, where he taught undergraduate courses in conducting and ear training and wrote a dissertation on living Scottish composer Sir James MacMillan. He also manages the Harvard Chorus' New Music Initiative and frequently performs as cellist for the Marsh Chapel Collegium Orchestra and Worcester Chorus.

Virginia "Gingy" Grimes has served as the accompanist for Quincy Choral Society since 1993. Ms. Grimes received her piano accompaniment degree from Duke University. She is minister of Music at First Parish, Norwell, music director for the Pierce Players of Milton Public Schools and for Derby Summer Arts, and teaches and accompanies for Freelance Players, Quincy High School, and North Quincy High School.

Quincy Choral Society was founded in 1981 for the purpose of bringing musical excellence to the South Shore and the world. Members sing with music in their hearts, performing diverse, professional quality programs designed to entertain, enlighten, and enrich the human spirit. In December 2015, the Quincy City Council recognized Quincy Choral Society for bringing music and joy to the City of Quincy for 35 years. The chorus performs locally and has performed in music festivals in Washington, D.C., in Europe, and at Carnegie Hall in 2015 as part of the Masterworks Series. Quincy Choral Society is a 501(c)(3) organization, and donations are tax deductible to the extent allowed by law.

Shingles: Signs, Symptoms, Treatments

A Message From Ruth Jones, Director Of Nursing, Quincy Health Department

By RUTH JONES
BSN, RN, BC, CP-FS

Shingles is a viral infection that produces a painful rash. While shingles can occur anywhere on your body, it most frequently appears as a single band of blisters that wraps around either the left or the right side of your torso.

Shingles is caused by the varicella-zoster virus, the same virus that causes chickenpox. After you've had chickenpox, the virus lies dormant in nerve tissue near your spinal cord and brain. Eventually, it may reactivate and travel along nerve pathways to your skin, generating shingles.

Anyone who's had chickenpox may develop shingles. The reason for the encore is uncertain. The thought is it may be due to decreased immunity to infections as you age. Shingles is more common in older adults and in individuals who have weakened immune systems. While it usually isn't a life-threatening condition, shingles can be extremely painful.

The signs and symptoms of shingles usually affect only a small section of one side of your body. These signs and symptoms may include:

- Pain, burning, numbness or tingling
 - Sensitivity to touch
 - A red rash that begins a few days after the pain
 - Fluid-filled blisters that break open and crust over
 - Itching
- Some people also experience:
- Fever
 - Headache
 - Sensitivity to light
 - Fatigue

Pain is usually the primary symptom of shingles. For some, it can be severe. Depending on the location of the pain, it can occasionally be mistaken for heart, lungs or kidney problems. Some people experience shingles pain and never develop the rash. Sometimes the shingles rash occurs around one eye or on one side of the neck or face.

Contact your doctor without delay if you suspect shingles, but especially in the following situations:

- The pain and rash occur near an eye. If left untreated, this infection can lead to permanent eye damage.
- You're 70 or older, because age significantly increases your risk of complications.
- You or someone in your family has a weakened immune system (due to cancer, medications or chronic illness).
- The rash is widespread and painful.

A person with shingles can pass the varicella-zoster virus to anyone who isn't immune to chickenpox. This typically occurs through direct contact with the open sores of the shingles rash. Once infected, the person will develop chickenpox, not shingles. Chickenpox can be serious for some groups of people. Until your shingles blisters scab over, you are considered contagious and should avoid physical contact with:

- Anyone who has a weak immune system
- Newborns
- Pregnant women

Circumstances that may escalate your risk of developing shingles include:

- Being older than 50. Shingles is most common in people older than 50. The risk increases with age. Some experts estimate that half the people 80 and older will have shingles.
- Having diseases that weaken your immune system, such as HIV/AIDS and cancer, can increase your risk of shingles.
- Undergoing cancer treatments (Radiation or chemotherapy) can lower your resistance to diseases and may trigger shingles.

Drugs intended to prevent rejection of transplanted organs can increase your risk of shingles, as can prolonged use of steroids, such as prednisone.

Complications from shingles can include:

- For some people, shingles pain continues long after the blisters have cleared. This condition is known as postherpetic neuralgia, and it occurs when damaged nerve fibers send confused and exaggerated messages of pain from your skin to your brain.
- Shingles in or around an eye (ophthalmic shingles) can cause painful eye infections that may result in vision loss.
- Depending on which nerves are affected, shingles can cause an inflammation of the brain (encephalitis), facial paralysis, or hearing or balance problems.

If shingles blisters aren't properly treated, bacterial skin infections may develop.

Shingles is commonly diagnosed based on the history of pain on one side of your body, along with the telltale rash and blisters. Your doctor may also obtain a tissue scraping or culture of the blisters for examination in the laboratory.

There's no cure for shingles, but swift treatment with prescription antiviral drugs can accelerate healing and reduce your risk of complications. These medications include:

- Acyclovir (Zovirax)
 - Valacyclovir (Valtrex)
 - Famciclovir (Famvir)
- Shingles can cause severe pain, so your health care provider also may prescribe:
- Capsaicin cream
 - Anticonvulsants, such as gabapentin (Neurontin)
 - Tricyclic antidepressants, such as amitriptyline
 - Numbing agents, such as lidocaine, delivered via a cream, gel, spray or skin patch
 - Medications that contain narcotics, such as codeine
 - An injection including corticosteroids and local anesthetics

As a rule, shingles generally lasts between two and six weeks. Most people get shingles only once, but it is feasible to develop it two or more times. Two vaccines may aid in preventing shingles — the chickenpox (varicella) vaccine and the shingles (varicella-zoster) vaccine.

The Food and Drug Administration previously approved the use of the varicella-zoster vaccine (Zostavax) to help prevent shingles. In the same way as the chickenpox vaccine, the shingles vaccine doesn't guarantee you won't get shingles; nonetheless the vaccine will likely reduce the course and severity of the disease and decrease your risk of postherpetic neuralgia.

The shingles vaccine was recommended for adults age 60 and older, whether they've already had shingles or not. Because the vaccine contains live virus, it should not be given to people who have weakened immune systems.

In October 2017, the FDA approved a new shingles vaccine, called Shingrix. The CDC recommends that adults 50 and over get the new vaccine to prevent this painful, blistering disease instead of Zostavax. Shingrix is more than 90% effective at preventing shingles and a painful complication called postherpetic neuralgia (PHN) in all age groups. Zostavax only lowers the odds of getting shingles by 51%, and of PHN by 67%. It's even less effective in people ages 70 and older.

Shingrix has a dead version of the zoster virus. It also contains an adjuvant, a substance that helps your body fight off the virus better. It causes your immune system to produce more antibodies to fight shingles than the other vaccine produced. So your body has a stronger immune response to the Shingrix vaccine than to the Zostavax vaccine.

Quincy Volunteers Inducted Into Interfaith Social Services' Hall of Fame

Twenty-five South Shore residents have been inducted into Interfaith Social Services' Matti Lang Hall of Fame, including 10 from Quincy. The volunteers, who have served at Interfaith regularly for at least one year, were honored at a Volunteer Appreciation Night at the Quincy Elks Lodge on June 14.

Arbella Insurance was also honored at the event for their exemplary commitment to volunteerism.

Interfaith Social Services operates one of Greater Boston's largest emergency food pantries, a mental health counseling center, Thrift Shop and homelessness prevention program. Since 1947, Interfaith Social Services has been a safety net for thousands of children and families from the South Shore who are struggling to make ends meet.

The Matti Lang Volunteer Hall of Fame is named after one of Interfaith's most dedicated volunteers, who gave decades of his life selflessly serving Interfaith's clients.

This year's honorees include: Braintree resident Jeanne Butts; Cohasset residents Casey Cameron and Sarah Livermore; Hanover residents Angela Fleming and Gail Valles; Hingham residents Jean Accorsini, Gillian Grossman, Pam Harty, Jay Marvin and Ariana McBride; Milton residents Rosalyn Baker-

Greene and Linda Baumeister; Quincy residents Stephen Coady, Joyce Feeney, Judy Kiley, Peter Lung, Katie McEvoy, Susan Moorhead, Jean Murphy, Alex Prager, Anita Siwy-Knight and Christine Swanson; and Weymouth residents Terry Donovan, Dea Semini and Ellen Walsh.

In addition to the Volunteer Hall of Fame, Interfaith also honored their 2018 Community Partner of the Year, Arbella Insurance. This award honors businesses or organizations that have demonstrated an outstanding commitment to volunteerism.

This is the first year that Interfaith has honored a business with the award. Arbella, who has partnered with Interfaith for at least two decades, was an obvious choice as the initial recipient. Last year alone, Arbella's employees gave nearly 500 hours of their time. They helped in Interfaith's food pantry, distributed Thanksgiving meals and holiday gifts to clients, volunteered at the Feed the Hungry Gala and Stop the Stigma 5K, worked in Interfaith's garden and processed mailings.

"We are so grateful for the philosophy of giving and service that Arbella cultivates in their offices," said Paula Daniels, Interfaith's Director of Development. "Arbella's efforts to instill a culture of service and community engagement among their employees have made a measurable impact on Interfaith and those they serve."

Beverly Tangvik, president, Arbella Insurance Foundation, and Jennifer Reale, Foundation Program representative, attended the event and accepted the award on behalf of Arbella.

Volunteers at Interfaith Social Services commit to a three-hour shift per week. Shifts are available Monday-Friday, between 7 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Opportunities include working in the Bureau Drawer Thrift Shop, assisting the Food Pantry Driver in food rescue operations, filling orders for clients in the food pantry, manning the front desk, and stocking and inventorying the pantry.

Those interested in volunteering at Interfaith Social Services are encouraged to contact Paula Daniels at 617-773-6203 ext. 28 or pdaniels@interfaithsocialservices.org.

Social Security Matters

Collecting Social Security While Working

By RUSSELL GLOOR

AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor
Association Of Mature American Citizens

Dear Rusty: I'm trying to assist my spouse with her rapidly approaching age 62 when she can get her Social Security benefits. Currently she is working almost a full 40-hour week and her 2017 gross earnings were $29,000. If she continues to work, she will probably earn approximately $29,500 in 2018. She is also contemplating beginning to work only part time, which will reduce her earnings to about 40 percent of what she currently earns. She is concerned that if she continues to work full time, she will have her monthly SS payment reduced significantly and will not recoup that difference.

I understand that if you continue to work full time there will be some reduction in the monthly, but when you finally retire you will get the difference back at your full retirement age. Can you enlighten me/her? Signed: Helpful Husband

Dear Helpful: If your wife starts her Social Security benefits at age 62 and continues to work, she will be subject to Social Security's annual "earnings limit" ($17,040 for 2018) which, if she exceeds, will result in Social Security withholding benefits of $1 for every $2 she earns over the limit.

To use your example, if she earns $29,500 in 2018 she will be $12,460 over the limit and they will withhold all future benefits until they recover the $6,230 that is owed from exceeding the limit (see my note below re: the first year of collecting). This will continue each year until the year she attains her full retirement age (her "FRA") when the earnings limit goes way up (about 2 1/2 times the earlier limit) and the withholding is less ($1 for every $3 over the limit); once your wife reaches her full retirement age there is no earnings limit and they will re-compute her benefit amount giving her time credit for the number of months they withheld benefits due to exceeding the limit; they'll then raise her benefit amount as though she claimed benefits later than she actually did.

So, over time, the higher benefit starting at her FRA could help her recoup some or all of the benefits withheld - but she doesn't get that withheld dollar amount back in a lump sum; they just increase her benefit amount at her full retirement age.

NOTE: There is a special rule which applies during the first year SS is claimed so, in your wife's case, if she claims benefits to start in June, instead of the annual earnings limit she'll be subject to a monthly earnings limit for the remainder of 2018. After her benefits start, her earnings limit will be $1,420 per month for the rest of the year and if she exceeds that they will withhold benefits for a following month. The regular annual earnings limit will then go into effect the following year. Social Security requires that you inform them when you will exceed the earnings limit, but if you don't they will eventually catch up to you when your income tax return is filed.

Also, please note that Social Security recommends that you apply for benefits 3 months before you wish them to begin, so if your wife wishes to start her Social Security earlier than her full retirement age, when she applies for her benefits she should select the option to "Start My Benefits Now" in order to have them start as soon as possible.

Council Passes $310.71 Million FY 2019 Budget

The budget was approved in an 8-0 vote, with Ward 3 Councillor Ian Cain not in attendance. The other spending measures were likewise approved without opposition.

Mayor Thomas Koch unveiled his $310.81 million proposed budget for fiscal year 2019 on May 7. Councillors, who can take money away from the budget but not add to it, cut $107,924 from the budget over the course of four hearings to review the spending plan.

The fiscal year 2019 budget is an increase of $11.29 million over the $299.42 million budget for the current fiscal year. Koch said 90 percent of the increase is attributed to contractual raises and other obligations.

Chris Walker, the mayor's chief of staff, told the council in May the increase in city spending would lead the average property tax bill for a single-family home to go up by about $100 in 2019.

The budget increases city spending on the Quincy Public Schools by $3.2 million to a total of $104.86 million. The total school system budget, approved by the School Committee June 13, is $110.1 million, which includes state funding in addition to money from the city's general fund budget. The additional money will be used to hire several new educators, including English language learning and special education teachers, elementary digital support teachers, and occupational teachers in the high schools.

The city budget includes funding for several new positions, including a full-time director of emergency management at a salary of $86,700. The budget also includes money to hire a health inspector who will specialize in rodent control, a GIS administrator and entry-level engineer in the Engineering Department and three employees in the Inspectional Services Department — a plans examiner, a part-time wire inspector and a part-time plumbing and gas inspector. Funding for two new parking-control officers was also included in the budget; those officers will help enforce a planned new residential parking program expected to debut later this year.

The budget also gives the Health Department an extra $200,000 for rodent control and $50,000 to the Traffic, Parking, Alarm and Lighting Department for new bike lanes.

Councillors made three cuts to the TPAL budget while reviewing Koch's proposed spending plan. Department director Chris Cassani asked councillors to entirely eliminate the $51,503 included in the budget for a painter's position, which he said would not be filled going forward, and to cut $13,421 from an enhanced longevity line item. Councillor Nina Liang proposed the other cut, eliminating a $24,000 line item for office space rental because money in that line item had not been used for office rentals during the past two fiscal years.

Councillors also cut $15,000 from their own budget at the recommendation of Council President Brad Croall. That money came from reductions to the line items for communications.

Liang initiated the other two cuts: $2,500 from a professional/technical line item in the Municipal Finance Department budget and $1,500 in an overtime line item in the Board of Assessors budget.

Also approved June 18 were the sewer and water enterprise fund budgets, which are funded by sewer and water bills and not the city's general fund. Spending in the sewer enterprise fund will increase from $25.6 to $25.84 million in the new fiscal year. Spending in the water enterprise fund is set to decrease from $19.33 million to $19.21 million, after councillors cut $162,358 from the budget on the recommendation of Public Works Commissioner Al Grazioso. The money cut is from the line item for other assessments, which goes toward the MWRA.

During its June 18 meeting, the council also:

Appropriated $1.2 million to the snow and ice removal account to offset the deficit occurred this winter. The money was appropriated from the line item for medical insurance.

Approved $692,000 in year-end transfers. Surplus money in several line items was appropriated to cover deficits in other line items.

Appropriated $225,000 in hotel/motel tax money towards tourism, including $100,000 to Discover Quincy/the Quincy Chamber of Commerce, $85,000 for the city's downtown tourism program and $40,000 to the Quincy Historical Society.

Transferred $56,250 from Department of Public Works drain account to provide matching funds for a $225,000 state seawall repair grant.

Accepted $900 in donations for the Quincy Police Department's DARE program — $800 from Eastern Bank and $100 from Donovan Bros. Automotive Services.

Accepted $10,840 in donations to the DARE camp. Eighty-nine donations were made towards the camp, ranging from $75 to $260.

West Quincy Dealership Wants Approval To Sell More Cars

By SCOTT JACKSON

A West Quincy used-car dealer is seeking permission to increase the number of vehicles it can have on its lot, which is the first request being considered under a new city ordinance that established a formula to determine how many vehicles such a dealership can sell.

Charlie's Auto Sales, located at 15 Centre St., made the request to increase the total number of vehicles it can have on the lot available for sale from eight to 14 at the June 19 meeting of the Board of License Commissioners. Board members did not vote on the request at the meeting because Inspectional Services Director Jay Duca wanted additional time to review the new ordinance and the proposal.

The item will be up for discussion again at the board's next meeting on July 17.

Christopher Harrington, the attorney for Charlie's Auto Sales, said owner Charlie Moussallem was seeking permission to put additional cars on the lot after removing the gas pumps that were previously there.

"Essentially what we're asking for is to use that area out front where the pumps were...and have used cars in that area," Harrington said.

If the board were to approve the increase, it would bring the total number of vehicles allowed on site to 25, Harrington said — 14 spaces for vehicles being sold, eight for vehicles being repaired, including three in mechanics' bays, two for employees and one for customers.

Health Commissioner Drew Scheele, the board's chairman, said the number of vehicles sought is in compliance with the new ordinance, which was approved earlier this month and takes effect July 1.

The ordinance includes a formula for determining how many vehicles motor II license holders, which includes used-car dealers and mechanics, can have on their lots. The formula calls for dividing the total square footage of the parcel in half and allowing one car space for every 200 to 300 square feet of the remaining square footage. Vehicles stored inside do not count towards that total.

Scheele said 15 Centre St. is a 9,600-square-foot lot, which would allow the board to give Charlie's Auto Sales permission for up to 24 vehicles on site, with the three stored inside not counting towards that limit.

Duca, however, said he needed additional time to review the ordinance and other considerations, such as the city's zoning code.

"I don't want to set a wrong example going forward," he said, noting this was the first time the board was considering a request under the new ordinance.

"It does meet the mathematical number, but going forward just because you can meet this number of cars doesn't mean you can put them on a property line or next to a building," Duca later added. "There are other zoning regulations that come into play."

Board members agreed to postpone their vote to give Duca more time to consider the proposal.

"Where it is the first one, I do want to get it right," City Clerk Nicole Crispo said.

"I think I'd be inclined to vote for it — I think it's a good plan," Police Chief Paul Keenan added. "However, I will defer to Director Duca if he'd like to have a little bit more time to take a look at things."

In other business, the board:

Approved a common victualler license for Emma Lisa's Breakfast and Lunch at 258 Willard St. Lisa Stewart will take over the restaurant, now known as Emma's, from her sister on Aug. 1. She plans to close for three weeks for cosmetic renovations. The new restaurant will be open seven days a week from 6:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., and no changes to the menu are planned.

Approved a one-day wine and malt license for the Crown of Quincy Co-ed Softball Tournament set for July 14 at Faxon Park, with a rain date of July 21. The tournament will feature four teams of city employees and will raise money for a new Quincy Firemen's Memorial Statue at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Approved a one-day wine and malt license for the Whale & Dolphin Conservation Society's New England Whale Festival.
